As usual the women's section of the club were on hand to dispense coffee, muffins and desserts and they did the usual thriving business. Especially attractive was the cheese table that has long been a feature of bonspiels in this area. The RCAF intelligencer has decided a real fine cheddar cheese for the spiel and this table had an unusually large quota around it during the games.

Two Brothers, Two Sisters Admit Shortage

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP) — Two brothers and their two sisters pleaded guilty Wednesday in a $1,000,000 embezzlement case that was the only hotel large enough to accommodate the record crowd expected to produce $24,000 promised for a crippled children's campaign next Wednesday.

The $25-a-plate dinner is sponsored by the Hammond Area Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association. In the last 10 years $606,000 has been raised for the Ontario Society for Crippled Children.

MADE CONDITIONAL

Wayne and Shuster earlier accepted their invitation on condition they could without unseless the strike had been settled.

Said Wayne: "Frank and I are heart and soul behind helping crippled kids. We've never missed the show for two years now. But you can't use crippled kids against a strike. . . . I don't think it's sportsmanlike to cross a picket line."

Meanwhile, Jim Vipond, sports editor of The Globe and Mail, says the cause of crippled children in Ontario is being "deliberately embarrassed" by Onofrio Zambri, secretary-manager of the Hotel and Club Employees' Local 280.

Vipond writes:

"In a misguided attempt to focus attention on the unfortunate and unhappy strike at the Royal York Hotel, Mr. Zambri announced Tuesday evening that Carmen Basilio, former middleweight boxing champion, will be a $25-ticket guest at the Feb. 1 dinner.

HAS NOT INFORMED

"This despite the fact that Mr. Basilio, as of late Wednesday, had not informed the dinner organizers that he had changed his mind. Mr. Zambri also permitted himself to be quoted to the effect that he will have some more announcements to make about dinner guests.

"Mr. Zambri, is trying to embarrass the Royal York Hotel, which is his privilege, but he has succeeded only in embarrassing the crippled children of Ontario."

Mr. Zambri was not immediately available for comment.

First prominent non-hotel-table guest to announce he would not attend was a Roman Catholic priest and hockey coach who was to have said grace.

Rev. John Conway of Laurentian University in Sudbury, said he understood it was the wish pressed with of Most Rev. Philip Pocock, Coadjutor Archbishop of Toronto, that clergy not cross the picket lines.

But the archbishop's office issued a statement Wednesday night saying no such advice has been given to the clergy lately. It said the decision is up to individuals, and "Father Crowley is old enough to make up his own mind on the matter."

Other guests invited to the dinner either indicated they would attend or said they hadn't reached a decision.

Among those who said they would be on hand were former football great Brian Timmis of Hamilton, swimming champion Mary Stewart of Vancouver and former hockey star Wally Stanowski of Toronto.

Sports Celebrities Dinner MCs Wayne and Shuster Join Boycott Due to Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Sponsors of Toronto's annual Sports Celebrities Dinner are looking for a new master of ceremonies, if the present trend continues, they may have to hunt for more celebrities.

Comedians Johnny Wayne and Frank Shuster, who were to have been masters of ceremonies, said Wednesday night they will not cross picket lines at the strikebound Royal York Hotel, site of the $25-a-plate dinner.

A. R. Johnstone, international vice-president of the striking Hotel and Club Employees Union (CLC), then listed three celebrities he said have decided against attending. He said they are Ralph Houk, manager of baseball's New York Yankees; Gene (Big Daddy) Lipscombe of the National Football League's Pittsburgh Steelers, and Wilma Rudolph Ward, United States track star.

Johnstone said the union's head office has been working to persuade sports figures to boycott the dinner, held in support of crippled children's work.

SAYS NO DIFFERENT

"A charity dinner is no different from any other kind of dinner," he said. "They know last May that the strike was on. It's a case of charity giving aid to the Royal York Hotel."

Dinner is due at 8. Johnstone Campbell declared: "There's going to be no dinner if I'm the only one there."

Campbell said the Royal York was chosen as the site of the dinner last January, three months before the strike began.

He said that after the strike was under way an executive meeting of the union decided it was the only hotel large enough to accommodate the record crowd needed to produce $24,000 promised for a crippled children's campaign next Wednesday.

The $25-a-plate dinner is sponsored by the Hammond Area Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association. In the last 10 years $606,000 has been raised for the Ontario Society for Crippled Children.

Thompsons Like the Army, All Wear Queen's Uniform

The Thompson family of Halifax is definitely army minded. Not only are both parents sergeants in the Canadian army but both their son William joined the army, as a craftsman in the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers.

The mother, Staff-Sgt. E. P. Thompson, working in the captocity of clerk administrative in the Personnel Wing of No. 1 Personnel Depot at Halifax, had the honor of completing her sons' enrolment papers.

Mrs. Thompson is the former Pauline Sharpe, whose parents live at 40 Valleyview Crescent in Belleville.

The army-minded Thompsons served three years in Germany and on return to Canada were posted at Halifax. Their son has left for basic training at Shilo, Manitoba, and will later attend RCEME school at Barrefield.

ALL IN THE ARMY—William Thompson, son of Sergt. and Staff Sergeant Thompson of Halifax, is in the Army. He is seen above being inducted by his mother, Staff Sergeant Pauline Thompson, looks on. Mrs. Thompson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sharpe, of Belleville.

Farmers Want One Policy On Rail Line Abandonment

By JIM WHELLY

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Trade tariffs and transportation quotations were argued and resolved Wednesday at the 40th annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

The CFA asked the federal government to establish a policy of rail line abandonment for all of Canada.

As was the case with other resolutions passed Wednesday, eastern delegates prevailed in having the seven Western Canada changed to read Canada during the resolution won acceptance.

The CFA asked that the federal policy of rail line abandonment take into account "the needs of people living in communities to adequately serve industry, and especially the agricultural industry."

It said the government should consider the question of secondary rail line abandonment as a whole rather than as individual applications for abandonment and said there is a need for co-ordination of the abandonment policies of the country's two major railways.

FARM NEEDS CITED

It said "reasonable notice" of abandonment should be given to affected parties and accelerated depreciation should be allowed on all elevator facilities in line to be abandoned.

"The Bobbies of Moose Jaw, vice-president of Saskatchewan Wheat Pool. "Some farmers will be left 80 miles from the nearest railway."

The CFA asked the federal government "to make possible the free movement of labor and other countries by lowering tariffs, removing quotas and other impediments, and by negotiating long-term agreements with other countries."

Canners Warned They Must Abide By Market Act

TORONTO (CP) — Processors and canners in Ontario were warned again Wednesday night by Agriculture Minister Stewart that the government will not allow them to operate outside the provisions of Ontario's farm marketing plan.

Mr. Stewart said the government will, if necessary, introduce special legislation to plug any loopholes found necessary under provisions of the Farm Products Marketing Act.

Speaking of the CBC television program, Provincial Affairs, he indicated the governmens' concern about vertical integration whereby processors raise their own products for canning

Vertical integration in the boiler chicken industry had left a free-for-a without bargaining power and dropped prices to less than 10 cents a pound.

Kennedy Ready to Name Negro to His Cabinet if Urban Dept. Plan Accepted

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy said Wednesday a proposal for establishment of a new urban affairs department would be submitted to Congress to his cabinet to head the agency.

The president told a press conference Wednesday the cabinet post would go to Robert Weaver, a Negro, who now heads the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Kennedy said he would continue to push for establishment of the urban affairs department despite a vote by the House of Representatives rules committee. It voted 9 to 6 Wednesday to kill the proposal.

Under questioning during his pivotal press conference in Washington, Kennedy was:

1. Critical of the House Republican leadership.

2. Reserved about the outcome of the Punta del Este meeting in Uruguay.

3. Hopeful that his tariff-cutting proposals will win bipartisan fight on Capitol Hill.

4. His method of working out the social security will come up for a congressional headcount this year. . . . Kennedy will increase his conventional military strength. . . . India and Pakistan will settle their Kashmir dispute. . . . The United States and Portugal can work out a renewal of the U.S. lease on its Azores air base.

Kennedy also was unconventional in identifying Weaver as the man he intends to appoint as head of a department that doesn't yet exist. Congress has to give the first Negro to serve in a cabinet. His race is one of the controversial factors in the congressional dispute over Kennedy's plan for the new department.

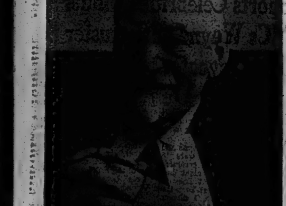
Kennedy was critical—"somewhat astonished"—of the House Republican leadership for opposing the plan. All five Republicans in the rules committee voted against it, with four Democrats.

The president said he would challenge Congress again by proposing the department by the reorganization process. That way, it would be authorized within 60 days unless either House or Senate took the initiative to reject it by majority vote.

Will Attempt To Rendezvous Two Astronauts

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — A Canadian will be in charge of the next big United States effort attempting to rendezvous two astronauts in space.



He is James A. Chamberlain, 46, of Toronto, who helped design the Gemini plans which was scrapped in 1959 when the Canadian government decided the cost was too high.

Chamberlain, now at Langley Field, Virginia, said in a telephone interview that some 25 Avro engineers moved with him to the U.S. when the Arrow project was ended. All of them worked on Project Mercury, mainly on the capsule which Lt.-Col. John Glenn will use in the first flight expected Saturday.

"We've just started on the next project—Gemini," Chamberlain said. "I've been named project manager. We'll be moving to Houston, Texas, in a month or so into new quarters.

"I expect we'll get the Gemini project ready in a couple of years, getting 10 or 12 flights. The idea will be to shoot two men into space in separate capsules and have them rendezvous at an appointed spot and then have them return to earth.

"This will be a major step in the effort to get to the moon. From the rendezvous, we'll learn various factors that will help in landing a man on the moon. One idea is to develop a sort of refilling station in space or a space platform from which new rockets could be fired."

JUSTICE RETIRES — Chief Justice Eston Kenneth Williams, 72, of the Manitoba Court of Queen's Bench, has retired after 15 years on the bench. A native of Parkhill, Ont., he moved to Winnipeg in 1912 after graduating from Osgoode Hall, Toronto. (CP Photo).

Jurist Known As 'The Chief' Retires After Fifteen Years On Bench, 50 Years in Law

WINNIPEG (CP)—An astute jurist known to Manitoba lawyers as "The Chief" has retired after 15 years on the bench and 50 years in law.

Chief Justice Eston Kenneth Williams of the Manitoba Court of Queen's Bench, top trial court in the province, said he retired because "I'm completely tired out." He's 72 and could have stayed until he was 75.

He left at the beginning of the year but planned to continue as chairman of the board of trustees of the Manitoba Law School and may do some writing.

Born in Parkhill, Ont., Mr. Williams came from a family with a strong legal tradition. Both grandfathers were lawyers and he got an early start on his legal education when he was 14 during a visit with his maternal grandfather.

He grew up in Toronto where he graduated from Osgoode Hall in 1911. A loss of the coin brought him to Winnipeg after he had practised for a short time in Toronto.

MARRIED BY W. L. M. KING

In 1912 he received invitations from friends in the Barbados and in Europe to spread Christmas with them. Flipping a coin, he chose Winnipeg and has been there ever since because the climate agreed with him.

His appointment was somewhat unusual for a Canadian of standards. A Conservative, he was appointed Dec. 30, 1946 by Liberal prime minister Mackenzie King on the advice of his justice minister, Louis St. Laurent.

A distinguished looking man with a white goatee to match his hair, Chief Justice Williams is known in court with a strict hand and allowed no sloppiness in legal matters.

He recalled that his grandfather once told him law was a "gentleman's profession and that there was to be no deviation from the highest standards of honor and reason whatsoever."

RETIREMENT DINNER

Four hundred lawyers, many of whom had been on the king and of some of his decisions, turned out to applaud him at a pre-retirement dinner.

In his address he said: "I kept thinking that the hands of friendship were averting the whips of criticism. All were more than kind and I am grateful to each. As they spoke, I hoped that each, out of his kindness, was trying to see me as what I desired to be."

Discussing the role of men in his profession, he added: "The judges—and perhaps only the judges—are not swayed by public opinion or the opinion of any group of the public, nor are they responsive to such pressures.

"They are not the servants of any government, of any party, of any group, they are the impartial servants of the law, and this must be so if Canadians are to remain free."

also took a personal interest in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Green was chairman of the Board of Managers and his wife was president of the Ladies' Aid.

Church members gathered recently to present them with a gift in appreciation of their faithful service to their church.

Their two sons reside at Smith's Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Green have a summer cottage on the Rideau, hence their decision to locate in their retirement in that part of Ontario.

TWEED

C.P.R Agent Honored on Retirement

TWEED—After 48 years' service with the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the past eight years as agent in Tweed, Mr. Russell Green was retired on pension at the end of December.

However, this is not "retirement" in the full sense of the word, for he has been offered a position on the sales staff of a garage at Bell's Corners, west of Ottawa, which changed his plans for settling in Smith's Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Green are now residing in Richmond, east of Smith's Falls.

Prior to leaving Tweed, the couple were honored on several occasions as they have taken an active part in community and church affairs.

Mr. Green, who is a past president of Tweed Kinsmen Club, was presented with a brief case by the members, the final meeting he attended here. He also held the position of associate patron in Tweed Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, at the time of his departure, while Mrs. Green has been an O.E.S. officer on several occasions.

For their service in lodge circles they were presented with a gift at their final lodge meeting in Tweed. The couple

Doctors Want Medical Plan Made Easier

TORONTO (CP)—The council of the Ontario Medical Association Tuesday voted to seek extension of prepaid medical insurance plans to include uninsurables and "marginal-income" groups.

Under present schemes, the committee reported, some persons have developed bad risks and refused coverage because of age, health or dangers involved in their work, despite their ability to pay the usual premiums.

One of the rules suggested of such "uninsurables" might best be insured by individual enrolment pool for poor risks among present insurance companies and medical-service plans.

Alternatives would be community group enrolment schemes, such as were recently begun experimentally by Physicians' Services Incorporated at Orangeville, Markdale and Lindsay, and individual enrolment, such as has been attempted by Windsor Medical Services. However, it was not yet known whether either scheme would be actually sound.

Lady Chatterley May Be Headed Back to Court

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP)—An article in the current issue of Encounter has roused Lady Chatterly from her restless bed and may lead her into the dock again.

John Sparrow, a barrister and warden of All Souls, Oxford University, examines in detail a theme he finds in D. H. Lawrence's book and which was not discussed during the famous high court trial for obscenity in 1960.

Sparrow argues that in one of the book's "sexual" passages Lawrence is describing and in a sense glorifying unnatural practices for which the penalty in English law is life imprisonment.

Sparrow's discovery is not new. Several authorities have spotted the implications inherent in the passage and most critics think the case is conclusive.

But why, asks Sparrow, did none of the 35 expert witnesses — some of them friends of Evelyn's intellectual crop — give no explanation of the passage in the defence which ultimately vindicated the book?

Why did the prosecution not make use of it? Would the verdict in the case have been a different one?

SOMETHING SACRED?

The repeated claim of the defence in the trial was that Lawrence in his novels of a bishop on the witness stand, represented the passion "as in its real sense something sacred; as in a real sense an act of holy communion."

Sparrow says that if Lawrence's apparent passion on perversion had been squarely put to the jury "the verdict might well have been a different one."

An editorial in the Yorkshire Post speculates on the possibility of the case being reopened.

Local Student Quiz Show In Vancouver a Success

By DUNCAN HOLMES

VANCOUVER (CP) — Terry Garner's proteges say "ingenious, spontaneous, on the edge of maturity."

"And being on the edge of maturity, they have yet to become pompous and egotistical."

Mr Garner, 34, is host of the CBC's local student quiz show Reach for the Top.

His references were to his panel, all 60-category, who pass in review each Thursday night through a series of TV eliminations to the "top"—and a $2,000 school scholarship.

The show, patterned only partly after the CBS College Bowl, has become an audience grabber in a prime time spot with the help of Garner's vibrant personality and light touch.

The contestants are the cream of the lower British Columbia mainland and Vancouver Island high schools.

TOUGH QUESTIONS

The program, dream of advertising executive Dick St. John, formerly of San Francisco, went on the air last March 17. The champions, who will survive five flight competitions and then wrap the show up for a summer break in June, resuming at the beginning of school.

Mr. St. John, with the help of ill in teachers—pretests in particular fields—prepares the questions. The scope is limitless and could vary from the description of a dory to the name of India's defence minister.

Most questions, however, come right from the grade XI and XII curriculum.

"The questions are only a small test of the student's scholastic achievement," Mr. St. John said. "The program is meant to entertain."

Mystery guests are sometimes brought in to change any suggestion of a dry format. Students once guessed that such a visitor was a skeleton.

GUEST FLED

Stanley Park Zoo curator Allan Best, carried a raccoon into the studio on another such night and the show — taped in advance—was delayed when the animal escaped and hid behind the sound wall.

Garner said he is "constantly amazed" each week at the seriousness students are able to produce and the teamwork of the contestants.

"They come in as nervous as cats, then lose themselves in ads in broadcasting, from CUV competition."

A veteran of more than a decade in CFCF Montreal, then back here as production manager never takes down to his panels. The students appear to match easily his smoothness.

Not necessarily the schools' brightest students, contestants are chosen by the principals.

St. John says surveys have shown the program among the 20 most popular in the Vancouver area.

Cross-Canada Survey

Prospect of Federal Election Will Put Dash of Ginger Into All Legislature Debates

By DON HANRIGHT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's annual mid-winter parade of politics and law-making will be in full swing in a few weeks, with all 10 provincial legislatures in session by then as well as Parliament.

The prospect of a federal election this year likely will put an extra dash of ginger in the oratory from all assemblies, with provincial members pitching in for their parties' federal cause.

Normally, there would be no provincial elections this year to divide their politicking.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press of matters likely to be at issue in the various legislatures indicates that Quebec could be an exception.

There is a chance of a snap election there if the appointed legislative council, with its Union Nationale majority, blocks the Liberal government's program for electoral reform.

Otherwise, elections are not expected until at least next year in Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Ontario, Manitoba and Alberta; and not until 1964 in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Quebec, Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

The Quebec legislature opened Jan. 9 and British Columbia Jan. 15. New Brunswick's session began Nov. 14 and adjourned Dec. 7 until Feb. 27. Opening date for Newfoundland was Jan. 24 followed on Feb. 13 by Alberta, Feb. 22 by P.E.I. and Feb. 26 by Nova Scotia.

Likely date for Ontario is Feb. 6. Manitoba is expected to start Feb. 13 and Saskatchewan either Feb. 12 or 22.

Greatest issue this year appears to be the Quebec electoral reform proposal. Most contentious part of this is redistribution of the 95 seats in the legislature.

OPPOSITION OBJECTS

The Union Nationale, with 46 members, says rural areas will lose their voice in provincial affairs if seats are redistributed on a population basis. The government, however, has before it proposals that rural ridings be left unchanged and that only city ridings be altered.

The Liberal government has discounted the possibility of an election. But political observers say it could happen if the Upper House blocks the legislation. That might force the government to go to the people with electoral and Upper House reform as the issue.

Most peppery issue in B.C. may not be aired in the legislature. It's the government's take over of B.C. Electric. Speaker L. H. Shantz says he will rule out debate on that matter since it is before the courts.

However, argument over the Columbia and Peace River power projects probably will be opened when the legislature is given a look at the B.C. Electric accounts.

LITTLE ON PRAIRIES

No major legislation is expected in Alberta. A similar situation is foreseen in Saskatchewan, though there may be legislation on municipal reorganization — possibly an act that would lead to creation of several pilot counties to simplify the present system.

Perhaps the greater Winnipeg metropolitan government — a creature of the provincial government — will be the major legislation before the Manitoba house. The government now has a report on the subject.

Most of Ontario's major issues were met during the fall sitting Nov. 22 to Dec. 21, leaving little new major legislation in prospect for the sitting due to start in February.

Various charges levelled during the campaign for the five provincial byelections Jan. 15 likely will come before the new session. And the legislature's public accounts committee will debate Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer's proposals to exempt items costing less than $25 from the three per cent sales tax imposed last Sept. 1.

Further debate on new liquor legislation, introduced at the fall sitting, probably will be heard when the New Brunswick house reconvenes. A new mines act may be introduced.

The Nova Scotia legislature likely will hear recommendations from a house committee for changes in labor laws. In addition, municipalities have been pleading for more provincial help. In most school costs in P.E.I., the government has hinted there will be legislation to establish an industrial development commission, possibly patterned after Nova Scotia's crown - owned Industrial Estates Limited. Also expected is a royal commission report on reform of P.E.I.'s complicated electoral system which gives extra votes to landowners.

Last summer's forest fires may produce new forestry laws in Newfoundland. Prospective legislation also includes formation of a highway patrol to police not only highways but such things as dumping refuse near roads. Legislation may also flow from a royal commission report on trucking.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Uxbridge Version:

"The wheels of the law grind swiftly,
But they grind exceeding small."

Floyd Crawford, well-known defenceman of the Belleville Pepsi's, a mild-mannered, easy-going chap who hesitates before he swats a mosquito, was charged with common assault the other night by the bone-man of the Uxbridge constabulary.

It seems this fire-eating, smoke-breathing dragon of the Belleville squad took umbrage at a spectator's action, and after the "war was over" found himself invited to be a guest at the local gendarmerie.

It seems no visiting hockey player, by-gum, is going to chase any of the village boys in a corner of the arena and try to take that puck away from him without a member of the Uxbridge Rinkside Protective Association getting something ahead of him.

They specialize in the gentle art of stick-snatching. Not for keeps, mind you, although Coach Lamirande did catch an undergraduate in the act of persisting a left-hander No. 6. The junior "Intercollegiate" was let off with a gentle reprimand. No charges were laid. This one was on the Pepsi house.

However, it so happened that Crawford and an Uxbridge player were battling in the corner (the Pepsi one of the pink) when hands reached over the boards and not gently, but oh so firmly removed the stick from Crawford's hands.

Realizing that the athletaugh was necessary for future activities, Floyd reached over the boards and grabbed for the stick. The local lad and the Hawks charged that he was struck by the Pepsi defencemen.

Now hovering in the vicinity with his eyes glued on the puck and the play, was a striped-sweatered gentleman named Al Frecnaise. In hockey parlance he's known as the referee. His job is to see that players conduct themselves as gentlemanly as possible and to see that no breaches of the OHA laws occur.

Now it is laid down in the official book of words that a player interfering with or striking a spectator calls for a severe penalty.

No shrilling whistle rent the arena air. No upraised thumb pointed the way to the sinbin for the mayhem-minded villain. Later, it was stated, the referee said he did not see anything of a nature that warranted a penalty.

However the official blue-and-brass of the village law enforcers lay in wait for the visiting miscreant. He was "fingered," the story goes, by a pompous official said to be the grand vizier of the arena.

The boys closed in and Crawford was informed he was under arrest on a charge of common assault laid by the stick-snatching rinksider.

In the front office of the village hoosegow he was questioned at some length. He denied belligerently striking the protector of the innocent, and questioning could not shake his statement.

And so on into the early morning. Then the blue of the night said bail would be set at $200. There was no rate card available. A fresh rubber would probably have to post a cool half-million,, and not property bail.

Lammy reaching for the telephone and called Bob Temple. Later bail was arranged and Floyd is slated to appear in Uxbridge in February. Meantime legal wheels are turning.

I wonder what would have happened if Uxbridge had won, not lost, the 2-1 game?

Howe, Sawchuk Spark Wings 3-0 Win

Hawks Clip Leafs 2-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Detroit Red Wings won a key National Hockey League game Wednesday night, thanks to the incomparable Gordie Howe and the unbeatable Terry Sawchuk.

The two all - time greats combined their talents as they have so many times in the past for a 3-0 victory over the faltering New York Rangers at New York.

Howe got two goals, his 22nd and 23rd of the season, and Sawchuk blocked 28 shots for his fifth shutout.

In another game at Chicago, clutch goaltending by Glenn Hall and goals by Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita led the Black Hawks to a 2-1 win over Toronto Maple Leafs.

By winning, the Red Wings slipped into fourth place in the league standings, two points ahead of the Rangers who now have lost eight straight games and 16 of their last 17.

LEAFS TRAIL

Chicago's win, meanwhile, perverted the record - placing Maple Leafs from closing in on front - running Canadiens. The Leafs trail by three points.

Howe's goals also raised his career total to 462, just eight shy of the coveted 500 mark and 82 behind retired Maurice (Rocket) Richard's record of 544.

The shutout also was Sawchuk's fifth in 1961-62, giving him six off the record set by George Hainsworth in 1926 season. Hainsworth and Maple Leafs in the 1930s and 40s.

Howe got his first goal at 4:51 of the second period, beating New York goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley on a close-in shot. He connected again at 15:19 of the third, this time on a 40 - footer.

National Hockey League goalie Alex Delvecchio begged the other Detroit goal Midway through the second period. It was his ninth shut out of the season.

Sawchuk, who had to leave the ice briefly in the second period with a wrenched back, was brilliant all the way. He stopped eight shots in the first 20 minutes and 10 in each of the last two periods.

His five shutouts tie him for the league lead with Hall.

MIKITA SHUTOUT

Hall narrowly missed a sixth shutout at Chicago. He wasn't beaten until 17.10 of the last period when Toronto's Bert Olmstead scored his 12th goal with teammate Frank Mahovlich in the penalty box.

Hull got his first tally at 7:24 of the first period when he grabbed a loose puck in Toronto ice, cut - stripped Toronto defencemen Carl Brewer in a rink - length race, and jammed the puck under the falling form of Toronto goalie Johnny Bower.

Mikita converted on a neat play by Murray Balfour early in the second to provide Hall the goal he needed. It was Mikita's 20th.

Hall was at his best in the second when he made a stop on Bob Pulford from five feet out, directly in front of the Chicago net, although Johnny Bower goalie stopped 19 shots.

Toronto drew seven penalties called in the two games, 17 at Chicago.

All teams are idle until the weekend when each sees action twice.

Hull-Ottawa Trounces Beavers 5-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hull-Ottawa Canadiens moved within two games of the second-place Kitchener Beavers by shellacking them 5-1 in Wednesday night's only Eastern Professional Hockey League action.

The win also stretched Canadiens' lead over the fourth-place Sudbury Wolves to a decisive 11 points. For Kitchener, the loss left them still three points behind the front-running Kingston Frontenacs, who now have four games in hand.

The big guns in Canadiens' victory were Fredric Mills and rookie Wayne Boddy, who each scored twice. Keith McCreary got the other Hull-Ottawa goal.

The Beavers opened the scoring at 5:12 of the first period when winger Jean Natella scored. His lead shot from 15 feet out, directly in front of the Hull goal, gave Rob goalie Cosentino no chance.

Boddy evened the score less than four minutes later when he deflected Bill Carter's shot, catching Beaver goalie Jack McCartan out of position.

Boddy got his second goal in similar fashion midway through the second period when he sank a rebound from a blue-line shot by defenceman Barclay Flagger. The rebound in this case came from Hull defencemen Chuck Hamilton's leg.

HARD PUCK AWAY

Left-winger Hills scored both his goals in the third period. Both were the climax of sharp passing plays with Boddy, Bill Masterson and Jim Roberts.

McCreary wrapped up the scoring by stealing a pass from Kitchener defenceman Jim Nell. son and slapping a wrist-high shot past McCartan.

Referee Doug Hodgson handed out 10 minor penalties, six to the losers.

Downes to Meet Pender

Time Running Out For Ole Arch

NEW YORK (AP) — One of boxing's three championship tangles has been solved, the introduction to another is in the making and the fifth up in ancient Charlie Moore to unravel the third.

And time is running out for the old campaigner.

Moore has only until Feb. 1 or 2 to sign for a title fight or face suspension by the New York Athletic Commission which, after, would strip him of the last piece of the light-heavyweight crown he has worn for nine years.

The disputed bantamweight title was settled last week when Eder Jofre of Brazil stopped Mexico's Johnny Caldwell. Eder had claimed a share of the crown.

Announcement Wednesday of a Paul Pender - Terry Downes fight with the winner going against Sonny Liston or Floyd Patterson towards probable settlement of the disputed middleweight title.

This leaves only the lightheavy crown still in question. Moore, who defended twice and may be five or six years older, is recognized as champion in New York. Masseschutts and Europe. Harold Johnson of Philadelphia is recognized by the National Boxing Association.

"We're making every effort to arrange for a title fight," said Jack Melvin Kerchevall, chairman of the New York commission.

Archie, sworn of the NBA version of the title because of Liston's default, is Tuesday's title Rinaldi in New York last June. It was his first title defence in almost two years.

The New York commission last month warned him to defend or be suspended. The Massachusetts commission also is almost signed for a return bout in Boston April 7, but for a while it looked as if it was going to fall through.

However, the Briton agreed Wednesday to fulfill the contract.

At the same time Downes and Pender accepted a proposal by the New York commission that the winner take on Fullmer, within 90 days and clear up the middleweight title.

Ten-Foot, Over and Out

Pepsi's Ground Flyers

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The Pepsi redskirts, flashing their best brand of hockey, buried back the Trenton RCAF victory bid here last night by a 10-4 score.

That was it, ten-four over and out.

It was a wide-open, fast-skating affair with the play a lot closer than the score indicates. The Pepsi's clicked like carte-blanche except for a brief second period lapse, and had control the most of the way.

The Flyers deserve a better fate score-wise, but the big pad squad was not to be denied. It was their best display to date on home ice and they were full value for the win.

The bout was hailed by officials but the boys insisted on returning to the fray twice. They were tabbed with minors, majors and game misconducts. Eight other boys were also handed out, six to the homesters.

The Pepsi's swung into concerted action from the drop of the puck. Their passes clicked like castanets. They played positional hockey. By period end they had mounted a 5-1 margin.

The Flyers flashed back with their best hockey in the second period, splitting four with the winners. Their two goals came within six seconds on brilliant plays by the Collins, Bisson, Gravelle line.

The Flyers, outscored 5-1 in the final frame, battled hard to cut the margin. They were in close several times with Barclay tossing back their drives.

Dary Jones played his best game of the season on home ice. The tall Trail-liner scored twice, had three assists and was the sparkplug for the winners. Ron Hull and Crawford also had two goals with Hull getting two helpers.

Marineau, O'Mears, Baker and Taylor were other Pepsi scorers. MacDonald had three assists and Geyer and Baker two.

Collins played fine hockey for the Flyers, coming up with three of their four goals. Peterson scored the other. Bisson had three assists and Gravelle two.

The big first-period margin did not take the sting out of the Flyers. They drove hard all night but at times lacked finish in front of the net. It was one of the better games of the season seen here.

It was the Pepsi's sixteenth win in seventeen starts. They outshot the Flyers 42-28.

Halberg Wins Two-Mile Race

AUCKLAND, (CP) — Murray Halberg, New Zealand's olympic champion and world record holder, nosed out Britain's Bruce Tulloh at Ashesbay to win the two-mile run by a yard in 8:33.8 in an international track meet here.

Bruce Kidd of Toronto, whose best time to date is 8:46.2, aims to try to capture the Olympic title from Halberg at the 1964 games in Tokyo.

Dave Edstrom, former University of Oregon star, was a close decition in the 120 yard high hurdles when he defeated New Zealand champion Paul Dallow. Edstrom's time was 14.7 seconds.

Peter Snell of New Zealand won the half-mile in 1:47.1 seconds, his fastest time.

Edmonton Invites World Tourney

GENEVA (AP) — The executive committee of the International Ice Hockey Federation started a second day of meetings today in an effort to reach a decision on possible shift of the 1962 world championships from Colorado Springs, Co.

Two meetings Wednesday were unproductive as the group sought a solution to the situation brought about by the failure so far of the United States state department to approve visas for the East German team.

Under federation rules, a world title meet cannot be held in a country which bars any of the competing teams for political or other reasons.

In Washington, the state department said the East German team applied for travel documents at the allied travel office in West Berlin Jan. 3 and asked for U.S. visas at the same time. It said no action has been taken yet.

CANADA SEEN UNLIKELY

In Toronto, Gordon Juckes, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said it is unlikely that the championships will be shifted to Canada.

He said he doubts that Canada can afford the championships even if she is in a political position to take them.

Set in Edmonton, the Exhibition Association there said it has already applied to have the 1962 world championships played in Edmonton.

A. J. (Al) Anderson, exhibition manager, said Wednesday night the association is prepared to underwrite the tournament and government officials had been questioned about providing visas for all players.

Secretary Dean Rusk said no U.S. action is expected on the visas before the end of the month. Officials said this would be too late for organizers of the championships to complete complex travel plans, accommodations, ticket sales, television rights and other matters.

The Big Seven

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings tied two, goal Wednesday night and moved within six points of the lead held by New York's Andy Bathgate in the National Hockey League individual scoring race.

The goals were Howe's 32nd and 33rd of the season and, combined with 34 assists, gave him 65 points.

Bathgate had pointless week as the Rangers lost 3-0 to Detroit, has 59 including a league-leading 41 assists.

Stan Mikita of Chicago scored his 30th goal in the Black Hawks 3-1 win over Toronto and drew to within one point of third place shared by Claude Provost of Montreal Canadiens and Frank Mahovlich of the Leafs.

Mikita has 45 points while Provost and Mahovlich have 46. Provost leads the league in goals with 32.

Johnny Bucyk of Boston Bruins held on to sixth with 43 points while Bobby Hull of Chicago and Ted Lindsay of Detroit are tied for seventh with 41.

Tiger-Cats Won't Play Buffalo

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats will confine pre-season exhibition play to Canadian competition this fall, forgoing a return engagement with Buffalo Bills of the American Football League, the Eastern Football Conference team announced Wednesday.

The Tiger-Cats became the first and only Canadian team to play an AFL team when they defeated the Buffalo squad 36-21 in a pre-season game here last year.

Hamilton general manager Jake Gaudaur said the Aug. 19 beginning of the conference schedule forced abandonment of plans to meet the Bills again this time in Buffalo.

The American League club had recently inquired about an exhibition match.

Arrangements have been made for the Ticats to play pre-season games at home against Edmonton and Vancouver. Dates for these and a road game against an unannounced team have not been set.

Watch Those Squirts Go Friday Night

Apart from the heavy schedules, Minor Hockey Week in Canada" will be marked with a special observance Friday night.

It will be in the form of an added attraction to the Belleville McFarlands — Peterborough Monenco junior "B" game.

Thanks to fine all-round co-operation on the part of manager Jack Dickens of the arena, the Belleville Minor Hockey Association, officials of a city all-star squirt team, and a Trenton squad, the exhibition game was arranged.

It will see the Belleville Squirt All-Stars take on the Trenton Squirt All-Stars at eight o'clock sharp — very sharp — on Friday evening.

And thanks to those fine fellows of the City Department Hockey League, who play from seven to eight every Friday night, The city boys have given up 30 minutes of their time so the youngsters on skates the ice at eight o'clock. A fine gesture.

It will be a big night for the pint-size pucksters. It will be their first time in front of a crowd. And proud parents, pas and mammas from the city and Trenton will be on hand.

The Trenton youngsters hold a victory over "our kids" and tomorrow night the "city guys" will be out to even the score.

If you're going to the juniors' game why not drop around at eight o'clock and get a fine hockey appetizer watching the youngsters go through their paces. You'll be surprised — and delighted.

226 Nights For 'Trots' In Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—There will be 226 nights of harness racing in Ontario this year, the racing commission announced Wednesday in releasing the dates it has approved for 1962.

$10,000 Gap Separates Maris, Yanks

NEW YORK (AP)—Home-run king Roger Maris and New York officials, still reported to be $10,000 apart on Maris' 1962 contract, will wait until the Yankees offer Florida for further negotiations.

Maris is reported to be asking $70,000 after his sensational 1961 season, when he rapped 61 home runs in a 162-game schedule and won the American League's most valuable player award for the second straight time.

Best guess is that the outfielder drew $35,000 last season. General manager Roy Hamey, however, said a per cent increase, is believed to be trying to hold Roger down to around $60,000—a $25,000 raise.

Bisons Whip Reds 5-1, Tie Amerks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There's a tough battle developing among Cleveland Barons, Buffalo Bisons and Rochester Americans for first place in the Western Division of the American Hockey League.

The Bisons defeated Providence 5-1 Wednesday night to deadlock idle Rochester for second spot. Each team has 58 points, one behind Cleveland.

Cliff Pennington powered the Bisons with two goals and Wayne Hicks, Billy Dea and Zellio Toppazzini added singles before 3,755 fans at Buffalo. Zellio Toppazzini produced the lone Providence goal in the second period.

Springfield broke a 3-3 tie before 3,736 fans at Pittsburgh late in the second period and added two more insurance goals in opening up a 12-point lead in the Eastern Division. Dennis Olson's goal was the tie-breaker and Jim Anderson and Dave Duke applied the clinchers.

Maroons Indians Play Tie

CHATHAM (CP) — Chatham Maroons and Stratford Indians played to a 3-3 overtime tie in Ontario Hockey Association Senior League action Wednesday night before 700 fans.

Earl Towers dired two goals to spark Maroons, with playing coach Ted Power adding the other. For Stratford Neil Cockburn, Mickey Roth, and Butch Graham were the marksmen.

Both goalies were called on to make 39 saves in the closely-played contest, which failed to produce a penalty.

The tie left Maroons in sixth place in the standing with 23 points, four behind fifth place Strathroy Rockets, Stratford is in seventh place, five points be. hind Chatham.

Racing Bodies Tangle

Who Will Run The 'Trots'?

TORONTO (CP) — Action is being taken to settle differences as to who should control harness racing in Ontario, Leslie Ehrlick, president of the Ontario Harness Horsemen's Association, said Wednesday.

"Until the situation is clarified the horsemen shouldn't be put in a position of choosing sides," he told the association's annual meeting.

The struggle is between the Canadian Trotting Association and the Ontario Racing Commission. Ehrlick said he has refused to attend meetings called by either side in order not to show favoritism.

The control issue is expected to be the main topic at the CTA meeting here today. The racing commission now has the supervisory role under Ontario legislation, but the trotting association holds the power of suspension over drivers who must have it's card to race elsewhere on the continent.

John J. Mooney, general manager of The Jockey Club, said the harnessmen he has applied to the Ontario government to have the curfew on night racing lifted at Old Woodbine in Toronto.

Ted Workman and his one-time employee, Herb Capozzi, almost have their heads together. Otherwise, they wouldn't even consider a post-season all-star bowl game between players of the Canadian and American Football Leagues.

The idea was popped this week by Bud Adams, owner of the AFL Houston Oilers, who recounts his money-by the million-Mona suggested the all-star tilting and site would be Jan. 13, 1963, in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla.

There's only one reason he suggested this. The AFL has been making noises about an all-star game with the long-established National Football League for two years and has received nothing but a good brushoff. The NFL, undoubtedly would give the AFL a fancy beating but, as Commissioner Pete Rozelle says, why play games with a league that is ruing you for $10,000,000?

Adams then cooked up the idea of a CFL-NFL game and almost immediately, Workman, president - owner of Montreal Alouettes, said he favored the idea. Capozzi, who played for the Als a few years ago and who now is general manager of British Columbia Lions, agreed with his former boss.

WHO'D WATCH? ....

The gibbs would be a good source of revenue for a players' pension fund and this should appeal to CFL executives, said Workman. It would help Canadian clubs in their recruiting of American college players, enthused Capozzi.

It wouldn't be out of line to suggest that they are indulging in a bit of wishful thinking.

First, the 100,000 - capacity Orange Bowl likely would be the loneliest spot in Florida on game day. Americans couldn't care less about an all - star game - anything team from Canada playing all - stars from either AFL or NFL.

Vacationing Canadians would watch it and it would be a dandy holiday for Canadian football writers. But who else?

Workman probably has forgotten all about Philadelphia. The Eagles' Bert Bell, commissioner, called that Ottawa Rough Riders and Hamilton Tiger - Cats scheduled a Sunday afternoon game in that city a few years ago for some reason or other.

A crowd of 5,000 turned out at a stadium that seats more than 100,000. Conditions were ideal. It was a perfect afternoon for football. There were no other sports attractions in the city and the experiment laid a grade-A egg.

If the CFL has any ideas about a pension scheme for players, it should promote something in Canada, where the pastures are green.

Capozzi's thoughts about recruiting are nothing but dreams. Canadian clubs can't compete with the rich AFL teams and the long - established NFL and they may as well content themselves with selling players the AFL and NFL don't want. All-star games, friendships and so forth have been a thing of ages ing time.

Apart from all of this, a CFL-AFL all - star game wouldn't do a thing for Canadian prestige. It wouldn't prove anything if the Canadians beat a minor-league American team. A loss would do it well with Canadian football fans.

Workman said a link between the CFL and AFL would reduce both leagues to a permanent minor-league status, ranking behind the NFL and he comes up with this quote:

"The NFL champions call themselves the world champions but I say that, technically, they have no right to call themselves that. It would be up to the NFL to challenge us."

Where's there been all this time? NFL teams—and by no means the best—have shown in Canada for exhibition games and have handily beaten CFL clubs without extending themselves and with only one or two light scrimmages under their belts.

The Boys Are Coming To Terms

NEW YORK (CP) — Two prominent pitchers and a hard-hitting outfielder signed 1962 major league baseball contracts, Wednesday.

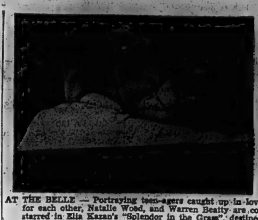
Ace reliever Elroy Face agreed to terms with Pittsburgh Pirates and is heading into his ninth season in the National League. The 34-year-old right-hander won 18 games last season, compiling a 6-12 won - lost record and an earned run average of 2.82.

Baltimore Orioles got Jack Fisher, a regular starter on the mound, into the fold.

Outfielder Tito Francona signed with Cleveland Indians in his third American League campaign with the Indians last year he had a batting average of .301, hit 16 home runs and drove in 85 runs.

Red Wings Turn to Top League

TORONTO (CP) — Hamilton Red Wings took over first place from Montreal Canadiens in the Eastern Hockey Association Junior A series last week and Red Wing players also displaced Montrealers in individual scoring races.



League statistics released Wednesday, including Sunday's game, show Hamilton's Pit Martin out in front with 67 points. Martin, called up Monday for a trial with the Canadiens of the National Hockey League, is the league's top goal getter with 36, and has 31 assists.

Andre Boudrias, the Canadiens' ace, is second with 66 points on 26 goals and 40 assists.

Boudrias is followed by Lowell MacDonald of Hamilton with 63 points on 32 goals and 31 assists, Next are Rejean Richer and Norm Dennis of the Canadiens, with 27-29—56 and 19-34—53 respectively.

Hamilton's Buddy Blom took over the goaltending lead with a 3.07 goals-against average. Jim Holmes of Montreal has a 3.08 average.

AT THE BELLE — Portraying teen-agers caught up in love for each other, Natalie Wood, and Warren Beatty are co-starred in Elia Kazan's "Splendor in the Grass", destined to become a Garden picture masterpiece. Many Stars Want to Help Edie Adams in Her Trouble

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Wherever the stars of Hollywood met this week, there was talk of a growing memorial to Ernie Kovacs.

It could take the form of a weekly TV anthology that would occupy the time and talent of the comedian's widow, Edie Adams, as well as provide support for her and her family.

"The whole thing started spontaneously," reports Jack Lemmon, one of Kovacs' close friends. A bunch of us started talking about it — guys like George Burns, Jack Benny, Dick Quine, Mervyn Leroy. We agreed there has never been a really topnotch anthology show and thought this would be a good thing for Edie to participate in.

"We kept talking and talking and now there are 30 people who have said they're willing to do it. They include practically every top star in the business.

"It's a dandy idea, but we don't know whether we can do it or not. There would be all kinds of problems — getting scripts, arranging schedules and so forth. We're still trying to see if it can be worked out."

KILLED IN CRASH

Hollywood is mourning of sorrow over the loss of Kovacs, killed in a car crash Jan. 13, attested to the imprint he had made during his brief stay here.

He was an original. He followed no one, and no one will follow him.

In appearance he seemed the stunt - screen villain — the huge frame, the black hair and rakish moustache, the flashing white teeth. But he was unable to play a convincing villain.

He was extravagant with both his comedy and himself. No gag was too wild or too expensive for him to try.

He was a friendly bear, but he was independent, too. Though he was friendly — and sometimes fought — with Frank Sinatra, he would not accept membership in the singer's tight little clique.

"I belonged to no organized group," Kovacs declared.

Western Hockey

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prairie teams invaded the Western Hockey League's southern climes Wednesday night and found a frigid reception.

San Francisco Seals dumped Calgary Stampeders 5-3 for their second consecutive win over the Stamps. And in a battle of division leaders, Portland Buckaroos edged Edmonton Flyers 6-5 in overtime.

Art Jones, the league's leading scorer last year, opened for Calgary before 4,148 fans at San Francisco.

Art Jones, the league's leading scorer last year, opened and closed the action for the Buckaroos at Portland. Jones and Arnie Schmautz paced the Bucks with two goals each. Bill Saunders and Tommy McVie added one apiece. Chuck Holmes led Edmonton with two goals, with singles going to Kenney, Ike Hoyal and Tom Burgess. The game drew 10,361 fans.

Brinkley Report on Vienna Bright Hour of Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — David Brinkley's Our Man in Vienna Wednesday (9 p.m., WBC) which included some marvelous photography and backgrounds was one of the brightest hours of television this season.

But the Brinkley treatment of the old Austrian city didn't go over with an invited group of Viennese, with whom this reporter saw the show at a network preview.

They were angered at what one of the group, a high Austrian official, called "a totally false, unfair impression."

Among the commentary that angered the Viennese:

Brinkley described Austria as "... over-governed, underworked, over-fed and tired — a remnant of 19th century Europe, preserved in milk chocolate and whipped cream."

He suggested life in Vienna consisted largely of "eating heavy pastry and listening to light music," that there were almost as many holidays as work days and that workmen spend long, lovely, lazy days standing around," while the cameras illustrated the words with shots of construction workers taking their ease on the job.

Brinkley made fleeting reference to the recent demise of two in Los Angeles.

PHONE BOOTHS

The United States in 1961 had 138,000 outdoor telephone booths, twice as many as in 1935.

Minor Hockey

The Rangers came up with a close 3-1 victory over the Black Hawks in the bantam hockey league's lone game played last night.

D. Olsen and B. Bateman scored the Rangers' goals while R. Downing had the lone assist. B. Weaver fired the Black Hawk marker, unassisted.

The juvenile game was a high-scoring affair with the Blacks downing the Blues 10-8.

Jerry St. Denis paced the winners with four goals, including the last two. He also had three assists. Pete Emerson had two goals and three assists while the other goals went to J. Lang, Jim Rutherford, York and McCormick, Johnson and G. Brenton had single assists.

For the losers, Carl Boomhower and Jim Woodcock each had two goals while Soule, B. Symons, D. Goddefroy and S. Woodcock scoring the others. R. Turner drew two helpers with one each for Symons, M. Foxon, S. Woodcock and Castleman.

Astrological Forecast

By SIDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — You should sparkle today, with the lunar position emphasizing the gems. A good day for philosophic agreements. But cycle generally favors waiting, planning, building. Avoid hasty action.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Office parties could well be whipped. That little after-work get-together tonight might bring interviewers before they're open. But don't say anything others might misconstrue. Go easy!

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Moon trips or favorable aspect your Sun . . . romance. Affections, sentiments indicated to be accepted, with saved favored. Opportunity abounds for meeting new people, working with individuals.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Spotlight has been on you . . . there are apt to be some questions to answer before day is over. Be prepared for what others might misconstrue. Go easy!

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Spotlight has been on you . . . there are apt to be some questions to answer before day is over. Be prepared for what others might misconstrue. Go easy!

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Saturn your Sixth Solar sector presages you, at such a time when relaxation, rest are regarded as luxuries. This week-end . . . (one) period of time when you regain your strength.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Cycle at peak . . . today get projects approved, bring others around to buying or selling, get contracts signed. Avoid hesitancy to demand too much. Relax and feel more helpful.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Unusual combination of partner and reality in evidence. Keep feet on ground. But avoid being so obstinate those around you have to step lightly. Be good listener.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Logic, in efforts to put across to others, might have to give way before day is over. Things that in stress relaxation, entertainment, fine dinner. Others tend to resist pressure.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — If you have hobby whereby you collect things . . . day could mark important discovery. Stress on budget, possessions. Success promised in connection with community projects.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Like Sagittarius you could run up against wall . . . If you try to "by-pass" methods. All signs favor them "rockin' up". Appeal to sense of beauty, luxury. Be extremely fair.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Wonderful for studying astrology, books on unusual subjects. Moon in Eighth Solar sector promises delightful day if you break out of rut. Absorb knowledge. Arrange unusual partnering.

If Born Today . . . you have drive necessary to enter public life, to teach, to assume responsibilities. Much authority could be on the agenda. But with authority you could also find actions more and more limited. Remain free to act, experiment, to find yourself.

General Tendencies: All signs urged to study interpretations of Sagittarius and Aquarius tendencies. Day when honey catches the flies. Aries urged to exercise caution—while Libra can now go all out.

COURTESY DRIVE

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A local newspaper urges mutual courtesy and respect among residents of Warsaw. It sponsored "Kindness Month" during September, and now proposes a committee to persuade people to be nicer to one another.

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP)—The historian who said Canada was a transcontinental railway in search of a nation probably would have called Britain an insular nation concealed by its railways.

Thanks to the industrious 19th century a vast complex of railway lines clutch the country like a thirsty creeping vine—withering at its tips, weak in its trunk and surviving on huge drafts of public funds.

The nationalized British railways are furiously trying to remodel their Victorian Gothic system into something approaching modern functional design.

Diesel engines are fast replacing steam locomotives and the British Transport Commission, which has been chopping off non - paying rail branches since 1946, has applied for permission to close another 2,000 miles.

Opposing all this is a band of enthusiasts who regard each branch-line closure as a new Agincourt and venerate steam railways the way a wine connoisseur might worship an imperial brandy.

TAKE OVER LINES

"Don't let steam die!" is the rallying cry and it seems to be inspiring increasing numbers of recruits for Britain's Railway Preservation Society.

The society's chief aim is to take over branch lines which do not make a profit, restore the rolling stock to its original splendor and operate the acquisition as a "living museum" on wheels.

Experience has shown this can be done successfully. When two narrow-gauge mining railways threatened to close down in Wales during the 1930s, local amateurs took over the operation and have kept the lines running at a profit.

Similar results were achieved later with the freight-carrying Middleton Railway in the industrial Midlands, the oldest surviving railway in the world.

Today amateurs, many working without salary, run a daily service down the Middleton line and are supported by the many industrial concerns whose factories are serviced by the railway.

BLUEBELL THRIVES

But the most successful railway preservation scheme is the Bluebell Line, 4½ miles of single track running through Sussex just south of London.

The railway was closed in 1955 because it had been running at a loss for years. The society acquired a lease for the line in 1960, rehabilitated five wheezing steam engines, converted two stations into Edwardian museums and opened a weekend service for anyone who cared to ride the Bluebell Special into the past.

More than 90,000 did that year and the amateur concern showed a £2,845 trading profit over its operating expenses.

This year the society hopes to add more rolling stock and the line itself has become so well known that civil defence authorities will use it for an exercise in April.

With so many lines closing it wasn't making a profit, the line was reopened by amateurs last year, carried more than 90,000 passengers and made an operating profit of £2,845. (CP Photo).

RUN BY AMATEURS — Rolling into the Edwardian past in southern England is a railway branch line run by enthusiastic amateurs. Closed by the government because

U.S. Will Shoot For Moon Today, Orbit Tomorrow

Report 'Everything Go' For Astronaut's Ascent

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—With the target zeroed in rapidly out of position, the United States today made ready to fire its most powerful rocket for an attempt to launch a spacecraft to the moon. Its mission: To take television pictures and land an instrument package to record moonquakes.

Scientists have less than one hour late this afternoon EST in which to fire the 102-foot-tall Atlas-Agena B vehicle to put the 37-pound spacecraft—Ranger 3—on the proper course.

If troubles prevent the rocket from getting off the ground at this time, only Saturday will remain in a 14-day period when the moon is in the desired position. Failure to launch by Saturday will mean a postponement until the next favorable period starting about Feb. 10.

The shot originally was set for last Monday, but fuelling trouble caused a four-day delay.

Ranger 3 is the most complex unmanned space experiment ever attempted by the United States. It involves launching the Agena B second stage of the booster into orbit and, at the precise moment, restarting the engine to boost the spacecraft's speed to 24,500 miles an hour—enough for its 65-hour voyage to the moon.

WILL TAKE PICTURES

If successful, Ranger 3 will relay television pictures of the moon from as close as 15 miles away and will produce the first recordings of seismic activity and other information about the composition of the lunar surface.

The data, plus that to be gathered by more sophisticated machines in the next few years, will help stake out the landing site for the first U.S. manned lunar landing, tentatively by 1967.

On the odds for success, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the experiment is so complex that it has "assigned three identical spacecraft to the task in the hope that at least one will be successful." Rangers 4 and 5 are to be launched later this year.

The United States has shot for the moon six times previously and failed each time.

Russia scored a string of two lunar launchings in 1959. Lunik II crashed on the moon but took no pictures and relayed no data after impact. Lunik III circled into a gigantic orbit around earth and moon and took the first pictures of the moon's darkside.

Any Future War Will Be Started By Us--Macklin

CORNWALL (CP)—Maj.-Gen. W. H. S. Macklin said Thursday night that any future war will be started by "our side."

The former adjutant-general of the Canadian Army is critic of both Liberal and Conservative defence policies, was a member of a panel that discussed atomic policy sponsored by the Cornwall branch of the Voice of Women.

"Russians have other means of getting their way," he said, "and they are not going to commit suicide."

Today's Chuckle

A little boy stared, wide-eyed at the stars; "Gee, if heaven is that beautiful on the bottom, think how it would be on the other side."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis:—A storm centred southwest of Hudson Bay is moving rapidly eastward. While its cause snow with milder weather over Northern Ontario, but a large cold high over the air has spread rapidly northeastward over the Prairie Provinces. Another storm centred over southeastern Kansas and moving rapidly northeastward will spread rain with fog patches across southern Ontario and snow or freezing rain over Central Ontario today. Strong northerly winds will bring cold weather to most of Northern Ontario this evening and to the remainder of the province by Saturday.

CANADIAN NAVY DOES NOT WANT 'THE BOUNTY'

Govt. May Accept $650,000 Replica

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Canadian Navy has decided it doesn't want the Bounty, even as a gift.

Deep in the problems of adjusting naval techniques to the atomic age, the 34,000-man RCN has no men to spare for sailing ships.

But there still is a chance the Canadian government will accept a Hollywood film studio's $650,000 replica of the famed 18th-century vessel immortalized in Mutiny on the Bounty.

Metro-Goldwyn - Mayer had the ship built in Lunenburg, N.S., and sailed it to Tahiti for its new production of the classic story of mutiny aboard Capt. William Bligh and his mutinous crew. Although the movie MGM has decided to offer the ship to the Canadian government without charge.

MUST SAIL HER

One major condition was to be laid on the offer. Canada had to agree to sail the ship for one year on a route to include ports of the Pacific Coast, the Panama Canal and the Atlantic seaboard.

The condition, obviously, was to keep the ship from merely about the ship without the cost of maintaining her.

The navy proposal reached Ottawa late last year it was first sent to the navy by MGM. RCN officials considered the offer for several weeks and then rejected it.

Now other departments have become involved. Already the subject is before the federal cabinet. Most likely later is the transport department which runs its own marine service.

MGM has been besieged with other requests for the ship. Most of them are from the Hollywood film colony. Others come from England, Australia and several Canadian groups.

Official Count Gives Quilty 144 Majority

ERNESTOWN, Ont. (CP)—Liberal Ernest Quilty, victor in last week's Renfrew South provincial by-election, has increased his majority by a single margin over the defeated Conservative opponent.

Returning officer John F. Findlay's official count, issued Thursday night, gave Quilty 4,-644 votes to 4,500 for Conservative Harold Churchill. Jack Laventure, New Democratic Party candidate, had 1,338 votes.

The final count after Jan. 16 by-election gave Mr. Quilty 6,989 votes, a 135-vote margin over Mr. Churchill's 6,854. Mr. Laventure's total was 1,339.

Nonchalant Texan Quickly Quells Mean and Dirty Baby Fire in B.C.

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP) Red Adair nonchalantly put out the Fort St. John gas blowout that blew off his hat in a storm.

"You hide to come out for babies like this," said the 46-year-old Texan in an interview. "It's like eating between meals."

Adair, 46, was mean and dirty and they "needed me," added the man regarded as the world's greatest fire fighter.

Adair donned an asbestos suit Wednesday night and walked through the flames of the burning gas blowout 1,000 ft. on the Alaska Highway, 50 miles west here.

With the help of others he doused the flames with chemical foam, then shut the well with a special mud to stop the oil from flowing.

The fire was snuffed out Thursday by some of the fires I've handled," said Adair.

How much the Sun Oil Company of Calgary, which brought in the well recently, will pay him has not been announced. But an official said the company had already spent $100,000 before he arrived — the fire broke out Jan. 5 — and his fee charged would be worth it.

Adair was brought here from Algeria.

Fred Adair and Sid White of Jasper, Alta., fired a high-power rifle at the atom pipe of the well, attempting to knock off a small valve. They managed to hit the valve and the pipe, sending much of the oil and flame belching in one direction.

Adair then donned the asbestos suit and walked into the inferno.

"I'm not scared a bit, he won't burn," said one awestruck worker.

Adair, holding his breath, made two trips into the fire to tighten a valve.

Working in 30-degree-below-zero weather, he took a water hose and, by other men with chemical spraying hoses, and approached to within 40 feet of the fire.

The flames were erupting from the wellhead, being compared to some of the fires I've handled," said Adair.

How much the Sun Oil Company of Calgary, which brought in the well recently, will pay him has not been announced. But an official said the company had already spent $100,000 before he arrived — the fire broke out Jan. 5 — and his fee charged would be worth it.

Unionist's Son Accepts Role Of Mascot for Sports Dinner

TORONTO (CP)—Larry Mahoney, 10-year-old son of a Brantford unionist and the boy chosen to be "Mummy" of 1962, will cross the Atlantic on the Royal York Hotel's pitcher line to attend Toronto's annual Sportsmen Celebrities Dinner Feb. 1.

Larry's father, Wilfred Mahoney, a member of the United Auto Workers (CLC) local 397 said Thursday night that Larry will be at the dinner.

"It is connected with it, the Easter Seals campaign," the organization of which "Mummy" for the 1962 will be chosen.

He refused to say whether his son's appearance there with him.

He said "Nobody has suggested that I do not cross the line."

"It is a personal decision," said Mr. Mahoney.

Five celebrities have dropped out of the 825-a-plate affair so far:

The sponsors of the dinner, the Ontario Sports writers and Sportscasters Association, said in a statement announced the dropping out of the dinner will be replaced.

Give Algerian Rebels Month To Accept Role in Govt.

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle has warned the Algerian rebel government it must accept a cease-fire and a cease-fire in the civil war by a month or it will end without it to create a new Algeria.

The newspaper Paris-Presse, France-Soir and Le Monde said de Gaulle has given the Algerian rebel FLN—the National Liberation Front—until the end of February to join a new provisional administration for the Moslem sector.

De Gaulle's proposition to the FLN, reportedly amounted to an ultimatum, is published in the Paris-Presse it was this:

If the rebel government accepts, except Ma plan and join in a cease-fire, a nine-man executive will be formed to run Algeria. The FLN will have three seats, other Moslems three, the European bloc and the French three.

Should the leaders of the rebellion reject the proposal, the executive will be set up without them to chart Algeria's path to independence.

De Gaulle made clear France has agreed as far as it will go in the ALGIERS (AP) — A French war veteran died of a dagger wound. A Moslem gasoline station attendant was cut down, by a sub-machine-gun.

They were among some 400 persons who have died at the hands of terrorists—French and Moslem—in Algeria's crisis since Jan. 1.

Police only 10 per cent of the victims were Europeans, with either the Moslem National Liberation Front (FLN), or the European Secret Army Organization, the two opposing terrorist groups.

Most were caught in the violence, especially Moslems caught killing. Among the victims reported in Moslem and Christian cemeteries are men and women whose only crime was to belong to the wrong political party.

CP from AP-Reuters

FUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (CP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk has attempted today to break down stubborn opposition to the United States drive for quarantining Castro's Cuba.

Brazil led the countries balking at strong treatment of the Havana government.

Rusk arranged to meet again today with Brazilian, Chilean, and Argentine foreign ministers in the hope of overcoming their reluctance to vote economic penalties against Cuba and to expel the ex-client of the Havana regime from the councils of the Organization of American States.

Fourteen countries — two-thirds of the 21 — apparently must approve the declaration that Cuba's communist regime, which the conference is scheduled to end Monday.

Rusk, Brazilian Foreign Minister Tuesday to adopt a declaration denouncing these four points:

(1) Recognition that Cuba's alignment with the Communist world is incompatible with the inter-American system; (2) Exclusion of Cuba from participation from OAS functions; (3) Interruption of trade between Cuba and the Americas, particularly in arms; and (4) Establishment of individual and collective defence against Cuba's political and indirect aggression in the hemisphere.

Speaking for the eight country bloc which has opposed the anti-Castro stand, Quadros described Rusk's speech as mild and conciliatory.

The Brazilian Foreign Minister San Thiago Dantas said the positions outlined by Rusk represented "controversial points" and was a "courageous" attack on the most reactionary areas of Brazilian opinion.

Brazil had support from seven other countries—Argentina Chile, Mexico, Bolivia, Ecuador, Ecuador and Haiti—in its stand against economic sanctions.

All are willing to declare Cuban communism incompatible with the inter-American system, but Brazil and Argentina are particularly keen to want to delay the process by which Cuba would be ousted from inter-American ranks.

P.M. Against Building Up Hopes on Red Dissension

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker says if the militant section wins the current struggle for power in Communist China "there will be no chance of a better world."

Speaking at a Montreal Board of Trade luncheon Thursday, Mr. Diefenbaker gave this assessment—his first major analysis of the Communist world—on the Communist split in an address that was duplicated in the annual dinner of the Montreal Real Estate Board.

"For the first time in many months," he said, "we have been living in a period of relative calm in East . West relations. The old problems and the old tensions have not vanished. We always pass through these periods, at one time a smile, at another a sneer.

"But at the moment none of the three faces is that which celebrates. Even in Berlin . there now is an interlude."

Mr. Diefenbaker said this interlude for a stock-taking, and that "we should use this interlude for the purpose."

"The signs of strain in the Communist bloc."

"There are abundant evidence that Russia and China disagreed on many issues, that Poland and Hungary do see things in the same light as Czechoslovakia and Germany. Albania and Rumania was a parish among some communist countries and supported by others.

"Everyone, however, should also know that Khrushchev and Mao are not disagreeing about whether but only about how they hope to make their theories prevail."

It would be frivolous and irresponsible for western leaders to base reckon on internal dissension in Russia and disputes in the Communist bloc relieving them of their responsibilities.

CCFer TAKES ON ALL COMERS IN COMMONS

Erhart Regier Makes Many Allegations

OTTAWA (CP)—During much of his 35-year parliamentary career CCF MP Erhart Regier has demonstrated a penchant for saying the unusual.—often the startling—thing.

Thursday was no exception. The British Columbian peppered his contribution to the Commons throne speech debate with allegations aimed at both the Conservative and Liberal parties.

Except for his speech and the angry rejoinders it drew from the government benches, the fourth day of the debate was relatively quiet. The sitting ended with the Conservative majority defeating 114 to 42 a formal motion of non a confidence in the government, a vote in which the CCF - New Democratic group joined with the Liberals.

These were some of Mr. Regier's more controversial statements:

1. Defence Minister Harkness "goes out of his way to put the knife into" the disarmament efforts of External Affairs Minister Green.

2. "I contend that we in Canada have a democracy in name only but this government has not the honesty, courage or guts to tell the Canadian people that we have nuclear weapons and to fly out and defend its policy."

3. "I deliberately charge the federal government with conducting leaf and snap elections in the areas where these centres are to be located, it was stated. That is by supplement the department's plans, as recently announced by the minister, Hon. William Goodfellow, to develop Highway No. 2 as a scenic highway.

Chief Regier CCF — Beaver River, Sask. Coquilleon) was also Defence Minister Harkness, of setting External Affairs Minister Green's disarmament efforts and also said Canada has no nuclear weapons.

Mr. Harkness described the charge as "one of the most complete nonsense" and categorically denied that the country now has nuclear weapons.

Lionel Chevrier (L — Montreal Laurier) said it is impossible to conduct politics in a government whose cabinet includes "18 kept women to each other.

Andrew Minister Fulton replied that the government's record of accomplishment is a result of cabinet "team that works well together."

Senator Hon. Ross Macdonald, Senate opposition leader, said Canada will face economic difficulties if it does not sell its world trader continues to slip.

Service Centre On 401 To Be West Of Trenton

One of First 4 Areas; Will Be Ready in July

One of the first service areas to be built on Highway 401 is to be erected four miles west of Trenton on the south side of the highway, it was stated this morning by a Department of Highways official. It will be one of four centres to be in operation by July of this year.

The other three centres will be located three miles east of Newcastle on the north side of 401; eight miles east of Preston on the south side of the highway, and two miles southwest of Ingersoll on the north side.

Tenders for these centres have been called and are to be submitted within the next few weeks, it was stated.

An additional four centres, which are scheduled to be opened in either August or September of this year, will be erected on the opposite side of the highway to the first four centres. Tenders for these will be called within the next few days.

The centres are to provide service station facilities and a separate restaurant building with washrooms. Parking will be provided, with both table and counter restaurant facilities. The service station is also to provide truck service and two truck facilities for the use of transport operators on duty at all times. These centres are to operate on a 24-hour, seven-days-a-week basis.

Every effort is to be made to avoid disrupting business in the areas where these centres are to be located, it was stated. That is by supplement the department's plans, as recently announced by the minister, Hon. William Goodfellow, to develop Highway No. 2 as a scenic highway.

Robarts Says Redistribution Will Be Fair

TORONTO (CP)—An opposition party leader called Thursday for an independent commission to study redistribution of legislature boundaries in Ontario. Along the lines adopted by the Manitoba government.

New Democratic Party Leader Donald C. Macdonald said the need "for rescuing redistribution from politics has long been acknowledged by persons of all political persuasion."

It becomes more urgent, he said, in the light of a statement Wednesday night by Hollis E. Beckett, Conservative member for East York, that Toronto area redistribution should be considered specifically at keeping voting power in Conservative hands.

Premier Robarts later issued a statement promising redistribution "in a manner fair and reasonable to all parties at large."

Parliament At a Glance

The Conservative majority defeated 144 to 42 a Liberal motion of non - confidence in the government, the CCF-NDP voting with the Liberals in the vote.

Chart Regier CCF — Beaver River, Sask. Coquilleon) was also Defence Minister Harkness, of setting External Affairs Minister Green's disarmament efforts and also said Canada has no nuclear weapons.

Mr. Harkness described the charge as "one of the most complete nonsense" and categorically denied that the country now has nuclear weapons.

Lionel Chevrier (L — Montreal Laurier) said it is impossible to conduct politics in a government whose cabinet includes "18 kept women to each other.

Andrew Minister Fulton replied that the government's record of accomplishment is a result of cabinet "team that works well together."

Senator Hon. Ross Macdonald, Senate opposition leader, said Canada will face economic difficulties if it does not sell its world trader continues to slip.

40 Arrests Are Expected In Swindle

TORONTO (CP)—The president of an automobile sales firm and a former harness racing newspaper were charged Thursday with fraud in connection with the $250,000 swindle of the American Insurance Company.

Chris Louie, 39, president of Mercantile Motors Ltd., was charged with obtaining $5,618 by fraud and conspiracy. He was released with the Daily Racing Form, he charged with obtaining $2,360 by fraud.

Their arrests brought to 11 the number of persons charged in the case, in which total claims and sums ranging from $700 to $5,000 were paid in duplicate through for accidents that never happened.

Charges of as so far total approximately $65,000. Police said a total of 40 arrests are expected.

Farmers Want Compulsory Medical Plan

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Agriculture, meeting here at its three-day annual convention, Thursday with approval in principle of a compulsory national medical care insurance program.

A policy statement, approved over some objections from Atlantic province delegates, recommended that the CFA's national office make representations to the royal commission on health services to that effect.

A number of the experimental oral contraceptive pills . . . and it is hard for me to believe these women are all Protestants."

The oral contraceptive, the scientist said, was developed by Dr. Gregory Pincus of Worcester, Mass. Dr. Rock worked with Dr. Pincus and was associated with research phases of the project.

Harvard Professor Says RC's Are Accepting Contraceptive Pills

CHICAGO (AP) — A Harvard medical professor said Thursday that experimental oral contraceptive is "a bridge on which Roman Catholics are using the pill" in contradiction to Pope Pius XII's condemnation of the experimental oral contraceptive and professor emeritus at Harvard University Medical School.

"Their use is completely moral and here is a wide open bridge on which Catholics and Protestants might meet," he told the annual meeting of the Chicago area Planned Parenthood Association.

LIFE-SAVING COURSE FOR GIRLS PLANNED

New Monday a life-saving course for girls and women will commence at the local YMCA. It has been announced by the local director Joe Ruddy. The course is to be conducted for two groups; juniors (girls from 14 to 17 years of age), and seniors (those over 17 years), over a nine-week period.

The junior classes will be held on Monday evenings from 7.00 to 8.30 o'clock and the senior classes will be held on Wednesday evenings from 7.30 to 9.00 o'clock, with the first class being held on January 31st.

Those interested in taking the course should contact the "Y" for further information.

Neighborhood Association Inaugurated

A meeting of residents of the east end of Belleville in the area surrounding Stanley Park-lette was held on Wednesday evening in the Bayview Public school. The president, Mr. Gord Lockie, opened the meeting by welcoming the many interested citizens present. The constitution, a guide was prepared by the executive and presented by Mr. Don Hickson, and a constitution was drawn up and adopted by the association.

Residents within the area will be contacted by members who will act as representatives (Hootenans) for individual streets, in an attempt to secure the assent of the community.

ICE RINKS DECIDED

Ways and means were discussed for the most advantageous use for the ice areas available, and a committee headed by Mr. Bob Marner has been formed to look into these. Mrs. Irene Nellscher was chosen as activities chairman and it is thought she will start off with a Winter Carnival. In the meantime, local residents should start decorating their lawns with some snow sculptures in preparation for this carnival.

Headed by Mr. Gerald Joyce, the association is planning a fireworks display on May 24th, the possibility of a track and field day being held that afternoon is also being considered.

It was generally appreciated that Mr. Lloyd Dorrington, recent director of the city of Belleville, was present to assist this new association.

Reorganization Of Navy League Cadets Planned

The reorganization of the Navy League Cadet Corps, consisting of local lads between 13 and 14 years of age, was a main topic of discussion at a meeting of the local branch of the Navy League of Canada held at the Sea Cadet "ship" yesterday evening.

The appointments of Mr. Bruce Johnson as Navy League Cadet committee chairman was unanimously approved by the meeting and it is expected that a new commanding officer for the junior corps will be appointed in the near future. There are approximately 60 members in the junior corps sponsored by the branch, which is affiliated with the Belleville United Appeal.

The new appointments will fill vacancies brought about by the resignation of the previous chairman, and commanding officer due to the press of business matters.

A brief discussion was held on the budget of the branch, during which it was noted that operating costs might be kept above the budget which had been allowed for the United Appeal. It was suggested that an increase would be required when the 1955 budget was determined, the 1955 budget having already been established.

The topic of regular meetings was discussed. Although no definite schedule was established it was decided to hold the next meeting on Wednesday, February 16 at the Sea Cadet "ship" commencing at 8.00 p.m. It was felt that this would give members an opportunity to observe the senior corps, the Navy League Cadet Corps "Quins" in action.

The question of outstanding bills, that is uniform clothing issued to Cadets which has not been returned in full up to have quit the corps, was referred to the executive of the branch where requests to return this government property have been received. The matter should be reported and a request made that action be taken, by the Naval Cenotaph Mounted Police.

Insight Into World Of Blind on Radio

Life in the world of the blind is interesting and lived by a sightless Toronto couple is featured in a 30-minute CBC radio program (on Project "X" Sunday, January 30 at 2.30 p.m.).

The program which is titled "Incident" (Part 2) and called "The White Cane—Week of Pride, 1955" entitled "The Bright Darkness" deals with the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wallace Walsh. The Bright Darkness centres about the activities of Mr. and Mrs. Walsh. Mr. Walsh is blind, his blind people can well do without sympathy.

"A blind person will gain absolutely nothing if he feels sorry for himself," Mr. Walsh says. He has been blind for the last 9 years. His wife has been blind since the age of two.

Except for a daily dose of the Toronto Globe and Mail, Mrs. Walsh, a diabetic, there is very little they don't do for themselves.

Mrs. Hawe's father, regarding her daily fare about the house, calls as ironing and washing. She also cooks, and prepares for every three months she lets a maid into the house to clean and has already built a garden.

As Mr. and Mrs. Hawe relate to interviewer McNeil, among the most important things to a blind person is the ability to recall where things were placed, and the solidity "the instinct which tells us whether walls are near, or trees, or lamp posts — You just sense that an object is nearby."

Police Criticized For Handing Out Transcripts

PETERBOROUGH (CP) Defence counsel at the trial of four Montreal men charged with conspiracy to corrupt a Havelock bank criticized provincial police Thursday for distributing transcripts of the preliminary hearing to trial witnesses.

John Mirsky, counsel for Yvon Lalonde, 35, and Jean-Claude Lalonde, 31, quizzed Constable Gordon Gray of Campbellford about the transcripts.

Mr. Mirsky said: "It is the practice of police to hand out what is encountered this, It is most unfair. A witness should come into this and rely entirely on his memory."

Constable Gray admitted he handed the transcripts out on the instructions of Provincial Inspector Larry Gartner, who is in charge of the case.

He said they went to several police officers, to George Millikan, manager of the Havelock branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank and two women witnesses.

Crown Attorney John Brady, who is in charge of the case, checked with me and I approved it."

JUDGE ASSENTS

Judge A. R. Wilmot said: "I see nothing wrong in a witness having to refresh his memory after five months."

The trial is in its fifth day So far 31 witnesses have been called and 58 exhibits entered.

The other two charged are Roger Martel, 41, and Roger Poirier, 31.

All four have pleaded not guilty to the charges of robbery, Poirier, Martel and Jean-Claude Lalonde pleaded guilty to two charges of possessing stolen property, resisting arrest by shooting at a provincial policeman, and breaking and entering a store in Campbellford.

Jean-Claude Lalonde is free on $50,000 bail, granted in mid-December.

SENATE CABINET SPLIT

Elsewhere in the debate, Liberal Senator C. —Mordecai Lacroix), describing the government, as "the most incompetent since Confederation," said it is impossible to have confidence in a cabinet split right down the middle. He likened it to a whose cabinet ministers lack confidence in each other.

Senator Lacroix said Milton revealed that the government's accomplishments are "mainly in the hard work and planning." They only come about as a result of teamwork, particularly as it lends in the present cabinet — and a good team that works together."

Both Alan Macnaughton (Liberal, Montreal) and Senator Regier considered that Canada is losing prestige at the United Nations. Mr. Macnaughton criticized Prime Minister Churchill, who described U.S. Secretary of State Dulles as Pearson for "setting the tone" for "lesser lights" to follow in downgrading Canada.

"Canada's stature in international affairs has never been brighter," Mr. Churchill said.

Mr. Green, not in the House at the time, was reported to say Mr. Churchill as "dedicated to the task of building up Canada's name in the international realm and dedicated to the principle of Canadian unity."

Mr. Claxton urged the government to "call off the dogs on the so-called illegal immigration of Chinese" to Canada.

In another reference to immigration, Senator Haig (Liberal, Manitoba) (d. — Fort William) said the new immigration regulations mean that the Liberal government way of telling unwanted emigrants they don't qualify for admission.

He said the new regulations, based entirely on occupational skills, are just another form of discrimination. He criticized Ottawa statistics as evidence of the economic benefits that could follow for Canada from these restrictions.

Opening the Senate throne speech debate, Opposition Leader W. Ross Macdonald said Canada will not remember the latter if its position as a world trading nation is not maintained.

Canada was not holding its own as a world trader in a rapidly expanding world economy. Since the Progressive Conservative government took office in 1957, Canada had slipped to fifth from fourth place as a world trader.

"No one can deny that this trend, if it is not reversed, could result in economic disaster."

Proper Use Of Tractor Given At 4-H Club

The meeting of the B.C.I.V.S. 4-H Tractor Club was held on January 24th.

The members received sheets on safe tractor operation. Mr. Gibb gave demonstrations with model tractors showing the results of improper hitches to the tractor; going too fast around sharp corners; and the tendency a tractor has to slip over. He then showed a few hundred fundamental terms which related the operation of the two-strokes and the four-stroke engines.

The meeting was then adjourned to February 7th.

Douglas Black Dies Suddenly In Boston, Mass.

Douglas E. Black, 14 Sinclair Drive of this city, and vice-president of the Wilson Concrete Products and manager of the Belleville plant, died suddenly in the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Boston, Mass., on Tuesday. He had been in ill health for some years with a heart condition and had undergone major surgery on a number of occasions for the ailment. He was undergoing surgery on Thursday when he died suddenly.

Born in Port Colborne, the son of Dr. Grace Black and Dr. Phyllis Black, and had been a resident of this city for the past 13 years, coming to this city when the Wilson Concrete Products commenced operations and he has gradually advanced with the growth of this industry in the district.

Mr. Black, or Doug Black a wide circle has lost an intimate and personal friend. He was a keen angling fan and mad, kindly by nature, a loving husband and father and a most enjoyable companion at any social event. Unable to engage in strenuous activities he enjoyed having friends into his home in the evening which generally ended in a game of bridge.

He was an active member of the Belleville Bridge Club for many years. He was an executive member for some years and was a member of the Trinity Anglican Church, and in his younger days was a member of the Anglican Church, and in his younger days was a member of the Belleville Yacht Club and gave of his time and ability for their advancement.

He was very active in the Quinte Home Builders' Association and was the founding secretary of that organization. He worked hard to foster cooperation between the builders and industry that supplied these builders and he was instrumental many times for his contribution to the association.

He was a former member of the Anglican Church, and is survived by his parents, Dr. and Mrs. G. Black of Port Colborne; his wife, the former Phyllis Bowerman, daughter of Douglas and Richard, both of Belleville; one brother, Harold Grant Black of Fonthill, and one sister, Mrs. Charles E. Williams of Toronto.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at Belleville cemetery.

Two Curling Events Down To Sixteens

The boys are sweeping the stones are curling and the Bay of Quinte Combined sport is in full swing. Everything at the BCAF Clubs is in full swing. Everything at Trenton is like clock work, the draw is up to schedule, the ice on all three rinks is perfect and everyone could curl a curler with for. Of course the bowling is commencing and that is being manifest only gore to show what a wonderful game it is.

After two days of curling the two main events, Elliott Molony and the Sixteens are underway and the trophies are down to the six teams. In the Elliott Molony events, Lovett, Doe, Cathren, Riley, Haverstock, White, Durnford, Mitchell and Mac Larry, Doe, Cara, W. Lewis, Madden and Manning still left in while in the Bata Shoe event Fraser, Chambers, Cox, Paldiwar, Laflam, Mowbray, Hetherington, H. Lewis, Schmidt, Greves, Farquharson Steenburg, Tobe, Cavell, Moore and McAdden are going strong. The Corby event is down to the thirty-two rinks while the LaFlam, Pepsi Cola, O'Keefe's; Lafferty-Smith and Bata Industrial events have yet to be started These will get under way today and be ready for final play some time on Saturday.

And evening the curlers enjoyed a smorgasbord, cocktails and entertainment at the Trenton Golf and Curling Club and a pleasant event. Short speeches were made and the entertainment provided was excellent. It was a splendid evening. Now back to curling and the finals are reached. The public is especially invited to come to any of the three clubs to watch the curlers in action.

STELLA HOBAN DIES

DETROIT (AP) Stella Hoban, 71, of Jean Muskegon, Mich., girl who introduced the hit son Pretty Baby in a 1916 New York musical, died Tuesday in a hospital here. Miss Hoban started her career in 1906 in a New York supper club. She later played in shows with Al Jolson, Wallace Beery and Clifton Webb. Besides Pretty Baby, she clicked with such songs as I Love O Mike and O, Ah, Delphine in The Passing Show.

Weekend Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—Steer prices were generally unchanged at the Canada Packers livestock this week.

Heifers were firm, yearlings steady, cows higher, bulls, lower and replacement cattle slow at barely steady prices. Veal calf prices were higher, hogs mostly steady and lambs lower.

Cattle receipts were estimated at about 7,500 head, about the same as last week and slightly more than the same week in 1961. Receipts from Ontario farms totalled 362 cattle and 198 stock calves, a sharp decline in both sections.

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers 26-26.50 with sales to 27 and a few fancy lasers up to 27.25; good 24.50-25.50; medium 21-24; common 17-20; good heifers 22-23.50 with choice to 24-24.50 and a few lasers to 25; medium 20-22; common 16-19; choice fed yearlings 25-27 with sales up to 28; good 22-24.50; cows 15-16.50 with odd sales to 17; medium 13 - 15; common 14-15; canners and cutters 11-14; good heavy bologna 19.50-20; common and medium 18-19.

Replacement cattle: Good steer stockers 22-25 with heavy stock calves up to 27; common, medium and stock heifers 18-22.

Calves: Choice and good 24-26 with odd sales to 30; good 20-23; medium 26-30; common 21-26; boners 17-20.

Hogs: Grade A 26.25 - 27.00; heavy sows, 20.25 - 22.50; light sows gaining on 26 premium; stags 17.50 on a dressed weight basis.

Sheep and lambs: Good handyweight 30.00 - 31.50; heavy and medium 17-19 with commons down to 14; good light sheep 3-10; common and fat sheep 3-7.

Castro's spokesman, Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos, replied to the charges against the Cuban regime with a denunciation of the United States that lasted nearly three hours, until early this morning.

Dorticos charged that the conference was a screen for new aggression by the U.S. and asserted the meeting could result in the Americas being plunged into a "colonial war of the peoples" against "ferocious imperialism."

Jose Garcia Bauer of Guatemala followed Dorticos and assailed Cuba as "a huge battleship anchored in the Caribbean threatening our lands."

making concessions.

The French leader, who outlined his bold move to the cabinet Thursday, is scheduled to make a television speech Feb. 5 and may publicly disclose the details of his plan.

De Gaulle has threatened in the past that failure to reach a negotiated settlement would result in partitioning of the North African territory into European and Moslem districts. The 1,000,000 European would be concentrated in the big coastal cities of Algiers, Oran, Bone and Constantine and along the fertile coast—where most of them live already—and the Moslems would be left to fend for themselves in the arid backlands.

The rumors of an impending agreement between the French government and the rebel regime have sparked a mounting campaign of terror by the underground Secret Army Organization. European settlers led by fugitive French Army officers determined to keep Algeria in the French fold. The Moslems have replied with their own terrorist drive.

The outlawed secret army commands the allegiance of almost European settlers in Algeria. A strike called by the underground paralyzed the port city of Oran Thursday, and 15,000 marchers stormed through the streets, shouting insults against de Gaulle, hurling grenades and firing at riot troops.

In Algiers, European mobs lynched two Moslems and wounded a French Army general who stepped out of his car after being recognized in traffic jam during an anti-de Gaulle demonstration.

European set fire to Moslem stores in Montgomeon, in western Algeria, after the funeral of a European terrorist victim.

Nationalist rebels killed four Europeans who drove into a machine-gun ambush in the Ebda region southwest of Algiers.

Cecil B. Ketcheson Named Chairman Moira Authority

Former Thurlow township reeve and member of the Authority's executive since 1955, Cecil B. Ketcheson of Zion Hill yesterday was named chairman of the Moira River Conservation Authority.

He succeeds Earl Sager of Madoc township as head of the Authority, stepping up to the chair from his position last year as vice-chairman. The new vice-chairman is Alderman George Wishart of Belleville.

The Moira Authority controls conservation measures in the Moira watershed covering 1,058 acres, mostly in the Hastings County area.

In his acceptance speech, Mr. Ketcheson said that in the past he felt the local Authority had tended to concentrate too much on reforestation and conservation areas, at the expense of establishing a conservation assistance program for private landowners.

SHOULD CONSERVE SOIL

He suggested that the preservation of soil resources should be of prime importance and that measures should be taken to conserve soil and assisting in reducing flooding, improving ground water supplies and assisting in summer stream flow.

He said the institution by the Authority of an assistance program aimed at assisting landowners to conserve soil and water by wise land-use practices is a challenge that cannot continue much longer.

The executive committee of the Moira Authority for this year is: Earl Sager of Madoc as chief officer; T. Clarence Graham of Tweed, forestry chairman; Bruce H. Smith of Belleville, conservation areas chairman; Gerald O. Irvine of Sidney, public education and extension, and Graham Bell of Marmora and Lake townships, water control chairman.

The 1962 Authority chairman is well known in the Hastings County area, having spent his entire life in the Zion Hill district. He was chairman of the Authority's public education advisory board before being elected to the chair last year.

SAME AMOUNT LEVIED

Members of the authority voted to set the 1962 levies on the seventeen participating municipalities at a total of $17,175, the same amount as levied in 1961. With provincial grants, the total budget of the corporation will be some $35,000, consisting of $10,000 for expansion of the authority forest, $,100 for capital development at the Colonel Roscoe Vanderwater Canservation Area and $3,000 for development at the authority's two other conservation areas.

At the Vanderwater area the interior road will be extended south to the power line, additional parking areas built, a play area developed and further picnic facilities provided. Plans call for improvement of trails, grading and seeding around the pond, construction of a fire turbine and tree-planting at the O'Hara mill conservation area.

The meeting decided to accept the invitation of the Honorable J. W. Spooner and send a delegation to a province-wide meeting of Conservation Authority Chairman in Toronto on January 30th.

Mr. A. S. L. Barnes, Acting Chief Conservation Authorities Branch, Department of Lands and Forests, attended the annual conclave of the Moira Authority and took the chair for the election of officers.

ALGERIAN TOLL

Moslem crept from the back and plunged a knife in his neck.

VETERAN KNIFED

Henri Baudin, 70, lived in the Oran suburb of Quatre Chemins. He was a First World War cavalry officer and an colonial soldier, carried the flag of his veterans' organization. His body was found in a dark alley near his home. A dagger had killed him.

A Moslem gas station attendant, Ali Djebri, 41, was finishing his work on Boulevard Gallieni in Algiers when a bullet struck him in the forehead. His European assailant sped off in a car.

In the Algiers suburb of Hussein Dey's car loaded with explosives plowed before a Moslem grocery. Bullets sprayed the store, killing a Moslem. Moslem. Their corpses were taken by other Arabs and their names have not been reported by the authorities.

An hour later in the same area a Moslem terrorist fired four bullets into a European grocery, Joseph Silva, was killed.

"One of our brothers was avenged," said the Moslem.

Said a police officer:

"At this stage, we cannot do anything. Frequently, we don't even get the name of the vic, tim."

Thursday's toll, according to official sources, was 18 dead in various incidents throughout Algeria. The score was even: Nine Europeans, nine Moslems.

Reader's Digest May Terminate Mag Position

MONTREAL (CP) — Douglas How, managing editor of the Reader's Digest in Canada says the federal government's proposed protective legislation for magazines "is unnecessary, is severely jeopardize and perhaps even terminate" the position of his magazine.

"And in all probability it will really help the Canadian magazines," he said Thursday in an address at a seminar, sponsored by the Montreal chapter of the Canadian Public Relations Society.

He said his firm is well aware Canadian magazines are in financial difficulty and need assistance. But some "fairer and more effective method" could have been found to achieve the objective.

The government's proposed legislation, arising partly from a royal commission report, would chiefly affect Reader's Digest and Time magazine.

Call Tenders Soon for Church Renovation

Building chairman Grant Rathbun told the assembly that the church expansion programme, first introduced to the congregation at a Loyalty Dinner last May 10, would be implemented in a short time. Architect's plans for extensive reconstruction have been approved and tenders for the work should be called for within a month. According to plan, an extensive redecoration program will be carried out; Sunday school rooms will be modernized; a new organ will be installed and the choir loft, the chancel and the nave will undergo changes. Cost of the project has been estimated at between $125,000 and $130,000.

Following the Loyalty Dinner last May, church members pledged weekly amounts to finance the modernization. Last night, Dr. W.A.L. McDonald completed the list. Finance committee, told the congregation that $90,000 allocated for the building fund will be expended since last June 26. Already, the 1,188 church members gave $53,395, which includes money for current needs and the maintenance and maintenance allocation.

The church, erected in 1905, was first known as the Wesleyan Methodist Church. Rev. J. T. Irwin is the present minister and the organist and choir-master is A. Roy Kendall.

At last night's meeting, N. J. McNair, a member of the board of stewards, told the people they were going forward to install a new city be hit by a nuclear device. This is known as "Phase Two" of the program and will be carried out this year.

Later, Captain McRae said, Phase Three, in which streets will be installed in outlaying areas, will be undertaken by way technicolor.

In September, 1961, army engineers supervised three boreholes for drains in Trenton. One will be placed at the corner of Wilder Street and Hill, crest Ave. on the west side of town. One drain will be located on the roof of the post office and the third will be placed on a now-owned land at the corner of Marmora and Peter Sts.

After the streets have been installed, the engineers will carry out tests.

Homeowners, living in various parts of the town will be asked to record their reception of the warning signals used by the army officials. School principals, hospital personnel and town residents will be notified of the test well in advance through newspaper and radio, in order that no one will think the warning will be the streets is signaling a nuclear attack.

Flight Lieutenant E. A. Barker of 437 Transport Squadron at RCAF Station, Trenton, was promoted from the rank of Flying Officer and granted a Permanent Commission in the recent promotion list from Air Force Headquarters in Ottawa.

Air Raid Sirens Will Shortly Be Installed

TRENTON — In the near future, Trenton's air raid warning sirens will be installed and auditory tests will be carried out.

Thursday, Captain J. A. McFee, public relations officer with army area headquarters at Kingston, told an Ontario Intelligencer reporter that installation of warning sirens had been carried out at what are considered target area cities in 1961. This, said Captain McFee, was known as "Phase One" of Canada's air defence program.

The official said that plans were going forward to install sirens in what are termed "support" cities and towns, which would receive fallout, should a nuclear city be hit by a nuclear device. This is known as "Phase Two" of the program and will be carried out this year.

Later, Captain McFee said, Phase Three, in which sirens will be installed in outlaying areas, will be undertaken by way technicolor.

Uncle Found Guilty Of Harboring Barry

TRENTON — In magistrate's court at Brighton yesterday, William Barry, 20, of Brighton, was found guilty on the charge of harboring his nephew, David Barry, an escapee, and remanded, out of custody, until February 6. Magistrate R. B. Baxter has called for a pre-sentence report before passing sentence.

On Sept. 28, 1961, David Barry, 19, escaped from custody from Trenton police after being arrested on a charge

Tickets

The dinner, an annual affair which has raised $300,000 for crippled children in the last 10 years, has been sold out for some time.

A. R. Johnstone, international representative of the Building Service Hotel and Club Employees Union (AFL-CIO), and the union's hotel office has been working to persuade sporty figures to boycott the dance.

Meanwhile, Labor Minister Warrender tried again Thursday to bring the disputing parties together.

The meeting was adjourned until today after three hours of talks.

Union officials said there could be no settlement without provision for the return to work of all the strikers. The hotel argues that a number of the strikers will never be re - employed because they have been replaced by better employees.

Need Industrial Training Program

Indifference to the lack of a national training program in industry for apprentices must be overcome in Canada, Dr. S. H. Deeks of Toronto, executive director of the Industrial Foundation on Education, recently declared in an address at Peterborough.

Much of the responsibility for development of a fundamental appreticeship training program lies with the business community, stated Dr. Deeks.

These, and other observations by Dr. Deeks, prompted two members of the staff of Moira Secondary School here, Mr. D. C. Graham, drafting teacher, and Mr. E. P. Votesary, shop director, to send us clippings from the Peterborough Examiner of a report of Dr. Deeks' address and of an editorial in The Examiner commenting upon it.

"This problem of insufficient training facilities is serious in our midst, they write, "as well as Canada wide. Any information that might improve training facilities and job opportunities for our youth is rather important."

It is good to have confirmed the conviction that our teachers do not look upon their vocation as merely a job, but that they are deeply concerned with the welfare of their students, not merely during the school years but in those after graduation.

Some might suggest that the recent decision of the Federal Government to assist in the field of technical education, with school auditing for this purpose planned at Moira here, at Trenton and, if all goes well, at Tweed, should provide an adequate solution to the problem. We doubt, though, whether the two teachers mentioned would agree wholly with this view, in the light of their interest in Dr. Deeks' address and of his stress on the responsibility of the business community in this field. Indeed, it appears to us that technical schools and apprenticeship training, while dealing with the same problem, do so from different approaches and are complementary to each other, both being necessary.

"The big question in Canada on apprentice training is 'What is the place of apprentices in our society of the future'?" said Dr. Deeks - - - He cited cases where whole technological staffs for new or expanding Canadian industries had to be imported from Europe, due to none being available in Canada - - - He said he was "sometimes dismayed at the lack of response from business to this subject." - - - The whole Ontario industrial education committee "defines a craftsman as a person who has a thorough fundamental training in a craft, plus comprehensive technical knowledge and practical application. He must have a continuing interest in developing and improving his mental and manipulative knowledge and skills with the changing technology."

And from the Examiner editorial: "We will have to introduce our own skilled men. - - - There is already a framework of legislation to help in this about. Most provinces have a scheme under which any trade or occupation can be listed for an apprenticeship. Learners, up to 21 years of age, are registered and the Department of Labor tries to ensure that the apprentices attend courses for such time as is necessary. - - - certain system, unco-ordinated and unsatisfactory in many ways. - - - If the need for skilled workers is to be met, either this scheme, or another more suitable, must be made to work. Future technical schools must be built near industrial centres and, perhaps, legislation enacted under which an apprenticeship would be a necessary preliminary to a certificate of competence in the majority of technical trades. Those in training must be protected from lay-offs and paid reasonable wages; when they are trained their training must be honored above that of the unskilled. These are sweeping recommendations but they would not be necessary if all branches of industry had shown a greater sense of responsibility for craft training in the past."

We might add that any such program might enjoy easier going if some other word than "apprentice" were used. As the Peterborough Examiner notes, apprenticeship schemes in Canada in the pioneer days were "so plagued with exploitation - - - that they lost all appeal for young men." We have no use for euphemisms, but is there any sense in burdening a program under entirely different conditions with an old name carrying unfortunate connotations?

All speech, written or spoken, is a dead language, until it finds a willing and prepared hearer.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Traffic Laws Cause Most Traffic Hazards

By SYDNEY T. HARRIS

I have driven a car for more than 25 years. In all that time, I don't believe I have ever driven it without breaking some law — even on the shortest trips.

If I travel six blocks in the city, I must turn right on three streets, have a 20 or 30 mile speed limit, and keep under 35 miles an hour on a side street. The penalties remain the same — a super-highway makes a dramatic picture, but he is the exception.

Every city and town needs a drastic overhauling of its traffic rules and regulations. What's the use of having ordinances that are carelessly or stupidly fixed, they will be violated.

Everybody knows some uniform traffic code that will not vary from city to city and state to state. The variations of such a code would be to conform to the topography of the city and the same restrictions in the same situations.

Nothing but good habits by conditioned reflex — that is, by constant repetition and over in the same way to the same stimuli. Even a slightly drunken driver will almost always stop for a red light — because his conditioned habits overcome habitual and sub-cortical. His reaction is instinctive to the stop light, which arouse the same thing in everywhere.

There is no over-all pattern of reflexes to guide us in the drive. Too much is left to chance, to the caprice, to changing situations. Unless our responses become automatic — almost instinctive — we are bound to make serious mistakes. This country is full of such serious mistakes every year.

Our slaughter on the streets and highways is a disgrace to incompetence, partly anger and recklessness, but apart from these personal factors, the responsibility rests with our inadequate, complicated, anarchic, inconsistent and unrealistic motor vehicle code.

Reds Ignore Walk Signs

Wall Street Journal

We read with interest that Moscow's pedestrians are ignorant of traffic lights. "Walk" and "Don't Walk" signs with reckless abandon. Indeed, so many Russians are getting run over by the new traffic lights that a major educational campaign is being planned to persuade them that it pays to observe the signals.

We suppose what makes playing roulette with the lights such a popular game among Moscovites is that the choice between "Walk" and "Don't Walk" is about one of the few free ones they have. But our guess is that the pedestrian problem will be solved rapidly and that as the Moscow authorities tumble to the fact that their citizens are actually enjoying decadent capitalist Americana.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHERE DO YOU STAND?

Do beliefs really matter?

Probably no one would say that their beliefs are a matter of no consequence whatsoever, but there are thousands of people who would say that what we said and done is the action that counts and not belief. The answer is simple. Remember that sound Christian belief which is based on God's Word always in action is not belief at all, but presence.

Every act has a motive behind it no matter how deeply this motive may be concealed. The sincere Christian lives a life characterized by sound conduct and helpfulness for others, and he does this largely because he is impelled to do so by certain beliefs which he holds very firmly. Now, of these beliefs have their origin in the Bible; whether the person who holds such beliefs realizes this or not. People are decent, honest, generous, and unselfish without knowing that he was doing so. The Christian Church has influenced world thought to a degree utterly immeasurable.

Yes, beliefs do matter. We may not always be conscious of the extent to which they influence our actions, but they fundamentally influence our actions whether we realize it or not. Every act there is a belief — and particularly behind every

With quotations increasing 30 cents per bag in the period of one week, the price of potatoes asked on the local produce market today was the highest noted for several years. Top price of $2.15 per bag was realized by several vendors. Apples were again in evidence with vendors asking between $1.50 to $2.50 per hamper. Egg prices held firm on the inside market with specials bringing as much as 70 cents per dozen. Well-finished fowl brought as high as 24 cents per pound. Young porkers again made appearance on the market and were quoted at 10 cents per lb.

Expressing keen pride in the accomplishments of the past year in Victorian Order work when committee members and citizens generally showed their sympathy for this extensive program by lending generous financial support and giving freely of time and energy, Lieutenant Franklin Taylor predicted that the ensuing year would be one of even greater achievement. The annual meeting in YMCA this year was held in the form of a dinner meeting, an innovation that was greatly enjoyed and very largely attended. In the presentation of reports it was revealed that last year the Nurses had visited 947 patients in their homes, making in all, 3,977 visits.

The ladies' committee, so openly active in the Canadian National Railways War Veterans' Association in connection with their Christmas Tag Days reports a very successful year, up to December 31st, 1915, having succeeded in raising $240.85 for cigarettes and comforts for the boys overseas.

Stratford Raid Nicest

Rochester (N.Y.) Democrat and Chronicle

A friend of ours who attended the Stratford (Ont.) Shakespearean Festival checked in the other day with fascinating news.

It was caught in a raid.

The Bell Telephone local Club, which is a remodeled factory building on the first floor of which is an auditorium, met at 1:30 a.m. (in Ontario they roll up the sidewalks at night) and there were about 300 people in the room. A most congenial group.

"At our table were a professor of philosophy of a large university and his wife; the most prominent patron of the arts in the Midwest and his wife; a principal member of the federal cast and a rising concert-pianist.

"Into the room came eight policemen. They were spic and span and not at all pompous. They looked like soldiers. They looked sort of like summer boarders. They went from table to table, taking names, being very pleasant about it and they until you acknowledged their presence.

"At your table we kept right on singing snatches from grand opera — 'The Marriage of Figaro' and 'Il Trovatore' — and Elizabethan and Italian madrigals. More Elizabethan than Italian in keeping with the setting, you know.

"And they finally took our names. No one in the room was arrested so far as I know, although I suppose they fined someone for something. All in all, it was the nicest raid I've ever been caught in."

Author Feuds With Library

By ALEC NEVILLE

An author, himself, an editor, and a publisher, have become involved in an interesting if diverting controversy, the details of which are as follows:

We take it that the author is no longer at least young in years as his locks testify. A recent book requires the publisher to "use their best endeavor to prevent the sale of the said work by any means." This logical following to his having argued (later) that authors should receive at least a penny every time a book they have written is viewed from a library.

There is some merit in the idea — from the point of view of authors. If people get their books from a library, he feels they are less likely to buy them from a publisher, and so the publisher loses royalties to that extent.

Sir Alan's bright idea is likely to prevent the free lending Libraries are not easily dissuaded, and anyway some of them do not buy direct from publishers but through agents. This may be unjust, but it is unfortunately the perpetrators of some of the horrible noises we hear on records get money for every one sold or even "commercially played," the fee for unsold records authors are short-changed by comparison.

This would a well would rid the welkin if library patrons were taxed two cents every time they took a book out, instead of (as now) paying a fee for the use of the library which entitles them to all the books they want for several years! This should be the first step in how fortunes they are that Sir Alan's efforts to date have come to naught.

Cavemen Vindicated

Ottawa Citizen

The caveman has been triumphantly vindicated — and it is only right that modern man should now hall him across the years.

For thousands of years we have reviled this man. We have scoffed at his low brow and his religion deplored his morals, and generally held him contemptible. Now the National Geographic Society has sprung to his defence. The remains of a skull cap of Neanderthal Man, the so-called missing link between Man and ape, have been examined by the Society. He was a man of faith, a man of art, a man who cared for the dead and for his kin. He made music, made familiar in our time by a flute-like instrument. He was not a result of his bestiality but of his arthritis.

This is good news. It is always good to see an ancient libel lifted. It is not often that a wrong going back for 40,000 years comes to our attention.

Fortunately, there have always been champions of a gallant few, who have risen if their business to defend the underdog, the victim of injustice, the villain. Not long ago, for instance, an American scholar wrote a powerful and heavily documented defence of that archetypal villain, Richard III.

It is less than 500 years, a mere wink of history's eye, since Richard hung his crown in Bosworth Field and went carrying vainly for a horse, thus giving his name to the pages of villainy. Relatively speaking, it was a simple matter to rescue his reputation from the dust. It stood when Shakespeare and the other Tudor propagandists had finished with it.

It is a far, far better thing that the anthropologists have now done. Scrabbing through the dust of 40,000 years, they have pieced together the interior structures of Neanderthal Man and found them admirable.

Whatever else this may mean to us moderns, it should at least force us to look with new eyes on our vocabulary. We should now stop referring to the ugly, malevolent reactionary and wrong-headed man among us as Neanderthal. The Neanderthal has shown to be gross insult to those seven-hearted, artistic and arthritic cavemen.

To Your Good Health

Gid Rid of the Cause To Get Rid of a Callus

Dear Dr. Mokner: Is there any particular way of removing a callus from the ball of the foot? We have tried all sorts of remedies. My husband is on his feet all day on hard cement, — Mrs. J.T.

A callus is a thickening of the skin due to abnormal pressure.

Remove the pressure and it stops the callus. It is a way of its own accord. The proof is in the pain happens to someone doing work that puts a sudden extra increased pressure on the hands — hammering, chopping wood, digging in the garden, rowing a boat. Anything that causes abnormal pressure.

Stop doing, and one day you realize that the handy have softened. The calluses have disappeared so gradually that you don't notice.

It's similar with calluses on the feet, except that condition aren't quite the same as a rule. A callus on the hand isn't so painful because it isn't hemmed into the flesh. Or if it is a bit painful, you have a better grip so the callus doesn't bear down into the flesh underneath.

On the foot, however, you can't change your grip. Your foot stays in practically the same position inside the shoe, within limits of a few degrees at most. The pressure comes repeatedly on exactly the same point. If you walk five miles a day you step on each foot nearly 5,000 times. Pressure always in the same place.

Or even if you mostly stand still, the pressure is there.

Dear Dr. Mokner: My husband drinks five or six shots of whiskey before he eats his supper. In his case, he has a duodenal ulcer and belches a lot.

Certainly it's harmful, and your husband doesn't need me to tell him so. His ulcer is telling him. Let him read this column. Evidently he's one of those people who have to learn the hard way. I'm sorry.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of our great Canadian universities should frankly set up a total outdoor set up a post graduate school for the benefit of politicians.

After two or three year course following the scholars' graduation from the normal four courses, the successful politician would be put in a special school for politicians would confer, on graduation, a degree setting for themselves as complete as Ghandi's, sworn to be with the delegation of economics required of political issue. Ovaltoy of the Mind would be handed of the lunatics would be a major subject. No fact sacred to the politician's equipment would be overlooked.

Third, if the examination is devised so that shows aren't rigged by fitting the fool, get new ones, there's sometimes more to proper fit than getting shoes long enough and wide enough. Much suppose or other modifications may be needed.

Believe me, some defect in the arch or structure can throw the foot into a position that isn't natural — except that it keeps the foot from distributing the weight properly, and the result is a callus where the weight is concentrated.

Floors, whether wood, cement or other material, don't make any great amount of difference. The conditions are such to create a callus, getting rid of the callus means only that a new one will form. That's why trimming, paring, or medication are at best temporary. You've got to get rid of the pressure (the cause) before you are permanently rid of a callus.

Home remedies, for that matter, are usually nearly useless. Better a bill for examination by your doctor or by a podiatrist, and perhaps different shoes, than continued torture of the feet.

Dear Dr. Mokner: Please send me "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids." I enclose 2 cents in coin and a long, unstamped envelope. Are hemorrhoids the same as piles? — Mrs. W.

Yes, exactly the same thing.

Dear Dr. Mokner: My husband drinks five or six shots of whiskey before he eats his supper. In his case, he has a duodenal ulcer and belches a lot.

Certainly it's harmful, and your husband doesn't need me to tell him so. His ulcer is telling him. Let him read this column. Evidently he's one of those people who have to learn the hard way. I'm sorry.

But hold! Do not think I am being comical.

Into this post-graduate course as a great many even junior university would be admitted only by a test of scholarship. Not scholars, the first requisite being character! The second, a course, not total as they required of seminaries for a priesthood. Third, a degree is nothing for themselves as complete as Ghandi's, sworn to be with the delegation of economics required of political issue. Ovaltoy of the Mind would be handed of the lunatics would be a major subject. No fact sacred to the politician's equipment would be overlooked.

JUST WHAT YOU CAN

You never will be held responsible for what you are unable to do.

But you are going to miss out in a large portion of happiness if you fail to develop the talents you have, and which, if used, will strike the right road.

It's doing what you can right now, without waiting for somebody to suggest to you what to do, that develops you most and make you strong.

You don't wait around, that's all:

City Can Be Proud of Work In Red Cross Members Told By Ont. Division President

By LORRAINE REID

"Belleville may well be proud of its contribution to Red Cross," remarked John A. Tuer, Belleville, president of the Ontario Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society, when he addressed the 64th annual meeting of the local Red Cross branch held last evening at St. Thomas' Parish House.

"The work of humanity can never be measured by the yardstick of dollars and cents" he said. "But we know that since the outbreak of the Second World War, and, through that conflict up to the end of 1961, the Red Cross in Canada has administered more than $200,000,000. The Belleville branch received its charter in 1918 and since that time has contributed many thousands of dollars toward the work of Red Cross and countless volunteers have provided such services to the community as home-nursing, homemaker service, loan cupboard, individual emergency aid, health work, volunteer nursing, hospital visiting, assistance to veterans and their dependants, blood transfusion service, water and first aid."

"Philosophy just as much as religion and politics is a very personal matter. Whatever beliefs or ideas prevail, each one of us has our own interpretation as it affects our own personal being. We experience only through our own senses, and by our sense of others. We have our own mind not the minds of others. Hence the reason why mistrust can enter into our existence, mistrust, because we don't see and hear and know whether any given word or thought means precisely the same thing to one individual as it means to us." Mr. Partridge continued. Consequently this problem is not too critical in our every day lives because most of us have been brought up to our standards of normality. But, in the field of international relations this problem is a major concern because of differences in language, cultures and traditions."

DEVELOP IDEALS

"A man once said, "To accuse a destiny blames it, to help it with one another in really charitable undertakings that one may find and benefit from the successful achievements of others in the sphere of human welfare" Red Cross is an organization which is dedicated to the principle of the community, their nation and the world. Where there is a need, there is Red Cross.

"One organization admirably suited to channel our youth in this direction is the Canadian Junior Red Cross, an in-school movement, sponsored by the Provincial Departments of Education. "The ideals embodied in this movement are fundamental to the promotion of good health, service to others and the development of true national friendship and understanding leading to world-wide development of citizenship.

MANY PROJECTS

"Red Cross societies undertake many commendable projects to help young people less fortunate than themselves. Having piled boy across the street, the blind girls on the other side of the street, the hungry child in other side of the world, no matter where the need exists Red Cross gives help without the petty restrictions of race, colour, creed or politics," Mr. Tuer he said.

In closing, Mr. Partridge stated, "The work of the Red Cross is never ended, one never ends, for as long as there are wars and strife, and when it is quiet and still and all the hell breaks the storm, but eventually the natural catastrophe occurs and finally it ends and one sits back to wait for the next one. Ladies and gentlemen are part of this Red Cross story from the individual of the family to the family of the national, to international, and I am sure that with your continued support, Red Cross will be equal to any task that lies ahead."

Mr. Partridge was born in Toronto and received his education at an early age. He was educated in Kingston schools and received his B.A. and Associate Scientist's degree from Queen's University. He is a partner in the firm pf Matthews, Partridge and Company, Chartered Accountants. During the Second World War he served with the RCNVR. He is married to Betty Ingaqui Golf and Country Club and the Kingston Yacht Club. He is a former rector's warden of St. George's Cathedral in Kingston.

ELECTED SECOND TERM

The president of the Belleville branch, Newton Thompson, who has been elected to serve a second term opened business session of the meeting. In reviewing the past year Mr. Thompson reported that the branch had a successful and active year in its endeavor to render assistance to needy people in the area.

Funds for the Branch were raised with the efforts of the United Appeal. He hoped to receive continued interest from Balaws, Tweed, Madoc, Stirling and possibly Trenton. He gave special thanks to Miss Hazel Alexander, secretary, for her assistance and to all the Red Cross members who had helped him during the past year.

Mr. William MacKenzie, treasurer, gave the financial statement.

REPORT GIVEN

Mrs. Allen H. Ketcheson reported on the Homemaker Service. "The main contention is the expansion of this service and a staff meeting for Homemaker and Nurses' Service Act passed by the Ontario Legislature in 1960 is their aim. They are now 13 Homemakers who assisted 67 families. Those receiving for 572 children and 20 senior citizens. The income for people were looked after by one Homemaker. Of these 67 families 49 were mothers or children, 31 were for citizens and 7 disaster. Of the cases were paid in-full by the welfare department, 18 were in addition to pay full fee of $44.50 were 223; 16 paid $35.00; 2 paid $30.00; 1 paid $2.00, 5 paid no fee at all.

Eleven educational meetings were held, including summer picnics and Christmas party.

Mrs. Ketcheson also reported on the Individual Emergency Aid. Aid given this past year included: food for family awaiting insurance; cost of a dependent—unemployed father; bedding in home with six children; clothing for Trenton men, treatments with ear trouble were assisted; medicine and clothing for two families in Deseronto and food for senior citizens.

BLOOD DONOR REPORT

The Blood Donor Committee report was given by Mr. A. S. Lewis. The quota for 1941 was raised to 1,800 bottles because of the increase in population, including the annexed area. In an attempt to reach this quota five public clinics and one industrial clinic were held. The six clinics produced 1,137 bottles of blood and 30 additional bottles of serum types were donated for emergency operations at the hospital for a total of 1,167 bottles. Local citizens provided 61 per cent of the blood required by the Belleville General Hospital.

139 BOTTLES COLLECTED

In March a clinic was held in Madoc and 139 bottles were collected. In August a clinic was held at Tweed and 163 bottles collected. Stirling still remains to be organized. Through the assistance of the Belleville Board of Commerce we were able late in November and early in December to get 15 major Industrial firms and six Trade and Commerce firms to agree to let their employees attend future clinics on company time and at company expense. Thank you.

Expert Predicts Mixed Prices For Cattle, Lower Hog Prices, Increased Dairy Production

TORONTO (CP)—A leading agricultural expert predicts that Ontario farmers will likely find mixed prices for cattle in 1962, lower hog prices and increased dairy production.

The estimates were made Thursday by W. P. Watson, recently - appointed chief of production and extension for the Ontario agriculture department in a general review of farm prospects for the annual meeting of the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association.

He found that cattle marketings this year are likely to exceed those in 1961, which would probably mean lower prices by the last part of the year.

He added that, barring another dry season in Western Canada's cattle - producing areas, feeder cattle prices are likely to be fairly strong in the fall of 1962."

DISCUSSES HOGS

Noting that hog prices held surprisingly steady last fall in the face of adverse predictions, Mr. Watson said recent surveys indicate hog marketings in the first few months of 1962 may be up to 10 per cent higher than last year's rate, slowing down later in the year. Prices are likely to "be lower than the 1961-30 figure which was established in the first year, Prices are likely to "be lower than the 1961-30 figure which was established in the first year, Prices are likely to "be lower than the 1961-30 figure which was established in the first year,

St. Charles CWL Plans Valentine Party

The January meeting of St. Charles Barracks C.W.L. Branch was held after Mass on January 21st. Secretary and treasurer's reports were read by the president, Mrs. Joe Shannon, thanked the ladies for their help in making the social evenings successful.

The next discussion was given on "A Day of Recollection" held in Kingston at St. John's parish on Saturday, January 20. It was decided that it would be a year-ly event.

The members are urged to have used stamps and rosaries for the missions, also a meat packer's labels to obtain prizes for their parish. They are requested to turn them in as soon as possible.

It was decided to have an exchange day for used clothing. A Valentine party is being held on February 11th.

Congregational Meeting

FOXBORO UNITED CHURCH

FOXBORO — The annual congregational meeting of Foxboro United Church was held in the Sunday School room with the Rev. A. Poulter, minister, in charge. He opened the meeting by reading from the 80th Psalm, followed by prayer, and also at this time presented the congregation with a record of a sacred hymn for the church chimes, on behalf of Mrs. Poulter in memory of her mother, Mrs. George Weeden, a former member of the church and choir. The minutes of the 1961 annual meeting were read.

Reports were received from the following: Mrs. Earl Defoe for the W.M.S. and Mission Band; Mrs. C. Arthurs and Miss Toni Wall—Sunday School; Mrs. W. Thompson—C.G.I.T.; Mr. M. V. Walker—treasurer's report; Mr. Harold Elliott—M. and M.; Mrs. Cecil Arthurs — envelope steward.

The following officers were elected: Mr. J. V. Walker, elder for two years to fill the remaining term; Mr. Harold Elliott who is leaving the community; stewards for three years: C. H. Wilson, Morris Jamieson Harold Beatty, C. H. LaRue and W. Thompson; parsonage trustees: Reginald Scott, Gerald Dafoe, Cecil Arthurs, and Mrs. Earl Dafoe; Missionary and Maintenance treasurer, Reginald Scott; envelope stewards Mrs. Earl Dafoe; secretary, M. C. Reynolds; auditor, Mr. S. C. Gay. Missionary and Maintenance committee: Reginald Scott, Cecil Arthurs, Earl Dafoe and C. H. Wilson; music committee: S. C. Gay, C. H. Wilson Mrs. Rombough and Mrs. Stewart; press committee, Mrs. F. Frindle and Mrs. Cecil Arthurs.

It was moved that the congregation show its appreciation to Mrs. Harold Stewart and family for the two boneless racks placed in the church in memory of the late Mr. Harold Stewart.

Following a successful completion to the business, the meeting adjourned.

Two Brothers and Friend, 'All Presidents', Have Taken Slack Out of Women's Slacks

TORONTO (CP) — Sam Meister, his brother Alex and Milton Wallace are among those pioneers who have taken the slack out of women's slacks.

In the days before pants were tighter, Sam, 30, Alex, 48, and Milton, 35 have grown richer.

It all started in 1958 when, as Alex says:

"On lunch hours the three of us used to look around Spadina Avenue for a small place to start a business."

They found a place and "just to make the deal official we sat down at a restaurant table, shook hands and threw $2 in the pot as the first capital."

Now, says Sam, "we have annual sales of more than $1,000,000 and we're hoping for more next year."

The partners ("we're all presidents") used to do the cutting and bundling work in Sam's basement and press the finished product in a dry-cleaning plant for a fee.

TOO MANNISH

"Fate was on our side," Milton says. "Women were finding the pants they wore during the war were too roomy and they wanted a different cut. They wanted to be feminine."

The United States then had led the way in tight pants allowed the three beggars to manufacture and sell their product in Canada for a percentage of the profits.

Sam gazed at a girl modelling their product. She was standing in a hip - sprung position with her back to the camera.

"It's beautiful," he said. "It's our emblem."

The catalogue said she was wearing a garment in the pliquant shade of "cathedral window."

"You can tell from the name what the color is," says Milton.

They spend months figuring them out.

"Around them more than 100 employees were turning out samples of the 350,000 tight pants they produce annually in such colors as:

"French pastry, wet sand, Dardan flowers, chariot tracks, wine fields, starry nights, wheat flowers and stripping stripes."

TRY BIGGER SIZES

"You never see her face," Sam said of the model. "But I can tell you she's beautiful. And she gets $250 an hour for posing."

Milton explained his product's appeal.

"It's the long, lean, lithe, look. Women see the ad and say: 'I can look like that!'" So that they can't all "look like that" is shown in company records. They used to make sizes six to 16 in skin-tights. Then they added size 18. Now they're trying with sizes up to size 30 (waist 35, weight 180).

"There won't be many changes in the future. They're just going to get tighter and tighter," says Sam.

What of the future? This season the firm's line will include a Bikini.

"You won't see them on Bay Street," Alex says. "But you're going to see a lot at the resorts this year."

Neighbors Hold Social Evening

WEST HUNTINGDON — Friends and neighbors from here gathered the Gay family of Oak Lake on Saturday evening when they boarded their new home for a social evening with them. Mr. Goldie McIlravy was chairman for the program which consisted of community singing led by Mrs. William Dornan, who also rendered a solo and Mrs. Gerald Kirby gave a reading.

Stanley Prest, Ted Pollock and John Wallace each gave short interesting talks. Mrs. John Wallace read the special address and Mr. Gerald Kirby made the presentation of a purse of money, for which they voiced their appreciation. A pleasant reader of the evening was spent in a social manner and inspecting the new home.

W.M.S. Presbyterial Executive Hears Various Group Reports

The executive of the Belleville Presbyterial Women's Missionary Society of the United Church met at Foxboro United Church, on Monday to complete their business.

Mrs. H. M. Davis of Belleville conducted the opening devotions, taking as her theme, stewardship from the Bible text 1 Corinthians 4: 1 and 2. She dwelt on the many gifts, other than money, which are needed and which money cannot buy. Life is one, to use it as intended. Love is another, which is freely given. In John 3:29 "He that loveth not his brother whom he has seen; how can he love God whom he hath not seen. One should be thankful to give some product of her toil, some hour by the bed of a sick friend, some humble task in the church kitchen, some gift of leadership. It is a privilege to be a disciple of the Lord. She closed with the poem, in part, "God loaned me a life and I must pay Him back with a portion of each day."

Mrs. George Carlisle of Stirling, president, welcomed the ladies. Letters were read by Mrs. Priest of Foxboro who was executing secretary in the absence of Mrs. C. Alton. One was from Miss Kate Rutherford of Angola telling of her return to Angola after her furlough, that the work is still going on under much different conditions than when she left.

VARIOUS REPORTS

Mrs. R. G. Coulter of Belleville, treasurer, reported that there was $30,000 was handled during the past year and that about $150 will be used for GBA, projects of a Christian Education building at Norway House and child for basic living for orphans. Mrs. N. McKibbin who has been to the near east this past spring, commented on the fact that the Communists are handing out freely, plenty of attractive reading material everywhere and the church must increase giving in this way to counteract their propaganda.

The new allocation for the missionary and maintenance fund for 1962 under the new organization is a little higher than the 1961 amount, which is under W.M.S. alone.

A special word of thanks is due to Mr. Al Counsell of Brighton who has kindly audited the books of the Belleville Presbyterial for some years and by the amount handled, it has been a great help appreciated by the executive.

Mrs. Clarence Hicks of Wellington, C.G.I.T. secretary, declared in her report that there had been a great interest in affiliations of C.G.I.T. groups with the W.M.S.

Mrs. Don Williams of Belleville, secretary for Explorer groups, in her report for the Belleville Presbyterial Explorer groups had the highest givings in the Bay of Quinte Conference, with Wellington the highest, throughout the Conference. She told of the Explorer leaders group having only 32 members but the enthusiasm who carried on the full Explorer program and the monies raised were used to purchase books for the WMS below. Explorers will continue to have a mission study course and will continue to contribute through the M and S Fund.

Mrs. M. Clancy, Halloway, reported for Mission Bands secretary of Dunbannon and Mrs. Charles Johnson, Trenton, told of the Associate Members' activities. These are ladies who keep in touch with the WMS, contribute and support and thereby show their interest.

Miss Hettie Unger of Picton, candidate secretary, reported of presenting the need for full time workers in the church at many gatherings throughout the area. Mrs. Nesbit McKibbon, Conference Citizenship secretary, said that progress has been made and that reports show that literature on the various aspects of the work is being more widely and intelligently read. Mrs. W. D. Grant, community friendship secretary, said that visiting was the outstanding method of keeping in touch with those in homes, hospitals and nursing homes.

The ladies of the church served a delicious luncheon and Mrs. G. Stoneburg expressed the thanks of the executive for their warm welcome and the lunch.

Mrs. P. MacMullen of Stirling reported for literature, telling that there has been increased reading of advance reading material. More members are reading the bookshelf. She asked that each society spend one hour each Sunday to read. Mrs. Grant reported that study the work of the World Council of Churches. Mrs. MacMullen has also been secretary of the presbyterial or Conference over since church union in 1925. She closed her remarks by quoting, "Give us strength, O Lord, to build the city for which we dream".

Mrs. H. Pierson of Wellington, periodicals secretary, reported 287 subscriptions to the Missionary Monthly and 73 to World Friends had been handed in, in 1961. The observer magazine will now include four pages for the work of the new organization.

Mrs. Clarence May, supply secretary, reported that some 2000 pounds of clothing, bedding and layette had been sent, out. Mrs. G. Stoneburg, Wellington, press secretary, spoke of the interesting reports of the various newspapers throughout the Belleville area, and they are printed practically every item submitted. Without this report many items of interest would not hear of the work in which they are so interested.

BABY BAND REPORT

Miss Unger reported on behalf of the Baby Band secretary, Mrs. L. Bailey, Bailey-ville, Mount Pleasant, Stirling, has the smallest group with the largest receipts and givings and they are to be commended. The interesting report was Napanee with 185 enrolled. Mrs. Carlisle called on the various secretarial office-holders to report on their fall-ure. Mrs. L. Bailey, Belleville; Mrs. K. Bray, Ivanhoe; Mrs. R. Vennest, Enterprise and Mrs. Ward, Wark, Ameliasburg.

Mrs. Clarence Holmes, of Belleville, commented the past president, in her report of the executive spoke of the inspirational meeting at Rockwood Academy. Mrs. Carlisle had given during her term of office. Mrs. Carlisle subsequently replied and presented each member with a Life Membership Pin.

She chose as her closing words from 1 Corinthians, chapter 16, verse 1, "Stand fast in the love your sin."

The members were reminded of the Inaugural Service of the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch of the United Church Women to be held in Tabernacle United Church, January 31st, commencing at 9 a.m.

Controlling Harmful Insects By Biological Means' Address Given at University W. Club

The first meeting in the new year of the University Women's Club was a "to the point" interesting one. During the business meeting the following new members were introduced: Mrs. Ralph Allen, Kingston; Mrs. Leonard Wennamaker, Mrs. Alden Morgan, Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Ray Rose.

The hostess served refreshments and Mrs. Rose Bush voiced appreciative thanks for the hospitality.

Members responded. Mrs. McArthur introduced Dr. R. P. Beirne, director of the Entomological Research Institute, Biological Control of the Federal Department of Agriculture. His distinguished career includes the attainment of five degrees from Trinity College of the University of Dublin and the publication of over 100 biological "papers".

To begin his explanation of the work of the Entomological Research Institute, he explained that the whole institute is centred around the 30 men, the 30 scientists, who are responsible for the discovery of new pests from the Belleville centre.

TYPICAL SCIENTIST

Because the scientist is so important, Dr. Beirne drew a character sketch of the popular view of the tropical scientist. This sketch included the following comment: The scientist is content with a modest income, perhaps because he is more interested in seeking truth than wealth. He is a dreamer, who exhibits little emotion and is basically uninterested in people. He ranks 15th in a list of professionals as far as "sociability" is concerned.

The real scientist, of psychologists have found him, is above the average in intelligence, tends to turn disorder to order; is involved with ideas rather than people; is independent; is not prone to conform; is subject to group standards, and is individualistic.

Of 70 research centres in Canada, nine are Institutes. The function of these Institutes is to carry on basic research, that is the discovery of principles which do not necessarily have any practical value. The other 61 centres use this basic knowledge to solve particular problems.

The basic research in the Belleville Institute deals with the controlling of harmful insects by biological means. Dr. Beirne commented that the word "spray" is a dirty word in the Institute as chemical control is only resorted to when the present condition but does not cure as biological control does.

BIOLOGICAL CONTROL

The work of biological control involves three facets: making a survey in the native country for a pest to attack one here; the growing of plants for benefit of insects and; discovery by implementation of a disease organism as a spray, causing a high mortality and consequently the death of the pest.

In addition to experimenting, the Belleville Institute carries on service work involving the identification and handling of all insects that are brought into Canada from abroad. Here these insects are first studied and then examined. If they are sent to other labs where they are studied further and released, in the case in this country, they are released within 100 miles of Belleville. However, in the past 30 years one billion have been released in Canada and all these have originated from Belleville.

BASIC RESEARCH

Now basic research is the main job of the Belleville Research Institute, said Dr. Beirne. The lab is in close cooperation with international agencies, in particular, with the U.S., to overcome any duplication in experimenting. The chief difficulty with biological control is that there is no public opinion. The length of time and the lack of spectacle associated with successful pest control tend to decrease the notice taken of it by the public.

After several questions, Dr. Beirne was thanked by Miss Nell Merry.

The meeting was concluded by the serving of refreshments.

GIRL SKIERS

MONTREAL (CP) — A ski club for girls aged 12 to 18, which had a registration of 40 on its founding in 1957, now has a membership of 471. The "Ski Jays" offers ski tests, racing coaching and an annual week's training camp to every calibre of skier.

Readers' Friday Column

by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

Do you have a good recipe for caramel pie? I have tried several different ones but none of them seem to have a very pronounced caramel flavor. Recently I had lunch in a home at which the hostess served a delicious meat loaf. It contained a dressing similar to a chicken dressing and I think the meat used was ground pork. There seemed to be tomatoes through it although I got the impression it had been poured over the top and allowed to trickle down through the meat. I have tried to make a loaf as much like it as I could but it still does not taste the same and also it was quite heavy and solid in texture. The loaf I ate at the luncheon was very light — not at all packed down. My husband was quite taken with this particular dish the day it was served and has come to my rescue often. Mrs. D. J. H.

Dinner Menu

FRIDAY

Sole Fillets with Mustard Mayonnaise Marinade; Scalloped Potatoes; Baked Carrots (see Wednesday); Celery Hearts; Baked Custard; Lemon Buttermilk Doughnuts (see Thursday); Coffee.

ANSWER:

CARAMEL (BUTTERSCOTCH) MERINGUE PIE:

4 tablespoons soft butter, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, ½ cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 cups scalded milk, 3 egg yolks, ½ while (save for meringue), 3 egg whites, 4 tablespoons sugar.

In top of double boiler mix together butter, cornstarch, brown sugar and salt until blended. Place over boiling water and stir until thick. Cover and cook while you make the Caramel: Heat the ½ cup white sugar in heavy frying pan until melted and golden brown. Add to cooked cream mixture and stir until caramel melts and is blended in. Pour some of this over 3 beaten egg yolks, stirring. Return to double boiler and cook, stirring, for 2 or 3 minutes. Pour into baked pie shell. Cover hot filling all over with meringue made by beating together 3 egg whites and 4 tablespoons sugar until stiff. Bake at about 350 or 400 deg. Fahr. until meringue is lightly browned.

STUFFED MEAT LOAF:

2 lbs. ground meat (2) 8-inch check beef and fresh pork; 2 eggs, beaten; 2 tablespoons ½ cup ground onion, 1 tablespoon green pepper chopped fine, 1 cup soft breadcrumbs, ½ cup canned tomatoes, 1 large egg, 1½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

If you are grinding the meat in your meat grinder at home grind the onion and green pepper first and then the rest. If not, grind or chop onion and green pepper very fine and add to ground meat. Add crumbs, tomatoes, egg, salt and pepper. Pack half into greased loaf pan and cover with Stuffing. To make soft breadcrumbs, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon grated onion, ½ teaspoon thyme, ¾ teaspoon salt, shake of pepper, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley. Saute onion and thyme in butter until soft; add to crumbs and brown. Add to all remaining ingredients. When meat is spread over top of the meat, cover with remaining meat mixture. Do not pack. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 1 to 1¼ hours.

Christain Youth Week Will Be Observed Here

Editor's Note: The following article was written by Marion A. Smith, secretary of the Pioneer Club at the Belleville Collegiate.

Youth — an unpleasant word to some unpleasant experience. It is also the key to a better world. The youth of today must take the responsibility of tomorrow. Christian Youth Week (January 28 to February 4, 1962) is an attempt to make the leaders in the community, the adults, see this kind of world there may be in the future, a world led by their children. There is strong feeling that the need for a world of Christian Youth will be answered to the fore during Christian Youth Week.

The purpose of this week are: (1) To provide special opportunities for Christian boys-girls and young people to experience wider Christian fellowship, (2) To confront the youth of the community with the claims of Jesus Christ as Saviour and the Lord of all and bring them into contact with the life and work of the Church, (3) To interest youth in the church, and of the community in church-centered activities, (4) To acquaint adults of the church, and of the community, with the church's task, youth program and arouse their interest and support, (5) To demonstrate by deed and satisfaction that comes from faith in Christ, membership in His Church, and a life of active service in His Kingdom.

The significance of Christian Youth Week is in the name itself — Christian Youth. The young people of today's society are one mill following one leader, Christ. Christian Youth is indeed a fellowship — young people working together to help others and thus themselves to a better and fuller understanding of Jesus Christ.

By having this week the youth of the community are made aware of their Saviour, are made aware that He is not just the Lord of adults and small children but of teen-agers, are made aware that He is very important to them, the people they must do His work and spread His love.

Young people always have a need for the interest and support of the adult world. Encouragement of youth participation in church activities by the adults of the community creates a bond between adults and adolescents who seem so often to be drawing away from each other. Participation by youth in church-sponsored activities is a better means of first step towards a better understanding of Christian life and also a better understanding of their parents and other adults. The struggle of the world and of the community lies in the communication between people. Christian Youth Week is an expression of hope for this.

The theme for Christian Youth Week is perhaps most important of all: "Joy and satisfaction coming from faith in Christ as the stepping-stone to a life of service for Him." This theme does not mean that all must become His word and enter the missionary field. Active service consists in living as much as possible the life of Christ. He did in drawing closer to Him we grow for others.

During Christian Youth Week several youth groups will meet in their own churches and be guests of other young people in the church. The Pioneer Club will be next Monday. There will be announcements on CJBQ as the early evening several days of the week concerning youth activities. All the young people of the community are invited to a Fireside Hop at Bridge Street A.M.E. Church on Saturday, February 3.

Women's Activities

WHITE'S D.C.W.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

Mrs. W. A. Jeffery opened her home on Thursday afternoon for the first meeting of White's United Church Women, when Mrs. E. Townsend presided. Mrs. Walker Jones read Psalm 95: 1-7, and Ivy Scripture, Romans 3.

Charver member cards were given to all members who paid their dues and a new membership list was made. It was decided to order offering envelopes from the Church Women's handbook. All the members are united in the "Every Member Canvass," to enter into covenant," followed by prayer by Mrs. Townsend.

Mrs. Bilham offered her home for the next meeting on February 15th, with a potluck dinner at seven with a nominal charge. Mrs. Albert Jones will be devotional leader and Mrs. Walter Jones program convener.

Mrs. Townsend made a $2 donation and Mrs. Townsend a $10 donation toward the education for missions. Mrs. Walter Jones took over as card convener and will also be 1st vice-president.

Mrs. Jermyn Palmer read a message from Mrs. Hutchinson, president of Christian education. Mrs. George Bilham and Mrs. Albert Jones sang a duet, "Only As I Do Lord As We Our Servants Meet." Mrs. Palmer read "Today is Ours" and to inaugurate the United Church Women.

Mrs. Townsend gave a message, "The Old and the New." The offering was taken by the stewardship of the month.

The hostess served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

MINTO U.C.W.

MINTO—The first meeting of the "United Church Women", Salem Church, was held in the hall on Thursday of last week with a splendid attendance. A pot-luck dinner was served at noon and a quilt quilted for Mrs. George Sine.

At 2 p.m. the president, Mrs. Heagle, opened the meeting with an appropriate verse, and a hymn after which she welcomed everyone and expressed appreciation to all for co-operation during the past year.

Roll call was answered with the payment of dues.

Mrs. B. Heagle and Mrs. E. Chesworth volunteered to act as visiting committees for the month.

Several "thank you" notes were read and thanks expressed for remembrances and kindness during Christmas.

The president announced the collection for the year would be $110.

Mrs. Everett Sine moved a vote of thanks to the retiring secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Stan Thompson and Mrs. Lorne Sine, for their efficient interest and work in their respective capacities.

Mrs. Stan Thompson took charge of the meeting. Mrs. George Sine read the Scripture lesson with Mrs. Heagle giving the meditation. Mrs. Lorne Sine led in prayer. Readings were given by Mrs. Everett Sine, Mrs. Stanley Tanner, Mrs. Mowat Sine, Mrs. Lorne Hagerman and Mrs. Harold Holden.

PREPERS HAY

WALSALL, England (CP)—Anne Cox gets plenty of marriage proposals, but she prefers hay. Her boy friend—a 22-year-old beauty queen hires herself out by the week for $14 a week, chaperoned by her mother in return for food for 31 unwanted horses she looks after. She says the scheme is going quite well, although there tend to be more proposals than hay.

Lions Club Sponsors Ladies' Night

DESERONTO — On Monday night the Deseronto Lions Club entertained at "Ladies' Night" at Dawson's Hotel. Some 40 club members and ladies were in attendance to enjoy a delightful evening and the entertainment which followed.

The occasion was also the official visit of the district Governor, Brent Richard, Newmarket. Lion Richard was also Deputy District Governor. Ed Loucks of Frankford, and Zone Chairman Jack Scott, Belleville were also present.

Immediately following the dinner the district governor spoke briefly on the meaning of "Lionism" and referred to the important part played by the Ladies' Aux. who supported their husbands in the efforts of the Lions Clubs.

His talk was entertaining and much enjoyed by all present.

TOAST

The toast to the ladies was given by Peter Morris and responded to by Mrs. William Cassidy. The other toasts for the evening, in the absence of President Harry Cassidy, was Lion Gerald Lott, who ably handled his obligation.

During the evening prizes were awarded to Mrs. Richard, Mrs. Loucks, Mrs. William Houle, Mrs. Russ Nesbitt and Mrs. J. McVicker.

The convening of the Nepanee Lions was also present and added greatly to the convivial spirit of the evening.

Mrs. Shirley Sexsmith of Napanee presented several vocal selections for the entertainment of the evening and was followed by a display by a number of pupils from the Brenda Rock Dancing School in Belleville. The entire evening was enjoyable and the only complaint made was that such gatherings should be more often.

Cannifton E.G. U.C.W. Elects 1962 Officers

The evening group of Cannifton United Church Women met on Monday evening in Cannifton United Church, with president Mrs. Barbara Smith, presiding, who opened with an appropriate New Year's message.

The committees were given as follows: program secretary — Vera Mitchell; Christian education and missionary — Helen Holgate; community friendship and visiting — Mrs. Ethel Bedford and Barbara Smith; flowers and cards — Jay Putman; press and publicity — Mrs. Ethel Bedford; membership and recording — Doris Pollard, conductress — Vera Milton; pianist — Jay Putman.

The program was conducted by Mrs. Barbara Smith and Walker and Helen Holgate. Scripture reading was taken from I Corinthians 12:27 and 13:8 read by Helen Holgate.

The devotional was in charge of the worship portion, with the theme, "What is the Church?"

Lunch was served, following the meeting.

Previous to the above meeting, an initial meeting was held at the parsonage for the purpose of installing the officers which were elected: president — Babs Smith; 1st. vice-president — Alice Day; 2nd. vice-president — Phyllis Parks; recording and corresponding secretary — Doris Pound; assistant — Shirley Walker and treasurer — Gladys Brenton.

It was also decided on this time to meet on the 4th Monday of each month, at 4.30 p.m.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mr. G.S. — I'd like him to attend the university. I went to.

Mrs. G.S. — He's too large and too "rah-rah" for me.

Mr. G.S. — Rot!

Mrs. G.S. — Rot's application to three colleges are all in and he's been accepted at two of them. Since we must make a final choice and mail it within a few weeks, we're arguing all our heads off.

I know he'd be happy in the large university. I attended. Objectively, I had to leave after two years because my funds ran out. But I came away from the whole four-years for Rod. It's a big city, with every sort of stimulation right at tap — museums, theatres, a stock exchange, bus-car-subway fares on what interests him most, and walk right into a good job.

The key holding-out for a small rural school in a world-is-stop town. Besides being twice as expensive, the college itself isolates kids from reality. He'll just run them.

Rod S. — The more I hear about Rod's inability, the more certain I am that it's not the college. I've been asked for a few subjects that interest me, and study them slowly and carefully. I can read faster and cover a wide range just for the sake of reading. I guess I'm the quiet type and I will come a chance to get to a quieter college after four years in a 3,000-student high school. The college I'm applying to accept has enrollment of only 400.

There's something appealing in the idea of being a big fish in a small sea. Up to now I've always been a little fish, usually swallowed up, in a big ocean. With so few students, and with the professor's eyes on time to spend with me, I'd really learn something and get a head. As for money, I'd try for campus jobs and a grant.

The Council: Well, choosing a college is quite as momentous as choosing a wife and, when a mistake is made, transfers are more easily executed in a divorces. So, for the nonce, we'll write with Rod.

He's in error on one small point, however. He can study slowly and carefully anywhere, for that sort of intensive application depends upon the student, not the college. And the big city university may have a slight edge on the small one because of its vast library and in-depth facilities.

But, in general, Rod may get more out of membership in a smaller, friendly community. He'll get more out of membership in a community where he can read the school to the person not to the person of unbridled dream. The self-reliant, confident, extrovert is real along loyally on a metropolitan campus, 20,000 strong.

And the fellow who wonders, who holds back timidly — the real thinker, perhaps — Rod can be drawn into the swim and heard more clearly in the small college community.

Instead of plumping so wholeheartedly for college attendance, Mr. S. might help Rod explore other possibilities which offer just as much value, as non-competitive scholastic atmosphere, but at lower cost. There are, for example, a group of co-operative colleges (such as Antioch, Yellow Springs, Ohio) where studies alternate with real jobs, the income from which lightens the expense load. Also, a free booklet, "1962 College Costs," can be obtained from the Life Insurance Agency Office, Hartford, Conn. It lists prices at 960 colleges. Some consider applications all year round.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

Certain courtesies should be observed when making and receiving telephone calls. Test yourself on the following situations, how would you handle them?

1. Suppose you're calling a friend to invite her to tea. She's not home. Do you leave no answers. Would you (a) ask her to have her mother call you or (b) she grown-up enough to ask when her mother will be home, and then call back then?

2. When making a social call to a person you know only slightly would you identify yourself as (a) Mary Smith or (b) Mrs. John Smith?

You want to make sure you're perfectly correct when answering the phone, yourself, at home. Would you (a) answer, saying "Hello" and cover receiver, or (b) simply say "hello"?

Unfortunately, you call a friend who seems to be busy. Would you (a) offer to call back at a more convenient time; or (b) deliver your message as briefly as possible and hang up?

5. On the other hand, if someone called you when you were in the midst of a hurry-up chore would you (a) ask if you could call back when you're finished or (b) ask the caller to hang on while you completed the task?

6. You're calling a close friend and should recognize your voice. Would you say (a) "Hi" then launch into your message or (b) "Hello, Alice."

"This is Mary?"

7. A late office problem comes up and you have to call your boss at home. He hasn't arrived yet. Would you (a) identify yourself and ask if he is ill or (b) ask the caller to hang on while you completed the task?

You Can Speed Up Your Reading

By JACK HUTTON

The scene: the back room where the student of the house sits with a pained expression over the pile of homework he's been assigned to read overnight.

Suddenly he pushes back his chair.

"Just can't do it," he says. "I just can't seem to get through this stuff fast enough and nothing's staking in: "I'll never catch up.

How many young Canadians, I wonder, find slow reading a problem? If the guesses of our best educators are any measure, this handicap will keep thousands of young people from progressing far past their first job.

Most Canadian universities, for example, find that a large number of freshmen need help in reading. Somewhere along the way something frees in the reading process.

Just for interest (and without being too personal, I hope) how fast do YOU read? And did you know that just a bit of practice can add perhaps 100 words a minute to your speed?

Time yourself and see where you fit into these average Canadian reading levels: college graduate, 325 to 350 words a minute; high school graduate, 295 to 325; Grade 8, 245 to 295; Grades 6 and 7, 183 to 249; Grades 4 and 5, 145 to 174.

If your speed is slow, you've nothing to be ashamed of. Remember, no matter which level you found yourself to be in, you can improve—and the sky's the limit.

President Kennedy, for example, claims to read his mail at the unheard of speed of 1,200 words a minute. Winston Churchill once could read a book as fast as he could turn the pages, and former U.S. president Theodore Roosevelt used to read three books a day.

What slows you down? Well, do you read words or do you read sentences? If you concentrate on each word, you'll probably find that you have to start a paragraph all over again to understand it.

The trick is to try pushing yourself a bit faster than you think you can handle. A real speed-reader grasps whole paragraphs. Instead of words, try concentrating on MEANING.

We all find it difficult to change comfortable ways of doing things. But, believe me, it's much easier to try changing now. The average adult, for example, stops 20 times on a page and backtracks 11 times while reading 100 words.

This is the fault which the experts call "sub-vocalizing" or trying to say each word to oneself. If you're trying to improve (and I hope you are already), you tried grasping whole groups of words in this paragraph.

What is the average reading speed in Canada? Well, the plain truth is that the average Canadian adult reads on about the same level as a Grade 6 or 7 student. Both read between 193 and 249 words a minute.

Where does this leave you? If you're a fast reader, I'd say you have a powerful tool which you should start sharpening right now. If you're slow, there's no time like the present to start improving.

Just try pushing yourself for one week, then time yourself again. (Don't forget that you'll probably read homework more slowly than a mystery novel). I think you'll surprise yourself.

THE LETTER GAME

Several friends have written to ask help in deciphering letter codes which they found on the back of envelopes addressed to them.

This one comes from two friends in Petrolia, Ont.—TIDKWSWAKFMM. Can anyone offer a solution? And this code popped up in Dartmouth, N.S.—HIABKPIASLF.

My own guess on the second one would be Help I Am Being Kept Prisoner In A School Lunch Factory, but surely that must be wrong. Can anyone gives us the correct version?

BACK TO SMUDGES

How many of you figured out the question we asked last week? It involved three men sitting on a train as it went into a tunnel. When the train came back to daylight, each had a smudge on his forehead.

A passing stranger asked each man to put up his right hand if he could see a smudge on another forehead. Each one did, of course. He then asked if any one of them was smart enough to figure out whether he had a smudge or not. All looked thoughtful at each other.

After a brief pause, one of the travellers announced firmly that he had a smudge. The trick is to figure out how this chap—call him Mr. A—knew he was marked.

Well, his reasoning went this way: "Either I have a smudge or I don't have one. Assuming that I don't have one, B and C would both have their hands up because the other one was marked."

"They would know I didn't have a smudge, so they'd know the other fellow must have seen a smudge on them. But since they haven't come to that conclusion I must be marked."

This story, which pops up in a variety of forms, is probably the grand-daddy of all the logic puzzles. Memorize it now and you'll be astounding friends with your brilliance for the rest of your life!

Rousseau Headed For Top

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens think they've come up with a little man who is destined to make it big in the National Hockey League.

He is Bobby Rousseau, 21, a tricky right winger who can also play centre and guards defensively.

Rousseau has played in only 60 NHL games — 13 in 1960-61 and 47 this season—but Montreal coach Toe Blake says he's already performing with the poise of a veteran.

"He seems to do everything right," Blake said in an interview. "He has been a standout at killing penalties and recently has come through with important goals."

Rousseau was relegated mostly to a penalty - killing role early in the season and scored only two goals in Montreal's first 21 games. But Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion hurt his knee Dec. 26 and Rousseau was inserted on a line with Jean Beliveau and Gilles Tremblay.

He now has 12 goals and was the leader in mid - season balloting for the NHL rookie-of-the-year award.

New Track Gets Dates

TORONTO (CP) — Magistrate Tuppe Bigelow, chairman of the Ontario Racing Commission, said Thursday night the commission has granted 70 nights of harness racing next fall for a proposed new $3,500,000 track near Ottawa.

Magistrate Bigelow said it was the first time a track has been granted racing dates before it had been built. Work on the Rideau Carleton Raceway is planned to start in March.

Magistrate Bigelow said he understands the dates for the proposed track—Sept. 1 to Dec. 5—conflict with the racing season planned for Connaught Park in Aylmer, Que., near Hull. But the ORC could not concern itself with tracks outside the province.

Benched Player Hurls Stick

'He Throws, He Scores'!

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Never let it be said that Wayne Rutledge, goaltender for Niagara Falls Flyers, doesn't keep his mind on the job.

Last night at Hamilton he was sitting on the bench in the dying minutes of the game as the Flyers, down by a goal, sought to pull out a tie with the Red Wings. When Hamilton captain Howie Menard threatened to get into the clear, Rutledge threw his stick in frustration.

Menard didn't score on the play but was awarded the goal anyway. It gave the Wings a 5-3 victory and preserved their two-point lead over Montreal Canadiens in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

The Canadiens whippeders.

Hockey Fan Hurls Lead

This Was a Real Sinker!

NEW YORK (AP)—The deteris that often cascades to the ice during a National Hockey League game has caused growing concern among New York Rangers' officials after an incident in which someone hurled a piece of lead onto the rink.

In the closing minutes of Wednesday night's 3-0 loss to Detroit Red Wings, a brown paper bag hurtled toward the ice and landed with a thud. It went unnoticed at first, but later inspection disclosed a piece of lead about a half-foot long.

"Just look at this," said a bewildered Jack Adams, general manager of the Wings as he showed the lead in the Rangers' office after the game.

"It just missed Bill Gadsby. If it had hit him it would have killed him."

Gadsby, a former Ranger, said: "It just missed me. It landed between me and Matt Pavelich (a linesman). He couldn't believe it. I thought it was just a bag with maybe fruit in it until I noticed the weight."

WORSE IN WINDY CITY

Adams also showed the lead to Carl Voss, the NHL's referee-in-chief, who said:

"You should see what we get in Chicago. Pool balls and those shuffleboard discs. They're worse."

Ranger general manager Muzz Patrick recalled that years ago an occasional billiard ball had bounded off the ice. Beer bottles were tossed until all drank, were ordered served in paper cups. A few years ago egg bombardments were thought chic.

Patrick said that at the time the egg bombardment was the fad, "we had to frisk the people in the balcony."

"And it seemed to work. We get an occasional egg now but nothing like it used to be. Maybe we'll have to frisk everybody again."

Less dangerous but more startling is the periodic contribution of fish to the ice surface in Adams' home territory, Detroit Olympia — a dead baby octopus.

Barons Like Al Cullen

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League announced Thursday that goaltender Al Cullen, 30, will rejoin the club for two games during the weekend.

Cullen, who plays for Woodstock Athletics of the Ontario Hockey Association senior series, will substitute for Les Binkley against Buffalo here Saturday night and at Providence Sunday.

Called to the Bagons about three weeks ago after Binkley suffered a sprained ankle, Cullen helped the club win five straight games, posting three shutouts. He was relieved last week after it was thought Binkley would be able to return to action this weekend.

Coach Jack Gordon said Binkley's ankle is still bothering him.

Kidd, plagued with blisters this track season, has discovered that his track shoes are half a size too small.

He'll be wearing Size 9 footgear in the three-mile event in Winnipeg's International meet of champions Saturday night.

Bulldogs Lead Race

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Centre Irwin Gross of Windsor Bulldogs is being chased by his own wingers in the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior scoring race.

Gross, who has 56 points, is followed by right winger Bob Brown, with 50, and left winger Tommy Walker, with 49.

George Aitken of Chatham Maroons and Don Emms of Strathroy Rockets are tied for fourth place with 48 points.

Brown scored three goals during the last week to become top goal-getter with Mr. Aitken and Jack Costello of the Bulldogs each have 25.

Bost Hurley of Galt Terriers allowed nine goals in his last two games, but still leads netminders with a goals - against average of 3.07, Ross Childs of Windsor, who gave up four goals in two games, follows with 3.18.

Western Hockey

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Calgary left - winger Bert Pizzell knocked in the overtime goal Thursday night to give the Stampeders a 4-3 victory over Los Angeles Blades before 9,531 Western Hockey League spectators.

Lou Jankowski with two and Gord Vejprava scored Calgary's other goals. The blades' tallies came from Bruce Carmichael, Wally Hergesheimer and Jean Marc Picard.

Sandy Stephens Signed By Alouettes

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The published report of the 1961 Arena Commission revealed an almost budget-level deficit of some $11,000. This, I believe, is somewhat less than that of the year previous.

In this department's humble opinion, the 1961 commission did an excellent job. I think Chairman Ald. Don Whalen et al are to be complimented.

In the first place it selected an efficient manager in Jack Dickens. It installed a water-sprinkling system that will pay for itself over the course of a few years through reduced insurance premiums and it turned a figurative "cow's ear" into a "silk purse," as it were, through the medium of interior decoration, necessary changes and repairs.

Now it seems, all the present commission needs to wipe out the major part of the deficit is a championship senior hockey club, garnished with good crowds, a heated building and comfortable seats, upholstered preferred.

Anti-senior hockey diehards won't admit it, but the 1961 commission did, that lack of this calibre of the sport resulted in reduced revenue. Wrestling, at a low cycle practically everywhere, produced very little income.

Manager Dickens is a true sense of fairness did an excellent job in his efforts to property distribute ice time. He recognized the rights of all, and favored none.

City hockey leagues, and those in the outlying districts, as was their right as "taxpayers" received allotted hours. Other revenue-producing organizations had no complaints.

The Belleville Minor Hockey Association was given a "basket" of three hours, from 13 of last year to 16 this winter.

The Belleville Recreation Commission was given two hours weekly for free public school skating. The intermediate and junior hockey teams were allotted practice hours at times which were not palatable. The Quinte Skating Club bought and paid for time.

There have been complaints, it is stated, that minor hockey is not getting sufficient icetime. It will go along with that one hundred per cent.

But let's face the facts. There are nearly 1,000 youngsters playing under the aegis of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association. These include squirt, peewee, bantam, midget and juvenile leagues. There are 12 squirt teams alone, each with rosters of some 25 players.

The BMHA in turn is an affiliate of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, and sends its class representatives into OMHA playdowns. These representative teams are all-stars selected from the league rosters. These clubs, I believe, get some extra practice time. And rightly so.

But under existing conditions at Memorial Arena with a tightly-packed time schedule it is impossible to allot extra time to the young fellows as much as Manager Dickens and the BMHA would like to.

The Arena Commission could cancel certain time allotments but these are revenue-producers — and entitled as citizens, to an hour a week. It could re-arrange other periods, I suppose, and get a little extra time. Perhaps Manager Dickens can turn into a Wizard of Ice and produce time out of nothing.

Other cities comparable to Belleville have had the same problem. They have met it with outdoor rinks — complete with artificial ice, strictly for minor hockey and the children.

Perhaps when the reported new 6,000-capacity arena is built, it might absorb adult skating and hockey activities and leave the Old Lady of Market Square to the youngsters.

Three Years At $20,000

By MARVEN MOSS

MONTREAL (CP) — Sandy Stephens, the star Rose Bowl quarterback from Minnesota Gophers, has spurned a pair of six - figure offers by United States clubs and signed a contract with Montreal Alouettes, a football team desperate for a top-line leader on offence.

The announcement was made here Thursday at a press conference featuring a telephone hookup to Minneapolis that enabled reporters to interview the 21-year-old all-American Negro.

No terms were disclosed, but it is understood the agreement is a three-year no-cut package calling for $20,000 a season plus a bonus.

Cleveland Browns of the National Football League were reported willing to offer Stephens as much as $90,000 for three years in addition to a $20,000 bonus. New York Titans of the American League proffered a $100,000 three-year contract plus an interest in a bowling establishment.

But Stephens said the Montreal arrangements afforded him "the best all-around opportunity"—a virtual guarantee that he would play regularly and an off-season job here with prime attractions.

SOUGHT NO-TRADE CLAUSE

In Cleveland, Art Modell, board chairman of the Browns, said Stephens was agreeable to the financial terms of the Cleveland offer. But a demand by the six-foot-one 212-pound youngster for a no-trade provision was a stumbling block.

On the telephone hookup with Minneapolis Stephens said he turned down the Titans because he didn't want "to play in their league."

Perry Moss, head coach and general manager of the Alouettes, said Montreal's tenacity led to the signing, although Montreal president M. E. (Ted) Workman had said last week that the Als had abandoned their efforts to land Stephens because the other clubs were making "excessive" offers.

The total package Montreal was understood to have laid out comes to something more than $60,000. The biggest football contract ever signed in Canada was $60,000 five-year deal last year between Toronto Argonauts and Chester (Cookie) Gilchrist.

GOT LETTER FROM JACKIE

Stephens, a native of Uniontown, Pa., said on the telephone hookup that he had received a letter some days ago from Jackie Robinson, the Negro who broke the color barrier in baseball's major leagues and earlier this week was named to the Hall of Fame.

Robinson moved up to the big time from Montreal Royals of the International League and apparently figured Stephens would be in something of a similar spot as a Negro quarterback. Stephens said Robinson wrote in a general way of the conditions he could expect.

Last season Moss put together perhaps the best defensive unit in the country. But there was a big gap in offensive leadership and the Als, who tried out 13 quarterbacks, finished last in the Eastern Football Conference.

HAS TRIPLE THREAT

Stephens was a triple-threat for Minnesota last season as a passer, runner and punter and also was rated a solid man on defence.

He culminated his college career with a brilliant showing when the Gophers dumped UCLA 21-3 in the New Year's Day Rose Bowl game.

Stephens said he has seen only films of Canadian pro football. But he felt he could adapt to it without difficulty He said he would have "a lot more room to run" with the larger Canadian field.

A full-out play offering the ball-carrier a pass or run option is his specialty.

RCAF BEATS AMSTERDAM

AMSTERDAM (AP)—The Canadian Raiders, air force hockey champions in Europe, defeated an Amsterdam team 8-5 before 2,500 fans Thursday night.

It's easy enough to diagnose New York Rangers' troubles: They aren't scoring goals.

Figuring out what to do about it is a different and discouraging thing, but a thing that hard-working coach Doug Harvey will have to do soon.

Harvey's greatness as a defenceman, plus an unexpected burst of scoring by some of New York's obscurer employees, carried the Rangers to the top of the National Hockey League early in the season.

Then their momentum petered out. The Rangers lost their eighth straight game, their 10th in 11 games, and Detroit Red Wings knocked them out of fourth place, the league's last playoff spot.

Andy Bathgate, the Rangers' great centre - right wing, keeps producing at a steady clip and Earl Ingarfield has slowed down but is getting the odd necessary goal. But what happened to all those early - season stars?

Little Camille Henry had 20 goals more than a month ago. He still has 20 goals.

Guy Gendron had nine goals by the first week in December but hasn't scored in seven weeks.

Ken Schinkel hasn't had a goal since the middle of November.

Andy Hebenton, who scored nine goals by Dec. 10, has had two since.

The weekend holds little promise for the Rangers.

They take on the first - place Montreal Canadiens in Montreal Saturday, and they haven't beaten the Habs in eight games this season.

Sunday, the Rangers have the advantage of home ice but the opponent is Chicago. The Black Hawks currently seem to be launching their characteristic late - season drive and have pushed their way from fifth place to third place.

Detroit and Toronto have a couple of back - to - back games this weekend, in Toronto Saturday and Detroit Sunday.

The second - place Leafs may be strengthened by the return of centre Red Kelly, who led the all - star balloting for the first half of the season but has been out with a knee injury.

In the other weekend games, Chicago is at Boston Saturday and Montreal at Boston Sunday.

Boucher Wins Puck Award

NEW YORK (CP) — Frank Boucher, former top National Hockey League figure as player and coach of New York Rangers, has been picked as the first Canadian and first hockey player to receive the Sportsmanship Brotherhood's annual award.

Boucher, now living in Saskatoon and commissioner of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League, won the NHL's Lady Byng Memorial Trophy seven times, more than any other player, and gained permanent possession of the award. Another trophy was put up in 1936.

It is given to "the player adjudged to have exhibited the best type of sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct combined with a high standard of playing ability during the season."

The Sportsmanship Brotherhood award, originated in 1927, will be presented to the Hockey Hall of Fame member Feb. 8.

Lowly Birds Humiliate Frontenacs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The fight for the playoff berth in the Eastern Professional Hockey League is on.

The last-place Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds humiliated the league-leading Kingston Frontenacs 4-2 Thursday night to find themselves in a tie for fifth place and only three points away from the last playoff spot.

The Thunderbirds are tied with North Bay Trappers, with 22 points. Fourth place is occupied by Sudbury Wolves.

"HE SHOOTS!" — But he didn't score this time. Above is a shot of the spirited action by city minor squads who are celebrating "Minor Hockey Week in Canada."

City Squirts Ready for 'Big Night'

An excited bevy of young-sters stand poised waiting for their "Big Night".

Coach Les Coughlin says his youngsters are primed, set and ready to go. "It's a big thrill for them" he said.

The game set for eight o'clock sharp precedes the Junior game between Belleville and Peterborough.

Defenceman Boyd Crawford of the Belleville Pepsi's will referee. He will be aided by another Pepsi player, likely Ron Hull.

The game is an observance of "Minor Hockey Week In Canada". It was arranged through the cooperation of Arena manager Jack Dickens, the BMHA, the Recreation Commission, and the City —Department— Hockey League.

It is a special attraction that warrants a good turnout of fans.

If you're going to the junior game, drop in a little early and watch these stars of the future in action.

Macs, Petes Battle Tonight

The Belleville McFarlands will wind up the "home" part of their OHA Eastern Junior hockey league schedule here tonight when they play host to the Peterborough Mohawk in a nine o'clock game.

The Macs, still deadlocked in a three-way battle for first place with Kingston and Cornwall, will take to the road for their final four scheduled games after tonight's fixture. They will play in Kingston Monday night, in Cobourg Wednesday night, in Trenton on February 11 and in Peterborough on February 13.

Tonight's game should be a thriller, based on the results of the previous meetings between the two clubs this year. The Macs have won all four outings but they were not easy victories.

Belleville copped 7-5 and 7-6 wins in Peterborough while taking the home games 4-3 and 6-3 the latter in overtime.

The Macs must win tonight if they hope to have a slight edge on the high-flying Kingston Frontenacs for Monday's game there. Kingston have won something like seven in a row and play in Trenton Sunday afternoon.

The games amongst Belleville, Kingston and Peterborough are actually playoff previews since these are the three clubs who will battle it out for the group title and the right to move into the OHA Junior "B" playdowns. An added attraction will be available for the fans tonight. A Squirt All-Star game has been scheduled between Belleville and Trenton in connection with "Minor Hockey Week". This game will be played at eight o'clock.

Here's a tip to one and all: you will love these pint-sized stars of the future, so don't miss it.

Colorado Retains World Tourney

LONDON (AP) — The world amateur hockey championships, troubled by political complications and threatened with cancellation, will be held as scheduled in Colorado Springs, Colo., March 9-18.

"You can take it from me that the championships will take place in Colorado Springs," J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, vice-president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said Thursday.

Ahearne made the comment after returning from a two-day conference of the federation's executive committee in Geneva. The meeting was called to discuss a possible shift to the championships to some other country. No decision was reached.

The championships were threatened with cancellation because of the failure so far of the United States state department to issue visas for the team from Communist East Germany. The U.S. does not recognize the East German regime.

Federation officials said privately the championships might be cancelled if the East Germans did not receive visas. They said it was too late to organize the event elsewhere.

East German delegates to the Geneva meeting said they would not voluntarily withdraw to make the Colorado Springs event possible.

Heinz Tragunsky, president of the East German Hockey Federation, said the East Germans hope Ahearne and Bob Leibel of Chambly, Que., president of the international federation, will be able "to get visas for us."

"If they fail, we will insist the federation must stand by its rule that the world championships can be awarded only to a country that can organize them properly."

There had been some sentiment expressed for moving the event to Canada, but the executive committee was unable to reach a decision. Edmonton, Calgary, and Toronto said they were interested in staging the games.

Trot Filly Sells for $100,000

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Sprite Rodney, 1961 two-year-old trotting sensation, became one of the highest priced fillies in harness racing history Thursday when she was sold for $100,000, Dan Ridge Farm of Norwich, N.Y., bought the filly, second fastest two-year-old trotter (1:59.2) in standard bred history, from Mrs. Mary S. Jenney, owner of Walnut Hall Stud in Doverail, Ky.

The acquisition gives Eaton Ridge a one-two punch for the 1963 Hambletonian, since they already own Impish, fastest two-year-old trotter (1:58.3) of all time.

Sprite Rodney last season won more money in a single race than any other two-year-old in harness racing history, nabbing more than $71,000.

Ontario's Major Bonspiels

Eight Ontario Rinks In

TORONTO (CP)—Rinks from eight Ontario communities met here and in Oshawa today for the province's two major annual double-rink bonspiels, the Silver Tankard and the Governor-General's Championship.

The eight semi-finalist rinks were winners of divisional play Thursday at Cobourg, Galt, Barrie and Brantford in the Tankard and Whitby, Orillia, Allliston and Hamilton in Governor-General's play.

Toronto Granite's Alfie Phillips and Dr. Bob Marshall, winners of the Tankard for the last two years, marched into the semi-finals with a pair of wins at Galt.

Granites, who this year play hosts to the Tankard semi-finals, turned aside Dixie 27-9 and Brampton 19-14.

Also in the Tankard semi-finals are rinks from Orillia, Kingston and St. Thomas.

Granites also gained a berth in the semi-finals of the Governor - General's Championship, beating Guelph 20-14 and Toronto Parkway 15-18 in playdowns at Alliston.

The other three semi-finalists in Governor-General's play at Oshawa today are Bloorville, Orillia and London Highland.

The Granite Club and Oshawa also will be hosts in the Burden and Globe and Mail cup consolation events.

Semi-finalists in the Burden, the Tankard consolation, are Ottawa, Ilderton, Keady and Burlington Golf and Curling Club. The four clubs in the Globe and Mail semi-finals are Oakville, Kingston, Cataraqui and Welland.

Finals in all four events will be played here and in Oshawa tonight.

'Death in the City Room' Fails to Diagnose Cause

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Advertising has long been a favorite subject for TV dramatists, but the Ad Men, Mr. Broadway, The Defenders and The Nurses have all been preceded by the Newspapers, The Examiner and The Mirror, were going out of business earlier this month. CBS buried around the twin death scene with cameras and reporters.

Results were Thursday night's CBS Reports, called Death in the City Room. Although TV commentator Charles Collingwood and others talked to numbers of unemployed, sad survivors, no one had an authoritative diagnosis of the causes of death.

The demise of the two big city newspapers—of any newspapers—is of concern particularly to those inside the profession. But Thursday night's program was not particularly enlightening, largely because the owners — the people who really knew what happened—refused to be interviewed for the program.

ABC's controversial episode of Bus Stop, subject of testimony Wednesday at a Senate subcommittee hearing, originally was scheduled for Christmas Eve, and its original title was Told by an Idiot.

The title was changed to A Walk Among Us, and then the broadcast date was moved up to Dec. 3. At the time a network spokesman said the show was ordered by ABC Vice-President Tom Moore because he thought it was such a powerful, well-produced show that it deserved the largest possible audience.

The episode, starring rock 'n' roll singer Fabian, was interlarding all right — a dark, sordid place about an amoral and delinquent and a woman alcoholic. It was a shocker, but it's hardly fair to use it as a prime example of what's wrong with network TV. Most shows this season have been bland and noxious.

Bob Hope's visual report to the home folks on his Christmas-Far-East junket in the frozen North probably doesn't add up to the slickest, funniest show of the year, but it is certainly a warm and wonderful one-network special. You can see the way the soldiers and sailors were enjoying the fun.

Tonight: Garden Shore Show, NBC, 9:30-10:30—with Steve Allen, Vice Mousseau, Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy.

Saturday—Man-in-orbit shoot, all networks, 11 a.m. Fun Time More, premier, ABC, 5 - 5:30 p.m. — new comedy with Andrew Duggan and Peggy McCay.

Sunday—Don Giovanni, NBC, 2:30-6 p.m.—repeat of Mozart opera with Cesare Siepi and Leontyne Price; special report on Federal Communication Commissioner Newton N. Minow on TV programming, NBC, 6:30 p.m.; The Battle of Newburgh, NBC, 10-11 — "white paper" documentary on a city's changes in handling public relief recipients.

Infectious Hepatitis Spread 'Out of Control' in Canada Giving Cause for Alarm

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Infectious hepatitis, an insidious illness inflammation with long - lingering miseries is spreading over Canada in record, frightening proportions, and apart from the simple prospect of long hours of misery, there is little anyone can do about it.

The acute virus infection, with its accompanying fever, loss of appetite, nausea and stomach pains, struck 12,007 Canadians during 1961—far exceeding the previous record of 6,476 in 1960. And the soaring 1961 figures are being carried into 1962 and no break is expected until spring.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows increases in every province, with striking rises in Quebec and the West.

Dr. E. W. R. Best, chief of the federal health department's epidemiology division has said the current outbreak is "out of control" and there is reason for alarm. He indicated the peak had probably been reached but there is really no basis for any prognostication."

STRESS CLEANLINESS

Doctors can do no more than offer advice, and the best medical diet for the duration of the illness. But unlike other relatively mild contagious diseases, hepatitis doesn't run itself out in a week or two. Victims often feel miserable—and sufferers may remain infectious for a month or two. Several cases are often followed by jaundice.

Because of health medical officials put all the emphasis on prevention. Cleanliness is the only answer. They tell you to wash hands before handling food, make sure such areas as bathrooms are entirely sanitary, be conscientious on personal hygiene, and doctors' orders are extra careful to sterilize needles before punching patients.

Dr. George Wallon, Regina medical health officer, says anyone with outdoor plumbing "is asking for trouble."

While hepatitis is seldom fatal to an otherwise healthy person, Dr. Marcel Dantow, Saskatoon medical officer, says fatalities range from two to five per 1,000. Long-lasting effects make it a greater menace than, say, influenza.

RECORD IN 1956

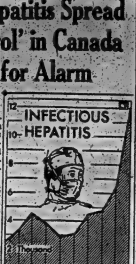
The number of deaths rose from 49 in 1951 to a record 117 in 1955, then fell to 106 in 1959 and 92 in 1957. It was 104 in 1958, dropped to 88 in 1959 and rose to 99 in 1960. Final figures for 1961 are not yet available.

In the 1961 crisis in the Yukon showed the sharpest increase of any area—25 cases compared with only four in 1960.

Number of cases by provinces last year with 1960 figures bracketed:

Prince Edward Island 140 (112); New Brunswick 181 (79); Quebec 1,413 (343); Ontario 3,003 (1,241); Manitoba 1,000 (1,261); Saskatchewan 528 (176); Alberta 1,020 (320); British Columbia 1,675 (912).

Despite the high incidence, hepatitis doesn't appear to attract the medical attention the flu does. It's acute. And neither is the outbreak entirely unexpected.



EBERT MORE CASES

Dr. Walton refers to hepatitis as "the sickness of our age." Dr. C. W. Kelly, acting director of communicable disease control for New Brunswick, said it "comes in sixty-year cycles and the last peak was in 1902 so we have been anticipating a further incidence for late 1962 and early 1963."

Dr. H. O. Dillenberg, bacteriologist of Saskatchewan's public health department, said "we expect even more cases next year."

Dr. H. B. Colford, Nova Scotia's director of communicable diseases, suggests the outbreak could be aided by inadequate preventative figures indicate. His province's figures, he says, may be partly due to more-efficient methods of reporting the illness and a generally greater awareness of it.

"As diseases like polio become less of a problem, more attention is given to other less-serious diseases," Dr. Colford says. It. I don't look for any significant change in the number of hepatitis cases in the coming months."

STEEP INCREASE

Infectious hepatitis, an acute virus infection of the liver, struck a record 12,007 Canadians in 1961, a steep climb above the previous high of 6,476 in 1960. Graph shows number of cases of hepatitis in Canada since 1952. — (CP Newsmap.)

MONTREAL RISE

Dr. Adelard Groulx, city health director in Montreal, commenting on the city's 1961 total of 2,000 cases compared with only 40 in 1960, said the outlook is "none too bright" but the current increase "is not an alarming one."

Meanwhile, researchers are trying to grow the guilty virus in laboratories, as was done with polio, so that an effective vaccine can be developed. Progress is reported but there is no suggestion a preventive is around the corner.

Normally the virus breeds and spreads through over-crowded unsanitary areas. This would account for the fact that more than one-quarter of Toronto's 1961 cases were in one low-income housing area.

In other provinces, however, the disease is generally more prevalent outside the cities. Most of Manitoba's cases are in the northern part of the province. Edmonton had only one of Alberta's cases and Victoria and Vancouver report "very few."

Hepatitis offers its own peculiar difficulties to health officials inasmuch as some carriers of the virus never show a symptom, without knowing it, they go about their business spreading the disease.

Astrological Forecast

For January 27

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Dispute with authorities can do no good. It would be much better to use day for relaxation. And if you are going to engage in mental gymnastics . . . make sure you know all the facts.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Much vitality so far as intellectual curiosity is concerned. Mars in favorable aspect with your natal Sun coincides with time when you want to show best side. Proceed!

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Time ripe for getting house in order, for meeting with associates you have not seen for some time. Be frank and open. Evening favors social events, romance, creative activity.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Older person may have key which solves current problem. If you let pride stand in way . . . you may be in for fall. Be cautious. Ask questions. Pay no heed to others; by tapping their knowledge.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — This not day when it will be easy to concentrate on details. Instead, permit mind to roam, discover new interests, hobbies. Get plenty of rest too. Rid yourself of tensions.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Evening very good for being with member of opposite sex who really means something in your life. Allow intuitive intellect to provide answers to questions. Trust, therefore.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — A kind of restlessness may characterize part of day. Perhaps if you let yourself go . . . just stop fighting the obvious . . . you would be happier. Make the weekend sound. Go easy.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — If you expect everything to be in order . . . no noise, no irritation . . . you may be disappointed. This is a day when you may well be "invaded" by visitors. Brace yourself! Smile!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Remember close friends. Taking them for granted is not wise. Deep attachments could result from surprise social event. Don't rush . . . give yourself time to consider consequences.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Trying to arrive at destination at breakneck speed could lead to complications. Would you try to relax? To have patience? Assert yourself . . . but don't press!

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Wonderful for entertaining and being entertained. Get around. Meet new people. Renew acquaintances with persons who have been away. Not time to attempt serious decisions. Go with tide.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Budget needs attention . . . so do a lot of other practical matters. No more neglect . . . no more putting off until tomorrow. There is also the question of a promise made weeks ago. Act!

If Born Today . . . do not try to blend into habits, activities, beliefs of others. If any one is an individual . . . it is you. Be independent! Long the way . . . excitement, "tinker", invent. This year especially good for starting new projects. July outstanding month.

General Tendencies: Cycle up for Virgo, Libra, Scorpio, while Pisces, Aries, Taurus must be very much aware of impressions made to friends, associates. In all, a day when speed is stressed. If you want some real rest, relaxation —might be wise to spend evening at home.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Valuable Spirit of Awe

By ROY L. SMITH

A teen-ager, whose chief ambition in life was to appear sophisticated, had gone with his family to visit the Grand Canyon. He was making an obvious effort to appear bored, evidently thinking it might prove that he was thoroughly matured.

Seating himself casually under a scrub pine, he stared out across the vast chasm, and finally said, with a simulation of disgust, "Well, you know, this thing does not get me." To which his father replied, "NO boy, it does not need your approval."

AWE SOMETHING DIVINE

The sense of awe is one of the qualities of the human spirit which sets a man off from all the other creatures. No wolf, elephant or bull is ever moved by the scenery in the midst of which it lives. A man and a horse will walk through the same flower-strewn meadow, but their reactions will be entirely different. The horse will trample beauty without a thought or a regret. The man will sense a thrill that will go with him through an entire day.

The uniform Sunday School Lesson for January 28: "Reverence for God's Name." Exodus 20:7; Leviticus 19:12; Matthew 5:33-37; 6:5-9; Luke 6:46.

It is this spirit of awe which leads magnificence to life, and meaning to struggle. Two men working on the same job will display entirely different attitudes, and this difference makes the difference in their lives they live.

When God made man in His own image He implanted within him the ability to stand in awe. It is not the molecules of which we are made, nor the chemical processes produced by our vital organs. It is something within the soul of man that makes life a glorious adventure or a dismal and weary routine.

CRIME OF PROFANITY

An oath, in which the name of deity appears is something the Creator of the universe can survive and it is not something with which the individual man can trifle. Every time any person uses the name of God in vain, he attacks his own soul.

Profanity is not something for which God needs to punish us, for as we are profane we degrade ourselves. We lower our opinion of high and holy things, and of the man who does not respect God cannot respect himself. Awe and reverence are all of one piece. To destroy them is to destroy everything they are intended to glorify.

NEED FOR AWE

Just at the moment that democracy is a life and death struggle with communism, there is a vast need for a sense of reverence within the souls, of those who live under, and love, democracy.

The democratic institutions under which we have lived all our lives are the supreme values of life for us, politically speaking. The right of trial by jury, the secret ballot, our representative form of government, the guarantees of freedom, the high respect in which the individual is held — these are privileges for which other generations have shed rivers of blood.

We do fairly well in saluting the flag as it goes by, carried by brave men equipped to defend the nation. We do not do so well in the case of the flag that floats over a polling place where we have the privilege of voting. Nor do we do so well in the case of a flag that floats over a slum.

CURSE IS CONFESSION

Every curse upon our lips is a confession that the spirit of awe and reverence has died out within our souls. And nothing is more tragic.

Every curse upon our lips is a confession that we no longer believe in the God of the Creator of the universe who set the atoms so well in the case of the planets in their strange and mysterious ways.

Every curse upon our lips is a confession that we are intellectually unable to express ourselves forcibly in terms of good English.

Every curse upon our lips is a confession of a sense of inferiority in the presence of majesty.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Mother of Five Entertains

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I live just half a block from a home for children. The youngsters there are boys and girls under 12, who for one reason or another have needed care outside their own homes.

We have five children from ten down and have had all the children in the home (18 of them) over for a party twice. It is a big job but they enjoy it, and our youngsters are learning in this way to be friendly. The "home" children are wild sometimes. What kids aren't? But when I talk to them and put an arm around them, they look at me so adoringly that I would put up with anything.

I was telling this to another mother and she said she did not even know there was a children's home in this neighborhood. Since the children's workers at the home are anxious that their boarders get invited out, I think they make a mistake in not making themselves known better.

Please tell people to find out what is going on around them. I am sure there would be parents who would like to have even "one or two" for dinner sometimes, if they thought about it.—MOTHER MARY JANE.

DEAR MOTHER MARY JANE:—O.K. I hereby suggest that the Pops and Moms who read this column learn about the children's homes near them, if any.

The boys and girls in such homes are there because their own parents have separated, or are ill, or in some way inadequate and unable to give their offspring the care they need.

This is love and understanding, usually—not bare physical necessities. Children without love behave peculiarly in self-defence—lying, stealing maybe; but are often just plain unresponsive, having retired into their shells because they have been hurt, or not encouraged enough.

Introducing them to normal home life even once in a while, and paying a little attention to them, can help to set their world back on its feet.

DEAR DORIS:—Is it proper for a man to wear a blazer and light grey flannels to a semi-formal dance?

Some of the women wear long formals and others wear semi-formal cocktail gowns; still others were cocktail dresses. —WONDERING.

DEAR WONDERING:—A blue blazer and grey flannels are quite proper dress wear for a semi-formal dance. The alternative is a dark business suit.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WORN OUT:—If you will write again, enclosing a five-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope, I will send you a private reply.

(Knowing the right etiquette often influences people in our favor. If you are puzzled about "the proper thing to do," write and ask Doris).

GLENN GROUNDED; MOON SHOT MISSES

New Manoeuvre Will Bring Craft Nearer Target

Should Improve Use Of Special Equipment

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A vagrant U.S. moon shot—too fast for its own good —probably will go into orbit around the sun, missing the moon by some 20,000 to 30,000 miles.

But a manoeuvre today may bring the insect-shaped spacecraft closer to the moon and back eventually to a fiery death in the earth's atmosphere.

The altered course could make better use of the photographic and x-ray measuring equipment aboard the wayward Ranger 4 spacecraft. It's a matter of how close Ranger gets to the moon.

Ranger was fired into orbit around the earth Friday. Then rockets were started to send the moonship out of orbit and boost it up to escape velocity, 24,500 miles an hour, heading toward the moon.

The rocket engines gave the moonship just great a shove—almost meant it would reach its intended impact point with the moon 11 to 16 hours before the moon arrived.

With collision impossible, the moonship started hurtling forward into space and into orbit around the sun.

The moon ship carried panels of solar cells, extended like wings, to capture the sun's light and convert it into electric power. In its nose is carried a photographic system. Cameras would have liked to land this on the moon for 90 days of records on meteorite impacts and possible tremors in the moon's mass.

This is out now. But two other experiments can still be useful. Telescopic television cameras in the moon ship may still take and relay to earth pictures of the moon's surface.

The picture of the lunar surface would not be the first. The Soviet Lunik III took pictures of the moon's unseen back side of the moon from a distance of 37,000 miles.

The moon ship was to have covered the distance in about 66 hours, the time for the rendezvous point in 66 hours. As the craft streaked toward the lunar surface, television cameras were to have flashed a picture every 13 seconds back to the transmitter in all which would have shown objects as small as 12-foot in diameter under best conditions.

Early today, Ranger was 87,729 miles from earth and was travelling 5,546 miles an hour. Its speed of 24,500 miles was decreasing gradually because of the earth's gravitational pull.

Officials estimated Ranger will be about 25,000 miles from the moon at its closest approach. They say it may be possible to get valuable picture of the moon from that distance. The pictures would be of an area of the moon not seen before, the moon's far side, not previously photographed.

The manoeuvring device aboard Ranger is a mid-course rocket engine which can be fired on command from the ground.

It is powerful enough to increase or decrease Ranger's speed by 90 miles an hour or of changing Ranger's course by about four degrees.

Robbery Trial Adjourned Until Feb. 19

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — The trial of four Montreal men, charged with robbery of $232,000 holdup last summer of the Toronto-Dominion Bank of Havelock, Friday was adjourned until Feb. 19 to give defence counsel an opportunity to examine exhibits. The money has never been recovered.

The trial of Yvon Lalonde, 32, Jean-Claude Lalonde, 31, Roger Martel, 41, and Roger Nolet, 31, opened here Monday. The judge extended the charge laid for Jean - Claude Lalonde. The others are being held in custody.

The trial adjourned shortly after laboratory experts Norman Ericson and Elgin Claire of the attorney general's department arrived to give evidence. Arthur Maloney, one of two defence counsel, was assured that these witnesses would be available to him during the next three weeks to discuss evidence.

Mr. Maloney said that when the trial resumes he would object to certain scientific evidence regarding particles of material alleged to have been found in the pocket of one of the accused. Mr. Maloney said he would scrutinize the admissibility of the evidence after Crown Attorney John Bradshaw said the particles "turned up" during laboratory tests.

French Troops Leave Heart Of Algiers

ALGIERS (AP)—French authorities today removed barricades, blocks and troop concentrations from the heart of Algiers in what appeared to be a conciliatory angry European settlers.

The settlers had been protesting against security measures, claiming they hampered the economic life of the city.

Protest strikes and sporadic demonstrations were held throughout Algiers Friday.

Life returned to normal today and no sign of troops or patrols was seen in the centre of Algiers. Numerous road blocks guarded approaches to the city on the outskirts of the east, west and south.

French headquarters reported fighting a number of small engagements against the Moslem rebels, killing 36 and capturing 13.

Peter Snell Runs Mile In 3.54,4

WELLINGTON (Reuters) — New Zealander Peter Snell broke the world mile record today with a time of 3 minutes, 54.4 seconds in a meet here.

Snell, the Olympic 800-metres champion, clipped one-tenth of a second off the record of 3:54.5 set by Australian Herb Elliott in Dublin, August, 1958.

GOVT. PONDERS UN REQUEST FOR ARMY TEAM

Will Help Train Central Army

OTTAWA (CP)—The government is "not yet ready" pondering if United Nations requests that Canada send a small team of army officers to The Congo help train the army of the central Congolese government, it is learned authoritatively.

Such a commitment would be entirely different to and separate from Canada's contingent of about 400 soldiers and airmen serving with the 15,000-member UN Congo force.

The UN request was received some months ago. It is understood that the defence department has opposed it. Because no action has been taken to date it is considered probable that the department's view will prevail.

The number of officers who would be involved is believed small—about a dozen.

The defence department, sources said, feels that such a team, because it would have to be French - speaking, would tend further deplete the French-speaking officer element in the army and that it might be years before a commitment of this kind could be terminated.

NEED DISCIPLINE

The UN request is based on the belief that there must be more discipline and training in the Congolese Army if the UN operation there is to end in the foreseeable future.

It is felt that the relatively small expenditure for such a team would in the long run save the UN and Canada the much larger expenditures being incurred by the UN operation in The Congo.

Canada has already an extensive role helping to train African troops by sending a military team of about 30 members to Ghana at Ghana's request.

The government has also agreed to provide a UN contingent of a similar team to Nigeria.

Although the defence department's opinion is that the army officer corps is becoming top heavy with senior officers, peace-keeping during around the world, More than 1,100 Canadian servicemen are performing such duties in Egypt, The Congo, Jerusalem, Viet Nam, Laos, Cambodia, Kashmir and Gaza. And the commitment to Nigeria remains to be filled.

P.C. Candidate Seeks Recount In Renfrew

ARNPRIOR, Ont. (CP)—Coun. Mrs. Mairhill, defeated Progressive Conservative candidate in the Jan. 18 provincial byelection in Renfrew South, will seek a recount.

Chief returning officer Dr. John D. Findlay of Arnprior reported Thursday night the official check showed Liberal Leonard Rowe, Eganville, elected by a majority of 144 votes.

Mr. McGrath said Friday his organization's request will be heard by county Judge T. M. J. Gallagher in Renfrew at a time to be set by the judge.

Soviet Leaders Consign Molotov To Oblivion of Boss Joe Stalin

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet leaders today consigned the name of Vyacheslav Molotov to the oblivion of his old dictator boss Joseph Stalin.

A decree of the Supreme Soviet dated Jan. 15 and published today deprives Molotov of his former foreign minister and deputy premier titles and the "anti - party" group officially wiped out through the country.

The decree of the Supreme Soviet bulletin named Molotov, ex-president Klement Voroshilov, Lazar Kaganovich, former first deputy premier, and Georgei Malenkov, a former premier.

All were disgraced for being members of the "anti - party group" who tried to seize power from Premier Khrushchev.

CPR Principles in Harmony With Report of Commission

MONTREAL (CP) — W. R. Crump, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, said Friday his company's principles are in harmony with "the theme underlying the MacPherson commission report."

The MacPherson royal commission recently released the second part of its report to the federal government. It urged more competition and less government restriction in the field of transportation.

Mr. Crump, in a statement commenting on the report, said Canadian Pacific has never asked for anything but fair treatment "nor does it shrink from meeting the challenge posed by say or all forms of transportation competing on an equal footing."

Mr. Crump lauded the commission for the "bold, clear thinking it has brought to bear on the problem" but pointed out that what he called several conclusions.

"The report recommended the creation of a national transportation advisory council, but it is to be regretted, stopped short of delineating clearly the composition and functions of such a body."

His welcomed the report's retraction of its earlier finding that railway must be properly compensated for services which they are required by law or public policy to perform, regardless of whether the services are economically feasible.

"The far - reaching effects of the changes proposed in respect of both rates and service, if adopted, would necessitate many adjustments on the part of both railway management and labor. . . .

"Wage rates and working conditions must reflect the competitive facts of life."

World Wheat Parley to Try To Arrange Orderly Sales

LONDON (CP)—The world's major wheat exporters and importers gather in Geneva next week to try to arrange a continuation of orderly marketing and the continued of increasing uncertainties.

Representatives of more than 30 nations gathered at the official check showed Liberal Leonard Rowe, Eganville, elected by a majority of 144 votes.

Mr. McGrath said Friday his organization's request will be heard by county Judge T. M. J. Gallagher in Renfrew at a time to be set by the judge.

GATT FIGURES

Almost as important is what will happen in the special study to be made under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. A special working group drawn from Canada, Australia, the United States, the Common Market and Britain is to start sessions in Geneva Feb. 12, barely two weeks after the IWA negotiations get under way.

Because of this some delegates are expected to suggest prolonging the current accord to give GATT an opportunity to draft its proposals for dealing with the world wheat problem.

This, however, is one of the uncertainties. Should representatives decide to go ahead with negotiating a new agreement despite the GATT group, they'll be faced with the delicate problem of working out price levels.

COMMON DEBATE SOUNDED LIKE PRAIRIE CONFAB

Three-Party Farm Argument

OTTAWA (CP)—An onlooker might well have thought the Commons chamber Friday for some Prairie community hall, the scene of a wide - open, three-party rhetorical struggle at the height of an election campaign.

At issue was the government's proposal to pay western grain farmers $1 an acre up to $200 a farm on the same payments basis as 1958 and 1960, and described by Defence Minister Harkness as recognition of drought losses and low domestic wheat prices.

Calling for ailing Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton, Mr. Harkness, who once had that job himself, said the payments are the most equitable and practical method of meeting the problem of low farm income. Small farmers would get the most benefit. It would not promote special crops, leading to surpluses.

Hazen Argue, House leader of the CCF — New Democratic Party group who now holds the only non-Conservative seat of the six on the Prairies, said the payments scheme has been made last year.

They now constituted the typical "carrot on the stick" atti-

Cloudy Weather Delays Flight By Astronaut

Clear Skies Disappear As Defects Corrected

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Heavy cloud cover in the launching area today forced the United States to postpone for at least 24 hours its attempt to rocket astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. into round-the-world orbit.

The launching was called off for the day at 9:10 a.m. EST as Glenn, 40-year-old Marine lieutenant-colonel, anxiously waited out the countdown strapped into his cramped, two-ton space capsule atop a towering Atlas missile.

A statement from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the attempt was postponed "due to heavy overcast in the area. Pilot, Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., will be removed from the spacecraft.

"It is not known when an other launching attempt will be made."

Glenn was to be taken down from the gantry tower and returned to his special "ready room" for a debriefing today ruling from the launching pad.

There was no immediate comment from Glenn on the postponement. He had left the launch room at 4:46 a.m. after a final physical examination and breakfast. He entered the capsule at 7:16 a.m. for a scheduled 7:30 launching.

CLOUDS OBSCURE SKIES

Two minor problems delayed the launch past the scheduled time and while technicians were correcting them, more thick clouds moved over the cape and completely obscured what had been clear, skies, earlier.

The postponement thwarted for at least a day the U.S. effort to bur a man into orbit to match the feat accomplished last year by the Russian cosmonauts Gherman Titov and Yuri Gagarin.

Two U.S. astronauts, Alan B. Shepard and Virgil I. Grissom, were rocketed on two 15-minute suborbital flights in 1961. Both clear launch sites may be delayed by weather, each for different reasons.

Today's postponement was the first for Glenn's flight. Originally scheduled for Nov. 25, when officials felt there was a shortage of recovering planes and aircraft in 1961, it was put off until Jan. 16 when pressure began building for the manned shot.

Then technical problems with the capsule and rocket caused three subsequent short delays.

MANY DISAPPOINTED

The postponement was a bitter disappointment to the hundreds of technicians, engineers and scientists involved in the project.

Also disappointed were more than 500 reporters here and in the United States and 15 foreign countries to cover the flight, bringing crowds of persons who gathered on the beaches near the cape and perhaps a million others who were watching on television. Many of them have called off.

A recovery fleet of 34 ships and 60 planes strung out across

Govt. Fleet To Be Called Coast Guard

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's government-owned marine fleet has a new name.

And over the next year or so it will get a new look.

From now on, the 241 vessels of the old Canadian Marine Service will be the fleet of the Canadian Coast Guard.

Former navy lieutenant Leoh Balcer, now Canada's transport minister, made the announcement of the new name in the Commons Friday.

He said the coast guard name recognizes the traditional expansion in the fleet and its task in recent years.

Besides the new name, the vessels will get a new paint job as they go into dry-dock for annual refits.

Four Killed In Accident At Mt. Forest

MOUNT FOREST, Ont. (CP)—Four of six teen-agers riding in one automobile were killed early today when their car skidded on an icy curve and was hit broadside by a second car.

Two persons from the death cars and three from the second car are in hospital. One girl is in critical condition.

Those killed in the dead as: Edward James Curtis, 18, of Mount Forest, driver of the death car; Evelyn Irene Wilson, Mount Forest; Elsie Wilson, 16, Mount Forest, and Joan Reid, 18, of Damascus, near Arthur.

Mount Forest provincial police said they received a call to the crash scene shortly after 3 a.m.

Police were sketchy about the road and in ditches, police said. One damaged girl was decapitated and her head was found some distance from her body, they said.

Brakeman Dies

OSHAWA (CP) — John F. Ostopowich, a brakeman with the CNR, died in hospital early today from injuries received after he was found lying on the track here.

Fellow workmen, who noticed he was missing and began looking for him, said he had been run over. They believe he fell from a boxcar as it was being shunted.

Six Members Back Sweepstakes, One Objects and May Kill Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — All who spoke favored a private MP's bill to establish a national sweepstake, except one—and he expressed enough doubts about it Friday to prevent its Commons passage.

Six members backed the sweepstake plan of Ferguson Browne (PC—Vancouver Kingsway) during the first hour of members' hour of the current parliamentary session.

The doubts were voiced by Ken More (PC—Regina) whose lengthy speech ran out the clock and consigned the bill to the bottom of a long list of similar measures with not too much prospect of proceeding further.

Mr. More said wider consideration should be recognized than that many Canadians already break the law by playing the sweepstakes.

Mr. Browne argued that since 25 per cent of the prizes of the Irish Sweepstakes go to Canadians it is wrong that at least 25 per cent of the money kept in Canada should not come from Canada. This money could be used for use in socially-useful projects.

His bill would establish a board to pay the proceeds from a national sweepstake to the provincial governments for distribution to charities.

Louis Joseph Pigeon (PC — Colletts — Bonaventure — Montmagny) estimated that $40,000,000 is sent abroad annually by Canadians through sweepstakes.

W. C. Henderson (PC—Carboo) said he backs legalizing a lottery "to some extent."

"I buy them (sweeps tickets) all the time. I don't beat about the bush."

David is one of the twenty award winners this year.

Campbellford, Marmora Play 12-12 Tie

MARMORA (Special) — Campbellford and Marmora-Havelock battled through a free-scoring OBA Northumberland-Hastings Intermediate "C" hockey league game here last night and ended up tied 12-12 after a two-minute overtime period before a fair crowd.

The clubs were tied 2-2 at the end of the first period and were deadlocked 11-11 at the end of the third. Barnes had scored for Marmora-Havelock and Collins for Campbellford to keep it tied until extra time minute period.

Seymour scored four goals and Wilson had three to spark the visiting Campbellford team's attack. Field and Rose each scored twice while Collins had the other counter.

Watson led the Marmora-Havelock crew with three goals while Barnes scored two. The others, all singletons, were shared by Bell, McMurray, Clare, Maloney, Shannon, McArthur and Barrons.

WHAT DETERMINES VITAMIN QUALITY?

It is not the price, for door-to-door vitamin sales people usually charge a great deal more for similar potencies than a pharmacy. They generally overstate benefits says the Department of Health.

It is not the potency on the label that is all important. What counts is how well will the body absorb the contents. The vitamins we supply are made by the reliable drug firms which make our prescription medicines. The manufacturing tests for quality are left out to reduce price.

Settlement Prospects Brighter In Tweed, Hungerford Problem

The possibilities of an early settlement to the plight that besets Hugs High School District controversy which has seen Tweed village and the township of Hungerford request to be allowed out of the area, appeared brighter today.

A meeting of the high school district board is slated for Monday evening at which it is believed that a recommendation may come out of the meeting which would resolve the issue.

The request of Tweed and Hungerford to be allowed out of the high school district has been before county council on two occasions, first at the December session and again at the latest augural session last week.

On both occasions the question was laid over after hearing representations from both sides.

At the January session the question was laid over to a special meeting early in February, in the hope being that board members and Tweed and Hungerford could come up with some sort of a compromise.

There was no indication of what sort of a recommendation may come out of Monday's board meeting, but Department of Education officials have indicated the two municipalities could be allowed out of the area if they guaranteed the attendance of 25 per cent of their high school pupils would attend the new technical school which is proposed to be built at Madoc.

Auto Licence Sales Are Slow

Sales of auto licences at the Belleville licence bureau are "pretty slow" it was reported today by issuer George Olsen.

Mr. Olsen said that out of a total of about 12,600 to be sold, only about 2,000 have been sold and so far no been taken by motorists. The 1962 plates went on sale January 2 and the 1961 plates were sold until March 24th to get them off the market.

Mr. Olsen said the sales pattern this year is about the same as in previous years. "There is a flurry of sales at the beginning of the year, then sales are slow and then there is a big rush as motorists flock in to buy their licences before the deadline."

There are still a few motorists who come in without their liability insurance certificates.

If motorists do not produce liability certificates they are charged an extra $20.

Sideroads Icy After Rain

County sideroads in the Bay of Quinte area were covered a sheet of ice last night as result of the afternoon rain and driving conditions were extremely hazardous.

Provincial police reported only one accident, however and this occurred on Highway 37, at Glen Miller.

Terry M. Prout, 18, of Bancroft, was northbound on the highway shortly after midnight when his car struck a bump, sending it out of control. The car spun around and slid into a pole on the side of the highway causing about $300 damage.

The driver suffered lacerations to his face and legs.

Nursing Head Of Hospital Is Honored

In recognition of her work and her contributions to hospital administration, Miss Doris Smith, director of nursing at Belleville General Hospital has been awarded life membership in the Association of Hospital Administrators.

The official election will take place at the convocation ceremony next September at the American College of Hospital Administrators in Chicago, Illinois. The affiliation will give Miss Smith the opportunity to participate in the support of the college's program and thus contribute to the advancement of the field of hospital administration.

Miss Smith is a graduate of the Belleville Hospital School of Nursing and holds the degree of Bachelor of Science Nursing from Western University.

'Invisible' Deficit Trebles In Past Decade

MONTREAL — Canada's deficit for "invisible" or non-merchandise transactions abroad has just about trebled in a decade, according to the Bank of Montreal's Business Review for January, just issued.

The review says Canada's receipts from non-merchandise transactions were $1.4 billion in 1951, rising to $1.8 billion by 1960, and represented 9 per cent of the nation's total current account receipts.

However, in the same decade, Canadian payments rose by $1 billion to $3 billion to reach $2.8 billion in 1960, or 34 per cent of current international payments, an increase of 30 per cent ten years earlier.

Thus, "invisible" payments increasing more rapidly than receipts, the resulting deficit from invisibles nearly trebled during the decade, exceeding $1 billion in both 1959 and 1960", the B of M says.

One important contributor to the deficit is the cost of travelling with Canadians spending about 50 per cent more for travel abroad than foreigners spend here — $627 million against $467 million in 1960.

Interest and dividend payments are the largest single deficit item, $1,569 million paid out in 1960, against receipts of $178 million, the review says.

The decline of the Canadian merchant marine has also meant growing dependence on ships of foreign registry, so that Canada's payments for freight and shipping have increased substantially.

Statistics for the first nine months of 1961 point to continuation of these trends, although the travel deficit may be falling off, the review continues.

"Another noteworthy development is that there may have been an export surplus on merchandise account (in 1961) for the first time since 1954 and therefore the total current account deficit will have arisen from invisible transactions."

Concluding, the B of M review says it does not necessarily follow that the present trend towards a growing deficit will continue. However, it adds, unless there are substantial changes in other accounts, "a very considerable improvement" will be needed in merchandise trade to offset the ever-all deficit in "invisibles."

EARLE PLATT LAUDER

In failing health for some time, Earle Platt Lauder, died at his residence in Bloomfield on December 30, 1961.

Born at Ameliasburg Township, he was the son of the late Robert Hiram Lauder and Sarah Amelia Platt and husband of Mildred Marvin.

A resident of Bloomfield for nine years, Mr. Lauder was a former resident of Prince Edward County for 33 years. He was also a farmer at Mount Carmel and Rednersville for 7 years, and was educated at Mt. View.

He was in his 71st year, and is survived by his wife, Mildred; one daughter, Elsie (Mrs. George Clark) Picton, and one sister, Velora, (Mrs. Clayton Ketcheson), Picton.

Mr. Lauder was also an employee of the Barker Canning Company in Bloomfield.

He was a member of Bloomfield Lodge, A.F. & A.M. and served as elder, steward, treasurer and Sunday School teacher at Mt. Carmel for 17 years, and was active in church work at Bloomfield for a number of years, both choirs.

The funeral service was held on Tuesday, January 2, 1962 at 3 p.m. from the Whitaker Funeral Home, Picton with Dr. H. F. Swann officiating.

Entombment was held at Glenwood Vault, Picton. Interment will be held in the spring at Mt. Universalist Cemetery in Bloomfield.

ANNIE AGNES SNOWDEN

The funera: of Mrs. Annie Agnes Snowden, 78 Chatham Street was held last afternoon from the Funeral Home on Front Road with Major G. Gillingham, of Kingston, officiating.

Bearers were: David Couch, Bernard Cannon, Murney Gray, William Gray, Robert Robins and Phillip Baldwin.

Interment was in Belleville cemetery.

Public Speaking Contest Held at P.T.A. Meeting

The first meeting of the new year of Nicholson Catholic College, P.T.A., was held on January 23rd., with the president, Mr. Oriel Griffiths, presiding, and Secretary, Mr. F. Sullivan, opened the meeting.

"Telephone bridge" is planned for a two-day bridge party with Mrs. T. A. Kelly acting as convenor.

The president urged the members to support the "Dream Night", being staged in February by students of Nicholson College, prior to the election of Sister Mary Fleurette.

It has been agreed that all Catholic P.T.A. organizations will hold a joint meeting some time in March for the purpose of discussing the problems of Catholic taxpayers.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CONTEST

The meeting was highlighted by a public speaking contest in which the following students participated: Grade XI, Joanne Griffiths and Brian McDonnell; Grade XII, Jim Murphy; Grade XIII, Joanne Sandford and Jean Reynolds. Sister Mary Teresa introduced the speakers.

It was indeed difficult for the judges, the Rev. Sister Mary Anderson, Mrs. Jean Chapleau and Mr. Staff McKenna, to choose the winners. After careful deliberation, Jim Murphy was chosen as the best public speaker and Joanne Griffiths as best girl speaker, and the honors for the best impromptu speech was won by Mildred Reynolds.

The speeches were excellent and both teachers and students are to be congratulated on the time and effort spent on their preparation.

The purpose of the eliminations was to select representatives from Nicholson to the forthcoming Archdiocesan Oratorical Contest in February.

VOCAL SELECTION

A vocal selection was rendered by six grade XIII girls partially Scottish dance performed by Jacqueline Keegan and Diane McCallum. A great deal of musical talent and theorical ability was displayed by Roberta Bradtner and Ken Campbell in their rendition of "My One and Only Highland Fling."

At the conclusion of the meeting lunch was served by Mrs. H. J. Hanley and her committee.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Here Are Some Ideas on Cash For Those Nearing Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

"When I retired in 1960 from my bus-driving job," says Mr. Ralph Sloane, "time passed so very heavy on my hands. After all I learned how to repair the coin-operated pay bus drive-ins use.

"I have been at it for nearly ten years now. The work has given me something to keep me occupied and happy, and something to tingle in my pockets. I have made a lot of pals for the changers, like syrings and levers. I have even thought up a few improvements in the changers, which I intend to cap, unless . . .

"You'd better be careful when you advise husbands to pass any money on to their wives be-fore they die," says Mr. Ralph Sloane. "An old friend down the street started doing this when he got sick. Mendicularly he was going to put everything in his wife's name by the time they retired — he loved the gal, of course. He expected, as most men do, that he would die first and in this way she would avoid a lot of bother and well.

"But about three months ago she was killed in a car accident, and her first husband's name already transferred to her name.

HAD NO WILL

"And she had no will.

"In our state the law provides that, when there is no will, the mother owns goes to her children if she doesn't have a will.

"So I'm back where I started, married and fortyish now, down to my last. And they're pals. But they want that two-dirdie, please..."

"I have a bit of hope for those paying the bills of what I'm eating bash in order to put their children through college," says Mr. Ralph Donaldson.

"Just keep on eating bash for a while that all the children graduate, maintain the same standard of austere living, and I'll be able to retire and the association the money the colleges have been coating you.

"My husband died two years ago. He left me $7,500 cash in the bank, a house, $68 a month pension and a good house. Nothing more. And I was 62 years old.

"I knew precious little about finances, but I knew I'd not get through on what I had.

"I waited and I figured and I studied the newspapers. Then one day I saw a story in the paper that a big corporation was going to build a plant at the northeast edge of town. It was going to employ 2,500 people.

"There were no big apartments in that area, like Jug's Hill homes. Where were all these employees going to live?

"I went to city hall to see if I could subdivide a big home I had spacious grounds on the site. I could. I put my house up for sale and started looking for a smaller, cozier one. Two blocks of where the plant was built.

"IT TOOK TIME"

"It took time, but eventually I sold my home for $19,000 to was in a good neighborhood. And I bought a lesser home, but a big one, four blocks from the plant for $13,500. (The neighborhood here was never been as good as my old one, but anyway people were selling out and fleeing because they didn't want to live near a factory.)

"I had $5,500 differential, plus $3,000 left from the life insurance. I made five two-room apartments out of my new-old house, and kept three rooms for myself.

"I went to see the personnel manager of the plant. He was more than happy that I could provide housing for workers so close to the plant. He has already seen me twice as many renters as I can handle...and plans to start operating for two months yet.

"No, it's not as nice as the living I once knew. I don't have to being a landlady will be very regal. But I'm going to be independent, and I'm going to have enough steady income to give myself one grand trip every year..."

Quinte Spiel Main Events Finish Today

The 56 rinks that started the long grind for a grist of trophies and prizes in the Quinte spiel are nearing the end of the trail in the combined Bay of Quinte bonspiel. The Quinte spiel, first staged in 1947, had 56 rinks have been a bive of activity with curlers coming and going from one rink to another to meet scheduled times and there has not been a hitch due to the marvelous organization that was set up before the bonspiel started.

On the last two days of the spiels the men from the boys' events and the ladies' and parent curling should result in the finals of the main events that will be decided at the district curling club this evening.

COMMON DEBATE

tude of Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

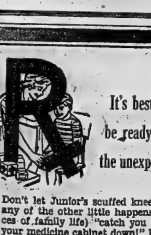
"Feed them a little before the election and withdraw it if he is in that position that is the way the prime minister has been treating the west," Mr. Argue said.

He contended that Mr. Diefenbaker gained support in Prairie in the 1958 election because his promised parity—now charity.

"The cries of "dumpyard" and "nonsense," Paul Martin (L—Essex East) uttered against the party that has no elected MP west of Ontario, said the $42,000,000 promised was inadequate and that if there was one thing the Liberal conservative promises it was in agriculture.

J. E. Pascoe (PC — Moose Jaw-Lake Centre) implied that he and the other 46 Conservatives from the three Prairie provinces had pressed the government recently for early action on farm price payments. When Mr. Argue de-clared he knew what the latter were wasn't paid last year, Mr. Pascoe replied:

"The reason we did not pay it last year was because you did not ask." Pursuing when the 1962 payment was made he said he had a great job trying to get it out of the government."



"Ridiculous," scoffed Mr. Argue.

The debate went on for about four hours, without passage of the appropriation for the session. The argument is expected to continue Monday when the House also likely will consider other supplementary spending estimates, including an extra $40,000,000 for the municipal winter works program.

IN MEMORIAM

DEMILL — In loving memory of our dear son, Peter Scher, Roy J. Demill, who passed away January 28th, 1960.
Time cannot dim the memory
God's will was to take our loved one from
From amidst the toil and career,
And from great and sunshine His Peace.
For we remember our dear He shared
Our every sorrow, cheered by his wife
Gladys and sons and sons
Ronald.

STAFLEY. — In loving memory of our dear son, who passed away January 28th, 1960.
Time's ever changing shades are falling.
But memory holds you dear
And there comes a longing.
If he only would come home.
Surrounded by friends we've lonesome
In the midst of our joys we're
With a smile on our lips we've a Heavy heart.
Sadly missed by the family.

Young Woman Haliburton's New Warden

BANCROFT, Ont. (CP)—Myr. Mrs Bamford, is the first lady warden of Haliburton County.

Mrs. Bamford, who recently was elected chairman and secretary-treasurer of the improvement district of Bicroft, is probably the first woman—and certainly the youngest — ever to hold the job.

Miss Bamford won the post over two other nominees at a meeting of the Haliburton County council.

J. D. Bamford had left the job and Miss Bamford, his secretary for a year, was considered a logical successor.

She now presides over the all-male county council of 13 reeves and deputy reeves.

the Atlantic Ocean from the cape of the west coast of Africa will remain on station until the launching of Aurora 7 again.

Minutes after the postponement was announced, technicians began pumping the volatile liquid oxygen from the Atlas' fuel tank. Great clouds of steam rose from the base of the rocket as the fuel poured out.

Glenn was reported in good spirits throughout his 4½-hour wait. He rested easily and his breathing was normal.

29 MINUTES TO GO

At the time the shot was called off, the count stood at 29 minutes to takeoff.

The rugged, 168-pound astronaut was awakened at 1 a.m. He showered, shaved and ate a breakfast of pot of juice, steak, caffein free coffee, orange juice, toast and jelly.

After donning the space suit, he strode out of his quarters and waved cheerily to reporters outside.

If he was nervous in the face of an intricate and dangerous mission, he gave no outward sign of it as he rode in a van to the launch site, went up in an elevator and climbed into the capsule.

Only the weather went wrong.

The Atlas booster, the world's wide tracking network and the recovery forces all were ready for the third try at orbital flight.

Whenever the shot is tried again, the astronaut will orbit the earth three times if the rocket can be fired by 9:30 a.m. A delay past 11 a.m. would cut his mission to one orbit.

With him at all times Friday was the backup pilot, Navy Lt.-Cmdr. Scott Carpenter, astronaut participated in the same rigid preparations as Glenn.

Lt.-Col. John A. Powers, spokesman for the astronauts, said Glenn, who has not slept, wanted it stressed that although "we have reduced the risk as far as is humanly possible . . . there is still a risk."

The flight is intended to provide guidelines for America's future courses in space. Scientists seek an answer to how man is able to function in prolonged periods of weightlessness. Man going to other planets would have the assurance of free-falling almost the entire flight, which could last weeks.

Quinte COSSA Basketball

Moira seniors went down to defeat last night at the hands of the Quinte seniors. Quinte held the lead throughout the game and when the buzzer went they were in front 42-36. Moira juniors remained unbeaten last night as they walloped Quinte juniors 32-25. Quinte bantams downed their Moira counterparts 40-32. The games were played at Moira.

SENIOR GAME

Quinte Saints, after a shaky start, took the lead by a point at the end of the first quarter. They led 27 and the game looked as if it would be close all the way. Quinte put an end to this fable in the second quarter. They added ten points and held Moira to three to move into a lead that was never in jeopardy. At the end of the first half Quinte led 19-10. Quinte kept the pressure on in the second half. In the third period they outscored Moira 12-7 to put the game on ice. Quinte bantams paced by Dave Hall and Ken Hogg outscored their Moira counterparts 11-6 in the first period. They scored fourteen points but Quinte added ten to stay in front for the victory. High scorer for Quinte was Fair with 21 points. Hish for Moira was Allenby with 17 points.

Scouting activities

By ANNE M. McDONALD

Twelve Auxiliaries were represented at the "Workshop" meeting held by the district committee for Boy Scout Ladies' Auxiliary at St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Church last Thursday.

Members were warmly welcomed at the door by Mrs. Gelstheper, Mrs. J. Bickerd and Mrs. D. Reddick.

Registration was conducted by Mrs. M. Angus and Mrs. J. Soetsinger. There was a fine display of Auxiliary supplies under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. Johnston, assisted by Mrs. Thompson.

GENERAL MEETING

The general meeting was presided over by Mrs. F. C. Gelstheper. The business report and correspondence was read by Mrs. Dave McDonald, who mentioned there is now a service award available to all Auxiliary members while an applicant must have been a member for ten years. The award is made on quality of service rather than length of membership.

Reports were also given by the treasurer, Mrs. J. Nelles; publicity, Mrs. A. Black; and supply secretary, Mrs. J. Johnston. Reports were then heard from various Auxiliaries showing great enthusiasm for the work.

It was announced that the annual pot-luck supper will be held at St. Michael's Auditorium on Thursday, May 3rd, at 6 p.m.

The ladies broke into sessions with the following heading the various groups: Presidents and vice-presidents, Mrs. D. Reddick; secretaries, Mrs. Dave McDonald; treasurers, Mrs. J. Nelles; publicity, Mrs. J. Black. Members reassembled and reports were given of their finding of each group within provincial guidelines.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. J. Snetzinger introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Murray Maw, district Commissioner of the Boy Scouts, who was pleased to see such enthusiasm among the ladies. He said an "Auxiliary is a helper. Ladies may feel that they are playing second fiddle to the Scout Movement, but actually it completes the family group. As an example, he sited the three-legged stool which stands for mother, father and children. One is dependent upon the other.

A mother's attitude either makes or breaks a boy's attitude A mother should shirk about spending more time with her boy as he grows into a man too soon. All the extra activities such as curling, golfing, can wait. The important thing is to work along with your boy while you have him.

The way you can help your boy is by encouraging and help him obtain his badges.

Scouting adds stability and strength to the Scout movement. An Auxiliary is as strong as its executive. Members should share in the work of the Auxiliary. If they remain on one job too long, they tend to stagnate. He strongly suggested that the ladies use their "handbook" as a guide.

In closing, Mr. Maw stated that the principles of Scouting as laid down by Baden - Powell are that it is the duty of a mother to help cultivate in her boy a deep sense of loyalty to home and country and to have a deep and abiding faith in the Supreme Being.

THANKS TENDERED

Mrs. J. Barton graciously thanked Mr. Maw for his fine address and also the ladies who heeded up the sessions.

Two Remanded In Meat Case

ORANGEVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Joseph Fergus Jamieson, charged with selling a dead animal for food, were remanded Friday to March 2.

George Gibson, 32, and Gordon Johnson, 36, were among 12 men arrested earlier this month in various Ontario centres after RCMP had investigated reports that tainted meat was being sold for human consumption.

The men are charged with selling a dead animal or part of a dead animal as food in the Sept. 15-17 period last year, contrary to the Food and Drug Act.

Says Sale of Membership Tickets Not 'Sunday Sports for Gain'

TRENTON — Next Sunday's Junior C hockey game at the Trenton Community Gardens should draw a crowd. Whether the spectators will come out to watch the hockey game or whether they will hang around the lobby looking for excitement is a bit of a question, as a result of a disturbance raised over the sale of "door" tickets to persons holding membership tickets at last Sunday's game, the team's founder, Howard Weese has thrown down the gauntlet and announced that in spite of a warning not to repeat the sale of the extra tickets, the operation will be continued next Sunday.

Mr. Weese is reported to have said that until the sale of these tickets, at the suggested price of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for juniors, the team formed last fall, had lost money on the Sunday games.

At least one person is reported to have called the police last Sunday, believing that the law against Sunday sports for gain was being broken.

Meanwhile, Mr. Weese has consulted with the Ontario Hockey Association's Governor General's department and is assured that this method of raising funds for the team's activity could not be construed as "Sunday sports for gain."

Gardens board chairman Don Smith said while admission charges on Sunday are illegal the board did not object to the selling of membership dues. Up until last Sunday, a silver collection was taken up at the Junior C games, but this has netted very little cash for the team.

Mr. Senik said however, that the board had not given permission for the erection of a sign, listing suggested membership ("dues") charges.

March of Dimes 'Blitz' Set For Monday

TRENTON — Monday night, between two and three hundred "Marching Mothers" from Trenton will "blitz" the city in an all-out effort to raise funds for the rehabilitation of disabled persons.

March of Dimes organizer, Miss Eva Morrison, has 21 captains working under her direction.

As well as the town itself, Rossland Acres, Pine Acres, Frankford, Brighton and Batawa will be visited by the hour for the blitz is from 7.00 p.m. to 8.00 p.m.

On January 31, the Middleton Park area will be canvassed.

Meantime, Miss Morrison reports that the workers at the March of Dimes mailing, "Operation Recovery" at Smithfield, Jim Patterson and Marg Alexander sgt. major assembling jewellery from native gem stones.

CAR HITS POLE

TRENTON — Charles Twyman of Wooler, escaped serious injuries when his car slid on icy pavement as he attempted to pass a truck on Front Street in Trenton last night and struck a hydro pole.

Damage to Mr. Twyman's car was estimated at approximately $450.

Do Not Want Shorter Week, Vacations Cut

Guards at the Hastings County jail don't want a shorter work week — not at the expense of having their annual vacations curtailed.

This was indicated yesterday when it was learned that the county will not now don't care to accept a work week schedule of 44 to 48 hours but at the same time have their annual vacation slashed from the present three weeks to two weeks.

At the January session of county council the jail guards sought a shortened work week and the reduction to 44 hours was approved by council on condition that annual vacations be cut to two weeks.

Today Sterling Reeve Carl Bateman, chairman of the county property committee said he was surprised to learn the jail guards were not agreeable to the change.

He said that at the time of the council session the guards had appeared agreeable to the change.

Reeve Bateman said the matter would again be discussed at the special meeting of county council called for early in February.

P.S. Contest Subjects Pleased Crowd

TRENTON — Grown-ups attending the public speaking contest of the Trenton Legion Hall last night were surprised, and agreeably so, at the quality and diversity of the speeches. Certainly, many of them went home knowing a great deal more than a variety of subjects than they did when they came. The 32 entrants, the 22 contestants, drawn from Grades 9 to 11 of the town's public, separate and high schools were allowed to choose the subjects of their own addresses, by the sponsoring body, the provincial command of the Royal Canadian Legion. Subject matter, too, was prescribed by the youthful competitors.

Subjects ranged from "The Abominable Snowman" (who, according to one speaker, is neither abominable, nor snowman,) to "The Challenge of the Future" from tree dweller to space traveller.

Members of the audience were taken from the town of Trenton in the 1790s to the court of Cleopatra, Queen of Egypt; from basketfields of the Crimea with Florence Nightingale, Iceland, home of the elderzuck; visited the scene of the late George VI with Tony Owl; experienced the "rapture of the deep" with a scuba diver and sympathized with one confronted during an appendectomy.

Chairman for the evening was Legionnaire Ed Donldson and the judges were Miss Hazel Farley, Mr. Mel Campbell and Thorne Spear. Assisting the chairman were Bill McEaren, Bob Wright and Lou Kosack of the Trenton Legion branch.

Winners of the contests and recipients of cash prizes, donated by the Legion branch were: Isobelle Williamson, Anne Hall, Peggy Price and Barbara Pickell. Runners-up were Jennifer Delorge, Jane Simmons, Kelvin Hegge and Susan Keith.

Schools represented were: Prince Charles, St. Peter's, Queen Elizabeth, College St., Marmora St. Senior Public and Trenton High.

Cars Collide Near Hospital

TRENTON—A three-car crash occurred in Trenton around 12.35 a.m. this morning in front of the Trenton Memorial Hospital.

A car driven by Gordon Shoniker, 46 of 301 Dundas Street East in Trenton, was pulling out from the hospital driveway on King St. west, when it was struck by a car driven by William Huffman, 18, of Lorne Avenue, Trenton.

The Huffman vehicle skidded crossways on the road and was struck broadside by a car which had been following it, driven by Gordon Brittlinger, 17, of Roseland Acres, Carrying Place.

A passenger in the Shoniker vehicle Mrs. Elsie Shoniker, 37, sustained back injuries, but she was not hospitalized.

Damage to all three vehicles involved was estimated at approximately $650.

Rotarians Get Recognition

TRENTON — The Trenton Rotary Club has received international recognition in the March issue of "The Rotarian" monthly magazine, published in the United States and sent to Rotarians all over the world.

The February, 1962, issue, features an illustrated article in which 25 Rotarians, of 25 or more years' membership, with perfect attendance records, are named. High on the list are Trenton Rotarians Ernie Goodham and Dick Whitley.

Mr. Goodham has a perfect attendance record of 38 years and Mr. Whitley has never missed a meeting since joining the local club 28 years ago.

Saskatchewan Dilemma

Doctors in Saskatchewan "cannot agree to render service under the (Saskatchewan Government medical care) plan" but will continue to treat patients "in accordance with our capabilities."

That was the information given the Royal Commission on Health Services in a brief from the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Saskatchewan and the Saskatchewan division of the Canadian Medical Association.

It is evident that the doctors wish to withhold co-operation with the government plan, while at the same time continuing to provide their patients with the necessary treatment.

This is made doubly plain by an assertion in the brief that, "We would presume that patients presenting receipts of payment would be able to obtain reimbursement from the insurance program."

The Saskatchewan Government might do worse than to carefully consider following just the procedure the doctors suggest. At the moment, it would appear that a showdown can bring nothing but trouble.

In the event, though, that the Government declines to follow such procedure, the doctors should not delude themselves into thinking that they can escape from the horns of their dilemma, which is whether to bow to the government's wishes or to refuse to treat those in dire need. There are certain to be some patients who will decline to pay bills which the law will hold are not their responsibility but the government's. Among them will be patients who, while they might be able to pay once, cannot afford to pay twice, as would be the case if they were compelled to contribute to a government plan of pre-paid care and were also paying their own doctors' bills. In such cases the doctors would have open to them three courses, to refuse to treat these patients, to accept the terms of the government plan, or to treat patients without charging any fee.

It is regrettable, but typical of life, that those doctors who will suffer most are precisely those with the highest conscientious ideals. Those of lesser sensibilities could refuse to treat patients who would not agree to pay their own bills, or could swallow their convictions and accept payment by the government, but the doctor whose beliefs insisted that he succor the sick but refuse to accept payment for his services would in the best interests of his profession and his patients would have no alternative but to labor without recompense.

The Trouble Is With the Lamb

C. W. Harrison, RCMP Commissioner, says that no law can be properly enforced unless the police is supported by the public. He also says that it is nonsensical "when you pay something like $200,000,000 a year to maintain the police forces of Canada, then don't help the police do their job."

We agree. We are tempted to disagree though, when Commissioner Harrison says that he considers it exaggerated to suggest "that certain restrictive work" done by the police is to blame for public apathy." It is true that, in our opinion, work of traffic control is not a factor in this apathy. Most motorists break the law from time to time, but few of them fail to recognize that traffic control work is essential. What a great many people do not regard as essential, or even desirable, is the enforcement of "blue laws," respecting such things as the sale and consumption of liquor, gambling, Sunday observance and the like.

The work of the police in enforcing these laws creates something worse than apathy; it creates resentment. This is inevitable because similar cases are not treated equally. Only a fraction of those who break the liquor laws are ever apprehended. The police must know about other infractions, but they take no action, probably because no real harm is done by these infractions. "Occasional" bingos are held regularly. Sunday closing laws are ignored at every big summer resort in the province.

Police are most respected when they are entrusted with enforcing laws for which the people, and the police themselves, feel respect.

Crime and punishment grow out of one stem. Punishment is a fruit that, unsuspected, ripens within the flower of the pleasure that concealed it.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Votes Won on Platform

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — The three federal political parties sifting through the ashes of last week's five Ontario provincial by-elections, seem agreed on one thing . . . that when the campaigning comes back to broad, humdrum issues, there's no substitute for the hard, grass roots work of slugging it out on the public platform.

That may, when the candidates and the leaders get out in person and battle it through from platform to platform, in direct personal appeals to the voters, they get newspaper coverage.

These five byelections confirmed what the politicians realize by now, that in "selling" the political market, the mass town newspaper is absolutely indispensable.

Since the 1957 and especially the 1958 Federal election campaigns, there has been something of a disposition to regard television as a political magic lantern.

It was a myth.

It didn't get the contending candidates into their home town newspapers often enough.

And for that politically indispensable, make-or-break newscoverage, it was rediscovered, nothing could substitute for the old-fashioned meeting.

LOVE OF SWEAT

So the three leaders and their candidates spent radio and television pretty much of the quick brush-off and hit the trail in person.

It was the dead of winter. It will remember.

Renfrew South being the closest of the five provincial constituencies to Ottawa, it rated the most Federal attention.

And the national headquarters flare of the three parties, Conservative, Liberal and NDP, were impressed by the way Diefenbaker, Pearson and Donald and company got down to . . . at the way to the hotbed . . . Madawaska wilderness the other night could get across — and say, night after night . . . in drafty halls . . . stopping in rural corner stores and filling stations . . . leaving no hand unshaken.

The Federal MPs watched fascinated, and have been busy since in the privacy of their Centre Block offices, and collectively in their caucuses, with post-mortems of the campaign.

Now it is their pre-election handicap as they face up to the grind of the mid-session themselves, they know that the campaigns in the by-elections are no substitutes at all for the in-person speech and its resulting and essential face-to-face exhaucator campaign.

The five provincial battles confirmed what they already knew . . . that campaigns are sore hindered and served on the whole country, not in the studios of the three business world, but on the public platform, face to face with the people who run the ballot of political decision.

They know, but it seems there's no easy "instant vote" magic, except perhaps in plain political sweat.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jan. 27, 1962

Ottawa became the capital of Canada 104 years ago today—in 1858. Four other cities—Quebec, Montreal, Kingston and Toronto—had been the seat of government. Queen Victoria decided on Ottawa because of its location, away from the U.S.-Canadian border and at that time safe from attack.

1806—The Honeymoon Bridge at Niagara Falls collapsed after it had been used by an ice jam.

John Diefenbaker's cost-tails.

The same type of campaigning is being given the five byelections since. It didn't go over, to Conservative surprise in the former Tory seats of Peterborough and Leeds, lost to the NDP and the Liberals.

This same take-it-easy kind of campaigning began in these five provincial byelections, until suddenly came the realization that Peterborough and Leeds hadn't been political accidents.

Radio and especially television just wasn't the answer. Not personal enough. Nor direct.

It was a story.

It was a good deal of work either.

Just write a short speech, even 45-second plug — depending on how much money you wanted or could afford to blow — and you're somebody's face on the Idiot Box, speak your piece, and sit back and watch the vote roll in.

NO SHORT CUT

That way, some of the politicians, for a while, seemed to think the warm, intimate TV studio could be substituted for the cold, bleak hall, rink or church hall.

Put your TV or radio plush on tape, and you wouldn't have to bother so much with the tiresome business of night meetings.

Now radio and television, truth to tell, did come in very handy at times for the national leaders.

When they had something to say of broad national appeal, they could get it across — and have to travel only as far as the nearest TV or radio set to get it across, that is, if enough people were listening or watching.

And of this they never could be sure.

So to make their campaign as foolproof as good hard work could, they got out in the mud, and for six weeks criss-crossed the country.

Even for the leaders there was nothing so effective as the personal touch.

Nobody was more keenly aware of the truth of this than Prime Minister Diefenbaker, and he pushed himself just about all the way to near exhaustion in six incredibly farflung weeks of election "Main Streeting."

Mike Pearson, too, didn't spare himself. The time spent in the air he admitted were by far the most gruelling wearing six weeks of his life.

But both leaders did rise to this and they've got it strategically done, and the time and effort spent in this skin-to-skin-eering-by-electrons was negligible compared to the in-person work of meeting the voters face to face.

THE "EASY" WAY

Too many MPs, thinking how easy — if costly — it was to use radio and TV, had, by thinking that the holding of campaign rallies, meetings with speeches, was simply old fashioned.

And so, for a time, during the 58 campaign in a lot of constituencies, the candidates cut down on the traditional use of public meetings and speeches and concentrated on electronic electioneering, on the sorting parties, the social round and the supposedly easier, quicker and easier style of politicking.

For many of the Conservatives, it worked. For others it was hardly surprising, the way Diefenbaker swept to his Almost thing in those days.

Almost anybody could have ridden in on

"It's no use trying to make up by admitting I'm right, Kelly - - - I've changed my mind!"

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 27th, 1942.

One hundred and eighty-three years afterwards, the birthday of a Bard passed quiet was recalled Sunday across a great part of the world for two reasons, because of his supremacy as a poet and because of his unerring instinct and bold utterance for human justice Robert Burns gave the world the best lyrics of love song and a homely philosophy of life which has stirred men and women more than all the teachings of all the philosophers of the ages. On this anniversary it is pointed out how Burns' message to the world of his day is the trumpet call of today and of all time. It is the duty of the nations to defend themselves by all the might of which they are capable.

His greatness is a tribute to Scots' humanity and character and ideals; it proves how through the poor has come one of the greatest sources of human emancipation the world has ever known. His birthday shows the blessings of good ancestry and of the noble ideals of a mother's love and unselfishness. With the eye of sheer genius he caught the love of mankind in "A Man's a Man for a' That."

Encouraging progress in every department of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church throughout the past year was revealed at the annual congregational meeting held on Wednesday evening. Mr. S. G. Robertson, chairman of the Board of Managers, presided at the well-attended meeting with Rev. W. J. Walker leading the devotions. The session clerk, Mr. J. Ross Thompson of Catherine Street.

Mrs. E. J. Jackson of 179 Sidney Street returned home after spending several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Horton Hammecker in Long Island.

Forty men passed last night at the Y.M.C.A. lodge residents.

Flying Helen Trunisch will leave shortly to enter St. Michael's Hospital in Toronto as a nurse-in-training.

Mr. H. B. Fetterly, Superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf, addressed the members of the Napanee Rotary Club this week. Mr. C. B. McGuire, bursar of the school, was also present at the meeting.

Miss Marie Benson of Foxboro is visiting friends in the city.

40 YEARS AGO

January 27th, 1922.

A fast game of hockey was played last evening between the Belleville and the G.T.R. Midgets; the result being a score of 5 to 1 in favor of the Juniors. The following composed the teams: Excelsiors — H. Bradford, Bukard, Weir, C. Gerow and R. Bukard; subs: Willie Carter and Vicky Cook. G.T.R. Midgets — H. Darrah, W. Folwell, Hallam, J. Biggs, W. Wardbaugh and H. Morris; sub: "Nig" Ross. The referee was Mr. Jack Pratt, referred the game. The Midgets looked fine in their new uniforms. The stars for the Excelsiors were H. Bukard, Bunnie Weir, Brad. Cook and Iggo Bukard. The stars for the Midgets were Walt Wardbaugh and Jim Biggs.

Last evening at the Orddel-Masonic Temple the following officers of Canion No. 8 were installed: Captain — E. M. Jury; Lieutenant — G. F. Yonker; Ensign — R. L. Johnson; Clerk-Recorder — G. H. Mayr; Accountant — Chas. C. F. Frost.

There is now in progress an skating rink on Coleman Street near the lower bridges and planted behind Hollinrake's welding shop. It is well lighted and a dressing room is supplied.

50 YEARS AGO

January 27th, 1912.

Mr. Ernest A. Geen, who was transferred some time ago from the Belleville branch of the Dominion Bank to the Marmora branch of the bank, has been transferred to the branch of the bank at Berlin, Ont. Mr. Geen made many friends in Marmora and prior to his departure he was tendered a banquet and presented with an address. Much regret was expressed at his departure from Marmora.

Forty five members and Peoples' Society enjoyed a friends of the Baptist Young reception in the Campbellville evening where they were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Everson. One had a most enjoyable time.

Miss Margaret Robertson of George Street left yesterday for Kamsack, Sask., where she will reside in the future.

Mrs. R. J. Leonard has left to visit her brother, Mr. George Adams Sears in Roseville, N.Y.

Real Pride In His Craft

Ottawa Citizen

A man who takes pride in his workmanship is entitled to respect, South a man is John Petrakis, a Greek shrimp fisherman. So intense is Mr. Petrakis' pride, indeed, that he is preparing to abandon wife and family and flee to far-off places rather than be exposed to ridicule by his fellow craftsmen.

Mr. Petrakis has been a shrimp fisherman for 23 years and he always regarded himself as a capable seaman. Thus he kept his self-respect. Every man must do if he is to look into the world in the face. Last spring he leaned too far over the side of a heaving ship while mending the net, fell overboard like any landlubber. He was eventually picked up by another vessel, but he left him ashore some distance from his home port.

The embarrassed fisherman did not return home. He migrated north to Brooklyn instead, got a job in a marine repair shop, and sent as much money as he could back to his family, but not under his own name. As for his wife and the rest of the shrimp fishermen were concerned, Mr. Petrakis was dead. He has now a partial change of heart; he is sending for his family, but he resolutely refuses to go back to Florida and be pointed at as the man who fell off a boat.

Perhaps Mr. Petrakis carries his craftsman's pride a mile too far. Yet could we, should we, with-in reason, with more of his breed.

Nature Hides Some Facts On Cholesterol Situation

Dear Dr. Molner: Please tell me about cholesterol in the blood. I discovered that I have some, and would like to know what it can get. — J.B.

You don't say how much of cholesterol in the blood. That would be a very important fact. All people have some. Cholesterol is supposed to be in the blood. If you have too much, that is another matter. Or it could be a case "could be," because the study of cholesterol, in spite of all that has been written about it, is relatively new.

We think, and have good reason to believe, that excessive cholesterol in the blood may have some long-term influence on the extent to which one's arteries harden.

We do not know with any accuracy how much is "too much," nor have we by any means solved the question of what effect other health factors may have. Some people with a fairly high cholesterol levels seem to keep their arteries in good condition for years.

In short, a high cholesterol level is "probably" going to be harmful — but unquestionably there are other factors at work, too. What role cholesterol is recalling to the arteries and thus "harden" them? What prevents it? We don't know.

For one example of the uncertainty of the significance of cholesterol, and cholesterol of course is a form of fat, how is it that rabbits, which eat no meat or fat, produce cholesterol in their fatty little bodies, despite eating "rabbit food?" But they do.

I've spent a great many hours reading up on all the new reports of cholesterol studies. I have no doubt that we are on our way to some new knowledge in that field, but not yet.

But we haven't yet arrived. Maybe next month or next year somebody will dig out the further facts that Nature has so far hidden from us.

Meantime you want to know, of course, what to do. On the basis of what we have found out to date.

First, we can't avoid cholesterol — nor should we want to — even by eating "rabbit food." The body makes its own cholesterol from many sources, chief of which is solid fat.

Second, this isn't something that can be influenced over night, or in a few days, by diet. Years? Yes, perhaps.

Third: The one thing we can do is to avoid overloading our systems with too much fat — especially animal fat. Eggs contain cholesterol in them, but I strongly doubt if they are harmful. I would, however, reduce the amount of meat fat. Eat the lean, avoid the fat. Shun fried foods. Use vegetable oils for cooking, salad dressing, etc. For a spread, margarines containing a higher percentage of unsaturated vegetable fats are available. If you're overweight, cut down, get fewer calories.

That's my advice on cholesterol. If, or when, we know more about it, I'll let you know.

Dear Dr. Molner: When my throat became sick with sore throat and ran high fevers, the doctor told me to give them an ice water enema, but brought the fever right down.

Then I was told that later in life this kind of enema would affect the stomach and cause ulcers. Is this true?

An enema does not (and cannot) affect the stomach, and will not "shrink" it. Nor will it cause piles.

Mrs. L.B.: It is, by forking of a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Molner, No. 1508, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope, and $1 in coin to cover handling and postage.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

This can be said for starlings: they are among the earliest singers of the year. Right now, with thirteen Saturdays a month between now and the end of May, you can see a male starling perched in the middle of a frost-bitten tree, huddled perhaps a little in the cold, his head a little feathered out, his bill pointed skywards. And if you are within hearing, you will discover he is singing. True, it is what William Henry Hudson called the "wheezy" song the starling sings, a conglomeration of many other birds' messages. You can detect the warbla of a robin, chirp of sparrow, a remarkable imitation of a blue jay, in miniature, and bits and they are among the earliest singers of the year. SMELL

We little realize how very important is this ability on our part to smell. With the animals it is even vastly more important.

Take the dog, for instance. He wouldn't be a dog without his nose. He would be back to his family, but not under his own name. As for the wife and the rest of the shrimp fishermen were concerned, Mr. Petrakis was dead. He has now a partial change of heart; he is sending for his family, but he resolutely refuses to go back to Florida and be pointed at as the man who fell off a boat.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

LIVE WHAT YOU SING

The Bible has a lot to say about holiness. The word "holy" really means, "set apart." Nothing is holy if it is set apart to sacred use.

This word has come into bad repute in modern life. We don't like holy people, and we don't like holy objects. We speak of the holier-than-thou attitude toward others — and we don't like it. The word holy is definitely not popular in the modern world.

Yet holiness in its true sense is the finest thing in this old plagued world of ours. It means the willingness of a person to set certain things aside for sacred use. It involves looking upon things and persons from a sacred and supernatural viewpoint. Above all, it involves a type of behavior whereby we treat certain things or certain things in life and yes to other things.

Today we call this sort of thing self-discipline. The word holy did not originally mean about the word discipline, although the polity was connected by being God, and the saints their backs. But the ancients understood the connection between holiness. They looked with awe upon certain things in life. They set aside a day for the Lord's sacred use. They themselves were constantly striving to be holy.

The word "holy" is unpopular today, and holiness has little standing in modern life. But it should have great standing. The world would get along a lot better if it did. We sing "Holy, holy, holy." We should all be happier if we lived what we sang.

A Lift For Living

His House Has Many Mansions

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

In Thornton Wilder's play, "Our Town," a letter is delivered at the local post office with this address: "Grover's Corners, New Hampshire, the Earth, the Solar System, the Universe, the Mind of God." A lad, looking out of the window and hearing the address of the letter read at this little post office, exclaims in awe-struck tones: "What do you know! What do you know!"

Wilder wrote those words before sputnik went launched and space travel was begun. Now we're even more amazed than that lad at Grover's Corners when we think of our towns in their vast solar setting.

Some people feel the "space age" destroys their ideas of heaven. This attitude is just the opposite of mine. The "space age" gives a more congenial climate for my belief in immortality, because we now see how much life there is beyond the earthly realm. We have opened the windows of our minds on infinity. I, for one, feel it more reasonable to believe the words of Jesus, "In my Father's house are many mansions."

We are such slaves of our senses it is hard for us to think of realities beyond their reach. It is very difficult to break the habit of judging by appearances. Of course, we have greatly enlarged the little worlds of our own five senses can grasp. We can now circle our globe in a matter of hours and hear words from every part of it in a matter of minutes. We can take the microscope and see in a tiny drop of apparently clear water a multitude of moving particles. The Divine Artist who created this universe not only painted panoramic sunsets and carved Grand Canyons, but He also make miniature pictures in coral, mixing the colors of orchids and maps the courses of electrons.

We are not so stupid as to deny there is nothing beyond what we can grasp with our naked physical senses. We know that beyond the range of the visible spectrum are the infrared rays at one end and the ultraviolet rays at the other. When we look at the surface of the calm ocean it appears to be flat. Yet we know the earth is round. We explain this contradiction by saying that we do not see enough of the earth at any one time to detect its roundness. Exactly so!

Then if we are not deceived by the flat appearance of the earth, why should we be deceived by appearances in the matter of death, We cannot see enough of death at any one time to judge it correctly. When we observe death, it is the death of another person. We see the dissolution of the body. We feel the separation. But what the dying person sees and feels, what glimpses he may be getting beyond the veil — these we do not know.

Let us not be fooled in our judgment of reality by the limits of our physical senses, for in this vast universe of God, in this "Our Father's house" of many mansions," much goes beyond appearances.

Jesus said, "Life is more than meat." The brain, to be sure is a continual process of decay and renewal. If, as we are told, our bodily tissues are renewed every seven years, then I suppose each of us gets a new brain every seven years. But we do not get new minds every seven years. In fact some of us do not seem to get a new idea every seven years! Yes, life is more than meat and the mind is more than the brain.

When a mother bows her newborn child in her arms, the flesh and blood in that little body are her flesh and blood. But Frederick Norwood, speaking in his middle age, said of something like this: "I am sure that there isn't a particle of my mother's body in me now, but that's a lot of my mother in me." How true! In our growth we have left behind the physical cells of our mother's bodies, but the spirit, the ideals and the love of our mothers — they are still in us.

Two-Part Guides' Course Completed

A most successful two-part leader training program for the Belleville Division of Guides and Brownies was concluded Thursday evening at the Kiwanis Centre.

It was the first time in the history of Guiding in the city that the division was in a position to conduct such a scheme without requesting the assistance of a provincial warranted trainer.

On the past two Thursday evenings, approximately 30 leaders attended each period to receive Blue training from Mrs. Doris Saville and Brown training by Mrs. Ann Watkin, the colors designating Guides and Brownies, respectively.

A week ago Mrs. Watkin summarized the qualities set for Guides and spoke on the importance of games, giving the Brown Owl and the Tawny Owls instructions for those found most popular.

CEREMENTIES, TESTS

Ceremonies and tests were the main topics of the second training period. An example Brownie meeting was conducted, complete with a load stool made by Pack 13 or Mrs. Mary School. During which those present could experience the change ideas and were questioned with new regulations.

Similarly, Mrs. Seelie gave the Company captains and lieutenants suggestions for roll call; inspection and ways to hold meetings. She reminded them of their great responsibility and duty as a Guide. Beautifully made pennants from the OCD Company were shown, plus a well packed box containing everything needed to conduct a rougher meeting. As with the other group, methods were discussed and new regulations covered.

TRAINING PERIODS CHANGED

Division Commissioner Mrs. D. Stewart was on hand to meet the leaders and was pleased with the accomplishments of the two training periods.

Retiring District Commissioner, D. Seelie and Mrs. J. Watkin had been recommended by headquarters for this award, and to obtain their warrants as qualified trainers they must conduct two more such projects, the final one to be approved by a provincial trainer.

Coffee and cookies were served by Mrs. J. Gist, training chairman, who earlier in the evening was in charge of registration.

St. Joseph's P.G. Sponsors Dessert Bridge

St. Joseph's Parish Council of the C.W.L. held a "Dessert Bridge" at St. Michael's Academy on Thursday evening, with 33 tables in play.

The co-conveners were: Mrs. H. Carr-Brunt and Mrs. R. Beirne, while the deserts were conveyed by Mrs. E. LaBelle and Mrs. J. Healey and committee; the pies, cakes, jellies and desserts were set out on long tables appointed with white linen cloths and centred with yellow and pink roses, flanked by two gleaming candelabra.

Bridge winners were:

Ladies' first, Frances McQuaid; men's first, R. W. Hurley; ladies' second, Irene Belanger; men's second, Joseph Chapelle; ladies' low, Martha McDermid; men's low, Charles Batt; hidden score, Miss Marjorie Desaulniers; men's, John Eadie.

Campbellford H.S. Graduate Wins Award

FRANKFORD — Mr. Stephen H. Riddall, son of the Rev. T. J. Riddall minister of the Free Methodist Church, Campbellford has been awarded the John Mathewson Scholarship in mathematics from Queen's University at Kingston, Ontario.

This award valued at $80, is granted to the undergraduate Sessional School student, with the highest standing in the August examination in Mathematics. Mr. Riddall, of Campbellford has been awarded the scholarship with 92 per cent.

Mr. Riddall emigrated from Northern Ireland and since coming to Canada has been a student at Quinte Secondary School, Belleville during 1958-9 and graduated from Campbellford High School in 1960.

Mr. Riddall is a student on the staff of the Keith Wightman School in Peterborough.

Women's Institute

SIDNEY SOUTH W.I.

The January meeting of the Sidney South W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. H. Melbourne. There were 28 in attendance. The topic combined historical research, citizenship and education.

Unfortunately, the prearranged speaker was detained by business elsewhere, so that the program on citizenship was presagted.

Roll call was answered by the showing of an interesting collection of antiques. Many were 200 years old, and they included plates, an ornate Victorian clock, a hand-worked family sampler, an Anglican Book of Common Prayer, and a piece of legislature pertaining to this district.

Mrs. Ross Windsor, who heads the citizenship and education committee, provided members with a quiz on this country and on the management of the same, made up of ten questions which must be answered by New Canadians in order to receive the citizenship. This quiz made many members realize that they had better follow its "goings on" a little more closely.

Mrs. D. Reid followed with an essay on "Citizenship."

The evening ended with lunch.

The next meeting will be in charge of the historical research committee.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The Women of the Moose held their last meeting of the month on January 8th. Before the meeting opened, the members of the Chapter, together with the men of the LOOM Lodge and their friends, sat down to a potluck supper served by the Chapter, assisted by Dorothy Embury and her committee.

Tickets were sold and draw donated by Eddie Whittaker and won by Sterling Shandraw. It was decided to leave Moose Hall at 8.30 on a chartered bus for Toronto on January 28th for the mid-winter conference being held in Toronto.

The Loyal Order of Moose invited the Women of the Moose to a joint meeting to be held in Moose Hall on February 11 when the men will put on their initiation. A degree team will be present from Toronto. Arthur Cooper from Toronto will also be present. A buffet lunch will be served afterwards.

After the meeting closed, Sid Welch showed movie pictures of the Christmas party, the children's Christmas tree and some other films.

The Sr. Regent, Nellie Shandraw extended thanks to the co-workers for their help on the supper.

St. John's F.G. Elects 1962 Officers

The annual meeting of St. John's Friendship Group, Point Anne, was held on the evening of January 9th at the home of Mrs. Leo Bradshaw.

Mr. Cwaller presided over the meeting with Mrs. Nellie MacDonald as secretary.

The financial report was given by Mrs. Paula Horwood and the report on the year's activities by Mrs. Nellie MacDonald both being adopted.

Nominations were opened for the officers for 1962, the following being elected honorary president — Mrs. H. Lucas; president — Mrs. Audrey Chisholm; 1st vice-president — Mrs. Dorothy Hart; 2nd vice-president — Mrs. Hazel Juby; secretary — Mrs. Nellie MacDonald and treasurer — Mrs. Paula Horwood.

The meeting was turned over to the new president, who after thanking the business all hand, closed the meeting.

The next meeting will be held on February 27th, at 1.45 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Basil McKendrick.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Bradshaw served refreshments and was tendered a vote of thanks by the members.

"Disabled and Retarded" Topic At Women's Study Guild

The Women's Study Guild met at the home of Mrs. R. C. Ellis. The business period was followed by a most inspiring worship service, presented by Mrs. N. I. Meldrum. The meditation was based on Scripture from the Luke, 4 and dealt with how people react to the stresses of life. The thought left with the members was that for the true and faithful Christian, storms but strengthened faith, whereas the weak were often overcome.

The topic was "The Disabled and Retarded". Part One, "The Disabled", presented by Mrs. George Meades jr., showed that great progress has been made in the past century towards helping those in this category who are at all able, to become at least partially self-supporting.

SERVICE CLUBS

Service Clubs and Fraternal Orders have a large share in this work, while the government, through its employment office, has been of great help in placing handicapped persons through a special section devoted solely to this task.

The Employment Office in Belleville has only recently established a special department, but it has already proved the need was present by the number of applicants Processed. "The March of Dimes," which has a Rehabilitation Centre in Kingston, gives aid to all disabled persons regardless of the origin of disability. This information raised the labeling of some members, who had believed the March of Dimes to be entirely in aid of Polio victims.

PART TWO

Part Two, "The Mentally Retarded", was presented by Mrs. L. F. Heid, who informed the members that 30 of every 1000 persons are retarded, 25 of these are now believed educable, four more trainable. As the cost of private schools for these children was prohibitive for a great many families, parents and sympathetic volunteers began co-operative schools, in a small way, several years ago. These have now grown to the stage where most urban centres have either a school, and a government grant defrays approximately half the cost.

Auxiliary classes are also in operation in the school system, although only at an age level of 13 to 15, and a need would seem to exist for such classes at junior levels.

The Guild members agreed that the Local Association is to be congratulated on the strides made in the care of the retarded in this district during the nine years they have been operating.

Modern Country Club Rises From Ruins of Roman Glory

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

CAESAREA, Israel — North from Tel Aviv, the road cuts through the Akbaizi desert that is so much of Israel.

Centuries of neglect had transformed this one-time "land flowing with milk and honey." Windwhipped to bumblweed, swaying elephant grass, dunes and rocks, garlanded with streams of mud, marked it a landscape. On our left the Mediterranean surf spent itself on the clean white beaches.

Two-thirds of the way to Haifa we turned off and headed between the lightly rolling hills and scrub trees, towards the sea. The Mediterranean seethed and roared louder. Then, rising from its chest, the arches of a Roman aqueduct stood against the sky, almost intact after 2,000 years.

This was the capital of Herod, a once magnificent city where archaeologists have unearthed a hippodrome for chariot races, an amphitheatre and some exquisite statuary on the site of Herod's second palace house. For hundreds of years Byzantines, Crusaders, Moslems and Turks fought for this place, and on the sea wall above the beach a Turkish fortress still stands atop Roman ruins. There's all there is to, except for some chunks of Roman columns.

And the country club, of course.

BECOMING A REALITY

Long before Herod's day, the site had been a favorite with a modern hilltop club house from which Romans could look out, and can be seen in one sweeping glance. There are genuine Corinthian capitals for the marbers, and they say that at least every tenth diver has a Roman coin concealed in it.

The next step in this project is construction of a 100-unit Caesrea Beach Resort Villa-Hotel. Work groups are also scheduled to be broken this month. Financed by a group of Philadelphia investors, it will have a shopping centre, synagogue, office, hotel services, yacht basin and furnished apartments at $25,000 and up, which the owners may rent out to tourists a la Jamaica's Round Hill.

Nearly everyone who is anyone in Israel, as well as some 4,000 members elsewhere pay $10 to $25 a year for membership, belong to Caesrea and it is the meeting-place of probably the most cosmopolitan in the world. Many come only to play or have played here are Sam Snead, Danny Kaye, U.S. Ambassador Ogden Reid, the Japanese Ambassador, two Et Al pilots who had a golf date and set a nonstop jet record from New York to keep it, and a gentleman who requested a cap with the club insignia on it so he might wear it proudly at his own restricted club back home (Caesrea is not restricted — Editor says).

COMING OF AGE

There are those who hold that a golf club is a frivolous project for a country where there are still signs in the hotels urging you to conserve water to frigate the Negev, and where every able bodied man is on 24-hour military call. But to most the club is a symbol of Israel's coming of age and settling down to the normal pursuits of pleasure as well as work.

To us the fascination of Caesrea was in its cross-section view of middle-class Israel society.

We sat in the grill with club secretary Herschell Benjamin, a British World War II artillery major whose family had been in England for four generations. As 50's golfer, a dedicated bird watcher, lately a cattle rancher and now a gentleman farmer, he was sipping Gordon's and Schweppes — without ice, of course — as we watched the passing parade.

There were South Africans and Britons in tweeds and ascots, gregarious Americans like Americans at any golf club, and native born Sabras with angular brown features like oliverwood carvings. They were all conversing in a language that became academic 20 centuries ago and didn't have words for "golf," "country club" or "Scotch on the rocks."

We asked Benjamin what had brought him and the others to Israel and wedded them into a homogeneous group. He lit his pipe, smiled a wry British half-smile, and put it this way:

"Maybe it's because if any of us suddenly decided to grow sarlocks and a beard, and walk around Allenby Road at high noon blowing a ram's horn, no one would even turn to look at us."

Likely it will never come to that. But we thought we knew what he meant.

RANK SYMBOL

Dress was originally a symbol of rank, prescribed for the various classes of society.

Retarded Children's Assoc. Names Officers for 1962

CAMPBELLFORD — The regular meeting of the Campbellford Association for Retarded Children was held at Merryvale school on Monday evening with president, Rev. G. Whitehorne, presiding.

The annual meeting was conducted after the regular meeting where reports were received, objectives discussed and panels formulated for the future.

Mrs. G. Oder, treasurer, gave a detailed report of receipts, and donations and expenditures. The financial status of the school, with the addition of the government grant which comes in February, will be assured, possibly until the end of the present term.

SCHOOL BUDGET

The school budget is around $6,000 in the largest items of course being the teachers' stipend, transportation and rent to the Knox Club for the use of the room.

Other expenses—are for—light, fuel and small amounts. The association is grateful to the municipal councils of Campbellford, Seymour, Percy, Cramahe, Brighton and Asphodel for the levies and grants and hope these municipalities will see their way clear to help again in this rewarding educational project.

ACCIDENT FREE, TRANSPORTATION

William Petter, transportation chairman, in his report, stated bus route had covered approximately 25,000 miles satisfactorily and accident free. The parents of the children reimburse the taxi service to a degree.

Mrs. J. Rannie, educational secretary, stating that all children had been entered in the proper medical clinic. School supplies for the time being are adequate.

Richard Cook, reporting for property, stated the necessary improvements had been taken care of.

Mrs. F. M. Rutherford in reporting for the public relations committee, stated a program of public relations was necessary so that the general public should become more interested and acquire a more comprehensive understanding of what mental retardation really is.

RETARDED CHILD'S RIGHTS

A mentally retarded child under socially destitute himself or isolate himself. He may remain infantile or he may engage in familiar behavior in a bewildering and hostile world. The latter struggle to prove that such children were entitled to educational resources of their communities is at an end. All across the country their rights in this regard are being written into local and provincial laws. Where this has been done there is mounting evidence as to the efficacy of the instruction, that is being offered.

1962 OFFICERS

The following is the slate of officers for 1962, presented by the nominating committee chairman the Rev. Owen Barrow; president — Rev. Fr. G. Whitehorne; 1st vice-president — Rev. Fr. Petter; 2nd vice-president — Mrs. F. M. Rutherford; recording secretary — Mrs. Eva Welz; corresponding secretary — Mrs. J. Rannie; treasurer — Mrs. G. Oder; additional executive members — O. Congregational Meeting

FRANKFORD UNITED CHURCH

Wednesday evening was the annual congregational meeting of Frankford United Church. Over 100 people sat down to a potluck supper, during which Miss Barbara Stickle, Sunday School teacher, led in appropriate devotional period, assisted by Elaine Sharpe and Linda Dafoe, with James Hamilton at the piano. The CGIT girls attended in uniform.

The business meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock. Mr. Harry Wickson, chairman of the Board of Stewards, reported a rapidly expanding budget, with local receipts almost doubled and missionary giving trebled, over the last two years.

The budget included $1,500 for a new parsonage, and $1,100 for debt reduction. Mr. Walter Morrow, clerk of Session, reported on the membership during the year and 33 baptisms. He commended the Session's appreciation of the church, under the direction of Mrs. Karl Austin, organist and choir-master. Mr. Arnold Stickle, treasurer, presented and explained that the United Church paper was going regularly into 312 homes and the envelope contributed to the overflowing congregations every Sunday morning.

Mrs. George Lyons, Mrs. Geo. McGee and Mrs. Charles Judd were appointed custodians of the communion table.

Mrs. Howard Richards, general superintendent of Mission Band, assisted superintendents, Mrs. Harold Vosburgh, Mr. Jack Williams, Mrs. R. Hall, Mrs. Ross Hall, Mrs. Tomecek, gave a glowing account of the active and growing Sunday school. Also the primary and nursery departments showed the need of expanded accommodation.

Miss Sandra Morrow reported on the Mission Band Love for the Young Peoples project. Miss Jean Chase for the Mission Band and Miss Barbara Stickle for the C.G.I.T., all reported interesting budgets and increasing membership.

The men's A.O.T.S. Club was active in promoting social work of the congregation for men. Wilbert Hollingsworth was a cabinet minister in Ontario Older Boys' Parliament.

Church Service Guild gave the treasurer's report for the Women's Association, which included Presbyterial Assessment $522, under direction of Mrs. Fryer, parsonage committee convener.

Mrs. M. Grills submitted the W. Scott, Mrs. Morrow, secretary's account of visitations, cards and sends, flowers and other activities.

Mrs. J. K. Beach reported for the Women's Missionary Society raised for missions and the Sunday morning care of the nursery. Mrs. Lyons, convener.

The Women's Missionary Society circle of Mrs. Ross Morrow, treasurer and Mrs. G. Mellow, president, included $443 for missions.

Mrs. Gilbert Gilmour was convener of the Ladies' Aid work by the board of stewards and special thanks tendered to Mr. H. E. Wadill, 25 years as church steward, and to Mr. Merrin Dafoe for many years church treasurer, whose work she will be taking over. A Christian education committee was set up for supervision of Christian education in the congregation. The ushering committee, chairman Mr. Claude Moree, was commended for its good work.

The new organists Mr. and Mrs. Church Women, was prepared to resident the W.M.S. Evening Auxiliary and W.M.S.

The following were constituted as the session for 1962: Messrs. Walter Morrow, Joe Morris, Harry Hierlehey, Howard Richards, Maurice Mallory, Frank Rabel, Raymond Rowe, Kenneth Rooke, Jack Williams, Alan Pickering, Ray Moran, Geo. Lyons, Dr. J. K. Beach and the Rev. Chas. R. Judd, chairman.

The Board of Stewards was elected with Mr. Harry Wickson as chairman and the following members: Messrs. Harold Abbot, Earl Bonisteel, Keith Bush, Mervin Dafoe, Claude Mohrin, Jaime Servos, Holt Waddill, Preston Chase, Arnold Stickle, Gordon Savage, Maurice Bird, Robt. Tomecek, Phil Lewis, Ray Rumney, Harold Wickson, William Day, and Mrs. Raymond Rowe and Mrs. Frank Rabel.

The Rev. Charles R. Judd thanked the people for the spirit of co-operation during the year and expressed pleasure at the progress indicated by the various reports. Mr. Judd was granted leave of absence for two Sundays in February to accompany Mrs. Judd to Los Angeles to visit her sister.

Mrs. F.Y. — All her high-flown talk is just rationalization for immoral behavior.

Minna H. — No one will be harmed by it; we are planning to do, and our meetings may benefit.

Mrs. F.Y. — Perhaps the Council can bring the weight of its views to Minna and stop her playing it cozy with those wicked and hopeless to me. She's trying to tell me it's quite common in her circles. If so God help us all!

She plans to proceed with an "affair." An older man, a friend of the family, is violently in love with her. She is strongly attracted to him, too. The story is that he's been separated from his wife for years and that she doesn't care what he does so long as she gets his check on time each month.

Worse, Minna's husband...my son-in-law...is a nonconformist type. Although he says he'd never stray from Minna's side, he's willing to let her go ahead with her "affair as a gesture of his trust in her. He wants to be big.

Did you ever hear of such nonsense. What about marriage vows?

Minna-H. — My mother isn't quite sure, but the variation which morality can take and still be moral. Ned and I have friends, many of them, a happy wife loving each other, and a marriage that has had a long small side affair, which only makes them appreciate each other more. They return to each other's arms even more strongly for having had the chance to experiment, to experience a excursion.

If Ned came to me with a proposal like the one I brought to you, I would have believed he'd been the same as his. We began to each other, we'll never have divorce. Then we're while, brilliant, charming and attractive, isn't husband material. I'd never marry him in a million years. As long as my husband agrees, why should my conscience bother?

The Council: What a strange line of reasoning! Let's build and strengthen our marriage, says Minna, by declining it. We have news for her. What she hails as the new morality in sex is the old stuff, as old as savagery. What's really new, evolved through the ages as a fine and delicate but more unwieldy art, is monogamous marriage.

Naturally — and we use the term literally because we know something of human nature — we agree with Mrs. Y. Never mind those who go "wandering." Nobody has yet done the complete follow-through to reach the interior, the regrets, the self-hate which inevitably will come over her.

Nor has a master study been made of the converse: the husband who has an affair in the right nor to the left—(not haughty nor seriously, that is!) but bowed to the straight and narrow of their vows, turned it to the benefit of their marriage (and indestructible) oneness.

Minna, we're still in the talking stage we urge you, Minna, to decide it. This advice jibes with the "wisdom of the ages" which isn't arbitrary, heartless or old-fashioned, but instead dedicated to your best interests.

Seriously this marriage, despite the fancy protestations, is in trouble. It is only a bored, self-doubting, and idly curious wife who would succumb to the idea of an interlude to her wife. It all adds up to "Time's a-wasting."

Better to turn all the energies involved — mental, emotional and yes, physical — to bring health back to the marriage. Invoking a third party to do this will merely make the relationship less stable. The true course is for Minna and Ned to devote themselves to bringing maximum happiness to each other.

QUESTION:

. . . plan to give a christening party for three relatives, approximately 16 people. The christening will be at 1.30 in the afternoon. I suppose we will be home by 2.00 p.m. Then we will take a few pictures etc. After that I plan to pass a tea . . . The problem is, what do I serve with the wine? I will not have the energy to prepare a tea and they will all be gone by 4 o'clock anyway. What do you suggest? Hors d'oeuvres, assorted little cakes or what? — A. A.

ANSWER:

I've had an idea from long ago. Make the Sponge Cake below and serve it with fruit-and-unsalted whipped cream.

SPONGE CAKE: (serves 12):

1 cup milk, 11 egg yolks, 2 cups sugar, 2¼ cups sifted cake flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoons salt, 1½ teaspoons vanilla, ½ cup melted butter.

Scald the milk. Beat the egg yolks until very thick, adding lemon-colored. Add sugar slowly, beating well after each addition. Sift the flour, salt, baking powder and salt together. Add the dry ingredients alternately with the scalded milk and vanilla. Fold in the melted butter and mix just enough to make smooth. Pour into two 9" layer cake pans lined on the bottom with wax paper. Bake in 350 deg. Fahr. for 20 to 25 minutes. Cool in the pans for a few minutes before turning out. Remove wax paper and put each cake into 3 wedges. Serve each wedge with a mound of Fruit-ed Whipped Cream on a plate. (Type: I heavy cream until stiff. Do not add sugar.) Add 2 tablespoons each shredded Brazil nuts, shredded almonds, glace pineapple, glace cherries, green glace cherries and sliced peel. This is excellent. Hostesses should file it for a made-in-advance dessert.

"CANADA'S MAGIC CARPET"

"For the spell we cast shall prevail at last . . ."—from a Young Man's Prayer by Elise Clement.

"I'm a Scotsman's paradise," said Mr. Ian Sclanders of 100 Bridge Street, East, adding, as he spoke of a private holiday cruise in a comfortable setting on the woods of New Brunswick, where the pools and brooks teach abundance catches that most of the fish must be tossed back to maintain the law's quota limits. Former visits there, as guest of a friend, a close friend, always satisfied a six hour motor trip, each way. But this year, we flew in, by a private plane. It was like being on a magic carpet and something out of the Arabian Nights. It took just fifty minutes".

We are told that while fishermen and hunters are making good use of flying to inaccessible parts of Canada's virgin territory, the automobile travelling public is beginning to discover the busin airlines that are now operating out of almost every municipal airport in eastern Canada.

The opportunity, hereby being incorporated, makes it possible to visit Indian villages, Hudson's Bay Company posts, lumber stations, mining operations and the small towns buried in the forests, lakes and rivers of the woods.

One traveller, Mr. Arthur Davenport, describes how, two years ago, after many months of planning, and his legs having travelled by canoes with Indian guides for two "hard, long and strenuous months" to the Hudson's Bay Company post at Fort Albany, Ontario.

This year, at a cost of only ten dollars each way, they were able to visit the same post by the Indian village there all in a day and still enjoy "civilized comfort of breakfast and dinner at our hotel at the end-of-the-road town of Chisholm, Ontario.

This post, he learned, along with its summer population is visited similarly by air. The trip, he says, is unforgettable.

It is situated on the eastern shore of the James Bay, Mr. Sclanders said, and about the same parallel as the southern tip of James Bay.

There is a wooden Anglican church, the log house of the factor (agent in charge) and also several post buildings have a graying look against the sky of the 1,200 Cree Indians that camp around them.

The visitor is greeted at the plane's arrival by a crowd of Cree Indian children, who make their great claim to fame by watch for the arrival and departure of each plane, just as our grandfathers used to watch the trains at the station.

The Indian reaction will come upon hearing strangers are "in town" and in all likelihood invite them to join him for coffee in his kitchen.

The visitor may then be free to stroll through the Indian village, make a call upon the ministers and his wife, who delight in speaking with English, speak-

SPEAKING of MANNERS

By PATRICIA LEWIS

MEN DISCUSS FEMININE FAILINGS

When it comes to the subject of manners, the men are determined to have the last word.

Last week we gave a rundown on what a group of women we know considered weak points on the masculine side. Unobtrusively, the men let them speak their piece first. Now for the rebuttal.

To a man, our panel of experts voted as "Miss Couldn't Care Less of West," the women who:

Wears a large hat to the theater, then sulks when someone asks her to take it off.

Talks with a cigarette in her mouth.

Asks to borrow a handkerchief to wipe lipstick from her fingertips — which got smeared from the lips of the fellow who'd also got smeared by the same lipstick on the first place.

Wears too much jewelry and overdresses.

Takes the initiative and "suggests" where she'd like to have dinner and then lets him pay the check.

Keeps her date waiting a an hour while her nail polish dries.

Hangs on to his arm for dear life on the street.

Never says "thank you" for any favor done.

Asks a question, then pays no attention to the answer.

Uses the military insignia from another and airily tells Captain "Major," or a General just "y'all."

Wives, especially, got a pat on the wrist from the men for warmed-to-the-topic group of traits when they said she:

Continues a joint account with the little woman who:

Buys a new hat every time her hand's polka-dot tie and striped shirt.

Is laden with packages and loses them when she meets her husband in town, then sweeps him to carry the whole kit and kaboodle.

Never returns a phone call.

Refers to children, decisions and community property as "mine," instead of as "ours," which is correct.

Keeps to answer an invitation until her husband has remminded her for the umpteenth time.

Points and gestures actively when talking.

Deliberately snubs someone at a party or bridge, the movies or a major league ball game on TV.

Neglects to answer an invitation until her husband has re

Ask Henry

The writer of this weekly advice column is a 13-year-old boy. The advice he gives is strictly his own. It has not been changed by his parents or the editor. He welcomes letters from parents. If you want him to discuss your problem write to ASK HENRY, in care of this newspaper.

Dear Henry—My 15-year-old called me "idiot" today. I raised him strictly and this is the first time he said such a thing. Should I resent and how?—STRUCKEN.

Dear Struckem—Let him go this time because he was in a temper, but next time give him a wallop. Children can't call their parents names.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—How can we stop our three children from raiding the cupboards in the morning? They are a boy aged 13 and twin girls 9½ years.

They get up early and take all kinds of food — raw oatmeal, fruit, bread, raisins, nuts, etc., into their room. They seldom eat the food, but play with it, making a mess of their beds and floor.

We have punished them in many ways but nothing has worked. Now we have given up. We feel we can't outgrow this expensive and annoying trait while the food bills keep growing?

They have a brother who is nearly 2 years old, and if this keeps up he'll soon be there with them.—MRS. I. M.

Dear Mrs. I. M.—Your punishments must have stopped at the surface skin. You need punishments that go to the heart. Here are some fatal punishments: No TV and no dessert on raiding days. They are so fatal that they go straight to the heart. Or try good old fashion spanking. It may not reach the heart but it will sure reach another place. —HENRY.

Dear Henry—For a long time I've been wondering about a certain thing. How in the world did you ever get your job with the newspapers? Did somebody just come up to you and ask if you wanted to have a job with the paper? Or does your father have a job with the paper himself? Or isn't it any of my business?—JUST WONDERING.

Dear Just Wondering—The only connection my father has with the newspaper is that he reads it. He is scientist. No one came up to me and asked me to write the column either. I wanted to save up money for my education, thought of the idea and the title and sent it to the paper. And here I am.—HENRY.

Dear Henry:—I have a 13-year-old brother who always hits me. He thinks it is funny but it hurts me. I tell him that but he just laughs. Sometimes I tell my parents but that doesn't help. He also does this to my sister and neighbor of us enjoy it. Could you tell us what to do?—A TEASING BOWL OF LUGGERS.

Dear Bowl—

I once said it,
And I will say it again;
When you are hit,
Just don't sit in vain,
But break to a fit
And yell, scream, complain.
Call your sister crazy,
To join in the song;
So the walls reek and roll,
And you can ask "What's wrong?"
After the trial, brother gets it.
And he'll be afraid,
Even to hit a little bit.
For fear of another parade. —HENRY.

Science at Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: Beneath the earth, disease in the Ant, arctic and a venomous spider.

UNDER THE SKIN

Soviet scientists expect to sink five wells at least 11 miles into the earth, says a report from Tass, the official news agency.

The wells are being drilled to help geologists learn more about the earth underneath its skin. Some Soviet scientists are looking ahead to using a remote-controlled, atomic - powered drilling device to dig up to 18 miles into the earth.

14 GUINEA PIGS

For 14 men from South Africa hound for the Antbrctic, the future may not be disease-free, but it will be interesting.

Dr. E. G. Lautenbach is going to check their blood regularly to see whether or not it is true that there is no native disease in the frozen Antarctic.

"I shall also try to establish which bacteria or viruses die and which flourish," Dr. Lautenbach said.

VENOMOUS VISITOR

A poisonous South American spider has been spotted in Massachusetts, and others of his kind may have been living in the United States for some time.

The spider, called loxosceles laeta, looks much like domestic spiders.

Experts found one in a museum basement. The bite causes an ulcerous wound on the skin. It is said, slowly. The spider lives only when touched or trapped and is related to the brown spider of Kansas and Oklahoma.

FOR SURVIVAL

The Russians are taking steps to protect farm animals from nuclear attack.

A Soviet publication gives recommendations for protecting animals in nuclear, chemical or biological attack. The Soviets have also set up and trained in first aid for wounded animals, treatment of radiation sickness and use of gas masks for livestock.

SMOKE DETECTOR

A portable device that can record small changes in magnetic fields may be to aid in keeping skiers caught in snow avalanches alive. The device is so sensitive it can detect the magnetic fields of a cigarette underneath 10 feet of snow.

Experts suggest that skiers carry such a magnet, perhaps in their belts or inside the heel of their ski boots.

Successful Living

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Unwed Mothers and Their Babies

Should an unwed mother keep her baby or not? So many letters have come to me on this subject, full of intense feeling on one side or the other, that I called a conference. Last week five senior social workers representing four large Canadian agencies in the child care and family fields met to consider opinions like the following:

1. "What is wrong with a girl wanting to keep her baby? The girl is 16. The child-care agency says she is just a child herself and suggests the baby be offered for adoption."

2. "At first we thought the only answer was marriage, but the boy is in the middle of a college course and completely unable to support her. Besides, she is so young for marriage (18.)"

3. Many of the girls at the home for unmarried mothers say, 'Where there's a will, there's a way.' Others give them up without a care."

4. "After three years of living with remorse, I have come to the realization that any kind of marriage is better than giving the baby away."

5. "God bless the social worker who helped me in my trouble. Now I know my baby is well cared for in a home with two adoptive parents who love him."

6. "I can't understand why you always advise unwed mothers to give their babies up for adoption. I can only think, madam, that you must not have any children yourself, or you would not feel so. You see, I am an unwed mother myself and I have never yet regretted keeping my baby."

The discussion went something like this:

If we went back to the grass roots of civilization, we would find that all children, of all mothers, married or not, would have stayed with their natural mothers to be raised to adulthood.

Eventually, early civilization required marriage as a basis for family life and the bearing of children. The wisdom of attempting thus to provide a secure home background and two parents has been confirmed by 20th century knowledge and experience.

Today we know that the healthy growth of personality is closely linked with the circumstances of birth. We know that a child needs the love and acceptance of a normal family.

Is the mother satisfying the needs or her child when she keeps him? In many cases she is only thinking of her own need to love, and blindly feels she will protect him from all harm. She does not realize the responsibility she is assuming in not thinking ahead to the boisterous youngster and struggling teen-ager he will become.

Nor can she will his friends and hers—and a possible future husband—into forgetting that he was born out of wedlock. NOW that little bundle of humanity has someone to speak for HIM—in the form of a society-sponsored agency.

If marriage is just out, there are still times when it is indicated for mother and child to stay together—but these are the unusual, and we often find that the more mature the mother, the more likely she is to relinquish him to a better state of affairs.

Adoption has now become a carefully planned procedure. Childless couples wait for months, sometimes years, to receive an infant whose native mental and physical equipment is sufficiently similar to theirs to make a union promising.

And remember this: The social agency is not judge and jury. Just as a person who is sick is advised to visit a doctor, and a person in trouble with the law, a lawyer, just so a young person in trouble with society, is well advised to consult an expert on family life.

The social worker considers age and circumstance of the young unwed mother, considers the man in the case and just what chances there are for a successful marriage, considers the family attitude and what support the girl will have in whichever decision she makes.

The social worker never lays down the law. She reposes the confidence placed in her; sympathetically listens; and helps all persons concerned to reach a decision which they can learn to live with.

Every situation is different. Either decision will bring some sorrow, and it's not the agency, but the society in which we all have to live, that passes the judgment. — DORIS.

ECONOMICAL INSTALLATION
With flameless electric heating units, you don't have to extend or strain your present heating system. No duct work or expensive structural changes are required to provide maximum heating comfort in the added living space you're planning, because electric heating units operate entirely independently. Your qualified electric heating contractor can install them anywhere, at any time, quickly and inexpensively.

CAREFREE COMFORT
Flameless electric heating units provide the ultimate in heating comfort. With an individual thermostat in each electrically-heated room, you control both comfort and cost. Just set the exact heat you want, when you want it... turn it down when the room is not in use. Heat is provided almost instantly... no need to wait for heat to build up in a central system. Electric heat is as clean as light, produces no dust, no fumes, no products of combustion. The air is more healthful and drapes, rugs, walls stay clean longer.

LOOK AT THESE ADVANTAGES
With flameless electric heat no heat is wasted up a chimney. With individual thermostats there's no need to overheat the whole house to make one room comfortable. Weather and wind direction won't affect your comfort. It's the ideal answer for hard-to-heat areas in your present home...that cold bedroom, a draughty bathroom. Electric heating units can be installed anywhere, anytime, quickly, easily and inexpensively in a size and capacity exactly suited to your particular need.

THERE ARE MANY KINDS OF ELECTRIC HEATING UNITS TO CHOOSE FROM

BASEBOARD CONVECTION UNITS
Slim metal baseboards, which contain electric heating elements, replace the wooden baseboards and fit inconspicuously into your room. When placed under windows cold draughts are eliminated.

RADIANT WALL PANELS
These radiant heating units may be mounted directly into the wall or ceiling to beam warmth like the sun throughout the room.

ELECTRIC HEATING CABLE
Hidden in the plastering, furnished electric heating cable directs heat downwards only and directly to provide complete floor comfort.

FAN-TYPE HEATERS
These units are most suitable where fast heat recovery is required. Easily installed, they are ideally suited to workshops, laundry rooms or any rooms having only occasional use.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"There are two ways to start, one by watching the American League, and you have to make your own changes and the Angels gained by makin' trades because you can't go with what you drew, they have to have a good argument when spoken to."

The speaker? Well, you won't find the quotation in Izvestia or Tass, the American Congressional Records or the scrapbooks of the K-Boys, Kennedy and Khrushchev.

It was the one and only Charles Dillon Stengel, vice-president and director of a Glendale, California, Bank, and recently appointed the manager of the New York Mets, the newest addition to Gotham baseball society.

Ole Case was speaking in New York the other day to a group of newsmen anent the possibilities, probabilities, make-up, problems and whatnot of his new diamond baby.

"I can't tell how this club is going to do," said the Ole Perfesser, carefully picking his words . . . . "Most of the experienced men have said there was nothing wrong with them physically last year. They said they just didn't play enough, well—if they are in good shape and prove to me they can play, they'll get their chance with the Amazin' Mets."

Asked why the Mets didn't acquire Chuck Dressen, recently hired by the Toronto Maple Leafs as manager, Casey said: "I can't knock Dressen. He's a good baseball man. He will tell you how to pitch, how to hit and how to play the infield and most of the time he's right. He's a great third-base coach who irritates the other side. He goes out and makes speeches every night, even though he can't speak English."

Casey made it plain that he would go along with what he termed "experience." He said if the league started tomorrow he would be able to name all starters aside from the pitcher and the shortstop. The latter is his trouble spot.

He has Elio Chacon, a former second baseman with the Cincinnati Reds, and Felix Mantilla, who played short, and other positions with the Milwaukee Braves. At the moment, Casey favors Chacon.

"Every place else I have experience," said Casey. "No one can tell Gil Hodges what to do at first. Neal Heyward has had a bad year last season, but he was the best second baseman in the league with Los Angeles. Don Zimmer knows how to play third, and Frank Thomas, Richie Ashburn and Gus Bell know their way around the outfield. For catching Hobie Landrith has the knowledge."

The "Ole Rajah," (Rogers Hornsby) is the Mets' third full-time coach. Now 65 he achieved a .424 batting average, the modern record, in 1924. With him on the coaching staff are Red Lavagetto and Sollie Hemus.

The pitchers? Casey has fifteen and "would like to have five more by spring training time." He mentioned most prominently Bob Miller, Jay Hook, Craig Anderson, Alvin Jackson, Sherman Jones and Billy Loes.

Casey had hinted previously that he would manage the Mets for one year only. He was asked if he could be induced to stay longer.

"That would depend on my health," he said "If I saw my health wasn't good I wouldn't stand out there and work. But they're a good bunch of coaches and maybe it wouldn't be too hard on me."

"Maybe I'd stay if they gave me the new stadium in Flushing Meadow, but that belongs to the city. Now I got a question for you guys."

"Anyone wanna tell me how to hit in the Polo Grounds?"

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Out in High River, Alberta, there is an Indian Hockey League, which has the scorekeeper scratching his head when he takes down the team rosters.

The other night the Gleichen team won 12-3 over Morley-Eden Valley. Scoring for the winners were: Ken Big Snake, Lea Good Eagle, Leo Many Heads, Clement Sad Deer, Ed Wolf Child, Johnny Young Rabbit and Randy Yaman.

Morley scorers were Lefthand and Don Dixon.

Boom-Boom Backslip Bothers Blake

Leafs Meet Wings Twice

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal Canadiens cause for concern.

The Boomer is not scoring and when the goals don't come he tends to be a most unhappy fellow.

"I think he is a bit despondent", says Blake.

Blake says there is nothing wrong physically with Geoffrion, the man who tied Maurice (Rocket) Richard's record of 50 goals in the National Hockey League campaign last season.

"All he needs is two or three goals in one game and he'll be the Boomer of old."

Geoffrion counted 13 goals in Montreal's first 31 games. Then on Dec. 23 he injured his left knee and had to sit out seven games. He returned to the lineup Jan. 11 and in six outings has only been able to score once.

He'll get two cracks at snapping out of the slump this weekend.

Tonight the front - running Canadiens take on the faltering New York Rangers at Montreal and Sunday night the Habs are at Boston.

The Canadiens go into the weekend games with no serious injuries. They're unbeaten in eight games—six wins and two ties —and hold a three-point lead over the second - place Toronto Maple Leafs.

KELLY RETURNS

The Leafs meet Detroit Red Wings twice, tonight in Toronto and Sunday night in Detroit, and they expect to have centre Red Kelly back in their lineup. Kelly returns after a 12-game layoff due to a troublesome right knee and coach Punch Imlach hopes he'll add some spark to the team's attack, puny in recent games.

The Leafs however, will still be without Eddie Shack and Dick Duff. Defenceman Bobby Baun is not exactly healthy with a badly bruised wrist, but he'll dress.

The fast-rising Chicago Black Hawks play host twice during the weekend, at Boston tonight and at New York Sunday night.

Tonight's game offers little hope for the Rangers, who have won only one game in 1962 and have yet to beat Montreal this season, losing four and tying four in eight previous outings.

The Blueshirts, sliding after a fine start, have lost eight straight games and 10 of their last 11.

Hull Dumps Wolves

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hull - Ottawa Canadiens gave Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds an assist in their drive for an Eastern Professional Hockey League playoff berth Friday night, dumping the fourth-place Sudbury Wolves 5-2 in Sudbury.

Ottawa's gains drew within two points ahead of the red - hot Thunderbirds, who Thursday beat the league-leading Kingston Frontenacs 4-2 to climb into a fifth-place tie with North Bay Trappers. The Thunder birds were idle Friday night.

The Canadiens came from behind to claim the win, which boosted them into a tie with one of the second-place Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers and five points behind Kingston.

Billy Carter led the Canadiens with two goals, both in the third period. Brian Smith, Pete Plager and Keith McCreary added the rest for the winners. Jack Hendrickson and Keke Morrison were the Sudbury goalgetters.

Macs Defeat Petes 6-3

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Writer

Led by the high-scoring line of Weston, Smith and Hunter, the Macs defeated the Peterborough Monarchs for the first, consecutive time here last night by a 6-3 score, to once again move into the OHA Eastern Junior Hockey League's top spot.

The Macs moved out in front by a 1-0 score in the first period, made it 2-0 in the second and split four goals with the visitors in the final twenty minutes.

The Monsons never seemed a serious threat, scoring all of their goals while the visitors were shorthanded. The Macs, although outshot 38-33, were at least three goals better than the statistics.

Belleville's top scoring unit accounted for 11 of the club's fourteen scoring points. Moe Hunter scored two goals and assisted on two more, Pete Weston had one goal and three assists and Dave Smith scored once and picked up two assists.

Bobby Boyle and "Pug" Kellar had the other goals with Bucky Ethier, who played a strong game, drawing one assist. Kellar's goal was his 22nd of the campaign, tops on the club.

Pete Morris scored two of the Peterborough goals and assisted on the other, scored by Larry Hill. Jeff Nichols and Paul LeBarr each had two assists and Wayne Milburn one.

Penalty-wise, the Macs picked up 11 and the losers had nine. The Macs' Gary Duvall and Hill of the Monsons drew double minors at 1.27 of the second period when they clashed briefly but otherwise it was a quiet night.

Gord Parker returned to the Belleville nets and turned in a good effort. He made several key saves and looked especially sharp on a couple of close-in glove saves.

Marchen of the visitors was in the penalty box when Hunter scored the only goal of the first period at 14.05. Hunter completed a three-way play with his linemates by flipping the disc into an empty net. Horton out of the play after a save off Smith.

Two goals within 39 seconds made it 3-0 early in the second. Weston shot the puck in off Taylor's stick at the 40 second mark with the teams five aside. The visitors were a man short when Hunter scored on a quick drive over Morton's shoulder at 1.19.

The Macs held the visitors off while they scored at 1.35 but seconds after the first penalty was up, Hill caught a low corner to make it 3-1. Boyle got that back with a goal from the point, after Ethier's pass-out, at 16.57.

Smith took a pass dead centre in front of the Monsons net and scored with a short backhand at 5.39 of the third but Pete Hunter made it 5-2 when he scored to make it 5-2. Kellar waltzed in to score his 22nd on clearly at 14.11 when Nichols fell flat on his back trying to break up the play. Ethier closed out the scoring with Boyle out at 18.09, flipping the disc over Parker when it rebounded off the screen behind the Mac net.

The Macs won't be playing another home game until the playoffs. Their four remaining league games are all on the road and the toughest of three will be in Kingston this Monday night, it could decide first place.

Peterborough — Horton, Nichols, Payne, Shearer, Rutherford, Hill, Duvall, Morris, Taylor, Morris, LeBarr, Milburn, Hill, Dalliday, Thompson.

Belleville — Parker, Mavety, Boyle, Weston, Smith, Hunter, Ethier, McGuire, Hull, Scott, Kellar Duvall, Zakos, Reid, Rowland.

Named By Writers, Casters

Bruce Kidd Is Top Ont. Athlete

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Kidd, possibly the most widely-honored Canadian athlete in 1961, has been named Ontario's outstanding athlete of the year by the Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association.

The 60 association members participating in the voting nominated 15 athletes but the 18-year-old Kidd, a middle - distance runner, topped the poll by a wide margin. He previously was voted Canada's outstanding athlete in The Canadian Press poll.

Kidd, last in a list of 15 named in the 1960 voting, will be presented with the Ontario athlete-of-the-year award at the association's 11th annual $25-a-plate sports celebrities dinner here Thursday.

Proceeds of the dinner, marking opening of the annual country-wide Easter seals campaign, go towards the cost of a swimming pool for crippled children in North Waterloo.

Each voter in the Ontario poll made a first, second and third choice. Points were awarded on a 3-3-1 basis and Kidd finished with a whopping 192 points. He received 60 first - place votes, the highest since the poll was inaugurated in 1951.

GOLFER SECOND

In second spot with 49 points was George Knudson of Toronto and Wichita, a rookie on the major golf trail in 1961 who hit the jackpot—victory in the $20,000 Coral Gables, Fla., open—in his first few months in the big time.

Frank Mahovlich, left winger with Toronto Maple Leafs who ended the 1960-61 National Hockey League season with 48 goals, placed third with 39 points, followed by teammate Dave Keon with 34 points.

Others named in the voting included Don Jackson of Oshawa, Ont., and Karen Imrie, American singles figure-skating title-holder, and football players Bobby Kunz of Toronto Argonauts and Cal Connor of the intercollegiate champion Queen's Golden Gaels.

One vote was cast for a post-humous award to Ron Hayward, 32-year - old speedboat driver from Exeter, Ont., who won the Harmsworth Trophy for Canada for the third straight year last August. Hayward died as he was killed in the Silver Cup Regatta at Detroit.

This young man must be heading for the Sports Celebrities Dinner in Toronto, and he is. Larry Maloney of Brantford, Ontario, newly elected National Treasurer for the 1962 Easter Seal Campaign will be officially introduced along with many of North America's top athletes of present and past at this annual event in Toronto on February 1st.

Squirt 'Epic' Won by Trenton 4-2

In a nip-and-tuck battle the Trenton Squirts All-Stars edged the Belleville Squirts 4-2 in last night's special exhibition game.

Nearly three hundred saw the game in Richards and Howes put on an outstanding exhibition in two exciting periods of play.

The game, a "Minor Hockey Week" special, preceded the Belleville Peterborough junior "B" fixture.

It was minor hockey at its best and the coaches of the teams are to be commended on the ability an behavior of their proteges.

The play was fast and exciting from start to finish with referees Floyd Crawford and Ron Hull keeping a watchful eye. They had it easy. Not a penalty was deserved or handed out.

Lez Coughlin's smart little Belleville crew had a tough break edge—a player passed out directly to a Trenton youngster in front of the net —and that was the opening score.

But they came right back and had the better of the play in the first period.

The youngsters never let up. They battled for the puck showing the results of fine coaching, and in not a few instances uncovering some fine puck carrying.

There was not a sign of rough play. True, the little guys did a bit of bumping, legally that is — and some of them could bump, too.

It was an eye-pleasing outstanding exhibition. It had the crowd on edge all through as the moppets gave all they had to match the victory.

D. McFaul paced the Trenton youngsters attack coming up with three of his team's goals. G. Ferguson got the other. Ferguson also had two assists with D Long and A. Webb getting singles.

D. Forbert and T. Meagher scored the Belleville goals with Chuck Powell being credited with an assist.

CTA Wants Commission

Trot Pot Still Boils

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Trotting Association announced Friday night it will ask the Ontario government to appoint a harness racing commission to operate independently of the Ontario Racing Commission.

"The CTA feels it does not have sufficient representation on the ORC," said association president Hugh Proudfoot of Fort Coulonge, Que., in making the announcement at the annual meeting.

Proudfoot said the association has had no co-operation from ORC chairman Magistrate Tupper Bigelow, "and we don't think the supervisor of racing, Bill Stiewich, has enough knowledge of racing."

He said the CTA executive feels horsemen should make the rules, because they are more competent and have more experience.

The CTA was organized under federal charter, while the ORC, formed in 1950, operates under provincial statute.

Proudfoot said he will visit racing commissions in Alberta and British Columbia to discuss the rules question. He also plans to discuss with the Quebec government its plans for setting up a similar commission.

Hugh Proudfoot of Fort Coulonge, Que., was elected president. Allan Dickinson of Mount Hope, Ont., was named first vice-president.

Wants $18,500 Guarantee

M. Cleroux Ups Ante On Chuvalo

TORONTO (CP)—Bob Clerour of Montreal, Canadian heavyweight champion, now wants $18,500 guarantee to fight Giulio Chuvalo of Toronto.

The word was passed along Jay by Al Bachman of New York, Cleroux's manager.

"I'm not Santa Claus," was the terse reply of Toronto promoter Frank Tunney.

Tunney has been holding for some time a signed $7,500 contract and $5,000 bond for a rematch between the two fighters. It was part of the deal in a fight in Montreal last year in which Chuvalo took the title from Cleroux for the second time.

Cleroux since has been suspended by the Ontario Athletic Commission for failure to go through with the bout and the suspension has been upheld by the National Boxing Association of the U.S.

Bachman asked $17,500 three weeks ago before dropping the figure again Friday.

If Bachman and Cleroux want big money, Tunney said, they should go through with the original contract and a $75,000 net gate in Toronto would give them what they want.

"Once he's clear of the suspension he can make some more in the states. He'll have in on my profits. He'll never be able to fight anywhere".

Bachman said he has lined up a fight in San Francisco against George Logan and Boise, Idaho.

Top Coaches For Legion Track Clinic

Three internationally known track and field personalities from England will conduct the first track and field clinic for coaches ever held in Canada.

Mr. Arthur Gregory Woods, Regina, Dominion President of the Royal Canadian Legion, today announced that under the Legion's expanded track and field program Geoffrey Dyson, John Disley and John Aveyard of England will head a nine-day course at the Legion's Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph starting August 23rd.

Some 75 coaches, from various parts of Canada, will be invited to attend with the Legion providing transportation.

Geoffrey Dyson was the chief coach of the British Olympic Amateur Athletic Association from 1947 until last year. He coached the British Empire in three Olympic games and numerous British and Empire competitions. He has also written many annual coaching clinics in England.

John Disley directed the Legion's training clinic last year in Toronto. He possesses outstanding ability as a lecturer and as an athlete, holding the world's record for the two-mile steeplechase. He specilizes in training middle distance.

John Savidge was twice British shot-put champion. At the British Empire Games in 1950 he came by again with the event. He also competed in the discus and hammer throw and has worked together as a team on coaching assignments.

Mr. Fred O'Brien, Durham, chairman of the Legion's track and field committee, is hopeful to have three Canadian coaches instructing in specific events. The Legion wants to have the best rounded courses in Track and Field, certainly the best ever held in Canada.

The plan is an extension of the Legion's All Sports Clinic which in five years has brought over 800 athletes to Toronto for training, at a cost of over $100,000.

In addition to the national clinic for coaches", said Mr. O'Brien, "we expect to have several clinics for athletes. We hope that the coaches trained at Guelph will assist us in the organization of provincial clinics".

Four of the Legion's provincial commands already have some form of formal track and field training. These are British Columbia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and New Brunswick. All commands are extremely active in the sponsorship of track and field meets.

U.S. Causes Another Snarl

World Hockey Undecided

ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER, Saturday, January 27, 1962

WASHINGTON (CP) — The 1962 world hockey championships are still in a state of confusion.

No one knows whether the tournament will go on as scheduled starting March 8-18 at Colorado Springs, Colo.

The latest snarl came Friday when officials of the United States state department said it is highly questionable communist East Germany's team will be allowed to enter the U.S.

The officials said that because of the Berlin wall and other Communist travel restrictions, the 15-country Atlantic alliance has barred the travel of certain categories of East Germans to the West.

The action may cause transfer of the games to some other country. The Canadian cities of Calgary, Edmonton and Toronto have put in bids for the championships.

In Montreal, Bob LaBel, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said he was "surprised" East Germany may be refused U.S. visas but if the championships otherwise will be held as scheduled at Colorado Springs.

Iron-Man Catcher Dies

CLEVELAND (AP) — Steve O'Neill, an affable Irishman who played baseball with the catchers' during a 17 - year career and a manager for four major league clubs, died Friday at 69. He suffered a heart attack Sunday.

O'Neill, former manager of Cincinnati Reds and Boston Red Sox, was a member of the iron - man catcher for Cleveland Indians' 1920 world championship, playing behind the plate in all but five games against Brooklyn Dodgers batting .333. He hit .321 during the season.

O'Neill reached the high point in his managerial career in 1945, when he piloted Detroit Tigers to a world series try. Detroit lost in seven games against Chicago Cubs.

Born Stephen Francis O'Neill in the coalmining town of Mt. Carmel, Pa., he was one of five brothers, four of whom played in the major leagues. Steve was the best of the O'Neills.

He was rated a top handler of pitchers and possessed a keen curate and strong throwing arm. He was a solid hitter, three times topping the .300 mark and winding up with a lifetime .295 average.

TOURS MAJORS

O'Neill earned the nickname Stout Steve when he placed more than 200 pounds on his stocky frame. But in his playing days he was a rugged competitor, starting with Cleveland in 1911 and remaining here until 1924, when he was traded to Boston Red Sox. He was with the Red Sox and New York Yankees before one American League season each and ended his playing days with St. Louis Browns in 1928.

Another Al Official Resigns

MONTREAL (CP)—St. Clair (Sainty) Holland has resigned as one of the six directors of Montreal Alouette, of the Eastern Football Conference.

He said he quit the job because club president N. Cheff Workman is the absolute do not intend to be a rubber-stamp director, any organization controlled by one individual," he said Friday in a letter of resignation to Workman.

He added in an interview: "I didn't want to be a director of something I didn't direct. Workman is the sole owner of the club and he thinks the policy

"I am not prepared to work under these conditions."

Holland was appointed to the board of directors last year along with Cliff Power, Don Taylor and Judge Marcel Gabbony several months after four members had resigned without giving any public explanation.

Earlier this year the Als lost two executives—publicity director Ken Brown who now holds a similar job in Hamilton Tiger-Cats, and Doug Johnston, treasurer and business manager.

Win Tankard, G.G. Trophy

Unionville, Orillia Tops

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rinks from Orillia and Unionville have walked off with Ontario's two major double-rink curling competitions, the Silver Thanked the Governor-General's Trophy.

Curiously, the two competitions were held in the finals at both events, playe dFriday at the Toronto's Granite club and in Unionville, a small village north of Toronto, won the Tankard by trimming the Orillia rink 16-8 after edging out Toronto Granites, last year's champions, in the semi-finals.

Unionville's Don Van Luven and Ray Grant gained the wins by edging Granite's Al Phillips Jr. and Dr. R. W. Marshall 20-11.

The Orillia rinks, led by Bob Merkley and Ross Cowan, made the finals by edging St. Thomas' Tom Pullen and Don Anderson 13-11.

In the final, Van Luven played a cool waiting game to trim Merkley 10-8 while Grant upset Cowan 12-8.

Orillia also won the Governor-General's Trophy, the last year's curling out a 22-21 win over Toronto Granites in the finals at Iberth. Then the golong was easier, the Orillians winning 22-16 over Unionville rinks.

J. Orillia squads were victories in the final. Eldon Mcmillan edging Ernie Lawrie 11-10 while Archie Thomson downed Gord Brownell 11-6.

For the Globe and Mail Trophy, consolation event in the Governor - General's competition, Welland defeated Cobourg 26-16 in the final.

Cobourg advanced to the final when a pair of Alliston rinks defaulted.

Win Triple-Header

BCIVS Defeats Picton

By PETER CARVER

Belleville Collegiate Institute hoopsters grabbed their first win of a set shot, they bulled their way into a 47-44 lead. The final stanza was played at furious pace. BCI got a big break when PECI's Taylor fouled out early in the fourth quarter. BCI held a slim 84-83 lead with three minutes to play. They salted the victory away in the remaining time with accurate jump shooting and offensive rebounding.

Larry Scott Campbell played a spectacular game. His rebounding and tip-ins were the big factor in the Bellerille win. He clicked for 28 points.

Terry Cobbs also played well hitting for 20 points. Bob Weston, was the big man behind Campbell in the rebounding department.

Rick Lee starred, as usual, in the defensive role. Don Taylor and Don Girou garnered 12 points apiece.

LINEUPS

BCIVS - Campbell (28), McCabe (20), Lawson (3), Burr (2), Weston (8), Rosenbaum (7), Soule, Muir, Adams, Dafoe, Lee, Williams.

PECI - Lee (16), Taylor (14), Mcmeurice, D. McMunagh, Girou (11), Cassidy, Evans, Hicks, Lobb, Bulgeswaski (7).

Scorer - Lorne Cornell - BCIVS.

Red Wings Petes Lose Nip Royals,

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Red Wings stretched their league lead on the 4th, Montreal Junior Canadiens Friday night as they beat Guelph Royals 4-3 in Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game.

The win left Wings four points ahead of the second-place Canadiens and 19 in front of the third-place St. Catharines Teepees.

The fifth-place Niagara Falls Flyers pushed the hapless Petes deeper into the cellar, humiliating them 7-0 before a hometown crowd of 2,300.

At Guelph, the Wings pulled into a 3-0 lead before Bob Brown finally got the Royals on the scoreboard at 8:44 of the third period with his Hamilton playmates were serving penalties.

OPENS SCORING

Wayne Rivers opened the scoring for Hamilton, breaking a 0-0 count midway through the s e c o n d. Lowell MacDonald, Ron Ellis (11), Rivers and Doug Mcmeekin, Howie Menard and Ron Ingram added the 3-0 margin early in the third.

Goaltender Buddy Bloom of the Wings had a shutout performance, particularly in the third period when the Royals put on a determined drive to narrow the score.

Hamilton drew eight of the 14 penalties called, Rivers and Guelph's John Plager drawing fighting majors in the second period.

The shutout at Niagara Falls was the first of the season for goaltender Wayne Rutledge of the Flyers.

Led by the line of Terry Crisp, Jack Egers and Jean Paris, who got the first four goals, the Flyers were in superb form as they extended their playoff streak in home games to seven.

West Likes All-Star Suggestion

CALGARY (CP) —General managers of Western Football Conference clubs think the proposed all-star game between the Canadian Football League and the American League deserves investigation.

The general managers Friday named Herb Capocci of Detroit Lions as referee for the game.

Owner Bud Adams of Houston Oilers, suggested the game and a Jan. 13, 1963, date for the first contest in the 60,000-seat Orange Bowl here in Miami.

Jim Finks, general manager of Calgary Stampeders, said: "Even if some of our players ended the Canadian season in November, they won't be tired yet out of the game ($200 apiece would be enough inducement to stay in shape, I'm sure). Both teams would d probably have about 10 days to work out together, before the game. There shouldn't be any problems at all."

The all-star game, Finks said, will probably be added to the agenda at the CFL meeting in Vancouver Feb. 16.

Minor Pros Need 'Boss' Says Pratt

VANCOUVER (CP) — Former National Hockey League star Walter (Babe) Pratt, says minor pro hockey needs a commissioner.

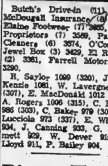
He said in his column in The Province some players should send protests of money to meet to the House of Commons.

He was commenting as a Pacific coastal conference baseball Vancouver Canucks, of the Western League and Spokane Indians, top farm club of the Chicago White Sox.

Pratt, now a Vancouver resident, recalled three Canucks last week, including Vancouver goaltender Claude Evans.

Bisons Trim Amerks 5-2

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Buffalo Bisons spoiled Rochester Americans a 2-0 lead Friday night, then roared back for a 5-2 victory that gave them first place in the American Hockey League's Western Division.



Barry Cullen collected a goal and two assists for the Bisons as the high-scoring club's individual scoring lead with 60 points—one more than Bill Sweeney of Springfield.

The Americans skated to a 2-0 lead in the first 7½ minutes on a pair of goals by Dick Gamble, his 25th and 26th, while Buffalo was shorthanded twice on penalties.

Wayne Hicks, Dave Creighton, Brian Cullen and Murray Hall scored Buffalo's other goals.

Wisecracking Cartoon Maid 1961-62 Television Hit

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—One of the big hits of the 1961-62 television season is Hazel. The big hit of Hazel, of course, is Shirley Booth.

It should have come as no surprise to students of the stage and cinema that Miss Booth was able to bring Ted Key's wisecracking cartoon maid to warm, humorous life. Her past portrayals have won her whatever stage prizes are available —plus an academy award for Come Back, Little Sheba.

Now she has helped push Hazel into impressive ratings, and the stage and screen may have to wait a long time for her services again.

Miss Booth talks well about Hazel and other matters. Like this:

"I always thought if I ever did anything in television it would be a quiet, warm kind of a show like Father Knows best, when I found out they were going to get the same writers to do Hazel, that was all I needed to know. . . .

SHOULD BE FRIENDLY

"The important thing was to establish a friendly relationship between the characters on the show. They are friendly to each other, but you know that they essentially like each other. That's needed. You can't get attached to a show if you think maybe the people aren't friendly. . . .

"I love Lucy had that special quality. No matter how much Lucy and Ricky fought and argued, you knew they really loved each other. . . .

"Why did I leave Broadway? The theatre is a pretty tough row to hoe these days. I was in one show, Loss of Roses, which I left in Washington, and another, June, which closed in two weeks on Broadway. I've had two others that didn't even get into rehearsals because of lack of backing. I can't wait around."

BROADWAY STARS

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

At the season when our deciduous trees are leafless and birds are scarce we have a better opportunity of noticing woodpeckers, several species of which may now be found in settled Canada — in fact, often in the centre of a city if there are good trees there. Most of these are residents, others are partly migratory — that is, individuals that breed in the southern section of their range remain there throughout the winter months while the ones that nested in the north move somewhat farther down the continent. Then there are the woodpeckers that come only when they are attracted by some special food. It is not very exciting to find a hairy or downy in January, but we get quite a thrill if we come upon one of the Arctic three-toed woodpeckers.

STAYS AT HOME

The American three-toed is seldom seen outside its usual home — the northern coniferous forests. But the Arctic three-toed, its close relative, does occasionally wander from its breeding range (the pine, spruce, fir, and larch forests) in the north if its favorite food can be found elsewhere. It follows traction for this woodpecker often called the black-backed is the bark-boring beetle.

Most woodpeckers dig their bills into old stumps to get at insects. Not so this bird. It flakes the bark entirely off a large area of an old tree trunk to get at the beetles beneath. Consequently, woodsmen are able to discover where a black-backed has been by noting the newly barked, and therefore light looking, patches on the trunks.

HAS LITTLE HELPERS

This bird has little helpers. The spruce budworm or the larch sawfly eat into trees, encouraging bark-boring beetles, an important food supply for the three-toeds at all times, and in the mid-winter their main supply.

At this season the Arctic three-toed is fairly silent, but in summer it is noted for being a noisy bird. Its shrill, sharp "chirk, chirk" carrying a long distance. Is the only woodpecker with a white breast and throat that has a solid black back, his sister are heavily barred with black and white. The male has a yellow forehead. This is lacking in the female's plumage, but both have white-shafted tails. The oddity, of course, is the foot. Like other birds, woodpeckers have four toes. For some unknown reason, the two three-toed woodpeckers are exceptional, with two toes pointing forward and one back.

Your Car

Women Best Drivers - - Economy-Wise

By EUGENE B. MILMORE

If your wife is a gas-waster, she's the exception rather than the rule. Women get better driving economy because they don't acquire the bad habits which seem to have a grip on most males once they are behind the wheel.

Perhaps they are more patient. Rarely will you find a lady driver who pumps the pedal furiously to start, then races and roars the engine to warm it up quickly. And, you'll always notice, there's a guy not a gal behind the wheel of the car which blasts away from a stoplight or screeches to a quick stop when there is no good reason for it.

The girls stick to more economical speeds, too. Usually, they drive at a steady, moderate pace — whereas friend hubby tends to push the engine a bit harder—even if he has all the time in the world.

Whether we refuse to admit or resent the fact that our wives hold the edge as far as economy goes, let's be thankful both drivers in the family aren't gas wasters.

G.H. writes: "I am told my engine has a loose connecting rod. Just what is a connecting rod connect?"

(A) It connects the piston to the crankshaft.

From R.W.: "Our car with standard transmission is hard to shift. The mechanic says he would have to check it over carefully before he could tell what the trouble is. Can you give us some idea of the more likely causes?"

(A) Hard shifting is often due to a defective clutch release or shift linkage adjustment.

H.O. asks: "Why do they claim that an ordinary tubeless tire — not the puncture-proof type — moves blow-out proof than a tire with an inner tube?"

(A) There is less chance of a blow-out. Punctures which cause blow-outs in tube-type tires often mean just a gradual loss of air in the tubeless type ...although blow-outs with tubeless tires are not rare, by any means.

E.D. writes: "Does brake horsepower have anything to do with the braking system — or what does it mean?"

(A) The term brake horsepower refers to the actual power developed by the engine when it is in operation.

Finds Perpetual Game Crop Maintenance Big Problem

By DUNCAN HOLMES

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ed Meade has never shot a grizzly bear, nor has he any desire to level his sights on one. But he wants others now—and a hundred years from now—to have their chance.

Ed talks up a storm on game conservation but, like others in the field, finds the problem of maintaining a perpetual game crop perplexing.

As secretary-manager of the British Columbia Federation of Fish and Game Clubs, concerned with the direct interests of 20,000 city and rural sportsmen, Mr. Meade appears willing to shoulder much of the responsibility for assured good game management.

He admits to being more of a writer and "student of the outdoors" than hunter, something that rubbed off after years as a wildlife newspaper columnist. It left him with affection for the breed of "stumblebum" bears, and cougars "that have unfortunately been treated like alley cats."

But his personal feelings about hunting don't detract from his views on management —that animal "crops" be harvested to protect the wildlife population against overstocking and the long-term recreational interests of hunters.

With other B.C. experts, Mr. Meade expressed his views strongly at last October's Resources For Tomorrow conference in Montreal.

"How," he asked then, as he does now, "do you tell a farmer his land is being taken over to grow game? In what way can the farmer be compensated for such a take-over?

"What is the dollar value of Canada's wildlife? How much is it worth to set aside land for game as a long-lime natural resource?"

All the questions were tossed around, but not resolved.

Mr. Meade said Canada at present appears to have no national game management plan, and added "the federal government must be willing to provide the necessary money for game control by the provinces."

MUST HAVE LAND

"At this stage in Canada's development, land acquisition is more important than land management. We must have land before we can manage it, and until we have land and management procedures established, we cannot expect full utilization of our game crops. And naturally this statement applies also to water."

Despite problems still to be handled in the future, Mr. Meade believes B.C.'s game is numerically in good shape.

Looking to the 21st century, he said British Columbians believes animal "crops" must be "harvested" to guard against overstocking of the wildlife population (CP Photo).

Astrological Forecast

For January 28
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Day could be delightful for family gathering, home entertainment . . . and for putting mental problems in order by making it spiritual enlightenment. Be willing to "give in." Avoid family quarrels.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): If you have been putting off details, routine tasks, now is time to halt delay. Start week right by doing things which work to ease conscience. Be frank. Give and receive advice. Key is truth.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Loved ones have right to know if you are not happy in present situation. Speak your mind; communicate. Have faith in abilities of those close to you to understand. Travel if necessary.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Domestic matters highlighted; seek beauty, harmony in your own home. There are "acres of diamonds" in your own back yard. Knowing this to be true, cultivate relationships that can last. No flim-flam.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Mercury, Retrograde and opposing your sign, points toward tendency to run into opposition. Welcome challenge . . . but do not permit yourself to be "pushed around." Seek spiritual guidance. Be firm.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Solutions to long-standing problems could come about if you permit ideas to "jell." This calls for being quiet within, and faith in your abilities. Fine for visiting relatives, friends.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Better take stock of assets. Holiday period of spending just beginning to catch up. Now take pencil and paper and do some figuring. You'll feel better afterward! Rest tonight.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Cycle up. But use principle of tender loving care in dealings with others. You are going to have your way . . . but be diplomatic in victory. Be willing to "make up." Hold no grudges.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Be humane, but do not permit others to take advantage of you. Tendency is for unscrupulous party to go after sympathy . . . and then run away with the ball. Survive with keen eye.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): Favorable lunar aspect to your Sun promises renewed energy, vitality. Go after what you want. But this requires additional help of friends. Be willing to confide problems. No false pride.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Like Taurus, you should take care of little things; big projects then will fall into place. No time to shirk responsibility. Make resolutions which will result in beneficial goals ahead.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Tendency to be restless today. How about a short journey or a journey of the mind through inspiring lecture, religious service or book? Fine day for creative activity, romance.

If born today . . . you tend to be ahead of associates in outlook, perception. You could gain by sharing your views as a teacher. Cycle for year favors preparation. October offers opportunity for change.

General Tendencies: Cycle up for Libra, Scorpio, Sagittarius. All signs urged to take care in relations with members of opposite sex. Moon in Scorpio intensifies basic emotions. Moderation should be key words. All signs could benefit by studying interpretation for Pisces given today.

For January 29.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Today Arias independence, fire drive and urge to be the First must come into play. Not too good for trusting others to do the job. Financial misunderstanding could arise with associates.

Taurus (April 21 to June 21) You'll be best to listen rather than push your opinions. Be discreet! Pressure on and cycle not at top. Wonderful for reading, absorbing knowledge, asking, listening. But avoid obstinacy.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Much inspiration by travel, which takes you to visit family members, loved ones, former neighbors. Basically, day in which you values become evident. The flimsy, the superficial fall aside. Be realistic.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Moon in favorable aspect, your sign stresses creative activity, romance, change, travel, and a desire for perfection. Specifically, day should be used to achieve. No more delay.

Leo (July 23 to August 21) Is the hurry, hurry, hurry, you may find yourself waiting! Best to attend to details, be thorough rather than "flashy." Much power on your side. But if you abuse it you could suffer setback.

Virgo (August 22 to Sept. 23) Cancer favorable influence. Make the call, write the letter. Jot down ideas. Outline plant, stories. Push for decision or contracts. Don't be fooled by one who makes glib promises.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Financial conditions, state of the budget, bank account, all come in for shape of attention. General conditions Good. But you must be willing now to speak up. Plug up financial leak. Be firm!

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Cycle up. But tendency toward extravagance could come into play. Be as practical as you can both in making promises and in believing theories and promises of others.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Fine time for realizing ambitions, and not just material ones. Do the right thing in connection with beliefs, wishes, convictions. You could be amazed at favorable chain reaction.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Older, perhaps wiser, heads speak truth to you. Tendency is for you to want quick results. But time is required if you are to truly fulfill ambition. Haste could make much waste.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be aware of the obvious, otherwise, opportunities could slip by. Be prepared to stand up for rights, but accept proposal of friendship, compromise. Be gracious in victory.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Jumping to conclusions proves costly. Let others show you. Then make some deductions of your own. Finally, come up with reasonable answer. Tendency to "dream" way through should be inwarted.

If Born Today, year ahead promises numerous opportunities. You come out of rut, but you must be careful lest you scatter your forces. Finish and project before starting another. Great social year. You are tremendously fond of the arts; the theatre, literature, voice. May outstanding month.

GENERAL TENDENCIES:—Day when all signs urged to keep sense of humor. Time to practice restraint. Impulsive actions today lead to trouble. All signs could read Pisces interpretation with profit.

EXPORTS RISE

OTTAWA (CP)—Rising shipments to the United States, Japan and Communist China helped boost Canadian exports to $1,530,500,000 in the third quarter of 1961, a record high for any three-month period. The new peak for exports of domestic products, reported today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, was 13.4 per cent higher than the $1,357,500,000 a year earlier.

May Turn Western Alliance Into Giant Free Trade Area

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Behind the unprecedented talk of bargaining proposed by President Kennedy is a growing belief among some of his aides that eventually the entire Western alliance should be turned into one giant free trade area.

The far - reaching proposals, Kennedy placed before Congress would reduce by one-half but not eliminate the hard-core of American protectionism.

For example, U.S. imports of clocks and watches bear a tariff of 30 per cent; coal tar products, 30 per cent; toys and sporting goods, 29 per cent; jewelry, 45 per cent; clay products, 38 per cent.

STILL PROTECTED

Cutting these rates by one-half over a five-year period would still leave an effective margin of protection for American manufacturers.

The chaotic elimination of tariffs would be on categories of goods in which the U.S. and the Common Market dominate the world market. For such small p r o d u c e r s as Canada, Australia and others, this domination may be difficult to challenge even if no tariffs exist.

Moreover, Kennedy proposed to retain power to continue to impose import restrictions on imports if their impact on domestic industries has materially underestimated or if they interfere with "national security." The national security test has been open to wide interpretation. Its application has been on the White House mood and the political climate at home.

A third problem for Canada and other smaller competitors is that the U.S., despite its growing national debt, has a big federal treasury. Its ability to provide capital for worthwhile and industries hurt by increased competition may be a far better than among smaller countries which may depend more heavily on exports for national income.

MAKES IT EASIER

Yet hedged by all these powers to restrain and restrict imports, Kennedy's proposals hold great opportunity for expanding world trade among non-Communist countries.

His aides suggest that if these proposals are accepted in Congress, the rest of the journey towards free trade would be made easier.

Once big tariffs are turned into little ones, getting Congressional authority to eliminate them altogether might prove less of a challenge than trying to get them eliminated all at once.

These 325 Europeans were among 225 tubercular refugees brought to Canada from Europe between December, 1959, and March, 1961, and placed in hospitals in nine provinces for treatment.

Only 12 of the 325 TB refugees are in hospital. Treatment is continuing and they will be discharged as soon as their health permits.

The rest have been integrated successfully into society. There had been no special problems peculiar to this group.

A great deal of credit for the success of the program, she added, belongs to the refugees who were suffering from TB.

NO RESENTMENT

"Many Europeans resent being placed in hospitals for treatment of TB. But this was not true in the case of these TB refugees. They were very cooperative and realized that what was being done for them was for their own good."

Of the 12 refugees still in hospital, four are in sanatoria in the Atlantic provinces, three in Quebec, two in Ontario and three in Western Canada.

The federal government paid the cost of transportation from refugee camps in Europe. It also bore maintenance costs of dependents for one year or until the family became established.

Provincial governments, all except Newfoundland, made space available in their sanatoria and hospitals and provided free medical and hospital care.

Among the first refugees to arrive in December, 1959, were Ferid Foco, 22, and his wife Munira, 26 Munira was pregnant and was suffering from TB.

STAYED TOGETHER

They told of being childhood sweethearts in Yugoslavia. They eloped across the border separately in 1956 and were reunited and married in an Italian refugee camp.

Ferid was given an opportunity to go to Australia but refused to be separated from his wife. Australia would not accept her as an immigrant because she was a TB patient.

Canada's decision to accept tubercular refugees gave them their chance to find a new life in a country where they could obtain citizenship.

Munira gave birth to the child in the Toronto General Hospital on Jan. 27, 1960. She returned to the Wezon Sanitarium and her baby girl was cared for by the Protestant Children's Aid Society till she was released from hospital.

Ferid now is employed by the Husky Manufacturing Company in Toronto.

313 Stateless Men, Women And Children, Plucked From Refugee Camps, Now Happy

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP) — Illness and despair have changed to health cured and hope for 313 stateless men, women and children plucked by Canada from refugee camps in Europe.

Two years ago they were languishing in camps in Italy, Austria and Germany. Nobody wanted them because they were suffering from tuberculosis.

Today they are leading normal, healthy lives in Canada, looking forward to the day when they can apply for Canadian citizenship.

'New Deal' in Education Detailed at Rotary Meet

CAMPBELLFORD — Mr. R. M. Hall, principal of the Campbellford High School, gave his identification talk at the Campbellford Rotary Club on Monday and a resume of the "new deal" in education.

He commenced his remarks by saying that education is everybody's concern but not everybody's business. Professional educators are much more competent to decide on educational policies than the average layman.

He said that Prime Minister Robarts has, when he was Minister of Education, announced a revolutionary change in the school system and though the mechanics of the system are not all clear at the time, the general principles are somewhat interesting.

THREE BASIC COURSES

Under the new set-up there will be three basic courses in the Ontario Secondary schools: general (arts and sciences); commercial (business and commerce); and technical (trades and technology). In many large schools these courses are now offered but under the new deal they will be strengthened and more schools will offer all three. The Federal government enters the picture in that it will build and equip schools for the areas or municipalities where irrigation is to maintain them.

Under each of the divisions, general, commercial and technical, there will be four and five-year courses of instruction, one and two-year courses, depending on the capabilities and scholastic ambition of the pupil. It will be in a small school a difficult problem to assess the scholastic ability of the pupil who comes in from public school, particularly in the case of the majority who are neither brilliant nor backward.

LEADS TO UNIVERSITY

The five-year course, it is expected, in each division, will lead to university entrance. A four year course to such institutions as Ryerson Institute, or schools of nursing; the one and two-year courses to the general labor market where trades and skills are a must. Transferring students from one course to another is permissible though the five-year course will differ in a degree from the four-year course in the same subject.

In the local school the number of pupils is not sufficient that the establishment of a four or five-year technical course will be practised, hence it is likely the one or two-year program will be available here.

The general object of the plan is to provide more courses better-suited to more people. Only 20 percent or the high school population will reach university level and under the new arrangement better provision is made for those who cannot.

Mr. Hall said that the entire program is projected keeping in mind the need to maintain the high standard of education in Ontario.

Right-Wing Plot To Seize Ceylon Premier Foiled

Mrs. Bandaranaike Says Coup d'Etat Crushed

COLOMBO (Reuters) — High ranking police officials and military men were officially reported under arrest today as the Ceylon government continued to investigate an abortive coup d'etat.

In a surprise announcement Sunday night, the government of Prime Minister Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike said it crushed a bid to kidnap some cabinet ministers and overthrow the regime in a "carefully planned" grab for power.

The announcement said the government got a tip-off Saturday and took immediate action to foil the plot.

Right-wing political leaders called for an immediate summoning of Parliament to discuss the abortive coup. Parliament adjourned last week and is due to meet again until Feb. 13.

The government also cancelled all Republic Day celebrations scheduled for Feb. 4 due to "obvious reasons."

MUST ANSWER

A government directive today said that any person detained by police or military must be required to answer questions about the abortive coup or military personnel.

Observers in the Indian capital of New Delhi said the arrest of the police and military officials, including some high ranking, not left-wing backers.

The Statesman, an influential New Delhi newspaper, said the plot threatens Mrs. Bandaranaike made a last-minute postponement of a planned visit to independent Ceylon.

In a report from Colombo, the paper said the plotters had planned to seize her while she was visiting temples in Kandy. Garamas Saturday and also to arrest other cabinet members and leaders of left-wing political parties.

The Statesman said 10—not eight—senior police and army officers were under arrest and were being interrogated. Those arrested planned to set up a junta and military rule after forcing Mrs. Bandaranaike to resign, certain observers, the newspaper reported.)

NAME THOSE HELD

Announcement Sunday night named those arrested and held under the Emergency Regulations Act as:

Cyprus Dissanayake, deputy inspector-general of police; Vernon John Pulle and C. C. Jirasinha, assistant superintendents of police; army commander Maj.-Gen. Mel and F. C. De Saram; Sidney De Soysa, retired deputy in spector-general of police; Royce Del Mel, retired commander of the navy; and Lt.-Col. Richard B. R. Jesudasan of the Ceylon volunteer force.

Lt.-Col. Del Mel was a deputy chief of the army and brother of Royce Del Mel.

Russia Accused Of Inciting Student Riots

CP from Reuters-AP

TEHRAN—Iran has accused Russia of inciting student riots here and protested against "interference in our internal affairs." Premier Ali Amini announced Sunday.

The protest was made by Foreign Minister Hussain Ghods Nakhai to the Soviet embassy here.

Amini told a press conference that several Soviet diplomats in embassy cars were seen among demonstrators during riots of a week ago in which more than 200 persons were injured.

He said Iran is willing to maintain friendly relations with Russia "but its action in inciting anti-government elements is contrary to friendship."

Amini said those alleged to be responsible for the riots will be tried by a court-martial.

Ringleaders of the rioters and demonstrators had chanted slogans "hang me when they succeeded in toppling my government and assuming power," he said.

But all such plots have been checked by the government, he said, and it is in full control of the situation.

Arctic Blasts From Prairies Hit Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — An arctic blast, driven across the western Prairies into Ontario and Quebec today.

The cold front extended along a line from south of Edmonton to Ohio, including cities in Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec in the freezing belt.

Northern Ontario shivered in a cold snap that promised nothing warmer than zero readings and low temperatures of 40 below, zero in many centres tonight.

The mercury range in the Toronto area ran from zero to 15 degrees.

Most places in the cold belt had clear skies, although a disturbance advancing south behind the arctic front was bringing patchy cloud and snowflurries.

Subway Strike Causes Chaos

LONDON (Reuters) — Travel chaos hit Scotland London today as subway and bus strike threw the capital's transportation system into a gigantic muddle.

Heading the wildcat strike were the city subway workers, who have announced a series of weekly Monday strikes, until their claims are settled.

Officially reported that only skeleton services were running on some lines while there were no trains at all on other subway lines.

Adding to the havoc was a similar strike by some workers on southern railways, a main commuter artery from the suburbs. Even before the morning rush hour started, 44 suburban trains were cancelled.

Nearly all drivers and conductors on London's buses showed up for work, but were forced an earlier decision to support the subway workers in their walkout.

MEN PULL SLED SEVEN MILES BUT BABE BORN DEAD

Mother, 17, Suffers Severe Frostbite

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP) A baby girl was born dead and the mother is in serious condition here with frostbite here after a desperate effort to get her to hospital.

The unidentified 17-year-old mother was unconscious in hospital with severe frostbite Sunday. The baby was stillborn earlier in the day.

Hospital reports reaching here told this story:

It became apparent Saturday that the baby was about to be born. Snow blocked the community on the bleak northwest coast where the girl lives, was cut off by snowblocked roads.

A group of men hitched three horses to a sleigh and started out with the girl, her mother and a nurse for Bonne Bay, 14 miles away. The journey became exhausted in the heavy drifts and, after covering seven miles one of the animals dropped dead.

Two of the men reached the community of Shoal Brook by snowmobile while the rest carried the girl the two remaining hours pull the sleigh.

The Newfoundland highways department, unable to clear the road for the sleigh, sent a crew of 20 men in a truck from Corner Bay, but they got only a mile from the community when they were stopped by the snow. They then walked another six miles on foot, unhitched the spent horses and pulled the sleigh to Shoal Brook, where between the sleigh shifts, Dr. Norman Bay the girl was put in a truck for the 65-mile trip to Corner Brook. The truck carrying the girl was too big in case it left the slippery road. It did once.

Crawfords Win One At Tourney

The Belleville Crawfords came up with one victory and two losses over the weekend while taking part in the Golden Triangle Invitational Basketball Tournament in Smiths Falls.

Eight teams participated in the tourney. They were, besides the Crawfords, Smith Falls, Ottawa M.T.S., Brockville, Orlawa Trenton Legion, Ottawa RCAF Uplands, Peterborough Jets and Deep River.

The Crawfords had only six players for the tournament but came through with one victory and two losses to gain fourth position in all of their games.

The Crawfords lost 42-30 to the RCAF team from Ottawa in the first game of the elimination skip round. The loss dropped them back to the consolation series.

Belleville defeated Deep River 48-38 in the first game of the consolation to earn the right to meet Ottawa M.T.S. in the finals. M.T.S. won 61-48 to cop the Crawfords.

Terry Batchelor was top scorer for the Crawfords in the three games with a total of 65 points. Bill Green 16, Mike Caswell 14, Fred Campbell 8, eight and Bob Faulkner four.

The Peterborough Jets and Brockville beat in the championship final but no result was available here.

Pensioners Will Re-Live Old Times

Some 75 Canadian National Railroad pensioners will relive the past tomorrow.

The nostalgic touch comes when they board "Old 94" which makes its last trip from Toronto via Markham, Blackwater, Lindsay, Peterborough, and Campbellford to Belleville.

They will leave for Toronto tomorrow morning. Train 93 operating over the same route makes its last trip out of Belleville on Wednesday, January 31st.

Wives of some of the pensioners will also make the trip.

Details of the trip were finalized by Lionel Train at the last monthly meeting of the Canadian National Railways Old Timers Association in Club Canara.

Over 120, including 44 from Toronto, and others from Cobourg, Lindsay, Peterborough, Ottawa, Brighton, and Trenton were in attendance.

President Joe Hunter chaired the meeting which discussed several items of important business.

Messrs. A. Grant and Neil Bernard, of the Canada Association gave brief humorous talks.

The pensioners enjoyed a delicious lunch which was served by the ladies of the CNRA who also served coffee and cakes prior to the visitors departure.

Eight Below This Morning In the City

Belleville and the Bay of Quinte district suffered its second coldest period of the season early this morning as the mercury tumbled to eight below.

The eight below recorded this morning was about 4 o'clock, the mercury having dropped steadily throughout the night. North of the city much colder temperatures were recorded with the thermometers dropping to 30 below at Killaloe.

The cold spell today had a bit of trouble starting thoroughly as chilled cars and bad, to call the garagemen to the rescue.

Along with the garagemen the hardware stores' hungry smiles as furnaces worked overtime to beat the cold.

Bank Building Purchased for Butcher Store

The now vacant bank building at 38 Bridge Street owned by the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, has been sold, it has been announced.

The new owner of the building contractor and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Black, proprietor of Black's Meat Market, which was burned out two weeks ago when fire destroyed the Ben Safe block on Bridge Street.

It is understood Mr. Black intends to re-locate his butcher store in the former bank building with extensive renovations being planned to fit the building as a modern butcher store.

The bank building was left vacant; a week ago when the bank business was moved to the east-end shopping plaza.

"Strange to say, The Sunday Express is not only a rival of The Sunday Times but also an enemy of the Observer, Tony's accompanying to some degree in the same market.

The Express adds that The (Daily) Times "is silent for a very good reason."

There died four months ago Sir David Bowes - Lyon, KCVO, aged 83. He was the father of Mother's brother. He was the Queen's uncle. He was the intimate friend of King George VI. And he was a director of The Times Publishing Company for nearly 23 years.

"WILL LOOK STUPID"

The newspaper says that if Buckingham Palace "gets the wind up about what Tony has been labaloo" and stops the princess' husband from selling pictures "they will look very silly and stupid then they are looking already."

"If the prime minister, Mr. Macmillan, intervenes . . . he will look even more ridiculous . . .

"If anybody is seriously worried by Tony's joining The Sunday Times the whole business can be balanced by Printing Tony's friend, Lord Mirror as woman's editor, though he doesn't know it, and make the Queen's Sandringham Estate indefinitely."

The news paper ends by bestowing on Tony a sharp comment after saying that everybody is talking about "Mr. Jones the Camera."

"Does it matter where he works or how much he is paid? At least he will be better employed than Mr. Profumo. His resignation number of paces behind his wife and his sister-in-law on race courses, or his wasting his time in dancing at, lecturing to, or otherwise as he did for two months in Balmoral last year waiting to become a proud popsy."

Mayor Whitton Drops Out of Snowshoe Race

OTTAWA (CP)—Mayor Charlotte Whitton plodded away on snowshoes Sunday to open Ottawa's winter carnival—on foot.

The mayor trudged across the snow with the encouragement of several hundred spectators, soon dropped out of the race—with a few miles to hike. She received an honorary member ship in the International Snowshoe Hikers Club.

Aux's Mutchmores of Hull, Que., won the race in 39 minutes and 46 seconds.

Events scheduled during the two - week carnival include exhibition and trial dog sled races to be run on the Rideau Canal and a human dog derby, in which four male students pull a female student in a circular sled.

Also included are snow sculpture contests and hockey and broomball games.

CNR Engineer Rescued After BC Snowslide

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) — A telegraph lineman who travelled over Canada's River Ice floes Sunday to rescue a man buried under a 20-foot snowslide on the former bank in the river by a snow slide which buried Canadian National Railway track.

Locomotive engineer Arthur Staiger was carried down the river bank by the second slide to rumble over a stretch of the CNR line 100 miles east of here.

Tom Latzenbacker edged his way to the river, who had crashed through the ice into five feet of water, and dragged him to safety.

Staiger suffered a broken arm, cracked ribs and exposure and is recovering at hospital in Prince Rupert.

He was the engineer of a work train sent to the slide area to clear several feet of snow from the tracks and set a freight locomotive back on the rails after it had derailed by the first slide Saturday.

The second avalanche pushed two section crews' sleeping cars into the river and left a third precariously close to the bank. The cars were unoccupied at the time.

The slide area covers more than 1,000 feet of track to a depth of 20 feet and extends below either end of a railway tunnel.

Staiger had just walked out of the tunnel when he was caught by the slide.

kind on pensions."

In addition to the policy resolutions going to be considered at the meeting from the senior party organization, a new proposals committee will be formed to study the party's youth and women's branches, and from the week-end conference meeting of the Canadian University Liberal Federation.

"The meeting of 500 students representing 11 university and college liberal associations against acquisition of nucleus weapons by the Canadian armed forces" and defeated resolutions dealing with two aspects of the federal aid to education issue.

The university plenary session defeated a resolution, which while recognizing education as solely a provincial responsibility, would have called on the federal government to make indirect financial support available to the provinces for schools.

DEFEATS RESOLUTION

It also defeated a counter-resolution, from the floor, calling by Quebec delegates declaring that provincial governments should turn back some provincial taxation during the second world war in order to finance education.

The national campaign committee, about 20 members met in private Sunday, and Mr. Gordon said afterwards that the other meeting will not be necessary if an election is called before then. Regional committees would be decentralized.

He said the campaign organization was as ready as the party could be, and it will be now. Asked what effect more time would have, he replied: "It would benefit the government but said it would not be of lasting importance."

The economic climate will get better, but it won't improve enough to give us enough for a next downturn in the business cycle, without heavy unemployment," Mr. Gordon said.

Lucky Luciano Buried; Tense Atmosphere

NAPLES, Italy (Reuters)—The funeral of Charles (Lucky) Luciano was carried out today in a tense and sometimes violent atmosphere that marked the life of the big-time U.S. gangster.

Twenty minutes before the "modest funeral service without flowers" started, a fight broke out between friends of the Luciano family and photographers. In one of the 150 cameramen who crowded into Most Holy Trinity Church for the funeral service was hurled to the ground.

Luciano's brother, Bartolo, sitting next to the coffin, took off his hat over his face and shouted "no."

Police service intervened and pushed the friend into his pew and told the photographers to leave back.

A few minutes later, an elderly man among the 30 relatives and friends attending the service waved a walking-stick at the group of photographers and shouted: "Be quiet or I warn I am going to throw you one by one on the head."

Bartolo, 70, arrived here Sunday from his home in New York to attend the service. Also in attendance was Frank Costello, Scarpatti, a priest in charge of a nearby village hospital which Luciano used to help have made large donations.

INTERNMENT IN N.Y.

In accordance with Luciano's last wish, the American friend said, his body will be taken to New York for burial in the family vault.

Among the mourners was a voluptuous 25 - year - old brunette who told reporters Luciano had planned to marry her.

Just before the service, two Americans in white raincoats stationed themselves by the door and took pictures of most of the men attending the funeral.

One of the Americans, who said he was working for the U.S. government, told reporters "we are taking pictures for the record."

One of the biggest wreaths was from the service, made of pink carnations, had a big black ribbon inscribed in white: "So long, pal." There was no name.

The local bishop ordered that the funeral be "without pomp."

Luciano collapsed and died of a heart attack at Capodichino Airport here Friday.

Born in Sicily, Luciano was deported to Italy in 1946 after serving more than nine years of a 30-to-50-year sentence for narcotics and prostitution activities.

Dues Collected Without Fuss At Hockey Game

TRENTON — "It was the quietest Sunday afternoon game I've had in the gardens in a long time."

Normally Gardens manager, Ron Thornton, summed up yesterday's Junior "A" hockey game between the Trenton Flyers and Kingston Frontenacs quiet.

Following a disturbance at last Sunday's game when fifteen Lonsdale Howard Wrese collected "dues" in the lobby and in the stands, the fact that Mr. Wrese had promised during the week to repeat this method of collecting what he considered adequate admission to the game, there had been a certain amount of conjecture that events in the lobby might spring from the collecting efforts on the ice yesterday. But such was not the case.

A fair-sized board, bearing the legend that "membership cards" would be the game-goers would cost 50 cents for adults; 25 cents for students; 75 cents for family groups and 75 cents for couple, (children under 14 free), was prominently displayed in the lobby. The lobby was open, and a ticket - seller stationed at the entrance. Mr. Wrese himself was on hand at the gate to collect any gate-pelt non bought a "dues" ticket.

Mr. Wrese said yesterday he was not prepared to say "dues?" he was asked.

"I won't get in," said Mr. Wrese, firmly.

But no one actually refused to buy the tickets. One patron refused to take the proffered ticket, but paid it cents. "I'm donating 50 cents to the Junior Flyers," he said, stating his position clear.

Last week, several patrons objected to the collection of a specified amount for dues, rather than being left free to contribute towards a silver collection, on the grounds that the law against such sports for gain was being broken.

Mr. Wrese says he bases his present stand on information received "from an official at the Attorney-General's office." He did not divulge the name of the official.

In all events, Trenton spectators had only one thing to complain about yesterday, the score . . . 9 to 1 for Kingston.

Want Federal Building Site On East Side

TRENTON — On Saturday, a group of east side merchants met with Lac-Leroy Belleville and presented him with a petition, signed by 30 east Trenton businessmen, asking that the proposed federal building be located on the east side of the river.

A spokesman for the group, said that since there are 5,000 residents, plus almost 3,000 Canadian Forces Base on the east side, and only 5,000 on the west side, they felt the post office should be located on the east side. "The east side is a ghost town," he declared.

Mr. Grills said that a suggestion for an east side site, supported by merchants, would have to be presented to government authorities before any action could be taken. The group will meet with Trenton Mayor Jack Campbell.

Move Children To New School For Retarded

TRENTON — Today, 16 retarded children from Trenton and area moved into their new school, on the Lafferty road, west of Trenton. Another seven will be taken back and forth by bus. Principal and teacher is Jay Watson. Mrs. Emily Beaton will instruct the younger half-day pupils.

On Saturday, the Allied Van Lines, without charge, moved the desks, seats and other equipment from the school-room at North Trenton public school to the new school. The school was erected at a cost of $18,000 by the Trenton Kinsmen Association for Retarded Children, at a point almost halfway between the two communities. Children from Carrying Place, Consecon, Frankford, Stirling, Wellington, Brighton, Colborne, Cobourg, Grafton, Campbellford and other Quinte points will attend.

One additional student will be enrolled in the near future when Mrs. Beaton has completed her course in teaching retarded children.

IN MEMORIAM

HUNT — In loving memory of our dear mother, Anne Black, who passed away January 20th, 1956.

Sheltered by the Rock of Ages
Resting in the arms of Jesus
Safe in the hands of God.

—Ever Remembered by family.

OSIER. — In loving memory of a dear husband, George M. Osier, who passed away January 20th, 1961.

What we would give, if we could but
Call him in the same old way;
To hear his voice and see him
smile,
But will you not chat awhile;
So you who have a father, cherish
him while you may,
For you'll never know the heartache,
Till you see his vacant chair,
And realize he is gone and son-in-law.

—Sadly missed by sister Margaret and sister-in-law.

OSIER. — In loving memory of a dear father, George M. Osier, who passed away January 20th, 1961.

Dad
Still in the same old way;
To hear your voice and see you
smile,
But will you not chat awhile;
So you who have a father, cherish
him while you may,
For you'll never know the heartache,
Till you see his vacant chair,
And realize he is gone and son-in-law.

—Sadly missed by sister Margaret and sister-in-law.

OSIER. — In loving memory of my husband, George M. Osier, who passed away January 20th, 1961.

He is gone but not forgotten,
His memory we will always keep,
Thoughts of him are always near,
Dear husband, we loved you dear.
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within my heart concealed.

—Sadly missed by wife Gertrude.

WEIR. — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Harry Weir, who passed away January 27th, 1951.

Gone, but not forgotten, the sort, dim light
A face I loved the best.
And thinks of him when the sun's last ray
Does down in the far-off west.
And when I see the star so bright
That I did on the day of your departure,
For absence can never close the heart
And the lamp of my love is still burning
Your heart was the truest in all the world.
Dear God, I pray to recall
For no one knows how much I miss
You are still the dearest of all.

—Sadly missed by daughter Isabelle, son-in-law Clarence and sons.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank all of my friends and relatives for the lovely cards and flowers while in hospital, also the nurses and Dr. Dempsey. A special thanks to Dr. Empson and Dr. Douglas and everyone who was so kind to me.

Red China Can Continue Importing Canadian Grain If She Makes Sacrifices

By DAVID OANCIA

LONDON (CP)—Can Communist China continue to be a good customer of Canadian wheat?

A Canadian who has studied the grain deals concludes that China can continue importing Canadian grain only if she sacrifices expenditures in other fields.

In his analysis published in The China Quarterly, Allan J. Barry observes that the Canadian agreement suggests China's import plans extend at least until 1963.

"China may hope to be no longer in need of large-scale shipment of grain from abroad; her good credit hope to support foreign exchange payments of up to $500,000,000 for Western grain in 1963?

"The answer may well be only at enormous expense to other programs and perhaps only with some form of assistance from the Soviet bloc allies."

The author, a 25-year-old native of Alloma, Man., who studied economics at the University of Manitoba and University of Toronto, wrote the article while in Hong Kong on a fellowship. He now is with the finance department in Ottawa.

CONTRACT NOT FIRM

Chinese food purchases in 1961 were about 6,500,000 tons Cost, including transportation, was an estimated $680,000,000, of which $230000,000 was to be paid last year and the balance this year.

Barry discusses some uncertainties associated with Canada's agreement with China. These are:

1. The nature of the agreement. "Basically, it would seem that this agreement is very far from being a firm contract and is rather 'an agreement of intent'."

This covers the supply of 230,000,000 bushels of wheat and barley during the 2½-year period ending in 1963. Credit is provided through a special $100,000,000 revolving fund set up by the Canadian government.

"The price was presumably left open at Canada's request, to avoid any possibility of a repetition of the losses suffered under the British wheat agreement of 1946, but as it stands the Chinese are not really committed to buy any wheat at all if a 'mutually agreeable' price cannot be arrived at."

The assumption was, however, that the Chinese would want to buy grain badly enough to pay the going world price.

CURRENCY RISK

2. The credit risk. The feeling on this was that the Chinese valued their reputation as world traders too much to destroy it by refusing payment when due

3. The possibility of financial losses from currency fluctuations. The Canadian Wheat Board was accepting payment in sterling for the first time, thus assuming the exchange risk.

4. The effect the sale may have on the U.S. surplus disposal program. Liberal Leader Lester Pearson had raised the possibility that U.S. officials may no longer feel under the same obligation to co-operate with Canada in safeguarding normal commercial markets

5 The Canadian supply position. Should there be another small crop this year, Canada would be in "the rather remarkable position" of being unable to supply anticipated quantities of wheat to both China and her other customers in 1962-63.

FARM PROBLEMS

Barry speculates that China's three successive crop failures may not entirely explain her grain purchases abroad.

"Natural disasters have been substantial enough, although Western and even some Eastern European observers believe that the Chinese have overstressed the effects of drought and flood to cover up defects in the organization of crop collection and distribution and in the introduction of new techniques."

He adds there is much evidence suggesting that the commune system introduced in 1958 brought chaos to rural areas. Recent efforts to decentralize authority "have probably not entirely repaired the damage done to organization and incentives."

Freed of Spying Charges, Pole Returns Home

MONTREAL (CP) — Tomasz Biernacki, freed of charges of spying for a foreign power, has left Canada for his native Poland bearing "no grudge."

An unidentified girl pressed a bouquet of flowers into his hands before the 37-year-old hydraulics engineer boarded a plane at Montreal's international airport Sunday night.

He was unsmiling but composed while flashbulbs popped and interviewers hovered around him.

"I hold no grudge against Canada," he said. "And if I should return I imagine I would still have my job."

The Montreal firm that employed him before his arrest last April described him as "brilliant" in his field. He came to Canada in 1958 as a delegate to an international conference on power and energy.

Biernacki was charged last May under provisions of Canada's Official Secrets Act.

It was ruled that the Crown had no case against him under the charges.

20,027 Prime Pelts Bring $140,000 in Sale

NORTH BAY (CP) — The North Bay Trappers' Association netted $140,000 Saturday from the second fur sale of the 1961 season and officials predicted the best year in the 16-year history of their organization.

The last of the 20,027 prime pelts went under the auctioneer's gavel late Saturday night. Buyers representing 11 Canadian, United States fur firms were on hand.

Saturday's take, com bined with the December sale total of $85,000, brings the season total thus far to $225,000 and three sales remain. Last year's entire season netted $325,000.

Cam Currie, sales manager for the association, said one reason the sale did not hit the expected $150,000 mark was a slight decrease in demand for beaver. A total of 4,650 beaver pelts were sold at an average $18 a skin with a top of $27.

Otter, mink and fisher pelts sold well. Average prices for fisher were $34.20 per pelt with a top of $82 on an offering of 482 skins. Otter averaged $23.60 with a top of $39 and mink $9 with a top price of $24.

Average prices for other species of pelts: Marten $3.58 with a top of $14.25; racoon $3.25 with a top of $4; muskrat 88 cents with a top of $1.50; weasel 52 cents; fox $7.50 with a top of $1.62; while fox $11.05; silver fox $5.70; cross fox $5 and red fox $4.05.

LAFONTAINE, Ont. (CP) — Thirteen children and their parents were homeless today after a fire destroyed their home in this hamlet 10 miles northwest of Midland.

Marshall Blondin managed to save only some furniture from the ground floor of his home.

The fire department was unable to reach the scene because of heavy snow drifts.

14 Boy Scouts Are Found Safe

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—Fourteen Santa Fe Boy Scouts and their troop leader, missing overnight, turned safe and sound today on a road leading from the Santa Fe ski basin.

The troop and the leader, Wilbur McPherson, went into snow-covered Hyde Park Saturday. They were in the form of thin strike was used by Indian civil servants, several years ago. It did not show up when their bus arrived for them.

A search party found them on the road this morning.

Remove One Article of Clothing Daily Seen Alternative to Strike

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's male fashion magazine, Tailor and Cutter, suggested today that workers, instead of striking, might well achieve the same aims by removing one article of clothing a day.

The magazine, renowned for its tongue-in cheek editorials, said this novel form of strike was used by Indian civil servants, several years ago. It said:

"Each garment might be, of itself, a small or insignificant; but the cumulative effect of only a few day's agitation was effective enough to produce official arbitration.

"Whether such measures would have success nearer home is, naturally, arguable.

"Obviously, no minister would react kindly to encountering a file of clerks padding toward the canteen stark naked. But the blow would be even more telling were he to come upon a round dozen or so displaying their pencil slim legs in long underwear and sock suspenders."

The magazine admitted "the large proportion of women employed in the British civil services offers a certain obstacle."

"A portly, assistant undersecretary in a woolly union suit is one thing. His own secretary in frilly briefs and a nylon bra is quite another."

Fritz Kreisler, Noted Violinist, Dies at Age 88

NEW YORK (AP) — Fritz Kreisler, one of the great violin virtuoses of the last 30 years, died today. He was 88. Many music lovers knew him as "Mr Violin."

Death came to him in the Veterans Pavilion of Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center where he had been a patient for five years. His agent said a heart attack, along with old age, was cause of death.

Over the years, his name had become almost synonomous with violin music.

He made Dvorak's Humoresque one of the best loved compositions of all times.

Kreisler not only was a master performer, but also a versatile composer, his works ranging from chamber music and operetta to folk dances that have become classics.

In the last several years, Kreisler and his wife, Harriet, lived in virtual seclusion in their Manhattan apartment. With his hearing and sight failing, Kreisler seldom appeared in public recently.

His wife is seriously ill.

NDP Will Hold Three Parleys On Farm Policy

TORONTO (CP)—The first of three conferences to thrash out a farm policy for the Ontario New Democratic Party will be held Tuesday at Walkerton.

The NDP adopted an interim statement of policy last December at its founding convention in Niagara Falls.

Regional conferences are scheduled for Walkerton and Oshawa Feb. 24. A provincial conference is to be held here at the end of March.

Among questions at Tuesday's conference will be survival of the family farm, car insurance, farm machinery and general farm policy, Chairman will be Robert G. Good of Brantford.

Food for the Mind

Many addresses are termed "thought-provoking" when they do little more than merely re-arrange long-standing prejudices. We hesitate, therefore, to apply this tag to the speech which George S. Mooney, executive director of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, made before members of Trenton service clubs and representatives of Trenton area municipalities on Tuesday. There is, however, no more accurate description of two of his eye-brow raising suggestions regarding the future, one in the realm of national affairs, the other concerned with international developments.

It is Mr. Mooney's belief that Canada may eventually adopt a single-tax system, though not in the form originally suggested by Henry George, a tax on the value given land by society, but rather as a tax on income.

There can be no question but that the income tax is the most desirable of any levy, if it were but possible to administer it fairly and equitably. This, though, has so far proved beyond the capacity of any government, since the requirement that is be equitable involves the consideration of a host of questions. What is income? What consideration must be given to different needs? What adjustments are needed to assure equity between a man whose occupation provides a long earning life and one whose earning years are fewer? These are only a few incidentals to the penalizing the energetic? Above all, how does one make certain that returns are not falsified and taxes evaded?

All these questions, important today, would become doubly so if the income tax were the only one and all levels of government derived all their revenue from it.

Still, as a suggestion designed to stimulate debate and study, we know of none which could surpass it.

Equally interesting, though perhaps not as novel, was Mr. Mooney's contention "that there will be some measure of integration of the two factions (the East and the West, the communists and the democracies) within the next thirty years, if we can prevent war." This is an opinion which Mr. Mooney shares with many, though most of them mind hesitate to voice it. All history, though, teaches us the story of the merging of opposites, under the ever-changing influence of time. (This may be heresy, to communist and capitalist alike, but is it not the tenet of Marxian philosophy?). The same influence could be argued in religion. Did not the ideology of Mithraism and idol-scorning Judaism produce the doctrines of early Christianity? Most of us accept the process without even thinking about it—and because, unlike Mr. Mooney, we never trouble to think about it, it does not occur to us that the same process will eventually work upon us, as it even today is at work, on the two main contending economic and political systems of the age.

Khrushchev Wins

Observers of Russian politics, presumably qualified and well informed, have been declaring recently that a struggle for power between Nikita Khrushchev and the Stalinists has been continuing. Now U.S. officials in Washington say they believe Khrushchev has won. It is to be hoped so.

Whatever may be said against Khrushchev, his every action indicates he believes in peaceful co-existence. This is true even when he "gets tough" with the West—he thereby strengthens his position in the struggle with the Stalinists. When the danger of actual armed conflict arises, however, Khrushchev softens his approach. Berlin proves it. He has kept Russian troops there for over two years, despite his crisis-creating deadliness for their withdrawal. Laos is another case in point.

The world could rest easier if it were assured all the leaders of the West understood, as well as Khrushchev does, the absolute necessity for co-existence. It is the fact that co-existence is sometimes denounced by the West which provides fuel for the Stalinists in their struggle with Khrushchev and, by enabling them to argue that the West is bent on war, gives some shadow of reason to their opposition to co-existence.

What the West needs to do is to accept co-existence but to accept, too, the fact that it involves considerable sacrifices if it is not to provide, as Khrushchev hopes it will, a safe path to a Communist victory.

We still spend more money in England on budgerigar seed than on the Church overseas.

Strictly Personal
Paintings Not Worth Canvas Painted On

By SIDNEY J. HARRIS

"I went to an art show the other evening," remarked my luncheon companion. "The usual thing — warm cocktails floating around in a punch bowl, hundreds of people milling about, and 95 per cent of the paintings not worth a first look, much less a second."

"That's not too bad a percentage," I observed. He frowned slightly and asked, "What do you mean by that?"

"Well," I said, "it's very easy to attack most modern art on the ground that it's meaningless, but it simply hasn't occurred to people that this has always been the case, in all centuries and with all forms of art, not just painting."

"I don't get you," he shrugged.

"Take music," I said, "during the age of Mozart. Ninety per cent of the music coming out in this day was third-rate, and is no longer heard. When we compare a performance of music with Mozart, we forget that we are choosing the whole pinnacle of musical genius. The typical composer in Mozart's time was a hack. So it is today."

"The same holds true for painting, for literature, for drama. Of course, there have been brief periods when a number of talents burst forth at the same time — but even then the vast bulk of the output of art was not much more than mediocrity."

"I'll buy that," he said, "but what has it got to do with the art show I saw the other night?"

"A great deal," I said. "Remember, in the past, judging the whole sweep of modern painting as against a few established classics of the past."

In their own time, however, many of the classics were swamped by mediocre competition. Mozart died in poverty and neglect, and the musical 'successes' of his day were names we have never even heard, much less listen to.

"It's worth keeping in mind," I went on, "that genuine and permanent talent is so rare that even in their own age 95 per cent of it is doing very well.

What perplexes us about modern painting is that we don't understand it, we don't have any standards, experience to judge it by — so we resent it and attack it as fraud or nonsense.

Only time will tell whose side the truth is on — and it's a nice exercise in humility to keep in mind that the public thinks Rembrandt right now, day, been wrong.

It is this comforting thought that keeps the artist swimming against the tide."

"Well, anyway, the cocktails were warm," he grinned. "I'm not sure they were," I said. "That's the terrible sin of art show openings — too many people, too much noise, — and never enough ice cubes."

War Historians Stay on Side of Lord Alexander

LONDON (Reuters) — Five British war historians Sunday came down on the side of Admiral Lord Mountbatten in his wartime feud with the late Gen. Joseph (Vinegar Joe) Stilwell.

In the third volume of the British Official History of the War Against Japan, the historians take the U.S. general severely to task for his part in the events of what his troops could achieve shortly before he returned from the Burma campaign.

Mountbatten warned him of "the possible serious consequences of keeping men in battle who are unable to defend themselves," they said.

The historians also accused Stilwell, who was deputy under Mountbatten's supreme command in Southeast Asia, of working behind his superior's back by building his positions as commanding general in the U.S. China - Burma - India theatre and chief of staff to Chiang Kai-shek.

Stilwell, who died in 1946, regarded Mountbatten as a "university undergraduate" unwilling to letters written to his wife and published in 1948.

REVIEWED

The five British historians led by Maj.-Gen. Woodburn Kirby reviewed the period between August, 1943, to August, 1944, in their volumes.

The book described Stilwell's differences in the summer of 1944 with Sir Hubert Gough, who took over from Maj.-Gen. Orde Wingate as commander of special long-range penetration columns or guerillas in Burma.

The evacuation of the troops had become urgent. Lentaigne wanted Brigades evacuated within a short time but Stilwell held that they should be moved when he decided operations permitted it.

A special survey showed what poor condition these men were in, the historians said.

NEEDED REST

"The general deterioration in health, loss of weight and diminution of energy and resistance to disease were consequent symptoms of malnutrition. It lowered the powers of endurance and ability to fight with a so-called load that, after an approach march, made it quite incapable of fighting until they had had one or two days' rest."

To settle the dispute, the historians said, Mountbatten had to intervene and warn Stilwell: "To rely on troops no longer physically fit is to court disaster."

The historians also declared that Wingate, killed in an air crash in Burma in 1944 after his jungle guerillas won headlines for success against the Japanese, did not have "the knowledge, stability and balance to make a great commander."

Wingate's daring and enthusiasm captured the imagination of the U.S. chiefs of staff when Winston Churchill took him to the Quebec conference at a time when the prestige of British arms in the Far East was at its low ebb and the Americans at its lowest, they said.

But Wingate was uncooperative and refused few opportunities of belittling other army and air force commanders, they said.

Nine Members Of One Family Burned to Death

BUCKLAND, Mass. (AP) — Six children and three adults — all members of one family — died Sunday in a fire that destroyed a two-storey converted farmhouse in this western Massachusetts village.

The only survivor of the blaze was 11-year-old Robert Deane Jr., a mentally retarded child who screamed the names of his playmates through a pane of glass on a rear door.

His mother, Mrs. Robert Deane, 32, and a brother, Charles 4, were among those who were killed in the fire.

Also killed were his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond R. Crandall, aged 66 and 63 respectively, and five of their cousins, ranging in age from two to 16.

The five cousins of the young survivor were the children of Everett Crandall of Springfield and Mrs. Wilbur Rogers of Greenfield. The mother remarried after a divorce.

Mrs. Rogers, an expectant mother, was not told immediately that her five children were dead.

Police said the blaze might have been caused by the exhaustion of an oil-fired furnace in the cellar.

Good Curling, Good Time, Beautiful Prizes, Feature Combined Spiel of 3 Clubs

When a number of men from three curling clubs at Belleville, Trenton and the RCAF gathered in August to talk over a combined bonspiel for the three clubs they little knew the success of their efforts would be. Their work and planning commenced during the past four days when 64 rinks from all parts of the province and some from other provinces completed a week of fun, good fellowship with lots of good curling thrown in and some of them went home laden with wonderful prizes.

The spiel closed on Sunday night with a smorgasbord at the Trenton Station, and the finals of four events at the Trenton Curling Club. So great was the crowd that every available spot in the clubhouse was filled and some even went out on the ice in the extreme cold to watch the curling and none was dissapointed for there were thrilling finishes in two matches. The same thing was true in the skirmish held at the Belleville Curling Club when two finals were decided and also at the RCAF rink where the finals were rolled off.

The prizes which were seven-deen local rinks that faced the barrier and three of them reached the finals. Some the same rink enjoyed a double win when they reached the finals and also won the event. Only the winners and runners-up were given prizes in the spiel and in the measure that is why they were so valuable. The committee and the committee buying the prizes gave out that would be useful and that they knew would not be bought being considered that they would naturally by were thrilled with their prizes and were thrilled over the outing out on the ice.

Held that were competitive [illegible] ship and [illegible] and the committee [illegible] sponsors [illegible] the spiel and [illegible] the draw [illegible] Trenton [illegible] Belleville [illegible] Trenton [illegible] RCAF [illegible]

PRESENTATIONS MADE

Jack Davidson was the genial master of ceremonies at the banquet at which the prizes were presented. Following the banquet at which the prizes were presented. Following the banquet at Quinte Club on Saturday night, Ft. Lt. Ken Fox, chairman and president of convenors at the RCAF rink also on Saturday night. All of them expressed their thanks to the sponsors of the various events and in most cases the sponsors were on hand to make the presentations. Special thanks for each rink were extended to Bill Lewis of the RCAF who was the draw master and to Bill Lewis of the Quinte Club who was the draw master of the rinks to juggle around, had to make the draw come out even and the finals at a certain time. It was a masterful job and there was not one complaint from the curlers.

Among the spiel the rinks of Mac White of the Quinte Club and Bill Lewis of the RCAF met Peden, and each one an event and by exactly the same score so it can be seen how even they were. Mac White with Jim Coverdale, Dr. F. J. Mc-Corquodale, and Dewey Brown defeated Lewis H. Leitrelle, Dick Frampton and Grace MacCauley for the Elliott Motors trophy but Lewis reversed the score in the McFarland Shield for the Grand aggregate. Both games were played strictly for fun and the rock was heavy. They blanked an end in order to keep the rock on the sheet. Never more than two points separated the rinks during the 21 ends of play and it was exciting at its best. Walter Elliott presented the trophy while Art McFarland presented the shield for Mayor H. J. McFarland of Belleville.

All members of winning rinks received replicas.

Your Car

Are You Doing More Harm Than Good?

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

More power to the car owner who can do a lot of his own work, but there's a certain type (found in every neighborhood) who looks with disdain on dealers, service station operators and fellow motorists.

He spends every Saturday under the hood — cleaning, tightening, greasing, adjusting, cleaning, experimenting, until it's almost everything in sight. And, of course, he's first with every new additive and accessory.

What's wrong with this, you say? Well, in most cases, your boy isn't fully acquainted with what he's doing — or why. He wastes as much money, and may do as much harm, as the neglectful owner.

He's usually right in one respect. He can improve engine power, top and economy — but by better driving, not by overanxious maintenance. Poor starting habits, overchoking, erratic acceleration, forcing the engine, improper tuning, wasteful speeds, unnecessary braking, etc., can be cured by a you for mechanics and a set of tools.

From P.F.: "My service man says spark plugs should always be cleaned and regapped every 1,000 miles. Do you agree with him?"

(A) Not quite — he's a bit too eager. Every 3,000 miles is more reasonable.

N.D. writes: "I have a few small gripes about my '58 sedan. It seems to run a little too hot and doesn't show its usual power, especially when taking hills. Gas mileage isn't what it used to be either, I'm afraid."

(A) The symptoms are common to several conditions, but if you believe in hunches, check for a sticking manifold heat valve.

From O.W.: "We car owners are told to keep tire pressures low for smoother riding and good traction — keep pressures high for better gas mileage, and steering engineers forget these claims and tell us what's better for tires."

(A) As the saying goes, "More air means more wear." In other words, higher pressure benefits tires.

Ontario Govt. Will Expand Hunting Areas

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government plans to expand its organized public hunting and fishing areas in 1962, Lands and Forests Minister Spooner announced today.

Mr. Spooner said in a press release that he hopes to see considerable land come under Conservation Authority opened for public hunting. The department's parks branch has been co-operating in the past with the fish and wildlife branch to provide hunting in some provincial parks after the picnic and camping season is over.

Increased public fishing may also result from the program.

Mr. Spooner said that pheasant hunting would be largely orientated towards public hunting areas under plans recently set up.

2 Teen-Agers Facing Charge Of Murder

EDMONTON (CP) — Two teen-agers were charged with murder Sunday in connection with the beating death of Calgary service station attendant Edward Bernard (Bud) Anderson Thursday. They are Douglas Letendre, 17, of Edmonton and Tejauuis (Tad) Cassidy, 16, of no fixed address.

Anderson's body was found lying in a pool of blood at the service station in north-eastern Calgary where he worked.

Pearson Would Welcome Debate With the PM

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson would welcome a television debate with Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Walter Gordon, campaign chairman of the Liberal party, said Sunday night.

He told a press conference that all forms of modern communications, especially television, would figure large in the coming election campaign.

Earlier, the annual meeting of the Canadian University Liberal Federation was told that the Liberals will employ all the modern techniques of motivation research and surveys along with slick newspaper, radio and television advertising — as well as the old - fashioned forms of meetings, rallies, conventions and political rallies.

The gist of the Liberal plan was given Saturday to the federation by Maurice Sauve, the party's national research director and a student of political science and practical politics.

Mr. Gordon, addressing the CULF banquet Saturday night, said the Liberals could put forward a program of desirable reforms, which would be both responsible and achievable but would not promise the impossible.

WHEN THEY LAUGH

The real proof that it was time for a change and the country was ready for it, he said, was when the people began to ridicule and laugh at the head of any government.

"When they laugh at Prime Minister Diefenbaker may have difficulty selling an election date because it took him three weeks to make up his mind on the name of the new, urged the university Liberals to work hard in the coming campaign. The Liberals will want young people to canvass in every one of the country's 17,000 polling subdivisions, he said.

Saying the Liberal party's plan on Theodore White's book, The Making of the President, 1960 and other works as Vance Packard's The Hidden Persuaders, Mr. Gordon said party theory can be obtained at the polls by proper planning and strategy.

DEMOCRAT WINS

WASHINGTON (CP) — Texas Democrat Graham B. Purcell Jr. takes his seat in Congress today. He defeated Joe Meissa-nd, Republican insurance businessman, in an election for the House of Representatives Saturday.

Church Notes

Financially, St. John's United Church had a satisfactory year, meeting the Ministerial and Maintenance budget of $5,500 and the Building and Building Fund loan. The Women's Association raised about $3,700 during the year and gave about $1,000 on the parsonage and gave $700 for building fund.

The Women's Missionary Society sent $781.45 to the Presbyterial treasurer and the Evening Auxiliary $1,249.04 to the Presbyterial treasurer.

The Young Adults' Club spent $162 on the lobby furniture and gave $100 to missionary students.

The Sunday school Missionary and Maintenance fund turned over $469.70 to the church treasurer.

EXECUTIVE THREE

HAVANA (Reuters) — Three Cuban spies have been executed by a firing squad before being tied to buses with incendiary bombs, Havana Radio reported on Sunday. The reports did not say when or where they were sentenced.

District Students Inspect School of Lab Technology

Over 100 district high school students from Picton, Trenton, Bancroft, Madoc and Stirling were the guests of the Belleville General Hospital this past Saturday as they visited the hospital school of medical laboratory technology which is conducted by the department of pathology.

Dr. A. N. Rota, director of pathology greeted the guests and explained that the purpose of the visit was to acquaint secondary school students with the opportunities to be found in the field of medical technology with its many branches. The students viewed the department of pathology's facilities and the school.

Prior to their tour the students were given an address by Dr. Rota on the organization of the department of pathology and its different subdivisions, such as the clinical laboratory, the teaching program, the autopsy service and the research program. The opportunities for specialization within these various branches were also described.

The personnel and the function which each member of staff in the department were also explained to the visitors.

There was also a brief discussion on the vocation and duties of a medical laboratory technologist the prerequisites to enter a school of medical technology and the qualifications for advancement within the field.

The history of the local school, which was started in Belleville in 1956 and in 1961, was given. During the past three years there have been 21 students graduated annually. This year 18 graduates are anticipated and if is hoped that a record number of large class of technologists in training during future years.

Following the discussion of the above subjects the visiting students were shown a film on laboratory technology, a tour of the school facilities and the laboratories of the pathology department then took place, following which the guests were given a luncheon.

Feminine Form Does Utmost To Emerge From the Sack

By GABRIELLE SMITH

PARIS (AP) — The feminine form did its best to emerge from the sack this week, as most major Paris fashion houses revealed their fall and summer styles.

An attempt was made to give women back her waist and bosom, with one important exception — the House of Dior.

The biggest waist champion was designer Jules Crahay of Nina Ricci, who squeezed it in three - inch - wide, tight leather belts. Marc Bohan of Dior placed his belts on the hipbone but most other houses left waists hovering around the middle, with some suggestion of the empire line.

Bosoms were outlined small and high by Desses and Venet, but flattened by Cupcurl, Cardin and Dior's daytime clothes.

But at night low decolletes plunge to the waist, often daringly revealing on the sides.

HEMLINES UNCHANGED

Hemlines have not been very publicized. Some are just below the knee, others extra short, revealing part of the knee cap when the woman walks. The key word is still "short."

There was lots of tight news. The general trend was wide, dresses, following women to walk from the hip down instead of the hip down instead of the hip down. Jackets tended to be short and closer to the body, sometimes with long flaring tails.

No matter what concessions designers made in women's shape, they all feminized her.

Cardin gave his tall, flat-chested Jeanne embroidery and well stiffening in lagenlike designs that hollowed the curve her middle. Ricci gave her staggering low necks. Chanel added many ribbon bows and frilly hats to her classic suits.

Ruffles were stiff and clownlike.

EVENING WEAR DARING

A note of wonder was added with children evening dresses, which ranged to look like negligees leading a girl to ponder whether she should ever grow to be open or in her bonder.

Star color tones were oranges, apricots and yellows, but there were plenty of pastel-like pale blue, pink and green and also sharp hot cyclamen, violet and bright rust orange.

Dior threw styles smack back into the 30s where they had been last year with extra low waists and flat straight pleated skirts.

The general trend was wide, dresses,

Lamb—Boned And Barbecued

by Mary Moore

I've surprised myself.

All day Sunday I had doubts about what I was going to do and cooked lamb before serving time put it in the oven, skin side up, on centre rack, at 400 deg. F. Top and bottom burners on for 15 minutes to sear and brown it. Reduce heat to 250 deg. for 1¼ hours. You may turn and baste it 2 or 3 times if you like during the slow baking period. Remove to hot platter. Pour out fat from pan, and spoon thick sauce ingredients over meat. Have the knife razor-sharp for the carver for this is a bit loose having no bone in. Pete sliced it thinly and spooned a little barbecue sauce over each serving. It served four generously and there was not a scrap left because it was so popular.

I served curried rice with chopped pimientos through it, and some saffron for the Spaniards who like saffron. We had the inevitable mint jelly and a great big salad containing about 10 ingredients: lima beans, wieners, spinach, cabbage, bacon, tomatoes, cucumbers, radishes green pepper, celery with Italian French dressing.

Today this week I will give you the birthday cake recipe and an apple dish I served with it.

"Romance" or "Sex Appeal"

Is "romance" unstylish, even unsavory in today's dating? February Reader's Digest suggests that the let's-be-practical approach to marriage is unfair to both women and men. Our sense of values has changed, says this Valentine article, and in scrapping "romance" for "sex-appeal" we are missing a lot. Chi Rho Enjoys Annual Banquet

The January 17th meeting of the Christ Church Chi Rho took the form of a dinner presented by the retiring executive of 1961.

Guests attending the dinner included Archdeacon and Mrs. E. C. Cooper, Rev. E. Smith and Father Reunion from Bancroft.

Following the dinner retiring and incoming presidents spoke briefly. Retiring president, Mrs. Warwick, thanked the members for their co-operation during the past year; and the incoming president, Allan Gardiner, asked that members would assist him in the new year.

Archdeacon Cooper, expressed to the Chi Rho Fellowship, that without support from Christ Church, members the church could not exist. Ted Warwick, on behalf of the fellowship, presented Archdeacon Cooper with a cheque for $150 to be used as he saw fit. Margaret Eagle presented Ted Warwick with the past president pin.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Supposedly, dinner was over, but members were served a sixty piece of cake to celebrate Edward Ingraham's birthday and this came as a pleasant surprise to him. However, Herb Cavanagh snarled out with a song and members managed to give Ed his birthday wish between mouth fulls of cake.

Following this, the ball was cleared and members divided themselves in two groups. The purpose of this being each one could devise ways of forth any new ideas or changes of which they felt would be necessary to better the Club in the new years. Many good suggestions were the result of the discussion, and will definitely come up for thoughtful consideration on the part of the new executive.

Dancing got off to an energetic start with all members taking part in the Virginia Reel, followed by several novelty dances.

Coke and potato chips were set out for refreshment during the course of the evening.

The entire evening was certainly a success due mainly to the wonderful efforts of the retiring executive on their fine dinner. The banquet added the finishing touches to a year of achievement and true Christian Fellowship.

Congregational Meeting

STOCKDALE UNITED

The treasurer's report of Stockdale United Church, at the annual congregational meeting, on January 25th was given by Mr. John Schwass. It revealed substantial increases in both budget and missionary givings for 1961.

The Board of Stewards was constituted, as follows: Messrs. W. Fisher, Geo. Wright-man, Clinton Cox, John Schwass, Dan Parks, Bernard Cox, Stanley and Roy Holland, Jack Suderman, Angus Orser, Mrs. George Wrightman and Mrs. Percy Stubbs with Mrs. Norman Wall as envelope steward.

Mr. George Plumpton reported for the Session, increased membership in the church roll, and expressed appreciation of the work of the organist, Mrs. F. Holden, and the choir, throughout the year.

S.S. FINE YEAR

The Sunday School, with Mrs. Ray Harrington as superintendent, had the biggest year in its history. Mrs. Muriel Schwass gave an interesting account of the Mission Band which is attended by about 75 children and Mrs. Harold Maybe, assisted by Mrs. H. Pitcher, was the largest ever known in this field, taking in all denominations.

Mrs. Vera Pitcher, reporting for the Women's Associations, gave an interesting account of the wide activities carried on by the W.A. and advised that the W.M.S. had exceeded its allocation for missions. Mrs. Pitcher will be the president of the new organization, the United Church Women.

The ladies were proud of a new refrigerator in the dining kitchen, the gift of Messrs. H. C. Pitcher and Sons. The Pitcher Company, also gave the Hall Furniture of Frankford, also made a gift of a drier to the parsonage. Crawford and Stockdale ladies put a new chesterfield suite and rug in the parsonage.

The minister, the Rev. Charles R. Judd, expressed his appreciation of the co-operation of the church leaders throughout the year and the good work done by the various organizations. The meeting was closed with the benediction.

UC Women Dedicated For Service

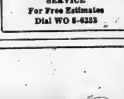
ROSLIN—On January 18th, the Rev. Mcintosh conducted the inaugural service for the organization of the United Church Women with ladies attending from Roslin, Plainfield and Bethel Elon.

Mrs. Mcinnis, after expressing the great importance of this new organization, proceeded with the service.

The Scripture verses were read by Mrs. Walter Chisholm; Mrs. A. Dills, of Plainfield, sang a solo, "Hear Us O Lord."

The address was given by Mrs. Roy Sills of Bethel Zion, using "Vision of the Future" as the theme and stressing the position of the women of the church and the changes that are being made.

U.C.W. DEDICATES



The new organization, the United Church Women, is to unite all the women, of the church into one group, to work for the total mission of the church.

The women chosen for members of the executive for this new organization were asked to come forward for the dedication and to repeat the prayer of consecration. Each one promising to strive, with God's help, to do His work in this new organization of His church.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed by everyone.

Members of Roslin executive are as follows: president, Mrs. H. Meeks; 1st vice-president, Mrs. W. Hamilton; recording secretary, Mrs. G. Bailey; treasurer, Mrs. S. Holden; flower committee, Mrs. J. Chisholm, Mrs. D. Wright; literature promotion committee, Mrs. J. Fagey and Mrs. K. Harrison; pianist, Mrs. F. Howes; assistant pianist, Mrs. C. Bailey.

New Fur Fashions

By VERA WINSTON

How different the current crop of fur coats is from those of yesteryear! Made of sleek pelts, the new fur styles are as fashionable and smart as they are functional.

Here, for example, is a delightful coat of Brazilian river otter in a muted beige shade. It is collarless but is built up at the neckline. Slightly shepherded through the body, the line flares away to an A silhouette.

Curved slit pockets and covered buttons are other details.

Mrs. Y.S. — She wants to quit ballet lessons because of one setback.

Zoe B. — It's not fair! I was supposed to dance in "Les Sylphides."

Mrs. Y.S. — Zoe is nine and has been taking ballet lessons for two years now. She's doing well and we increased this year's study to two afternoons a week instead of one.

But last week the instructor began to get the Spring Recital idea, shape and Zoe was selected as one of the fairies. She was in seventh heaven about it. So big began to plan her costume and talk about inviting the relatives and having her picture taken and all. And then the whole thing collapsed. At yesterday's rehearsal, Monsieur changed his mind. He wants tall fairies and small soloists.

Even though Zoe is to have a part in a demonstration at the ballet, she's not satisfied and wants to stop the lessons completely. I'm insisting that she round out the year's instruction.

Zoe B. — I'd rather forget about dancing altogether now! I'll take any other kind of lessons, my mother wants me to take — piano, elocution or ice-skating. At least there if you can do something and that's let you do it. They don't kick you on and let anyone tell do it, just because she's tall.

That's why Lynne got the part not because she can dance well. She dances like a clumsy giraffe. She's not the only one making the ballerina solo is the worst dancer in the class. Monsieur is letting her do it because her mother is his sister. She's his niece.

The only two ballet lessons is dancing in the recital. Last year I was a little boy in The Nutcracker Suite. This year they want me to just do exercises. That's awful. I hate dancing now.

Neighbor's Aid Enjoys Pot Luck Supper

BIRD THURLOW—The Neighbors Aid enjoyed a pot-luck dinner at the hall on Wednesday. Mrs. Harry Thomson was hostess. About 40 enjoyed the many good things provided by the members.

Mrs. Thomson had two quilts which were completed during the day. Later, after dinner, the president, Mrs. E. Jeffery, conducted a business period. Correspondence was read by the secretary, Mrs. M. Dent. Mrs. Eric Leeming gave a donation of money to the Aid. Mrs. Jack Parrott will show her slides of their recent world tour, at Eastminster Church Hall, Herchimer Avenue on February 21st.

Mrs. Arnold Mitchell, will be hostess and Mrs. Eric Leeming to arrange the program for the February meeting, also Mesdames S. Stickney, A. Mitchell, B. Portt, Robert Aikins are the lunch committee.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

When someone makes a colossal blunder, the courteous thing to do is look the other way. Can you honestly say you're considerate in this respect? Answer Yes or No to the following:

1. If someone makes an error in grammar, do you immediately correct him?

2. If a dinner companion makes a mistake and chooses the wrong fork, do you call it to his attention?

3. Do you correct the person who may mispronounce the name of a particular person or place?

4. When someone makes a slight misstatement in telling a story, do you interrupt to set the record straight?

5. If a jovial type says "Stop me if you've heard this one before," do you?

6. Do you fluster someone who obviously doesn't remember you by reminding him where you had met before, when, and under what circumstances?

7. If a forgetful Suzie inadvertently calls you by a wrong name, do you issue a stern correction?

8. Suppose a fellow guest accidentally steps on your toes at a party. Would you give him a dressing down for being clumsy?

9. If a couple shows up at an informal party dressed in tuxedoes, do you add to their discomfort by joking about it?

10. If a guest arrives inadvertently late at your home, do you embarrass him by making an issue of it?

Scoring:

All Yes? — You're too quick to point a finger. Be careful. One day it may be turned back in your own direction.

All No? — You have a talent for making things easy for others.

50 - 507 — You tend to be a picky, but show signs of good breeding.

ROYAL WIG

Female Bodies Change From Year to Year

TORONTO (CP) — Styles in female bodies change from year to year, says Angelo Soriano.

Mr. Soriano, a manufacturer of mannequins, says:

"You no longer see bodies every year—like automobiles. Real women don't change shape that fast, but you'd be surprised at how they do change."

His models are designed to Canadian facts, which means bigger busts and shorter waists and legs than the American model, though all the faces are sculptured in the United States.

But for sportswear, slim European types are preferred.

"They're scrawny," sniffed Julie Male, office manager for the firm.

The popular measurement is 36-24-36, though the firm once made 30 Jayne Mansfield (40-21-38) models for a dress shop here. They caused a stir until the store burned down.

Romantic German Custom Dying in East Germany

By ADAM KELLETT-LONG

EAST BERLIN (Reuter) — In East German brides still dream of riding to their church weddings in a white-painted coach drawn by two white or black horses, driven by a liveried coachman.

But this ancient and romantic German custom seems to be disappearing more and more from the East Berlin scene in favor of "socialist" wedding ceremonies, or church weddings without the coaches.

There now are seven such coaches left in East Berlin and the owners say that, although many couples would gift like to use them instead of plain taxis, the latter are less expensive and so generally preferred.

SOCIALIST STYLE

One reason church weddings and white wedding coaches no longer play the part they used to in a young couple's life is the introduction of "socialist" wedding ceremonies.

Since the first "socialist" wedding was publicly celebrated in 1956 in an East Berlin factory, young couples have decided to celebrate their wedding day in their factory's cultural hall instead of the family circle.

Wherever "socialist" weddings are held in East Germany's state-owned factories or offices, the state pays not only for food and drinks for the party, but also for the band, flowers, transport, and all the thousand other things which can make a wedding expensive.

Favorite music at socialist weddings was Mozart's Eine Kleine Nachtmusik until the Communist youth newspaper Junge Welt complained that it was "unsuitable and not solemn enough." Now, Beethoven usually is played.

There is nothing to stop the bride wearing the traditional white dress and veil if she wishes, but many East German girls choose an ordinary silk dress for the occasion.

The marriage ceremony itself is carried out by an official of the local registrar's office who makes a short speech tail-

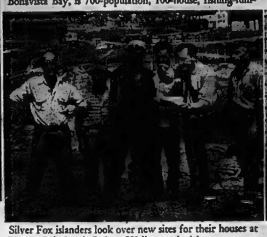
Fair Stands the Wind for Moving Homes



Lonely Outports Draw Together

New hometown for former residents of Silver Fox Island, Bonavista Bay, is 700-population, 100-house, fishing-lumbering village of Dover, above. Eight-mile move by islanders will swell size of Dover nearly fifty per cent.

Seafarers plying tricky Newfoundland coasts might well stare popeyed through binoculars at ocean-going houses bearing full and away at a three-knot clip. The houses, under tow by a fishing boat or two, are not victims of tidal waves or washed to sea by nature's fury. They are part of province-sponsored project to move many of the island's 1,300 isolated fishing villages to more central locations where communities can play a more active part in the province's changing economy. Relying on the only power available in the outports — human muscles and ingenuity — removal must be backed by all residents to get practical government blessing of $600 for each house moved. Although some old folks are reluctant to leave the villages founded by their forefathers, the attraction of better schools, modern power and water supplies, overland transport links and increased social facilities has already spurred 60 communities to move. Physical problems of the move, which may affect a tenth of province's population, brings out neighbourly co-operation instilled by hundreds of years spent sharing dangers and wealth of untamed sea. One by one the houses (stores and churches, too) are dragged down the beach, buoyed with oil-drums, then floated along coast to new location. There, the old community, unit by unit, family by family, is absorbed into the modern world — another lonely outport becomes just a memory. National Film Board of Canada photos by Bob Brooks

PICTON

Will Start High Level Bridge Over Bay of Quinte This Yr. Goodfellow Tells Chamber

PICTON—Starting in 1963, construction of a high level bridge over the Bay of Quinte will be commenced. The first contract will be let in September. The highway from Picton to Green Point, with the bridge across the Bay to link with Hastings County and connecting with highway 401 near Marysville will be completed in the fall of 1964 stated Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, guest speaker at the annual meeting of Prince Edward County Chamber of Commerce, Saturday night.

The Minister of Highways emphasized that these plans had been made by the Department and were contingent on the highway budget being approved by the Ontario Legislature.

Hon. Mr. Goodfellow left this announcement to the very end of his address in which he outlined the great progress made in highway construction, and the great demand for expenditures to provide a high and required standard.

Municipal representatives present were pleased to hear the Minister's announcement that the whole question of municipal road subsidies is to be studied with a view to increases, and that the Minister favors increased grants for development roads.

Though the Minister had with him a breakdown of the estimates in connection with the proposed bridge and the roads from Picton which would connect with the bridge and highway 401 he did not release the details. He mentioned $400,000 for grading and drainage at Bobbie Hall, to be completed in 1963 and $560,000 for the connection from bridge to highway 401.

ANCESTRAL CONNECTIONS

Hon. Mr. Goodfellow introduced several cases which showed unusual connections with his family and Prince Edward and commented on the part in the memory of my great, great grandfather (Peter Vallean), who settled in Sophiasburgh township (where the new bridge is to be located) I would like to play a small part in helping make the bridge possible.'

Insisting the increase in expenditures of roads and highways, the Minister recalled that the British government built the first road from Montreal to Kingston in 1789 chiefly for military purposes; in 1793 the Legislature of Upper Canada voted 400 pounds sterling to encourage construction of roads; by 1826, this amount was 1200 pounds but cut back to 100 pounds in 1827 and then, after the change in currency, to $1,750; in 1901 to $138,000, and with recognition of the need roads play in development the Highway Improvement Act was passed and a budget of one million dollars was set. This has increased until the 1961-62 budget ending March 31 totalling millions. Despite this, the Minister said, it is difficult to meet all the needs. Some 70 million are required for maintenance. 17 millions to keep roads clear in winter, 10 millions for development roads, 17 millions for municipal subsidies, 120 millions for Queen's Highways. The Trans-Canada highway, bypass around Toronto, bridge over Welland canal and other vast projects necessitated an increased budget for the next fiscal year.

The Department is spending on roads more than is collected from gasoline, fees and licences, these covering only 91 percent.

In 1962, Highway 401 will be completely open, making it the longest strip of controlled access highway entirely free, in the world, the Minister said amidst applause.

Since 1946, more than 90 per cent of the provincial road mileage has been rebuilt and resurfaced, said Mr. Goodfellow as he pointer out that, capital expenditures can be expected to decrease and greater support given municipal roads.

There is a big backlog in the municipal road program and we plan to study how greater assistance can be given, said the Minister, who spoke strongly in favor of Development Roads, which he termed as compulsory since assessment is taken into consideration. We intend to increase development road grants, starting this year, he declared.

"Providing funds are available there will be a bridge from Prince Edward across the Bay connecting with highway 401, completed in the fall of 1964," the Minister concluded amidst prolonged applause. He had been given a standing ovation following his introduction by Norris Whitney, MPP. The Royal Hotel dining room was packed to capacity for the occasion, as soon such announcement was anticipated, and the Minister kept the audience most attentive by declining anything concrete or the bridge until he did words.

Clarence Milligan, M.P., expressed appreciation to the Minister for a "welcome announcement" and said Minister of Defence Harkness hoped to visit Picton in the future.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Amongst those who spoke briefly were Mayor Harry C. McFarland, who had words of praise for the Chamber of Commerce leadership; County Warden John Fox, who extended the county's greetings; Gerry Sandercock, MPP, Hastings South; Lt.-Col. J. A. Hilland, Commandant, Camp Picton.

The Mayor spoke of the industry of industry in Prince's district, and introduced Kenneth Graham, new president of Lake Ontario Portland Cement Co., and J. Watts, works manager of Preston-Sifto Ltd., which is constructing a plant here.

President George Morden reviewed a year of activity by the Chamber of Commerce and paid tribute to the directors and many who had co-operated.

ELECT DIRECTORS

Following the meeting, a business session was held with W. D. MacArthur giving the report of the society's treasurer and Basil Foreman presiding for the election of 15 directors by ballot. Those elected were Leo G. Allan, Harold Cleave, Jack Collard, Dr. Ross Dodds, Len Foley, Basil Foreman, Sam Gentile, Barney Hepburn, Jay Hepburn, Lionel Hicks, Oscar McKee, Gordon Nourse, Al Pearce, Don Slemon and Fred VanDusen.

These directors will meet at their meeting in addition to elected directors, representatives will be named by Camp Picton, Lake Ontario Portland Cement Co., Dept. Agriculture, County Council, IODA, Prince-Sifto Ltd., Quinte Isle Tourist Association.

MODERN EXPLORER — Leopold LeCouteur, Sodbury, Ont., enthusiast who has explored 1000 miles of Canada's waterways, plans a canoe trip to New Orleans to celebrate his 60th birthday this summer. Wearing racoon and buckskin coat, the New Brunswick-born Acadian always travels by himself and has earned the nickname "The Lone Voyageur." (CP Photo).

Paddles His Own Canoe In a Mighty Big Way

MONTREAL (CP) — Leopold LeCouteur, a 59-year-old New Brunswick - born Acadian who modestly allows that Canada should have more characters like himself, is an unusual outdoors man who paddles his own canoe in a mighty big way.

Mr. LeCouteur, who looks the part in his raccoon cap and buckskin coat, has explored 25,000 miles of Canadian waterways in a canoe.

But unlike professional canoeists who always work in pairs, he paddles alone. This has earned him the title-tacked on him by a former boss, the famous late prospector Sir Harry Oakes—of "the lone voyageur."

With his 60th birthday coming up this summer, the craggy-faced voyageur wants to meet some of his ancestors who settled in the southern U.S. after the 18th century expulsion of the Acadians.

"I may be nearly 60 but I'm not finished yet," he said in an interview here.

The voyage would begin at Sudbury, Ont., where he is a plant foreman.

PADDLED TO QUEBEC

Only last year, Mr. LeCouteur paddled the 800 miles from his home to Quebec City. Two years ago he conquered the 700 miles between Sturgeon Falls, Ont., and New York City.

His love for canoeing began as a youth when he was a popular guide to sportsmen and prospectors.

His canoes carry such names as Bilaj Carman and Pauline Johnson, reflecting his love for poetry. He speaks fluent English, French and Italian, and can make himself understood in many Indian dialects.

He calls the canoe "a Houdini of all craft" which always will have "a place in a country like Canada."

As a Picasso of the paddle, his wife kids him about having "bags in my boiler."

"Well, I'm a character and I like it. There aren't enough of us around."

Four Children Die in Blazing Farm Home

SUDBURY (CP) — Four young children died in their blazing farm home Saturday and their frantic mother suffered burns and cuts in her efforts to save them.

The four children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johns — Patsy, 5, Bobby, 3, Pauline, 2, and Nancy, 11 months—were burned to death in flames that swept through the second - storey flat while their mother was answering a telephone message at a neighbor's home.

Mrs. Rosemary Johns 26, was taken to hospital with burns on her head and cuts on her arms after breaking away from neighbors and rushing into the house, only to be turned back by flames.

The father was at his kitchen job in Sudbury Memorial Hospital when the fire broke out shortly after noon. The Johns lived on the top floor of the two-storey house.

FAMILY ESCAPES

The upper story was burned out and the first floor, home of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Poitras, was damaged by water poured into the house by firemen. Mr. and Mrs. Poitras and their children were not hurt.

Mrs. Johns, who had no telephone, was called across the street at noon with a message phoned to Mrs. Trayton Armstrong.

While she was there, she saw smoke coming from the windows of her home. Mrs. Armstrong said, shouting: "Help me get in and save the children."

Mr. Poitras had tried earlier to get upstairs to the children, but the fire drove him back.

RUN OUTSIDE

He and his wife and children ran outdoors and met Mrs. Johns. "We tried to stop her going in but we couldn't," Mrs. Poitras said later.

Driven out again, Mrs. Johns collapsed. She was taken into a neighbor's house and then to hospital.

Cause of the blaze was unknown. Mr. Poitras said he believed it was started by a heater.

UN Chief Representative In Congo in for Rough Time

By MILTON BESSER

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Andrew Cordier, a 60-year-old Columbia, Cambridge - educated American economist from Ghana with a reputation as a trouble shooter is the new UN chief representative in The Congo.

If the experiences of Robert K. A. Gardiner's predecessors are any indication, he will have to exercise all his talents as a diplomat to stay on the job.

Previous UN chiefs in The Congo included UN Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche, an American; Rajeshwar Dayal, an Indian, and Sture Linner, a Swede.

Gardiner, 47, succeeds Linner; a brilliant industrialist and economist who has been in The Congo almost since the start of the UN Congo operation in mid-1960.

Linner asked to be relieved of his post for personal reasons, including his wife's illness. He left along with congolese political leaders Acting Secretary - General U Thant. Gardiner was enlisted to a change of scene, noting he had never taken any leave.

Dayal, India's high commissioner to Pakistan, probably had the greatest difficulty of any chief UN officer.

There was sharp disagreement between Dayal and Congolese president Joseph Kasavubu, who demanded that the late Deg Hammarskjold replace Dayal with Cordier.

Dayal was criticized for showing favoritism to supporters of Patrice Lumumba and his belligerent Antoine Gizenga.

Pressure mounted on Hammarskjold to remove Dayal with even the United States suggesting privately it might be a good idea.

Dayal returned to UN headquarters in March, 1961 and a couple of months later resigned.

Bunche, who won the Nobel Prize for his Palestine peace efforts, was snubbed by some Congolese government officials and became involved in dispute with Maj. - Gen. Henry T. Alexander, American who was in command of troops from Ghana dispatched to The Congo as part of the UN force.

Some other UN officials of Hammarskjold's Congo operation are involved

U-Boat Capt. Will Address Old Enemies

TORONTO (CP)—One of wartime Germany's crack U-boat commanders, Capt. Otto Kretschmer, will be in Toronto Feb. 15 to address some former enemies.

Kretschmer will be guest speaker at the 17th annual dinner of the Toronto branch of the Naval Officers Association of Canada.

Introducing the speaker will be his peacetime biographer and wartime enemy, Toronto writer Terrence Robertson, who was an officer in the Royal Navy.

Thinking Capt. Kretschmer will be a survivor of one of the boats he submerged to sink, A. W. Moreton, who served on HMS Tartarian.

Capt. Kretschmer's submarine, the U-99, is said to have sunk 350,000 tons of allied shipping—more than any other submarine in history.

Prior to his Feb. 15 speech at Canada. The first was in 1941, when he was sent to a prisoner-of-war camp at Bowmanville, Ont., after being captured by the British.

Habs Notch Easy Wins Over Blues

Bobby Hull Gets Four

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal Canadiens are rolling along at a merry clip in their quest for a fifth consecutive National Hockey League title.

The Habitants have run an unbeaten streak to 10 games—eight wins and two ties — and, as a result, they've moved ahead of their 1960-61 pace.

The undefeated stretch was extended with a pair of easy 5-1 victories over the slump - ridden New York Rangers and the last - place Boston Bruins during the week.

With their double victory, the Canadiens gained another point on their fine apparent challenger for first place, Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Leafs made two sparkling comebacks in a home-and-home series against Detroit Red Wings, but one of them was only good for a tie and they fell two points off Montreal's pace.

The Leafs spotted the Wings two early goals, then came back to win 4-2 at Toronto Saturday night. Bob Nevin's clincher up the tying goal and scored the winner and the clincher—all in the third period.

Detroit again took a two-goal lead on home ice Sunday night, but the Leafs bounced back for a 3-2 tie.

HAWKS GAIN SPLIT

Chicago Black Hawks won and lost in the weekend's other two games.

After being beaten 5-3 at Boston Saturday night, the Hawks covered a 4-1 win at New York Sunday. Bobby Hull scored two goals in each game.

The Rangers have lost 10 straight games and have scored only two goals in their last seven.

They have been blanked in their last two home appearances.

Claude Provost potted his 28th and 27th goals, tops in the league, to lead the Canadiens to their triumph over New York Saturday night.

He got a Duke goal in the first period when his long pass from the right boards hit the skates of New York's Dean Prentice and bounced behind goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley. The other came on his own rebound.

Jean Beliveau, Gilles Tremblay and rookie Bobby Rousseau scored Montreal's other goals.

Ken Schinkel got credit for the lone New York tally late in the third period when Gerry Odrowski's shot went in off his skates.

RICHARD STARTS IT

At Boston, the Canadiens broke loose for four goals in the middle period to put the game safely out of the way.

Henri Richard started them off with a 12 - foot backhander that bounced off the chest of Boston goalie Don Head.

Don Marshall, Ralph Backstrom, Bailey and Tremblay completed the rout, Tremblay's goal coming early in the third period.

Don McKenney got Boston's lone goal late in the second. It was his 20th of the campaign, the sixth straight season he has achieved the mark — a club record.

Claude LaForge and Gordie Howe gave Detroit a 2-0 lead at Toronto Saturday, George Armstrong cut the margin and the Leafs before the second period ended.

Then Mahovlich combined with his centre, Red Kelly, returning a scoring chance after a knee injury a month ago, to pull the game out for the Leafs.

Mahovlich set up Kelly's 12th goal at 3:34 of the third and banged in his 24th and 25th before the 15 - minute mark.

DEFENCEMEN SCORE

At Detroit, it was a pair of defencemen — Warren Godfrey and Bill Gadsby — who put the Wings out front.

But Armstrong and Billy Harris scored for Toronto within three minutes midway through the second period to force the tie.

Armstrong scored on an unassisted effort and Harris got his tally after pulling goalie Terry Sawchuk out of position.

Rookie Tom Williams scored his first two NHL goals and veteran Jerry Toppazzini added two more — both controversial — to lead Boston to its win over Chicago.

Toppazzini's first goal at 19:50 of the first period was hotly disputed by the Hawks, who thought the puff came in, marking the end of the period, had flashed before the goal judge, satisfied with the red light indicating a goal.

The ensuing discussion enriched the NHL treasury by $75—$50 contributed by Chicago coach Rudy Pilous as an automatic fine for appearing on the ice to argue the point and $25 charged to his goalie, Glenn Hall, as the price of a misconduct penalty.

Toppazzini's second goal at 6:37 of the third period was scored totally slapped behind Hall by Chicago's Ron Murphy. Toppazzini got the credit as the last Boston player to touch the puck. Murray Oliver scored Boston's other goal. Hull scored the game's first and last goals for the Hawks, who also got a tally from Ken Wharram.

HALL BLANKS RANGERS,

New York, Hull scored in the second period and again in the third. They were his 24th and 25th goals of the year. Bob Turner also scored for the Hawks.

Hull made 29 saves for his sixth shutout of the season, tops in the league.

Every weekend game drew a big crowd. The largest attendance was at New York where 15,620 watched the Rangers and Hawks.

Detroit had its largest crowd of the season, 15,005 at the Montreal drew 14,432 and Toronto 14,196.

The Habs drew 13,909 for their game against Canadiens and 13,773 against the Black Hawks.

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings scored one goal and assisted on another during the weekend and moved to within four points of the pace set by New York's Andy Bathgate in the National Hockey League scoring race. Howe has 62 points, while Bathgate, held scoreless in two weekend outings, has 59.

The leaders:

Second Spot Fight In AHL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With Springfield Indians and Buffalo Bisons pulling away from the pack in their respective division races in the American Hockey League, attention is centred on the battles for second place.

Springfield and Buffalo both posted shutouts Sunday night. The Indians, blanking Hershey Bears 9-0 and the Bisons defeating Philadelphia Ware Eagles 5-0. Providence Reds edged Cleveland Barons 4-3 and Quebec Aces and Rochester Americans played to a 2-2 overtime tie.

The Aces were involved in two overtime tie Saturday, 2-1 against the Bears, who blew an early 2-0 lead. Springfield edged Rochester, 5-1, Providence beat Hershey by two.

Buffalo ended Cleveland's eight-game winning streak, dealing the Barons their first loss in a month.

Springfield has opened up a 15-point lead over Hershey in the Eastern Division with Providence's victory moving the third-place Reds to within two points of the Bears. Quebec trails Providence by two.

In the Western section, Buffalo's lead over Cleveland and Rochester is now tied for second, is five points.

THE CUSTOMERS ALWAYS WRITE

"How come," the letter says, "this game in which they hit a small piece of cork, garnished with feathers, and batted across a net with an economy-size tennis racquet, is called 'Badminton'?"

For practically the same reason, Madame "X", that the British style football is called "Rugby." When an over-zealous soccer player figured picking up the ball and running with it was much faster than dribbling it with the foot in a game played at Rugby, England, the boys adopted a new game and tabbed it after the town of its origin.

Badminton was first known as "battledore and shuttlecock." You can tell me, madame, where they dug up that one. In India the land of badminton origin, it was known among the sahibs, memsahibs, maharajahs, rana, the princes and peons as "Poona."

It seems a small Hindu youngster discovered that stuffing a few feathers in a small piece of cork would give the missile more yardage when tossed. When he used a piece of wood as a propellant, the results were terrific.

A British army officer noted the youngsters' antics and imitated them on a better scale. In short, it was the birth of the present game of badminton.

The British troops stationed in India adopted the game and later introduced it to friends in England; it caught on and the new sport was definitely launched as a party given in 1873 by the Duke of Beaufort at his country place, "Badminton," in Gloucestershire. It was there that it got its name as "Badminton." Later it became the official name.

However, it was the army's "baby", so to speak, and the troops carried the game wherever they went. It spread from England to Canada, Australasia, and eventually the United States.

Newcomers everywhere found the sport called for lightning speed, extraordinary alertness and more skill than is demanded in most court games. It was no sport for the languid, the lazy, the dreamer, and the smoking-jacket Romeo.

Badminton has developed to the point where its enthusiasts called it the "fastest net game in the world." It not merely intrigues the contestants but is a dazzling exhibition from the spectator point of view. You need a ball-and-racket carried sack to play it.

It calls for terrific volleying of the eccentric "bird," "shuttlecock" or whatever you call the feather-crowned missile. The flights of the "bird" and its sudden unanticipated descents, demand the utmost in speed and dexterity, calling for fast court entrance than ever is demanded of a lawn tennis player.

The game is quite popular in this district and one of the more enthusiastic organizations is Belleville's Garrison Badminton Club which has been operating here for many years.

While it boasts no world or national champions, The Garrison Club doesn't lack for enthusiasm. It has a fine membership of young players and is noted in its area for its outstanding arrangements, and competitions of distinct tournament calibre.

In fact, the club is holding a district "B" tournament this weekend and some of the finest players of the category in a large area will be here for competitive play.

It will be held in the armouries starting Friday night, January 27th. Saturday night when the finals will be played. Arrangements will be finalized today or tomorrow for what Garrison Club officials hope will be the best tournament. It has all the earmarks of being just that.

We shall have more details of the tournament later this week.

Dogs Nudge Terriers

Woodstock Athletics' chances of finishing first in the Ontario Hockey Association senior standings were virtually destroyed Sunday when they were beaten 4-3 by Windsor Bulldogs.

The win moved Windsor to within one point of the league-leading Oil Town Terriers. Each had 28 points but Windsor has three games in hand. Wood stock trails in third place with 23.

Waterloo Tigers fired six goals in the first period and coasted to an 8-5 victory over Stratford Kroehlers in Sunday's other league game.

Three goals in two periods gave Strathroy Rockets an easy 5-4 victory over Chatham Maroons Saturday.

Windsor wrapped the game up with three first-period goals, two by Bob Brown and a single by Walter Pawlyshyn. Lou Sando added the other, in the second period; Gerry Theberge and Tom Wilson tallied for Woodstock.

Another weekend loss for the second and Jack Higgins, Puget Athletics was Jack Stoddard, Sound, Ore. who was third.

Stoddard played his first game for the Athletics Friday.

HARRY Jerome of Vancouver, competing for the University of Oregon, won the 60-yard dash in an invitational track meet Saturday night, barely beating two other sprinters. All three were clocked in 6.2 seconds in the photo - finish.

Jerome, Canadian Olympian who shares the world 100-metre record of 10 seconds flat with Armin Hary of East Germany, barely nosed out Lloyd Murad of San Jose State, who was

Junior Star Has 40 Goals In 9 Games

HEARST, Ont. (CP) — The despair of the goalies in Northern Ontario Junior B Hockey League is young Roger Comeau of Hearst Lumber Kings.

The fleet forward has scored 40 goals and 19 assists this season in only nine games. He has nine more games to go.

Comeau is 21 points ahead of the next highest man in the league scoring race.

Ahearne Insists 'Colorado'

LONDON (AP) — John F. (Bunny) Ahearne, vice - president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, indicated that the world championships will be held in Colorado Springs, Colo., as planned.

He refused to change view, after the federation announcement that the East German Republic was barred from visas. Under the federation rules, that could mean the championships would be switched to another country.

Ahearne said Saturday: "Nothing has happened to change the statement I have already made. Further, I am not official of the Ice Hockey Federation.

"I was talking on the phone to Colorado Springs last night. I repeat that the championships will be held there."

The championships are scheduled for March 8-18.

Fine Gesture By Hockey's Tod Sloan

GALT (CP)—Eight months ago Tod Sloan slipped champagne from the Stanley Cup when the Chicago Black Hawks beat Detroit Red Wings for the National Hockey League's championship.

Sloan intended to hang up his skates for good. But not long ago Tod got himself reinstated as an amateur to help out Galt Terriers, Canada's representatives in the world amateur tournament.

Where he once earned $16,000 a season, he now gets a seven - cents - a - mile expense account with the Terriers.

"It's not the same as it used to be but it is kind of fun to be once again one of the boys," he said. "Besides, I'm just getting into shape and I feel really good."

Sloan got the seven cents a mile for driving from Toronto and picking up two members of the team who live in the area.

"It is an honor to represent Canada in the world championships and the way I can do something for hockey, a sport which has been good to me."

Terriers' manager Ten Goudette is pleased with Sloan.

"He's the finest individual I have met on or off the ice," he said. "Imagine a fellow who could have finished his hockey career right on the top and instead he is taking all the punishment of playing with a bunch of amateurs for a minor league for nothing."

SAN FRANCISCO (CP) — Gene Littler of San Diego, Calif., cashed on the magic of his ancient $1 putter Sunday to throw off a late challenge by George Knudson of Toronto and captured the $50,000 San Francisco open golf tournament.

Littler's putter, which he bought three months ago, was a cold and unresponsive hunk of iron until he really needed it. He canned two decisive putts in the dying stages of the final 18-hole round and finished with a 10-under-par 274 for the $9,000 first prize.

Knudson, considered Canada's most promising young tournament competitor, fired a two-under - par 69 on the windup round, finishing two strokes back of Littler at 276. He won $4,600, his biggest money-earning professional five years ago.

Littler was 12 under par after three rounds and had a six-stroke lead going into the final 18.

ONE A RATTLE

But the crowd of 15,000 witnessed a battle among Littler, Knudson, Bob Rosburg and Bob Rosburg. Littler closed with a two-over-par 73.

Knudson and Rosburg, who were tied with Knudson after 54 holes, registered 70s on the fourth round and tied for third spot with 277s They won $2,800 to me."

Al Balding of Toronto had a fine finish for 69 and 280. One stroke behind him was Stan Leonard of Vancouver, who had 67 on the final round and collected $325.

Terry Magee of Toronto won $170 with a 287. He had a 73 Sunday. Al Johnston of Monhad a 74 and finished 75 on the 72 hole card.

Knudson, skinny, intense, 24-year-old chain - smoker, was elated over his performance.

"I played great today (Sunday) as well as I knew how," he said. "If I'd made the putt on the back as well, I'd have beaten Littler. But he's pretty hard to beat."

Knudson's total was fashioned from rounds of 71-69-67-69. Littler had 65-68-68-73.

Rodriguez Defeats Thompson

NEW YORK (AP)—Luis Rodriguez, Cuba's fast welterweight boxing sensation, outpointed unclassed aging Federico Thompson to take a unanimous 10-round decision over the South American welterweight king Saturday night.

The 25-year-old Cuban, in capturing his fourth straight bout, amazing Thompson, 37, with most of the way to his 34 - year old rival's ability to compete as he pleased. Thompson, who had won four straight, looked all three - time champion at sick Rodriguez.

Referee Jimmy Devlin and Judge Joe Agnello each voted for Rodriguez nine rounds to one. Judge Jimmy Nicoli had Rodriguez ahead 7-3. The Associated Press card had it 9-1 for Rodriguez.

Rodriguez, who weighed 150¾ pounds, scaled 152 for his bout with a 41-3 record. Thompson's is 106-4-0.

Seven Records Go At Legion Meet

By GRAHAM COX

WINNIPEG (CP) — Records apparently toppled like tin pins in the more than 70 athletes competing in the Royal Canadian Legion Provincial International Meet at Champions Saturday.

They carried at them with abandon.

Seven Canadian indoor track and field records were broken in the meet: The pole vault, the men's relay, the men's 440 yard run, the 1,000 yards, the 600 yards, the open mile and the women's 880 yards.

Canada's athlete of the year, Bruce Kidd of Toronto, brought the sellout house of 8,500 fans to their feet as he romped home an easy winner in the featured men's three-mile event with a time of 14 minutes, 19 seconds.

Kidd started at a smart pace and after 15 laps of the 30-lap event had run even the best of his competition out of contention. He finished a half - lap ahead of his nearest rival, with record-splitting Doug Kyle of Calgary a distant fourth behind Matti Raby of Brigham Young University and Ireland Sloan of Emporia State Teachers.

WINS SEVEN TITLES

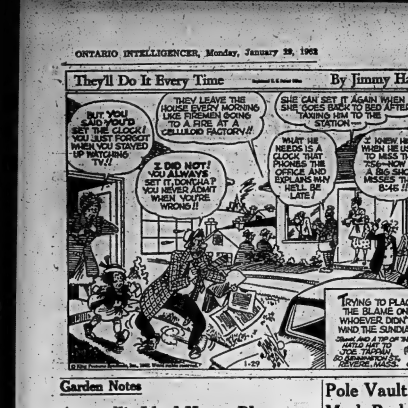
Among the record - breaking events, the pole vault was that of John Hose of Winnipeg. He set his subsequent attempt at the world indoor record possible only the most spectacular.

Rose won the event and set the standard at 15 feet, 10 inches; after beating off a determined challenge from Bob Martin of the University of Oklahoma, who cleared 15 feet, one inch.

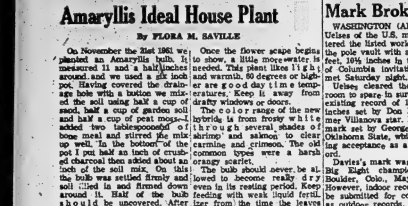
Both bettered the record of 15 feet set by Don Cooper of Oklahoma State in 1960. Graham was unable to compete.

The other record broken in the meet was the 1,000 yards run by Don Bowden of Villanova, although John Uelses topped 15 feet, 10½ inches in a meet in Washington Saturday so the record may be the new mark.

Hose also tied the 15 feet, 10 inches, but missed on all three.



He was voted the outstanding competitor in the meet.



Abide Hoffman, a 15 - year-old Toronto girl, crossed the line in two minutes, 21.5 seconds in the women's 880 - yard event to lower the mark set in 1961 by Rita Robinson of Chicago of 2:24.3.

Also taking records back to Toronto was Jim Ivons with a run of 4:08.3 in the mile and Bill Crothers with a 56.9 victory in the 500 - yard event.

BETTERS OWN MARK

Crothers bettered his own time of 57.2 set last year while Ivons, a 22 - year -

Amaryllis Ideal House Plant

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

On November the 21st 1961 we planted an Amaryllis bulb. It measured 11 and a half inches around, and we used a six inch pot. Having covered the drainage hole with a button we mixed the soil using half a cup of seed, half a cup of garden soil and half a cup of peat moss—I believe a spoonful of bone meal and stirred the mix up well. In the bottom of the pot I put half an inch of crushed charcoal then added about an inch of the soil mix. On this the bulb was settled firmly and soil filled in and firmed down around it. Half of the bulb should be uncovered. After soaking the soil a little more the soil was added and firmed down well.

After the first watering little more is needed until roots form. In less than a week the flower bud had begun to push up and by another week the flower scape was up higher than the leaves. The leaves have continued to grow very slowly but now, on 10 January 5th, the stem is 18 inches tall and the sheath has split. We can see four big buds. Another scape is showing beside the leaves and if we are lucky perhaps a third will push up.

SPEEDY GROWTH

The speedy and spectacular growth and the size and beauty of the bloom makes the Amaryllis an ideal house plant. While the bulbs are rather expensive for Dutch strains they will last for years and give good returns for the money.

Pole Vault Mark Broken

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Uelses of the U.S. marines bettered the Pole Vault record in the pole vault with a leap of 15 feet, 10½ inches in the District of Columbia invitational track meet Saturday night.

Uelses cleared the bar with room to spare in surpassing the existing record of 15 feet, 9½ inches set by Don Bragg, former Villanova star. He tied the mark set by George Davis of Oklahoma State, which is pending acceptance as a world record.

Davies's mark was set in the AAU championships in Boulder, Colo., May 20, 1961. However, indoor records cannot be submitted for consideration as outdoor records.

All Three Networks Did Excellent Job on Flight

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Network journalism, currently the subject of U.S. Federal Communications commission hearings, can point with pride to its performance last weekend.

Astronaut John H. Glenn's rocket flight was postponed because of weather, and during the long hours of the countdown on Saturday all three networks charted on in smooth, well-planned fashion. During the wait, with Glenn in the spacecraft and not much visible activity, all three teams kept viewers informed briefly and then thoroughly with their own knowledge and taped interviews.

It was a good job.

NBC's White Paper Sunday night on the Congo, which the N.Y., in the headlines recently because of the determination (primarily of Secretary General Joseph Mitchell), to rid its public welfare rolls of what he called "chiselers and loafers."

The cameras inspected New-burgh's slums. Reporters interviewed proponents and opponents of the plan as well as some of those affected.

It wound up with an interview with a young-father, sobbing because he could find no work, welfare doors were closed to him and his children were hungry.

All through the program, like a pointing finger, ran the brisk voice of Chet Huntley, stating that after the first—only one able - bodied worker was found among 300 receiving benefits last summer; that aid to fatherless families amounted to about 39 per cent of the city welfare costs; that the widely publicized reform projects had netted only "a small tax saving."

There was no doubt about the very production of the program felt about the handling of the problem. The Newburgh welfare reformers won't like it a bit.

Recommended tonight: Andy Griffith Show, CBS, 9:30-10 EST.

The cameras inspected New-a pleasant comedy series.

The Effects of Poison Sprays

The matter of broadcasting poisonous materials about our national countryside is growing increasingly serious as the years pass. More and more it is becoming evident that the far-reaching effects of the use of these poisons are a distinct threat to public health.

To be sure, legislation has been passed placing regulations on how one may master of poison sprays, but, lacking proper basic research, these laws fall far short of the mark.

The far-reaching results of poison sprays are such that literally no one could have anticipated such long-range damage. Let's take a look at the more obvious consequences of uncontrolled poisoning.

HEAVY FISH KILL

Of course, we all know of the disastrous effects of DDT spraying. A farmer sprays his orchard with DDT. Then, a week or so later, along comes a hard rain and some of the poison run-off is carried into a nearby pond or stream. Result: a dead there occurs a heavy fish kill in that body of water.

Of course, you can see the dead fish; what we can't see are the countless tiny subaqueous insects and crustaceans which also are killed. These little things have far less tolerance for poisons then have the fish and they die quickly. And there goes the inevitable supply of food for fish which may be stocked to replace those killed.

Meanwhile, the spraying has killed many insects in the orchard, long yards and, for that matter, game birds. And an easy meal from these insects thereby ingesting enough poison to kill them. They fly off into the woods and die. Naturally it is difficult if not impossible to learn how many birds are killed by this method, but the number is high. Animals, too, feed on the dead insects. Such things as opossum, skunk, foxes, etc., insects in their diet. These, too, succumb to the effects of the poison.

But the chain reaction does not stop here. Carrion birds such as buzzards, crows and eagles inevitably find the dead animals, birds and fish. (That's right, eagles. Our American Eagle is a carrion eater, believe it or not.) These, in either die or become seriously ill. How much mortality actually results from this secondary poisoning is not known.

Now these two poisons are determined and durable compounds, not easily decomposed. Exposure to air and moisture renders them more toxic, more deadly, changing it to heptachlor epoxide, and, instead of disappearing itself, it stays around and deadly for long periods of time. The Department of Health Esog the tolerance of human beings at absolute zero when it comes to heptachlor. It is indeed a vicious and deadly thing. Much wildlife has been destroyed by heptachlor, as well as livestock, dogs, poultry, even human beings. But the Department of Agriculture keeps right on using it.

Word comes from New Brunswick that a goodly number of woodcock has been collected and tested for poison content; was learned, some of these birds showed an average of 18 parts per million of heptachlor epoxide.

As you know, the woodcock is a prized item of game. Now, I must confess that my taste for woodcock is somewhat stilted when I consider that along with them comes a shot, however small, of dieldrin, and lethal poison.

How these birds come by this poison is no mystery at this time. The great majority of our woodcock spend winters in the south along the lower Miss. basin of the Mississippi River. About 87 per cent of a woodcock's diet is composed of earthworms. Evidently these birds had ate a few worms which lived in the fire ant area.

FIRE ANT WOODCOCKS

Meanwhile, the local DDT spraying in New Brunswick, which has been one of the more spectacular dusting, evidently is making itself felt in the nesting habits of the birds. Not a single New Brunswick lad, October, has covers where a big grey grouse was had flushed 30 to 40 birds, this year we could find only a handful.

It would be impossible to over-emphasize the tremendously serious aspect of the widespread and growing practice of poisoning the outdoors. Gradually our senior supplies are being affect. ed and this, of course, means a threat to public health in general. The present administration is fully aware of the seriousness of this condition and is doing what it can to correct matters under control. And right time, say I.

President Kennedy has directed the Secretaries of Agriculture, Interior, Health, Education and Welfare to set up a Federal Pest Control Review Board. This has been done and each Department head has assigned two members to the Board. The Board members are:

Health, Education and Welfare: Dr. Robert J. Anderson and Dr. Malcolm Merriss, Food, Drug Administration.

Interior: Brig. Gen. O. B. Kendrick, Army, Capt. Richard C. Bolwer, Navy.

Agriculture: Mr. Robert Paul, Office of the Secretary, Mr. Marshall Hester, Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

Agriculture: Mr. W. S. Swingle, Entomology Res. Div., Mr. W. G. Popham, Agriculture Research Service.

Let us hope most sincerely that this group of men can bring order to the present state of chaos. Already far too much damage has been done to our great outdoors through the unwise and practically unrestricted use of poison sprays.

Producer Has Rugged Job Making Film to Please JFK

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Producer Bryan Foy has a rugged job in making a film that will please an important movie fan: President Kennedy.

Foy, a veteran who made the first all-talking movie, is producing PT 109, about the president's wartime service. If he seems confident it may be because he's also a Democrat. The director is Raoul Walsh.

San Diego will reproduce the torpedo boat training centre at Melville, R.I., ocean reef on the Key Largo, Fla., will portray the island of Rendova, Kennedy's South Pacific base.

The president was amused that anyone would want to recreate such a miserable place as Rendova, Foy reported.

Getting PT boats was a problem. Only a few still exist, most of them converted to pleasure craft. Three aircraft rescue craft, and could double duty. PT's were finally located in Florida.

BIG HIGH FOR BOATS

"We thought we could pick them up cheap for around $20,000," said Foy. "But we had to bid against some movie producers wanted to use the boats to invade Cuba. We went up to $60,000."

Shooting on the film is expected to start between March 1 and 15, pending choice of a star. The president has approval of who will portray him and Foy said he'll also send the White House a script.

Keeping an eye on the production is Al Cluster, a computing firm executive of Van Nuys, Calif., who was Kennedy's superior officer in the South Pacific.

"The president's only instructions to me were to see that the picture is done well and is good taste," said Cluster.

Money from the film sale will go to each of the crew members or their survivors. Eleven escaped and two were lost when Kennedy's PT boat was rammed by the Japanese destroyer Amagiri Aug. 2, 1943.

The real-life navy figures will be portrayed in the film, along with the president's brother Joe, later killed in a European air mission. An cast will be male. There's no romance in the film.

Astrological Forecast

For January 30

By SIDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): You succeed today on your own initiative. Opportunity for discovery if you study fine print. Believing blindly could prove costly. Friends well-meaning...but they may not possess all the facts.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Better check public relations, both on business and professional basis. Careless statements, misunderstandings could result from basically harmless actions Strive for harmony in home.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): If you expect those close to you to be perfect . . . you are going to be disappointed. Try to relax and follow policy of "live and let live." Allow yourself to be happy! Stick close to home.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Could be some excitement today because plans apt to change without notice. Be prepared for unusual. Know that there is more on your side than you might imagine. Stand up for rights.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Maintain high standards. Stick by beliefs. Temptation will lie there . . . but there is no "easy way." You can win friends even if your principles are attacked. Hold your ground. You will win.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Express ideas . . . strive for originality of thought and action. Accumpish work early. Try to relax tonight. Early part of day best as far as personal cycle concerned. Be alert!

Libra (Sept 23 to Oct. 22): Worry over money matters begins to fade. Realization brooding is useless finally makes impact. Best to trust intuitive intellect. Others cannot say what is best for you. Know thyself.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Make your point, but don't agitate! Know facts before speaking, writing, telephoning. Check references. If you try to "go for broke" you may succeed — the wrong way! Be conservative.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Cycle moving up. You can add yourself by being frank, expressing views honestly. Don't take back seat to anyone. You can lend way now by permitting personality, abilities, to shine through.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Tendency to be restless. Put energy into constructive channels. You will feel much better for doing so. Could be exciting day. Welcome romance, adventure, change.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Remember . . . in case of dispute with one close to you . . . the less that is said, the less need to be forgotten. Be diplomatic, considerate. And do not be afraid to ask a favor. Speak up!

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Trying to "free-load" could cost more in long run. Your standing in community more important than obtaining so-called bargain. Best to wait before signing. Study situation with care.

If born today . . . there is basic conflict which often sees you wishing for the stars, but getting bogged down with details. This year is test of how far you can go. April outstanding. Face facts honestly. Learn to know what is you really seek to accomplish.

* * *

General Tendencies: Advice given to Aquarius applies well to all signs today. Easy to say things in heat of temper . . . but not so easy to repair damage. Those who appear to be "riding high" could be heading for fall today

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In case hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injuries and burns on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed, convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Says Engineers May Bargain Collectively

TORONTO (CP) — Collective bargaining is not incompatible with the principles of professionalism, Lawrence C. Sentance, of Hamilton, retiring president of the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario, said Saturday at the association's annual meeting.

However, he said, there are instances where large groups of employees engineers in industrial complexes "may find themselves in a position where individual action does not always evoke suitable response," and situations exist in which collective representation, negotiation and action are necessary and desirable "provided they are voluntary and amicable."

He said engineers employed engineers are well paid by professional standards. A new engineering graduate could look forward to earning up to $20,000 a year without getting into top management.

T. M. Medland, executive director of the 20,000 - member body, said there is no general shortage of engineers in Canada but a scarcity exists in some fields and there is demand for highly - trained men.

The comments of Mr. Sentance and Mr. Medland were contained in abstracts released to the press in advance of delivery.

Miner Killed, Another Injured

BURCHELL LAKE, Ont. (CP) — One man was killed and an other injured in a mine explosion Saturday at the Coldstream Copper Mines Limited in this district about 90 miles west of the Lakehead.

The men, both underground miners, were caught in the explosion when a drill used by one of them fell apparently hit a stick of dynamite that had failed to explode in a previous blast.

Killed was Leo Joseph Lambert, 36, of nearby Kashabowie. His companion, Paul Larson, 21, who lived near the mine, was taken to hospital where his condition was reported as satisfactory.

There Was No Kick In This

MONTREAL (CP) — A policewoman who took an undercover job as a night club hostess testified Friday she was told by the manager to induce customers to buy a colored lemonade sold as wine for $1.00 a glass.

Constable Mary Elm, a 15 - year police veteran, testified at the preliminary hearing of Frank Calato, 36, manager of the Black Orchid Cafe on downtown St. Catherine Street.

He is charged with fraud and conspiracy in connection with the fraudulent sale of beverages.

Miss Elm told the court she was hired by Calato at $50 a week plus a commission of 50 cents for each bogus drink purchased for her by customers.

The case continues next Wednesday.

William the Conqueror Was Gangster on Capone Pattern Says Retired British Admiral

By MILTON MARMOR

LONDON (AP) — A retired British admiral contends that William the Conqueror was a gangster on the Al Capone pattern.

His statement triggered a crossfire of letters to the newspapers.

Rear-Admiral Hector Crestwell of Woodbridge, Suffolk, wrote to The Daily Telegraph saying he had read with amused astonishment that the towns of Pevensey and Hastings were competing to celebrate the "arrival in this free land of William the Bastard, Duke of Normandy — that treacherous, cruel but efficient gangster, whose conduct may well have been a pattern for Al Capone."

History records that in the Battle of Hastings, in 1066, William the Conqueror defeated King Harold and won England.

The admiral insisted in his letter: "Surely the noblest figure in all England at that time was our gallant King Harold, but his merits and sacrifice are forgotten—only the Norman battle roll remains."

QUICK RETORTS

"How very odd, and so contrary to our national pride in glorious disaster," wrote Crestwell, a veteran of two world wars.

Capt D. D. O'Connor of Tunbridge Wells was quick to retort:

"If William was a gangster, what was the "boldest" King Harold?"

The captain said Harold had not the slightest claim to succeed to the throne of England. He called Harold the "son of a murderer" and claimed Harold "sneaked out of Normandy by fraudulent means, engineered the exile of the rightful claimant to the throne, his brother Tostig, and usurped the throne."

Harold also put aside his wife, said O'Connor, and soon after met his "just reward" (death at Hastings).

He said the 900-year celebrations being planned should "delight in the tremendous advantages which have accrued to England from the Norman invasion."

Mrs. Mary Darby of London entered the fray by commenting that William was named by Edward the Confessor as his successor. Harold, she wrote, had sworn an act of fealty and loyalty to William.

"By the standards of the day the bastard of Falaise had the strongest possible claim to the crown of England," she said.

Mrs Darby also asserted that before the battle the English were reported to have spent the night drinking and jingling. Whether the carousing brought about their defeat the next day, she didn't say.

Patrick Montague-Smith, assistant editor of Debrett, the directory of British royalty and aristocracy, entered the dispute in an incidental way.

He wrote that the present Queen Elizabeth is a descendant of King Harold. He also said Harold had a nobler pedigree than his rival, "the bastard son of a negro or less parvenu duke by a tanner's daughter."

Immigration In 1961 Lowest For Four Years

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration to Canada in 1961 dropped to 71,689, the lowest figure since 1857, the immigration department said Friday.

The slump was caused mainly by the federal government's policy of discouraging entry of unskilled workers and improved economic conditions in Europe.

The 1961 figure compares with a flow of 84,127 in 1957 and 104,111 in 1960.

Cheap Flirt Worries Wife

DEAR DORIS:—My niece's girl friend, who is thirty, is always flirting with my husband, who is forty-eight years old.

Once when we were at a party at my sister's, I saw them sneak into the kitchen and kiss and hug there. I didn't say anything till we got home. When I did my husband owned right up to it, and said if they hadn't been drinking he never would have done it.

But since, whenever she comes in with my niece, she flirts with him. Every dance she go to, if he does not ask her to dance, she goes over and asks him. And there have been other things.

DORIS CLARK

At our anniversary party she was there and came over when her husband was dancing with someone else. She congratulated us, gave me a peck on the cheek, put her arms around my husband's neck and kissed him three or four times. Looked over at me with a dirty grin much as to say, "Well, I did it again!" If it weren't for ruining my husband's suit I would have thrown my drink in her face.

Do you blame me for not trusting her? Should I speak to her about it or her husband?—FED UP.

DEAR FED UP:—This is an annoyance, rather than panic, I take it! You've had Hubby long enough to know you've got him?

If you and her husband are friends, I think I would try leaving the discipline to him. The next time you are all together, make a pretense of wandering off with him to see a painting or mix a drink.

Then ask him when his wife is going to stop acting like a hussy. Not that it bothers you, understand, but people might start talking about her, Because they will, and he should know about it.

DEAR DORIS:—I'm 14 going on 15 and I like a boy 16. I've heard from many of his friends that he likes me very much and he phones me every evening. But there's one thing I won't ask me out. What shall I do? Ask him to take me out?—A. L.

DEAR A. L.:—Tell him your mother won't let you hold the phone so long. Suggest that if he wants to talk, maybe the two of you could go for a walk—and back home for coffee?

He probably doesn't have much money for dates.

Breeding Habits, Travelling Patterns of Tuna Studied

ROME (Reuters)—The tuna—a fish well known to shoppers in the canned goods section of supermarkets—is also attracting attention from the world's scientists.

Largely through the efforts of enterprising Japanese fishermen equipped with refrigerator ships, enabling them to fish anywhere on the high seas, the world catch of tuna rose from 500,000 tons in 1952 to 1,500,000 tons in 1958.

Through the use of the refrigerator ships, American, French and Japanese fishermen have made profitable hauls off the coast of West Africa while the Norwegians and Germans have cashed in on tuna grounds off Norway.

Scientists want to know how many different types of the fish actually exist and, in order to tuna migrations increase the catches still more, there is a meeting on the tuna, to be held July 2-14 tiffs year in want to know the tuna's breeding habits and travelling pat- Massachusetts in 1954 were caught five years later by French boats operating in the Mediterranean Tuna tagged off California have been caught off Japan.

KINDS OF TUNA

One of the problems the meeting will consider is the number of varieties of tuna actually swimming in the seas.

Experts disagree on the exact number of species but they know that from the giant tunny, which weighs more than 800 pounds, the family runs through the bonito, yellow fin, blue fin, albacore and skipjack.

The most important commercially are the blue fin, found in the North Atlantic, Mediterranean and North Pacific, and the yellow fin, caught mostly in the South Atlantic, Pacific and Indian Oceans.

The meeting also will tackle the timing and destination of

Algeria's Largest City Is Moving To Anarchy

OAS Steps Up Drive Of Terror, Intimidation

ALGIERS (AP)—Most schools in Algiers closed today as teachers' strike of protest against terrorism while a wave of new attacks killed at least nine persons and wounded nine by noon.

One of the attacks took place on Rue Michelet in the heart of the city when Europeans filing from a car killed a Moslem.

Authorities reported that most schools closed after 70 to 80 per cent of the teachers did not report to work.

The city waterfront was paralyzed for the fifth day by a strike of dock workers, mostly Moslems. The walkout was for a pay increase, but soon became transformed as a political demonstration.

Meanwhile, the terrorist Secret Army Organization (OAS), issued new tracts warning the Europeans to obey the 9 p.m. curfew or face trouble over the French authorities.

All cars moving after 9 p.m. must have a permit and be considered as belonging to "the Gaullists" and will be treated as such.

Defying French security forces, Moslem guerrillas disrupted new tracts warning the Europeans to obey the 9 p.m. curfew or face trouble over the French authorities.

Late Monday night police reported that two more terrorist acts of arms in the Algiers area. One was a bombing of a truck loaded with sub-machine-guns, carried out by three men dressed in riot police uniforms.

Harassed officials, sheltered behind barricades, said they considered cars in Bochier Nohr, and they were fighting against the OAS, the European terrorist underground had accomplices on virtually all levels of the administration.

"The secret army could take over Algiers in half a day if it wanted to," one official said.

NOT AN AIM?

Independence, however, that a takeover of the city was not an immediate aim of the terrorist group. It is aiming to maintain French rule in Algeria. Appar-ently, it hoped to thwart any move toward independence agreement between France and the Algerian Moslems by the use of terror through its campaign of terror that France and Gaullist government could not enforce such an agreement.

Many of its most spectacular acts to date, the terrorist group smashed a public, shaded affair overlooking Algiers Monday, stuck a bomb smuggling into the building. The explosion killed 20. Buried under the debris were 200 members of the special national survival training course that have since joined the regular armed forces or the militia, the defence department announced. Commanding reply it said 5,857 trainees joined the militia, 314 the regular forces.

Canada's first high commissioner to the eastern African state of Tanganyika will be Norman Berlis, present head of the external affairs department's information division here, the external Affairs Minister Green announced.

Parliament At a Glance

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

MONDAY, Jan. 29, 1962

The Commons debated for a second day the government's proposed $42,000,000 acreage payments to Prairie grain farmers without reaching a vote.

The motion of a private Conservative MP for a parliamentary study to give Canada a distinctive flag and official anthem was "talked out."

External Affairs Minister Green denounced as "impertinent" a criticism of Canada's trade with Cuba made by an adviser to President Kennedy.

TUESDAY, Jan. 30

The Commons meets at 2:30 p.m. to resume debate on acreage payments. The Senate sits at 3 p.m.

House Briefs

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Productivity Council, established last February, has held five meetings so far and attendance by the voluntarily, serving m e m b e r s has been "very good," Edmund Monteith, parliamentary secretary to the trade minister, told Walter Pitman (NDP — Peterborough) in the Commons Monday. Many of the 25 members had attended all five meetings.

There were 53 siren failures during exercise Toccsin B late last year but 70 partial failures, Egan Chambers, parliamentary secretary to the defence minister, told Walter Pitman of Peterborough (NDP). As of Jan. 4, there were 744 sirens installed in Canada with another 867 on purchase. A total of $821,000 had been spent of the total estimated cost for civil defence alone of $6,895,000.

Richard Thrasher, parliamentary secretary to the labor minister said in reply to Ian La Marsh (L — Niagara Falls) that the Unemployment Insurance Commission has not reversed its ruling that union members while engaged on union business during regular work hours cannot make unemployment insurance contributions.

More than 7,600 of the 17,032 men who completed the special national survival training courses last year have since joined the regular armed forces or the militia, the defence department said in the Commons reply. It said 5,857 trainees joined the militia, 314 the regular forces.

Canada's first high commissioner to the eastern African state of Tanganyika will be Norman Berlis, present head of the external affairs department's information division here, the external Affairs Minister Green announced.

ACREAGE AID APPROVED BY ALL PARTIES

Liberal Leader Says Help Inadequate

OTTAWA (CP)—The government's push to distribute $42,000,000 among prairie grain farmers bogged down in talk in the Commons Monday.

Before the House was the government plan to provide $1 an acre up to a maximum $200 a farm, a proposal generally supported by MPs of all parties.

In a bid to get quick approval of the acreage payment, the government broke into the traditional eight-day throne speech debate last Friday.

But after a string of speeches by pro and again Monday, MPs were no closer to a vote. They continue today.

FARMER DOUBT

After the chair had repeatedly intervened in the debate, one veteran MP — Harry Rogers (PC—Red Deer) — expressed doubt the vote would be so, proved in the end by the speeching on the prairies.

Opposition Leader Pearson hailed the acreage payment measure with the throne speech debate as a start to drought-stricken farmers.

If the acreage payment was intended as a relief measure, he said, then it was completely inadequate.

He said the money went to all farmers, regardless of how much summer-fallow they had on them. It was income maintenance, not drought aid.

Hazen Argue, Farmer-Labor Minister, pinch-hitting for ailing Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton, said the $1-an-acre program is designed to improve the general income position of western farmers because their crop last year was little more than half the high average production yield for the previous five years.

He said farmers who had no crop at all, or a small crop, can

Govt. Will Pay For Nine-Room Cloyne School

TORONTO (CP)—Cost of two occupation rooms in a new public school in the village of Cloyne, Ont., may be paid for from a provincial-municipal fund for building vocational schools.

Dr. Stanley Rendall, superintendent of secondary school education for Ontario, said Monday he had tentatively approved plans for the rooms paid from the fund.

He said the rooms in the school, which will serve a area north of Lennox and Addington counties and part of southern Hastings County, "represent a variety of service trades most needed in the area" and popular-lated area will be taught in the rooms.

The seven academic rooms will cost $235,000 on which the school section trustees board will receive normal provincial grants. The rooms paid for by the provincial government will cost $60,000 each.

It will be the first time an Ontario vocational school as small as two rooms will be paid for by the provincial government under a program of paying the full cost of vo c a t i o n a l schools instituted a year ago.

Still Debate Cuba

U.S. Wins Needed Majority But Hesitates to Use It

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — Opposing groups of American countries argued into the early hours today without reaching unanimity on a procedure of a timetable for barring Cuba's Communist regime from the councils of the Organization of American States.

The United States and 14 Latin American states backing a tough line against Premier Castro's government, had just the necessary two-thirds majority to carry a formal resolution to oust the Havana government from the OAS councils.

But they scheduled another bargaining session today in an effort to win over six of Latin America's biggest and most influential states considering a delay in the formal ouster of Cuba. The six were Brazil, Mexico, Argentina, Chile, Colombia and Ecuador. Uruguay had earlier sided with this group but wavered.

Both sides emerged from a heated closed-door plenary hearing session early today asserting they were confident they had made on the issue threatening to split in inter-American ranks.

The foreign ministers went without sleep for 24 hours in an effort to break the impasse. After the session there were reports of a "Chilean formula" at work.

Ahead if the meeting produced any progress, U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk said, "I think so."

One conference inform ant said the United States appeared to be leaning toward what he called the Argentine view that it would be better to have all 20 states censure Cuba then a majority ouster if need be.

An Argentine spokesman said Rusk seemed to have brought the opposing sides toward a solution whereby each OAS body would decide on excluding Cuba in line with the proposed conference declaration that the Castro regime is incompatible with the inter-American system.

The Brazilian-led bloc has said there does not provide for censure of the Castro regime but contends the present OAS charter does not provide for Cuba's suspension from its body. They have opposed foreign ministers' meeting convened on the issue after a proper legal basis therefore has been laid.

The United States and the Central American nations consider that legalistic approach unnecessary delay which postponing would give Castro time in which would endanger the Alliance for Progress program.

The foreign ministers were also reported close to agreement on a declaration by the foreign ministers on the Alliance for Progress. Final action on the declaration was expected today when resolutions originally was scheduled for Monday, but was put off to allow for further study. Wednesday, it may not now come until late in the week.

Manager Thinks Adventure Needed in Trade Problems

TORONTO (CP) — Canadians should meet the challenge of changing world trade patterns in a "spirit of adventure," Frank Kendall Hart, president of the Bank of Montreal.

He told the Toronto Board of Trade Club Monday that Canada by and large Canada has natural advantages in the form of products of farms, forests and mines that should enable her to maintain her position in them in world markets.

Along with this, every effort should be made to develop new products based on Canadian raw materials in the hope of helping to achieve further fabrication a dovetail into later stages of production ahead.

Research and development expenditure would be needed on this large scale but an attempt

SUSPEND SENTENCE FOR ONE YEAR

Magistrate T. Y. Wills placed Belleville youth on suspended sentence for a year in city magistrate's court this morning.

William Smith pleaded guilty to a charge of theft from a mower in Hallowy. He was charged with stealing a part all of oil, 20 gallons of gasoline and three chickens.

Smith pleaded not guilty to stealing a number of other articles from J. B. Ketcheson, Jeo of Halloway. The crown ffered no evidence and the harged was dismissed.

T. Lally appeared for the ac- used.

The magistrate told Smith he would have to report to the probation officer once every two weeks.

FRAUD CHARGES BRING HEAVY FINE

Magistrate Wills fined a Belleville man $90 in city magistrate's court this morning when he pleaded guilty to six charges under the Unemployment Insurance Act.

The magistrate said in other words he has defrauded the commission of $154.

Magistrate Wills told Gerald Lakins he was lucky he was not convicted on all charges of this sort had to be stopped.

Manager of the Unemployment Insurance Office told the court that from March 20, 1961, to Nov. 27 the man had drawn $247 from his employer, but reported he had made only $25.

TWO GIVEN PRISON TERMS, ONE SENT TO REFORMATORY

Two men were sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by his Honor Judge J. C. Anderson in county court this morning.

Roy Ivan Deshane and Gary Theodore were each sentenced to two years and William K. Deshane received one year on both counts and one year indeterminate, when they were found guilty on charges of being in possession of goods, taken from Amphitheatre Canada Limited, 40 Dundas Street.

The three men appeared in civil magistrate's court last fall and elected trial before a judge.

Seaway Tolls May Be Raised As Traffic Low

TORONTO (CP)—ToE rates on the St. Lawrence Seaway system may have to be boosted if a promotional campaign aimed at increasing traffic is unsuccessful, the manager of the Great Lakes Waterways Development Association said today.

Addressing the annual directors' meeting Vice-Admiral L. Rollo Maltigny said the continued falling of traffic and revenue below the estimates of the tolls committee poses a threat to industry using the seaway and the Welland Canal.

The deficit amounts to between 30 and 35 per cent of the forecast total but the GLWDA is reluctant to raise tolls because that would discourage shippers their traditional free use of the waterways, he said.

Admiral Maingay said the actual cost of operation and maintenance is over $7 million a year. Seawy for 1959 and 1960 was about half that forecast by seaway officials.

On the Welland Canal operations, he said, actual costs were more than 100 per cent greater than those forecast, for the two years.

The admiral urged that tolls not be raised on the Welland Canal, pointing out that the United States is spending in other areas "at least nine times the $30,000,000 spent on deepening the Welland Canal."

He re-iterated that the continued existence of tolls on the Welland Canal "rests entirely with the people of those who advocate the move."

Heavy Drifting Follows Fall Of Four Inches

With stiff gusts of wind driving in on the heels of last night's four-inch fall of snow, visibility in the city and areas throughout the Bay of Quinte district was reduced to a minimum this morning.

Heavy drifting as result of the combination of light snow and strong wind was reported in the rural area, while even in the city streets were at times made it almost impossible to see down the street.

Last night's snow started shortly after the supper hour and continued unsteadily throughout most of the night.

The snowfall did, however, serve to lift the air least temporarily out of the frigid zone which temperatures last night falling by ten degrees to reech the predicted five degrees below zero.

But, according to the weatherman, it is only a brief respite. Today another cold wave is on the way with the forecast for tonight being 10 below.

Classification Talk on IBM - Given Rotarians

Local Rotarians were given a classification talk on IBM at their weekly dinner meeting in the Hotel Quinte yesterday afternoon, speaking in lieu of Rotarian Stuart Robb's classification talk which was G. J. Smith of the International Business Machines firm.

Mr. Smith gave a talk on mechanized data processing machines outlining the various advantages which such machines offered business, professional or industrial firms in reducing their operating costs or providing it in a more efficient way in very short time.

During the course of a lengthy talk he described the various advantages and uses of the punched card or tabulating unit and clearly demonstrated that there were instances where machines could accomplish some tasks much more quickly and efficiently than could the normal human being.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Stuart Robb and thanked by Rotarian Bill Riley. The birthdays of guest of the club for the meeting was Bill Roddle of Quinte Secondary school, president of the Key Club and leader of the opposition in the mock session.

President Virgil James conducted the meeting.

It called for a medical care plan as the next major step in social security. It also called for higher basic pensions, for a flat $120 pension supplement plan—if it can be worked out with the provinces. It also said pensions should be payable at age 65 instead of 70.

Earlier this month, Liberal Leader Pearson and party headquarters announced a plan of portable contributory old age pensions supplements, starting at $2 per month after one year's contribution and rising to a maximum of $10 a month. Mr. Pearson said that with that plan, the Liberals would not insist on the basic $25 old age pension now payable to everyone 70 and over.

A few days later, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced the government would raise the basic pension to $65 a month and seek provincial support for a complementary plan, guaranteeing a portable retirement pension plan with employer and employee contributions.

MAY CHANGE POLICY

Walter Gordon, chairman of the party's policy advisory committee, said Monday night the Liberals might have to issue a new statement of policy in view of the government's move.

Debate on the bill Monday also centred on a resolution pledging the party to the preservation and cultivation of Canada's cultural heritages through such media as the CBC, the National Film Board and the Canada Council.

Pauline Jewett, formerly on the faculty of Carleton University here and the Liberal party's candidate in the Ontario riding of Northumberland, said the statement did not go far enough.

The Conservatives had undertaken to do this, she said, and it was "one of our truly national cultural institutions."

Miss Jewett moved a resolution that the party pledge its "determined moral and financial support" to the corporation.

The resolution was sent back to the policy committee for further discussion.

Million-Dollar Bankruptcy Swindle Bared

MONTREAL (CP)—The Gazette says police have uncovered a vast, country-wide operation in the Montreal area involving stock quotes and stock rings from fraudulent bankruptcies for profits of more than $1,000,000.

The newspaper in a copyright story says six men and two women charged here are before the courts on charges ranging from conspiracy to possession of stolen goods. Further arrests are expected.

The paper also quoted as saying the ring has been operating on a highly-organized basis for at least five years.

"We do know that the ring has carried more than $1,000,000 since last July," police are quoted as saying.

Early in the last three weeks on warehouses in which goods allegedly have recovered merchandise valued at more than $200,000.

The paper mentions no names.

Police were not sure how big the operation actually was in existence. "we know of three bankruptcies that definitely operated illegally," a trustee in creditors of one bankrupt firm told The Gazette.

The trustee explained how the operation functioned. The ring would form a sales company and proceeds to establish credit rating. Merchandise, worth as much as $100,000, is moved from the company premises to a warehouse and then the company claims bankruptcy. The merchandise then is sold for a profit.

Moirantics '62 Nearly Ready For Presentation

Teeming with spirit and talent Moira Secondary this year will present its third big variety show on Friday night. Performers are scraping every extra hour they can that can be utilized for drilling and re-drilling their acts. Activity centres mainly around four locations: the stage, the music room, the gymnasium and the shooting gallery. After 3.16, during some 17 periods of the week and on Saturday mornings, these spots are alive with spirit and verve.

Here dance numbers practice on stage until their routines are letter perfect. Because the Glee Club plays a major role in Moirantics, continual practise is essential. Their persistence and will to drive toward perfection are made obvious by the sound of song straining through the walls of the closed music room.

In one half of the gym, a selected group girls review their elle calisthenics routines, while boys practise their belleville variety shows, in the other half, the boys bounce enthusiastically on their trampolines display.

Besides introducing superior talent Moirantics is presenting fresh new acts. Outstanding of these is the Moira Orchestra which rehearses in the shooting gallery. This act calls for exact synchronization of feet and as this routine is living up to its demand.

Many of the rehearsals which play an important part in the quality of the performance are those done individually at-home by the many soloists.

All in all, students seems to be shaping up from a mass of confusion into a smooth-working production, and promises to be a show well worth seeing.

Plan One-Act Play Festival At Deep River

A One-Act Play Festival sponsored by the Eastern Ontario Drama League will be held in the Community Centre at Deep River on May 3, 4 and 5, 1962. The festival is open to anyone in the Eastern Ontario Drama League area. Plays in the Eastern Ontario Drama League is not necessary. It is hoped that this act plays to give small groups with limited theatrical resources a chance to participate. Plays may be presented either in English or French. Further information concerning the Festival may be obtained from the secretary, Miss Joan Lambert, Deep River Community Association, Deep River, Ontario. Visitors who do not participate will be welcome also.

The Eastern Ontario Drama League is offering cash awards of $75 for the first-and $25 for the second-best play. An additional $25 will be given, if the winning entries are written by a Canadian play.

Plays must be sent to the play director, best actor, and actress, best supporting actor and actress, and best overall presentation.

This year's Festival is the result of the successful one held at the Ottawa Little Theatre in 1961 under the auspices. Twelve groups participated then, seven from the Ottawa area and five each from Kingston, Cornwall, Brockville, Smiths Falls, Carleton Players, and Deep River. The adjudicator was Peter Symons of Ottawa. The winners were Fisher Park Community Theatre of Ottawa who presented "Hello Out There" by William Saroyan. Runner-up was Ottawa Academy with "La Grammaire" by Eugene Labiche. Deep River Little Park Group participated in the Central Ontario Festival at First House Theatre in Toronto to and won top honors.

Summer Course For Teachers Planned Here

For the first time in the history of the city, a summer course for elementary school teachers is scheduled to be held in Belleville during the coming summer holidays.

Approximately 200 elementary school teachers in the junior division from the city and the Bay of Quinte district will attend the summer course to be held at the Harry J. Clarke School from July 9 to August 4.

Local public schools administrator L. A. Kells said the course was being sponsored by the Teachers' Federation and was intended to serve Belleville and the adjacent inspectorates with centres at Napanee, Picton, Tweed, Trenton and Brighton.

Petain's Widow Dies in Paris

PARIS (AP)—Mme. Philippe Petain, 87, widow of France's chief of state during the Vichy regime in the Second World War, died in Paris after a brief illness.

Her husband was the hero of Verdun in the First World War and was elevated to the rank of marshal in 1916. After he headed the Nazi puppet regime in Vichy, he was sentenced to death by the French High Court of Justice in 1945. The sentence was commuted to life imprisonment and he died in 1951 at the age of 95.

Commuters Face Only Slight Delays on Lines

LONDON (CP)—London commuters faced only slight delays on trains, subways and buses today following the traffic tie-up caused Monday by a combined subway-rail strike.

The strike produced local headaches in the city's 10 underground streets of this metropolis.

Conditions were worse than police officials and experts of the transportation field had gained for. Some people who drove to work Monday left their cars when they had to turn right around and struggle home by subway.

All the signs indicated that London can expect more than a one-day rail dislocation on succeeding Mondays until Prime Minister Macmillan's Tory government drops its six-month-old wage freeze.

The government has promised a partial easing of the freeze March 31, but Labor Minister John Hare told the House of Commons Monday night that there would be no early end to limited wage boosts.

The London subway strike plans of London's railroad and subway workers was worked out last Thursday night at their union leaders. They, like the rest of Britain's rail and bus staff are demanding an 11-per-cent pay increase—much higher than the government says it can afford.

LABOR RAPS MAC

All the bitterness of the present industrial situation boiled over in the Commons. Ray Gunter, the Labor party spokesman on trade union affairs, lashed out at the government.

He said the workers were "humiliated, frustrated and frustrated"—that the government had insulted the whole problem of linking wages with the growth in productivity in a heavy-handed and high-handed manner.

Gunter, a former railroad worker himself, condemned Monday's unofficial strike on the public transport systems and subway lines.

He said it was heavy-going for Macmillan himself describing the prime minister this way:

"He tells, and drools in his fireside chat. He says we have got it done badly—we have done jolly good, but we ought to do better.

"This is not the language the leader of the nation ought to be putting to the people at the present time.

"It is almost the classical phraseology for addressing the girls' junior hockey side."

Fire Destroys Driveshed, Car And Auto Tools

Fire believed to have started from an oil stove late last night completely destroyed a combination driveshed owned by Mr. Evan Chafe of Ameliasburg.

Destroyed by the blaze which was reported at 8.30 a.m. was the garage, a 1955 model car, and numerous tools and an air compressor. There was no insurance.

Belleville firemen were called to the scene on the Town Line west of Ameliasburg but the fire had gained too great a start and nothing could be done to save the driveshed.

The converted driveshed was used as a repair garage and had been operated since last July.

Rest in peace
Not forgotten, but dearly missed
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Memories bring him back to mind.
But they little know the sorrow,
That lies within the heart concealed.
—Sadly missed by the family.

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market moved ahead during light morning trading today. Gains to key industrial index issues accounted for the market's general rise.

Canada Cement gained ¼, as did Steel Company of Canada. Other issues showing advances included Aluminium, Moore Corporation and Walker-Gooderham, all shared in a ¼ to ½ range.

Among losers were BA Oil, off ¼, Price Brothers, down ¼ and Burlington Steel, down ¼. Canadian Tire A fell one point.

On the exchange leader, industrials climbed 1.38 to 602.21 and western oils .22 at 120.33. Base metals dropped .43 at 207.13 and golds .15 at 89.46. The 11 a.m. volume was 879,000 shares compared with 1,030,000 at the same time Monday.

Base metals were led lower by losses of ½ and ¼ to Vendores and Noranda respectively. Falconbridge gained ¼.

In speculatives, Ice Mines fell 44 cents to 94 cents and Pacific Dufault 15 cents to 87.30. Northgate added five cents at $3.15. Western oils saw gains of ¼ to ½.

Industrial issues, which wavered between gains and losses all day, showed closing gains. The strongest groups were pipelines and foods. In inter-provincial Pipe Line climbed 1½, Trans-Canada 1½ and Ontario Wheatsale A ⅜.

The biggest losers went to Canadian Tire and Canadian Tire A, ¾ and ⅝, respectively.

Despite the downward trend among base metals, International Nickel gained 1⅛ and Noranda ¼.

Speculative action saw North-gate dip 25 cents to $3.10 after climbing as high as $3.70. Lake Dufault added 25 cents at $7.45. Western oils were strength-ened by Dome's 4¾ gain.

Sunday Sport Assoc. Active In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — The newly-formed Ottawa Sunday Sport and Amusement Association Monday night elected Sam MacLean as chairman and announced a drive to enliven the capital's Sundays.

The association sent a letter to board of control seeking city permission to hold a vote on Sunday sports, movies and other amusements on the Sabbath.

If the board refuses, members of the association will start gathering signatures for a petition on the issue.

Earlier Monday, theatre manager E. G. Warren said theatre owners and managers will ask city council to put the question of Sunday movies on the ballot for next December's municipal elections.

Pleads Guilty To Ill-Treating Dog and Fined

A Belleville man, Gerald Miller, was fined $125 and costs in city magistrate's court this morning when he pleaded guilty to a charge of ill treating a dog.

City dog catcher Charles Thorn told the court that he had received a complaint from Jack Phillips, who said that one of his tenants had moved out and left a dog with a litter of pups in the garage.

Mr. Thorn said he took the dogs to the pound where he tried to keep them alive and called a veterinary. He said the pups died three days later and that the mother dog was losing the sight of one eye.

The magistrate said: "If he wasn't employed I would give him seven days right off the bat."

Dairy Class Biggest in Years At Kemptville

More students than usual are taking advantage of the dairy course which is being given from January 8th to March 30th at the Kemptville Agricultural School. Thirty-one men, all but two from Eastern and Central Ontario, are presently learning approved methods of manufacturing butter and cheese, and other related dairy subjects. This is the largest class to attend this course since 1960, according to O. R. Irvine, head of the dairy division of the Kemptville Agricultural School.

Those who are successful in the examinations at the end of the course receive the Dairy School diploma. Many also take special examinations conducted by the Milk Industry Board of Ontario to obtain their certificates for milk or cream testers and graders.

Soviet Couple To Lunch With The Kennedys

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev's daughter and son-in-law are having lunch today with President and Mrs. Kennedy at the White House.

The son-in-law is Alexei I. Adzhubei, editor of Izvestia, official Soviet newspaper. He interviewed Kennedy last fall at the presidential Cape Cod home.

Adzhubei told reporters at an embassy reception Monday night in the case of the former Soviet foreign minister, Vyacheslav Molotov, "there is significance in our country."

In answer to questions, he said: "Anybody surrounding Molotov's fate does not mean any importance of the so-called "anti-party group" in the Soviet Union, a group which has opposed Khrushchev's policies.

He said Molotov is an old man and perhaps has been sick. The old Molotov case made headlines in the West when it was announced he was being sent to a diplomatic post in Vienna, and then it was announced he was not returning.

The White House ascribed no particular political significance to the invitation to Adzhubei and his wife, Rada.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said Adzhubei had asked to meet with Kennedy again and the president volunteered to be host at a luncheon.

ACREAGE AID

HITS AT POLICY

Mr. Pearson approved the action, but criticized the government for dealing with farm problems piecemeal. He termed ad hoc action based on expediency and timed before an election.

He promised an over-all farm policy under a Liberal government, based on principles of general application. But he did not spell out the principles when challenged.

Hazen Argue, CCF-New Democratic Party member, said acreage payments — made in 1958 and 1959—were not part of permanent policy.

"It is a hit or miss policy," he said.

"I call this thing peanuts, in relation to the farmers' costs."

He challenged government back-benchers to urge an extra $42,000,000 for the crop year for 1961 when the acreage assistance was not given.

EAST PEZEE EFFORTS

C. A. Milligan, Conservative MP for the Ontario farming constituency of Prince Edward-Lennox, said farmers in the East felt the effects of last summer's drought as strongly as those in the West. The price of grains had increased to the point that it was unprofitable for Eastern farmers to take such grains as feed.

If the acreage payments policy is to be continued indefinitely, it should be extended to other parts of Canada.

W. H. Nicholas (L—Welland) raised the situation of Ontario tender growers who had suffered losses.

He also asked whether it was true that producers must pay a good crop got the same payment as those suffering losses.

Mr. Harkness said payments under Prairie Farm Assistance help out those with crop failures.

FARMERS SUPPORT

Harold Danforth (PC — Kent, Ont.) said he knows that western farmers want the government to stay. Granted good weather and markets, they wanted to stand on their own feet and it was his experience that East - West accord among farmers was such that each other mutual support in their difficulties—had never been stronger.

He said that, contrary to statements by the Liberals, the Ontario Sugar Beet Growers' Marketing Board was happy with a support price system introduced this year but opposed any distinction against fluctuations in world sugar prices. Under the Liberals, they had been told when they complained that perhaps they should switch crops altogether.

Bennett Seeks Another Meeting With Fleming

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia sent a letter to Finance Minister Fleming Monday, seeking another meeting to discuss flooding of the Columbia River hydro-electric development.

With it he sent a reiteration of British Columbia's stand that all of this province's share of downstream benefit power from the Columbia must be sold in the United States.

The federal and provincial governments have been at odds over the financing of the project since the international treaty was signed with the U.S. more than a year ago.

Ottawa has offered to put up half the cost of the three dams— or $176,000,000—as a type of loan providing it could share in the project as a partner until the loan had been repaid.

Trenton West Council Tells Delegation To Ask Lee Grills to Urge East-Side Post Office Site

By EULA BONTER—Phone 3-3829

TRENTON — Trenton council has promised to give some consideration to recommending an east side location for the proposed new federal building to the Federal Department of Public Works . . . with a stipulation.

At a special meeting of council yesterday afternoon, five east-side businessmen, representing 30 owners and operators of businesses on the east side of the river, were told that if they could get a recommendation (in writing) from Lee Grills, member of parliament for Hastings South, that council approve a site on the east side for the new post office, council would, in turn, forward the recommendation to the federal department.

The east-siders representatives at yesterday's meeting were Joe Dale, Dieter Rolf, Walter Palmer, Jack Vanderloop and Douglas Hyde.

The town was represented by Mayor Charles MacDonald and Councillors Ross Burtt, Ed. Judd and Duncan McDonald. Clerk-accomptroller D. W. Larry also attended the meeting. Councillor Lloyd Worrall and Councillor James Duncan, who had been present at an earlier meeting, did not attend Letter. Councillor Duncan said that he had been unaware that such a meeting was to be held.

Mr. Palmer was the official spokesman for the delegation. He said that he was appearing "on behalf of a large number of east-side business people" and presented a petition to council, signed by the business people to whom he referred.

"A few people from the west side have tried to sign this," said Mr. Palmer, emphatically.

The petition asked that council place its "stamp of approval" on the selection of Lots 1, 2, 3, 4 and 36 and 40, at the corner of Dundas St. E. and Ontario Street as the site for the proposed new federal building. (Last week, council "fully endorsed" a site on the west side of the river, suggested by Postmaster Gordon Letter. Councillor Duncan said that his letter questioning that such a meeting was to be held.

(Last week, council "fully endorsed" a site on the west side of the river, suggested by Postmaster Gordon Letter. Councillor Duncan said that his letter questioning the location of a federal building in Trenton, and that choice of a site had been left entirely up to the government.

"Let me say a word on this," said Mayor MacDonald. Councillor Burtt, "the question of locating a post office in Trenton has been in progress for the past four or five years. When I was in the chair (as mayor) the matter came up. I took no part in the discussion of the site. This is a political football. I'm going to take no part in your suggestion."

"We're not here to discard the site (on the west side), chosen by the department," Mr. Palmer explained, "but is the only site they're dealing with? We'd like council to approve an east side site—and if the department turns down the suggestion in the waste basket, so be it."

SUGGESTS EQUALITY

"If we were asked to approve an east-side site on the same basis as we were asked to approve the west-side site by Mr. Grills, I would be against going along," said Councillor MacDonald.

"I'm behind the east-side people," said Councillor Todd, "but if we approve a site for the north-end people might come in and want a site in the north end of town approved for their building. If we keep playing around with this thing it'll get shelved. You're placing council in a very embarrassing position."

"The purpose of the town would be better served if we let the federal government pick the site," affirmed the mayor.

"To me there is no east or west," continued Councillor Burtt, "it's all the town of Trenton and they weren't you interested before? Why wait to this late date?"

Mr. Dale replied, the impression that more than one site was being looked at," said Mr. Dale.

"If you get a letter from Grills mentioning an east-side location, I'll support it," said Councillor Burtt. "Right now, you're putting council behind the eight ball."

"We should be more careful about how we plan this town," interjected Mr. Palaet, the petitioning spokesman. Is Main in Ottawa select the site? They don't have to go there to get their mail."

"What held you back until now?" the mayor asked the delegation.

"We were aware of all the vacant stores on the east side of the river," said Mr. Dale.

"Don't you think as mayor, that I'm aware of them too?" snapped the mayor. "We must look at only confusion. We government men to the old town hall and the fire hall and suggested that the building could be located on that site. The government representatives said then that this location would not allow for planned landscaping, and somebody suggested the Parley property. Nothing came of that and the issue practically died. Last year, council decided to take no part in the selection of a site. This is a political football. I'm going to take no part in your suggestion."

Ways to Aid Deaf Children Outlined to Rotary Club

TRENTON — Joe Demeza, superintendent at the Ontario school for the Deaf at Belleville, told members of the Trenton Rotary Club of ways in which they could assist pupils handicapped by deafness last night.

Mr. Demeza said that the Ontario government pays board and educational costs and for medical care for his 450 resident pupils attending O.S.D., the largest school for the deaf on the North American Continent. Parents must provide clothing and special medical care.

Mr. Demeza said that service club members were often asked to assist parents or to provide surgery for the children. He stressed the fact that club members, who are also businessmen or industrial heads could make it a point to accept deaf persons as employees, if their skill equals that of workers, who are not handicapped in this way.

Service club members can also provide hearing aids for the children or financial contributions to such organizations as the Canadian Hearing Society or to an American Society which graduates of the Canadian Institute for the Deaf prefer, should they wish to continue their education.

Mr. Demeza said that while there is no increase of deafness, medical science is making it possible for infants, especially with diseases which once were fatal, to be saved, and that many of these are impaired in some fashion. He said that there has been a considerable increase of children with multiple handicaps.

ONLY SCHOOL IN PROVINCE

Speaking of the Belleville school, the superintendent said that it was the only provincial residential school for the deaf in Metropolitan Toronto, day classes are provided for deaf children, but children from all other sections of the province are sent to O.S.D. The program is planned for age groups running from 3 years to 20.

Mr. Demeza said that the education of the deaf is at once one of the most difficult and most rewarding avenues of education. Employment opportunities, once the student has graduated, are good, as the educational program is aimed at fitting the graduate for "special" employment where his handicap is minimized.

The normal kindergarten child of five years of age approximately 2,000 words, while deaf children enter school at this age in mentality but retarded educationally. The first years are spent in learning vocabulary, then an academic program begins. Speech is specific of child, is entered upon. Great stress is placed upon vocational training for both the boys and girls and the girls are also given instruction in home economics.

Mr. Demeza said that a vocational addition will be built on to the 91-year-old Belleville school in the near future and that crowding will be alleviated when a new school for the deaf opens at Milton.

Staff members at the Belleville school number between 120 and 200, with 75 of these being teachers. One teacher is required for every ten children to allow for individual instruction.

Mr. Demeza was introduced to the club by Kenneth Couch and thanked by Rev. J. T. Irwin.

Lawyers Confer With Council On Annexation

TRENTON — Monday afternoon, Toronto solicitors John Weir and Ormsby Robb discussed Trenton council's annexation proposals with council members.

Following ratification by the solicitors, the town by-laws, outlining the 1961 council's proposals to annex approximately 750 acres in Murray and Sidney townships, will be presented to the Ontario Municipal Board, for approval. Should the Ontario board approve, the intention to annex will be advertised and township residents will then have the opportunity to protest.

Murray township council has secured the services of E. G. Faludi and Associates to represent the township in annexation proceedings. Mr. Weir and Mr. Faludi are both known to be experts in the annexation field.

Building inspector William Anderson said yesterday that work on the CNR bridge was progressing satisfactorily and that the bridge should be finished by next week. Railway workmen are presently lining the piers with creosoted ties. Ten feet at a time are lifted and replaced.

Simultaneously, workmen, aided by a mobile crane, are laying boards on the footbridge which runs along south of the railway portion of the bridge. For the most part, the boards are merely being relaid, new and nailed down again. When necessary, new boards are used. The bridge is being refitted in preparation with new lumber.

Pedestrians have been forbidden to use the footbridge while it is being repaired but twin traffic is continuing.

"We'd like a bank over here, too," continued Mr. Dale. "There are seven mills on the west Trenton. Every bank in Canada is represented except there. Someone told me that he spent more Trenton people shopping in one week in Belleville than he ever sees in downtown Trenton. The west side is losing out in the long run. People go to Belleville to get to a bank because of the congested bridge."

"Well, I'm not going to stick my neck out," Councillor Burtt told him. "These decisions are made by council and when they complete their business, I'm sure you'll be satisfied."

"According to the town plan," said Mr. Dale, "all new buildings are to be located on the coal yard property, west of here".

"Besides that," broke in Mr. Vanderloop, "owners of a section Cleaners and Dyers, on Ontario Street, east of the coal yard, "you'd do away with the coal dust problem, if you put that building there. No one could ask for a rebate on taxes by that reason."

"If the building were located on the coal yard property, you'd have docking facilities and so made," said Mr. Dale. "Boats could come in there to go through existing locks. That's the first port of call from the Great Lakes."

"Well, they had this same problem in Belleville," said Councillor Burtt. "The site for the post office was in dispute and the government went ahead and located it a mile away from the old building."

"We have to think about the traffic problem on Front Street" said Mr. Palaet. "We should do some planning instead of sandwiching everything over there on the west side. If we don't help ourselves, who's going to help us?"

Members of the delegation were advised to try to get Mr. Grills' request for council's approval of an east-side site back in Trenton in time for next Monday night's council meet.

Logical Locations

The unkind—and in this instance this may include most politicians—will see nothing strange in the decision of the Ontario Department of Highways to locate a Highway 401 service centre on the riding of the Minister of Highways, Hon. W. A. Goodfellow.

A little exercise with a pencil and map, though, may soften the conviction of cynics that the location of this, and other, service centres was governed by something other than geography.

Once grant a basic premise, that these service centres should not be located immediately on the outskirts of large centres of population, near cloverleafs, and the service centres fall almost mathematically into place, precisely where the first four are planned.

Readers may remember that, after the Belleville Chamber of Commerce decided to request that a service centre be established at one of the cloverleafs here, in order to divert tourists into the city and the whole Quinte area, we questioned the wisdom of such an approach. It might, we felt, divert local business from service stations and restaurants already suffering from the loss of through traffic on Highway 2. The Government appears to have reached the same conclusion—while planning to provide an alternative method of attracting tourists to lakeshore communities by the development of Highway 2 as a scenic route.

The most logical distance between service centres might appear to be fifty miles. This would put the first service centre north of Toronto at Newtonville, instead of Newcastle, and the second between Belleville and Trenton, which seems to us an ideal location. But then geography wrecks the scheme. As a little work with a map will show, the next three service centres would be due in the environs of Kingston, Brockville and Cornwall.

Taking a somewhat shorter distance, approximately 45 miles, the first service centre east of the junction of Highways 400 and 401 falls east of Newcastle, the next west of Trenton; while west of Toronto the locations should be east of Preston and around Ingersoll. These are considerations which, in the west they precede the locations chosen. It is all quite logical. If the pattern is followed out for the rest of Highway 401, other service centres east of Toronto will be at around Odessa and east of Morrisburg, (an ideal location near the St. Lawrence parks system), and on the west they will be at Stratburn and around Tilbury. On the east, this will deliver tourists into the hands of the Quebec highway authorities with gas tanks and stomachs still refueled. On the west there is a slight flaw; Tilbury is somewhat closer to Windsor than could be considered ideal. But compared with the placing of service centres which would still avoid close proximity to larger centres, which appears to have been the yardstick used, was hardly to be achieved. When our cities were founded, nobody dreamed of Highway 401—or that a man could drive 45 miles without resting his steed or reloading his pipe and even, with luck, without hearing his youngest offspring squall for a diaper change.

"Unhappy Prince"

Premier John Robarts has issued a statement that Ontario electoral ridings will be redistributed "in a manner fair and satisfactory to the public at large."

Mr. Robarts' observation came after Hollis E. Beckett, Progressive Conservative member of the Legislature for East York, had told a meeting of Young Conservatives that "if we're not careful how we redistribute these (Toronto area) ridings, we can lose them."

Mr. Beckett was right, course. But he does not appear to understand the English language. What seems to have been bothering him was where the new boundaries would be drawn. Premier Robarts, placing the right interpretation on the word "them," is more concerned about the manner in which these boundaries will be determined.

The East York member is fortunate that he lives in modern times and that the Premier cannot have recourse to the same remedy that King Henry II took, with lesser reason, to rid himself of another Becket eight centuries ago."

Year of the Big Promise

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Whatever else this coming days of this final Session of the 25th Parliament, and the election that is sure to follow it, produce—the taxpayer can be certain of a mark-up in his bill.

For, as former Prime Minister Mackenzie King was so fond of reminding: "The promises of yesterday are the taxes of today."

As so it must follow that the promises of tomorrow are the taxes of yesterday.

This is the year of the Big Spenders.

All three political parties—but if you care to look at Social Credit seriously — are writing the taxpayer a blank cheque when he has only to sign, by marking his "X" on the proper place on the general election ballot, to cash in on Utopia.

On the basis of the party's national platforms, Col. Cote says, the Liberals are committed to a program designed as it was conceived, "to get the economy moving again", that would involve at least a minimum of $600,000,000 in new Federal spending.

The firm overall estimate has been produced of the cost of the Conservatives' limited basket of election promises, although at a monthly $10, that increases to $15,000 per pension would run something over $130,000,000 more in pledges that are just a starter.

COULD BE DONE

However, both Conservative and Liberal parties usually promise the moon, and the columns heads among the politicians try to see if the pre-election come-ups are financially within reason and reach.

The rough goof on the promises of the party that picks up the ball in the matches, invariably costs the taxpayer money, but so far he has always managed to pay for the bill.

But just look at the New Democrats.

They make the Liberals and Conservatives look like a bunch of tightwads.

"Guaranteed" full employment . . . "Guaranteed" annual wage for farmers . . . complete health insurance . . . higher pensions . . . higher unemployment insurance benefits . . . more aid to municipalities . . . and a foreign policy . . . and . . . and . . . crop insurance . . . and . . . rural education including university . . . price control . . . all that, and much more.

How to pay for it?

Easy, says the New Deans. Higher corporation tax, and stiffer tax rates on big incomes.

Canadian business and industry are already saddled by Federal and Provincial taxes. Even as things now stand, they are having a hard time competing with foreign corporations in the domestic market, and in international market. Just how much more taxing they could take, no one can say. Yet, although some tax authorities insist that this point has been reached where the corporative goose is in peril of being financially crippled, most of the production of the golden eggs of profit.

SOAK THE RICH

Then there is the question of all those big incomes the New Deans think are available for the taxing.

Again, although the NDP is always the last to admit it, there's a catch.

The rich, like it or otherwise, happen to be in very short supply.

Firm figures are available in the Revenue Department's "Green Book". In 1958, the last tabulation, 485 Canadians are listed as making more than an annual $100,000. . . . Their total paid $34,000 000 in income tax.

To soak them to pay their taxes — and there's still only $68,000,000, leaving them with but $11,000,000 to pay the $100,000 they're paid. Hardly a drop, that $11,000,000, in the NDP's spending bucket.

But how about incomes in the $50,000 to $100,000 bracket? There are 2,542 of these, earning a total $168,000,000 and paying $69,000 in taxes on it. So double that, and the $130,000,000 will just about pay for the old age pension boosts—with not a nickel left over for anything else.

The hard fact of financial life is that there just aren't enough rich around to soak, corporate and individual, to underwrite New Deen spending plans.

For the total tax paid by all Canadians earning incomes of better than $10,000 amounts to only $684,000,000.

It just so happens that almost 20 per cent of all the income earned by Canadians is drawn by people making less than $10,000 — so the soak-the-rich formula of the Socialists simply wouldn't work, although it does have a certain appeal when picked as an election platform.

The auction has started, bids are going up on the votes, so watch your wallet . . . and your tax bill.

The janitor was in the building at the time getting things in order for the play The Girl and the Tramp' which was to be produced the following evening. The city steam laundry on the ground floor of the building was a total loss and the flames spread to Squires' grain elevator adjoining the opera house and it soon was in ruins. Defective wiring is said to be the cause of the fire. The loss is estimated to be over $15,000, including the opera and machinery.

Illness Reaches Its Fiercest Stage at 3 a.m.

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I am sitting up in bed at three o'clock, my typewriter balanced on my legs, and too weak from a feverish cold to fight the miserable flu virus to walk downstairs to my library and make a quotation.

It's by F. Scott Fitzgerald. In one of his stories he speaks of "the dark 3 A.M. of the soul," or words to that effect. I am much inclined to agree, I am sure, if I could recall them correctly.

At any rate, his phrase came to me last night, because I am the dark-souled, if not only the critical time forthe soul, it is the dark time for the body.

Illness of any kind seems to achieve its fiercest grip at that hour. The body organism is somehow at its lowest vitality then, and the bodily chemical forces would show that most terminal cases expire in the early hours of the morning, when both soul and body have the least resistance to mysterious grip on the life force.

Even a little episode, like my flu bout, reveals this mysterious principle. My fever, which has been fluctuating narrowly all day, suddenly and ominously woke me at 3 A.M. It had leapt by 104, and I was in the full crisis with almost diabolical accuracy of timing. The body organism would either succumb or throw it off.

Obviously, I threw it off, or I wouldn't be sitting here now writing out my feelings. I felt the cold hand of destiny swooping down upon me in the early hours, and I fought back with all my strength.

I grew fanciful, I know; and, of course, the obvious materialistic explanation is a high fever, bringing on a slight delirium, compounded by fear and by intensity of depression, so common among men when they fail ill.

Yet, fanciful or not, I shared with Fitzgerald this sense of the dark 3 A.M. of the soul."

It is then that one begins to believe in the existence of life forces and of death forces struggling within each of us — a struggle which we rarely if ever succeed at) by biologists, and rationally explained away by psychologists.

For which way shall the organism turn when it reaches the crisis? The decision is made not by the doctor or the drug, but by the human will, hanging together body and soul.

For death is not an enemy alien, but has its allies within us, waiting for us to weakly beckon, our assent. Can it be merely an accident that its delegates arrive when the world is asleep, when our defences are down, when we lie naked to the winds that circle the world?

To Your Good Health

Many Different Things Can Cause a Joint to Thicken

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes "thickening of a joint?" Does it usually accompany arthritis? And does it become painful as a person? Is there a cure? R.C.

A lot of things can cause "thickening of a joint," and in the broad sense, we can say that most of them are "arthritis" in one sort or another.

An injury, such as "baseball finger," can cause the thickening of a joint. So can prolonged pressure, as in "housemaid's knee," or "chauffeur's elbow." "tennis elbow" which all are varied forms of bursitis.

There can be "gouty arthritis," which can be overcome if you succeed in keeping the gout under control, and that is something that, with care, we can do with considerable success these days.

There can be "gouty arthritis" for a number of joints) from "rheumatoid arthritis," which is a virulent inflammatory disease, and should have the most careful treatment from the first moment it is discovered.

There can be ordinary degenerative thickening (which we know as "osteoarthritis" or the gradual and un-fearful "creaky knees" of aging) in the joints of many of us acquire as we grow older.

It deserves moderate care to keep the joints mobile, but it SHOULD be limited by common care. The best answer is keeping the joints mobile by being sure to move them, to the maximum degree, every day even if it is painful to do so in the morning, and to use aspirin or the like as needed to control the pain.

But with that amount of care, daily, the joints are not likely to "freeze" and leave us disabled.

To sum it up:

Rheumatoid arthritis is an acute potential threat to our joints. It causes fairly rapid and severe thickening and the loss of the joints, and requires expert care, immediately.

Gradual degenerative joint stiffening and thickening (or "osteo-arthritis") is something that most of us will have either much or little, and can be kept under satisfactory control by simple measures — if we will do the simple things, such as moving about; every day.

Gouty arthritis requires treatment, good. Generally this means certain medication, taken daily.

Thickening from a physical injury, the "baseball finger" sort of thing, is helped by the one injured joint. In rare cases surgery may of course be required. Usually — just live with the stiffness.

The various forms of bursitis usually can be eased by treatment (withdrawing fluid from the joint, medication, rest, heat, etc.) depending on the particular case.

"Arthritis" or "thickening of the joints" aren't one ailment. They are several forms of it.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has emphysema. It is worse in the night and morning. Would a change of climate help?

It is risky to recommend climate changes for some diseases, if you are in a strange zone, which might account for his trouble at night, a change may be in order — but first make a test visit to an area that your doctor thinks might be suitable.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would one get diabetes if he fell off one and change a person with a heart condition and gall bladder trouble? I am afraid I have arthritis, so soften the muscles and joints.

I can't see any cause for worry. But neither can I see any reason for the effort to "soften" the muscles or joints.

Strong Neutral

Fort William Times-Journal

Switzerland which has made neutrality a byword, recognizes neutrality as a method of being protected on weakness.

To guarantee her own continued neutrality, Switzerland has purchased $690,000,000 worth of military supplies from Britain.

It merely shows even a neutral nation must be prepared to defend its attitude. .

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The recent January thaw in our town produced large puddles of city muck on the streets. Around the corner from my house is a public school which discharges seven hundred children, many of them toddlers at noon and at 4 o'clock. What happened to be at my window at noon when the exodus passed. In two's and three's and five's heads down, galoshed feet cheerfully kicking the slush, they paraded past.

But every car that passed, and there were dozens, plashed through the ten-gallon, fifty-gallon puddles, splashing curtains, aprons, huge sprays of filth on the children.

The children went on, as if it were something to be expected, the shocking thing is that the passing motorists did not do it deliberately. They probably did they fling filth on children. If they had, it would have been punishment enough for the motorist's heads down, galoshed feet cheerfully kicking the slush, they paraded past.

But every car that passed, and there were dozens, plashed

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ARE WOMEN SMARTER THAN MEN?

I have listened to many a discussion as to whether men are smarter than women or vice versa, on so many occasions that it always makes me smile when the question is brought up.

You might as well ask: Which is the more useful tooth, the upper or the plum?

For myself, I owe the greater part of my education and success in life to women. My mother was the first one. Then my teachers at school.

There is something very fine, unusual and inspiring about the feminine mind. It is a new and braver mind than that of a man. And though, at the present writing, no woman has ever been elected to the Presidency of the U.S.A., that day may well come!

There are few activities in which the mind of a man has worked but what that of a clever woman has distinguished itself quite as nobly and well.

It is idle to discuss the relative importance of either mind. I for one have wished I were as smart as many women. I have known. And I use the term "smartness" in the sense of intelligence.

Intelligence is born in one. It's the way to use that intelligence that makes either a man or woman successful. And school is the world — people, activities and all that goes to make up life.

A woman is smarter than a man when she learns something from him that he doesn't learn from her. And the statement is just as true reversed.

Geo. Atkinson New President Of Fair Board

PICTON — Prince Edward County Agricultural Society not only enjoyed a successful year financially, but exhibits and attendance were better than for some years, and the year also saw considerable improvement of grounds and buildings, it was revealed, in reports at the annual meeting on Saturday.

A contract having been elected with a midway, the dates of the 1962 County Fair at Picton, are Sept. 19 September 22.

In election of officers, George Atkinson was named to succeed Creighton Lockyer, president for the past two years, with Leland Donzee as 1st vice-president and Chris Lockyer, 2nd vice-president. Phil Dodds continues as secretary-treasurer.

Chosen to attend District 3 Hors conference in Belleville on February 8 were the president, vice-presidents and secretary, with other members welcome to attend. The vice-presidents and secretary and two ladies will attend the Ontario Association convention in Toronto.

The Society agreed to cooperate with the Curling Society in its efforts to erect a building on the fair grounds suitable for that sport as well as for exhibits.

Directors elected were: Leland Donzee, George Atkinson, D. O. Reynolds, Willis Sills, Creighton Lockyer, Sam Dodds, Chris Lockyer, Harold Berriman Harold Spencer, Harry Gorsline, Tom May, William Willis.

Associate directors are: A. Vandeen, Walter Denville, Lemuel Alexander, Douglas Reynolds, Robert May, John Willis, Albert Gapp, Ross Parks, Gerald Steenburgh, Alva Collier, George Emlaw, Byron Beeler, Ivan Beeler, Charles Hagerman, Herb Atherton, Ralph Richards, Brian Dodds, James Bird, John Jones, Alex Burke, H. L. Knight, Robert Williams, Bernard Wright, Elmer Collier, Alex Miller, Alex Mann.

Women directors are Mrs. John Graham, Mrs. Creighton Lockyer, Mrs. Sherman Coulter, Mrs. Clifford Perry, Mrs. Leland Pearsell, Mrs. W. Willis, Mrs. David Sweet, Miss Mae Ryott, Mrs. W. Sills and Mrs. Harry Gorsline.

REFRESH THANKS

Appreciation to retiring president Creighton Lockyer on his fine leadership was voiced by E. W. Herderson, past district director.

Reviewing the year, President Lockyer remarked on the better display of exhibits and new ideas. Special thanks were extended to county council for cooperation, secretary - treasurer Phil Dodds the women who had taken charge of that section, Sam Dodds for supervision of improvements around the building; H. L. Knight, James Bird and teachers for the fine school display, A. A. Benson parade marshal; Mr. and Mrs. Brian Dodds, who collected special prizes; merchants for donations; the support of exhibitors, and many other who had contributed to the growth of the fair.

The IOOF Encampment was thanked for support of donation and invited to promote bingo games again this summer.

Agricultural representative Ivan Sell thanked the Society for support given the Junior Farmers' classes and clubs.

The Prince Edward branch of the Canadian Cancer Society expressed thanks for space for exhibit.

County Warden John Fox promised co-operation of county council and mentioned that plans included paving of the parking area.

President-elect Atkinson expressed appreciation of the board and asked co-operation to 287.

Speaking at the annual meeting of Prince Edward County Chamber of Commerce at Picton, Saturday night, the Hon. William A. Goodfellow, Ontario Minister of Highways, announced construction of a new high level bridge across the Bay of Quinte from Green Point in Prince Edward County to a point west of Deseronto in Hastings County, would start this year. The Minister of Highways is shown right above with Mrs. Goodfellow. On the left are: Mrs. McFarland and Picton Mayor H. McFarland, and centre is George Morden, Chamb. President.

Workers Fed Up With Being Cinderellas of Industry

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's black Monday for traditional marks another organized protest from railwaymen who are fed up with being the Cinderellas of industry.

Subway and train employees who look after the capital's unofficial strike are mainly frustrated men who feel their wages are the lowest in the country.

The majority earn between £11 and £12 for a 46-hour week. Many have difficult and responsible jobs. Once, railwaymen had pride in their work and prestige in the community; now for various reasons, they have lost status and self-respect.

"I don't know what the answer is," mused a Piccadilly line ticket collector who started on the subway 47 years ago.

"You're not getting the class of men you used to get, that's clear enough. A man can get better money sweeping a floor in a factory. But the railways are losing money—so how are you going to get higher wages?"

The immediate cause of the present dispute is the decision by a majority of governments level, to refer to railwaymen's pay claim to arbitration. This delaying tactic came at once the man who runs the railways, Dr. Beeching, policy that has allowed ready to recommend a five- or six-per-cent wage increase.

A powerful factor in official parsimony is the controversial "pay pause," slated to end in April. The pay-restraint policy, considered necessary to provide a breathing space pending a national wages policy, has not only been breached by the electricity workers. Another break could hardly be tolerated.

From the workers' standpoint, the flaw is that any interference with wage movements, whether designated as a pause, freeze or standstill and however necessary in the national interest, always seems to bear harshly on those at the bottom of the industrial ladder.

Ministers may say that in hard times increased wages must be paid out of increased productivity. But strictures on productivity just don't register on a motorman dressed in an intricate network of warning lights, a conductor coping with angry passengers on a rush-hour bus; or an attendant trying to check the accuracy of a hundred odd punched notes at a ticket booth.

Total of $32,168 Awarded in Two Accidents

PICTON — Damage amounting to $32,168 have been settled as a result of the Supreme Court sittings here during the past week following hearings before Hons. Mr. Justice Aylen. Both actions involved motor accidents in which the main plaintiffs suffered severe injury.

Robert Atherton, 21 of Picton was awarded damages amounting to $17,034.00 by a jury in an action brought against Wendell Leavitt, R. R. 3, Picton; His father, Herbert Atherton, was awarded $2,-509.97 for his claims in connection with the same accident which occurred on Highway 14, west of Picton on July 21, 1960. Plaintiffs were awarded one set of costs. Robert Atherton suffered severe back injuries in the accident in which Leavitt's car was involved.

R. E. Nourse, Picton appeared for plaintiff and Ronald Cass, Belleville for defendant.

Earlier, Anthony Beaumont of Milford received an out of court settlement, approved by Mr. Justice Aylen, of $12,625 in his claim against the Shell Oil Co. of Canada and James R. B. Watson. His father, John Beaumont, claimed $1,000 for medical expenses, which was included in settlement. Plaintiffs recover costs billed at $1,300. Beaumont's injuries included burns when his car was struck from behind by a vehicle driven by Watson on the Queen Elizabeth Way, near St. Catharines on Oct. 21, 1960. His car was burned. R. E. Nourse appeared for plaintiffs and Haines, Thomson, Rogers, Hoxie and Freeman of Toronto for defendants.

Three Prisoners Make Escape From Joyceville

KINGSTON (CP) — Three prisoners escaped into near-blizzard conditions Monday afternoon from the Joyceville minimum - security institution near here.

The men were believed to be wearing only thin prison garb in below-zero weather.

Prison officials said two of them, Fred Segriff, 23, and Paul Mueller, 21, both of Toronto, are considered dangerous. Segriff is serving five years for armed robbery and Mueller three years and six months for breaking, entering and theft.

The third escapee is Thomas Thompson, 24, of Ottawa, serving four years, five months, for robbery with violence.

The men slipped away from a basketball game and went up to their fourth floor dormitory.

They cut through the metal frames of a ventilator and apparently slid to the ground down a rope made of bedsheets tied together. The sheets apparently were later pulled back in by another prisoner.

Russia Charges Colonial Lands Are Balking UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The Western allies were expected to join in a possible Security Council debate today on soviet charges that colonial powers are trying to block UN efforts to return Katanga province to the central control of the central Congo government.

The council was summoned into urgent session this morning at Russia's request, but informants said the United States and other Western allies would seek to adjourn debate at least until Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula arrives in New York later this week.

Informants predicted that Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin would try during the preliminary discussion to sin the charges that President Moise Tshombe of Katanga is ignoring council demands that he rid his army of mercenaries and end secession of his province. Zorin has accused colonial powers of abetting Tshombe in such action.

A U.S. spokesman said the United States feels council debate unnecessary at this time. He charged Zorin had demanded the meeting to confuse the situation.

MAY ATTACK RULE

Measures a U.S. ruling Portuguese rule in its big West African territory of Angola were also expected to come in a review in the United Nations General Assembly today.

Assembly President Mongi Slim of Tunisia pressed for the vote at the long debate on the Angolan question in which delegations have been heard since Jan. 24.

Virtually certain of passage in the 104 - member assembly was a 45-country Afro - Asian resolution urging Portugal to un, terrible sorrow, economic and political reforms aimed at independence for the territory of 5,000,000.

Closing Hours Being Defied By 17 Stores

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — City council Monday night rejected one bylaw on store closing hours as defied by a force another being defied by a local department store.

The bylaw to be enforced requires most city stores to close at 6 p.m. Thursday and Friday and at 6 p.m. every other week night.

Towers Marts and Properties Limited of Toronto and 16 firms leasing space in the Towers dis count store here took out a writ last week seeking an injunction to prevent enforcement of the bylaw until a court ruling is delivered.

While the injunction has not been granted, the store is now staying open until 10 p.m. daily for the past week.

The rejected bylaw, passed only a month ago, required stores selling jewlery to close all day Wednesday except during December.

BRITISH OFFICER

No shots were fired — I would have jumped out of my skin if they had.

He worked his way past the troops to the pillaged town, scene of the massacre, and found one white priest, Lawson Strong, back in Leopoldville the following day. He described to me how he got back lest he endanger the lives of Congolese who helped him.

Lawson flew to Kongolo on Jan. 27, this time with a Nigerian Army major and a 17-year-old guide, from another mission. Together, they drove to a village on the edge of territory controlled by Katanga President Moise Tshombe's forces to arrange for evacuation of three nuns and eight priests.

"Then the trouble started," he said. "While we were talking, the entire population of the village arrived and it was quite obvious they didn't like us."

He explained that the villagers thought they were from the Congolese army force loyal to Antoine Gizenga which invaded Katanga from Shaba province.

HIT BY RIFLES

The frenzied villagers, thrust spears at his throat and beat him and the others with rifle butts.

"About 300 villagers were surrounding us, screaming and absolutely uncontrollable in their hatred," Lawson continued.

"Eventually, I was pulled to the house of the village commander and the others managed to get away. I'm not a man of business to get away from the frantic mob.

"The mob started to be a bit more pleasant. But people were still screaming for our blood and we were taken up to the balcony by some friendly priests. They pushed us among a bit just to make the crowd happy. After that they were taking care of us.

"For two or three hours we waited on the balcony. It was desperately gay and talking our way out of the mess."

Lawson said the turning point came when the officers heard a news broadcast about him and his two companions were on a mission to seek out missionaries.

"This seemed to convince them that I was not a spy, and gradually the crowd got tired and were home."

Lawson reported that "there's no such thing as law and order" in north Katanga, which he said is overrun with undisciplined Katanga and Congo police soldiers and terrorist bands of tribesmen "wearing feathers and waving their spears and bows and arrows at everyone in sight."

He said the 22 white men in Kongolo were killed by a CSE, police officer and two soldiers who were drunk and had been smoking drugged cigarettes. But he reported that the whites were dismembered by pagan tribal warriors with about 100 Negroes were killed in tribal fighting that ensued.

No Increase In Delinquency

WINNIPEG (CP) — L. H. Nicholson, former RCMP commissioner who is deputy minister of the Boy Scouts of Canada, says there is no more juvenile delinquency today and there was 30 to 40 years ago.

But there is a great attention to it.

Mr. Nicholson and other Scout officials were in Winnipeg for the weekend to attend a two-day executive meeting of the movement's national council.

"Those in the present generation are just as good and maybe as when I was a boy," said Mr. Nicholson in an interview. "But nowadays the activities of delinquents receive a great deal of publicity."

Expert Convinced Science Can Save World From War If It Hurries in Research

By CARL MOLLINS

TORONTO (CP)—A new science is taking shape amid a flurry of pamphlets and planning, in a few cluttered rooms near the University of Toronto.

The problem behind the project is as old as the use of force between men: How to make peace. But the men and women seeking a solution in this case plan to make the search an exercise in science.

The planners working among charts and filing cabinets in the Toronto organizing rooms predict the first major Peace Research Institute will be operating on a university campus in Eastern Canada before 1963 is out.

The spark in the organization is a quiet-mannered, brilliant background in electronics and nuclear physics and a conviction that science can save the world from war if it hurries.

ABANDONED CAREER

Edmonton - born Norman Alcock, 43, believes that modern science, which provided the means for mutual self-destruction, can also be harnessed to map a way to an international peace.

The slight, greying scientist has provided proof that he can make things move. Two years ago, when he gave up a promising industrial career to head a working alone in his Oakville, Ont., home on the idea of peace research.

Now he has a newly - incorporated organization, a board of directors, the backing of prominent business and professional men, its own office for peace - minded groups, a small organizational staff and he has a fund-raising drive to finance the first institute and recruit researchers.

A campaign to raise $4,000,000—half from the people of Canada and half from the federal government—is to begin in February.

Dr. Alcock will outline his program to financial men who has trouble explaining why he chose to give up his career at 40, spend some $20,000 of his own savings and devote all his time to a campaign for formal peace research.

NOT POLITICAL

He knows such a decision was not the result of any special group or person or political philosophy. His motive, he says, might be called "humanitarianism," although he thinks that the word is too fancy.

It is typical of Dr. Alcock's approach that his explanation on the personal level is illustrated by a project he holds should be imaginable to the unemotional.

Then he speaks of the need for a crash program "in the five or 10 years we've got," the words sound calmly rational rather than alarmist. His reasoning is based on scientific training, practical experience and a two-year personal study of the project he proposes.

Educated in Vancouver, at Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., and the California Institute of Technology, he worked on the development of rockets during the Second World War, designing a radar antenna used by British bombers.

FAMILY SUPPORT

After the war he turned his electrical engineering talents to nuclear physics at McGill University. He joined the research establishment at Chalk River, Ont., and finally in an Oakville plant he and three colleagues founded in 1956 to design instruments for the application of nuclear power to industry.

In 1959 he decided with the agreement of his family, wife and four children, to take time out of his industrial career and support with private resources "a single feeling" that scientific method could well be applied to social problems threatening mankind itself.

He studied to enlarge his knowledge of world affairs, psychology and sociology. He travelled widely and talked to eminent men about his ideas. He published the results at his own expense in a 38-page booklet titled The Bridge of Reason.

Dr. Alcock believes starting in Canada with some 25 full-time researchers—about two-thirds social scientists and the rest physical scientists — will lead to the establishment of similar groups in other countries. He already has had serious inquiries from Britain, Sweden and Israel.

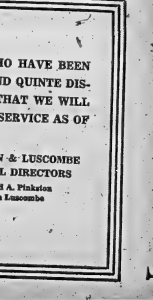
TWO-PHASE PLAN

In two or three years, he foresees at least 1,000 trained scientists working independently of governments in the non-Communist world, sharing ideas, exchanging information and suggestions.

Separate groups would bear down on precise problems ranging from developing technical methods of preventing war by accidental nuclear explosion to studying situations that produce international tension and how to forestall such developments.

The research organization would reverse the usual process of seeking international agreement, whereby diplomats discuss a large aim only to be frustrated by details and flaws in a series of proposals.

Scientists would study a subject thoroughly, formulate a plan, then persuade their own and other governments that it was workable.



Directed mass research is never fruitless in other fields, Dr. Alcock says, and he is sure social sensibility will be discovered" in a crash program for peace.

Peace Research Institutes might just discover the social and political inventions needed for a warless world."

LEADS CAMPAIGN

Norman Alcock, 43, "an electronics and nuclear physics scientist," is leading a campaign to harness science for peace. He believes modern science can be used to maintain peace as well as massive ruin for war. He hopes to have the first major Peace Research Institute operating on a university campus in Eastern Canada before the end of this year. (CP Photo).

Quintebelles Attend Chorus School

Two members of the Quintebelles Chapter of Sweet Adelines, Miss Doris Lloyd and Mrs. Audrene Moorman, attended a Sweet Adeline Chorus Directors School in Detroit this past weekend. This school was sponsored by the Region 2 Northern and headquarters office of Sweet Adelines Incorporated.

Mr. Floyd Connett of Peoria, Illinois, educational chairman of Sweet Adelines, was the instructor of all five sessions. There were 35 chapters represented at this school and every director and aspiring director attending, were taught the standards of barbershop technique in such a manner that they could go back to their own chapter and teach the same methods.

Miss Lloyd attended the school as a chorus member and Mrs. Moorman as assistant director, and they feel that they learned a great deal.

All women and young ladies interested in singing barbershop harmony are most cordially invited to attend a regular chorus rehearsal any Tuesday evening in the AMAF Hall, upstairs, 187 Front Street, at 8:00 p.m. For further information call either Miss Lloyd at WO 2-3061 or Mrs. Moorman at WO 2-3532.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Orne Happily Wed 60 Years

The way to enjoy life is to keep active.

That's the advice of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Orne, 360 Bleecker Ave., who yesterday observed the 60th anniversary of their marriage.

The day was marked with Mr. and Mrs. Orne being "at home" to their friends in the city and district while well over 100 cards and messages added to the enjoyment of the day.

The couple received a congratulatory telegram from Her Majesty Elizabeth II, and also from Ontario Premier John Robarts while letters were received from Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, Mayor A. McLean Haig and from Lee Grills, M.P.P. for Hastings East. An illuminated scroll was received from Provincial Secretary John Yaremko.

A former Canadian National Railways locomotive engineer, Mr. Orne ended his association with the railway 15 years ago at the age of 65, but with no thought of retirement.

TURNS HOBBY INTO JOB

Instead he turned a lucrative hobby into a full time retirement job which still keeps him busy every day. Mr. Orne operates Orne's Electric Motor Repairs which at one time was the only motor repair shop in the city.

Now, although he is over 80, Mr. Orne has a long list of customers still depending on him for their electric motor repairs.

Even during his 60th wedding anniversary celebration, with guests arriving, Mr. Orne took time out yesterday to give services to a district farmer who desperately needed an electric motor to pump water for his stock.

"You just can't let these people down when they need you in an emergency," noted Mr. Orne.

Mr. and Mrs. Orne came to Belleville just over 50 years ago from Concord, New Hampshire, where Mr. Orne worked on the Central Vermont Railway. They were married on January 29th back in 1902 at South Royalton, Vermont, by Methodist minister J. D. Berman.

BORN IN STATES

Mr. Orne was born in Vermont, but his wife, the former Signe Landberg, was born in Sweden, emigrating with her parents to the United States when seven years of age. Three brothers are scattered throughout the U.S.A.

Mr. and Mrs. Orne became Canadian citizens many years ago.

As a former railroader, Mr. Orne belonged to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, while Mrs. Orne is a past president of the Grand International Auxiliary of the Brotherhood.

Mr. Orne is past master of Masonic Lodge and also belongs to the Quinte Chapter, while Mrs. Orne is a member of the Eastern Star.

Both enjoy good health while Mrs. Orne, like her husband, believes in "keeping on the go."

"Keeping on the go keeps you young," she says. "I like seeing new places and meeting new people."

ALL LONG LIVED

The families on both sides have been long lived, with Mrs. Orne's parents lacking only a few years of celebrating their 70th wedding anniversary when her father died.

Despite his 80 years, Mr. Orne thinks nothing of shoveling background and sidewalks free of snow. Possibly as a carry-over from his days as a fireman on the railway, Mr. Orne finds shoveling still comes natural.

A sad point in their life was the death of their only daughter Isabell in 1955. Miss Orne at one time operated a hair dressing salon in the city.

French Costume Jewelry Echoes Fluidity of Flared Skirts Worn This Season

By PEGGY MASON

PARIS (Reuters) — French costume jewelry this winter echoes the fluidity of the season's flared skirts which ripple and dance as the wearer moves.

As fashion bet banished stiff linings and inner construction, costume jewelry has abandoned rigid settings.

New necklaces are worked in capsules of supple fringes which sway like a lady dancer's skirt. Chandelier earrings recall the pendulum of a clock. Brooches and bracelets suspend tassels of pearls or pendants.

Even belts have come to life, are fashioned like giant umbilicary tassels which would appear perfectly at home on any Victorian sofa pillow.

GLITTER AMONGTHEM

Lavaria, Castile, Nina Ricci and other leading houses interpret bib collars or triangular pearl like necklaces in purple, lightweight cottons studded with glittering stones.

Lapel pins with either figure, fire or abstract design show a smaller trend toward mobility. Clips draped like flowers have plump heads of coiled wire which quiver in motion.

The Crystalon Collection, one of the leading jewel designers, uses many jeweled stones set at graded levels in dramatic "spotlight" clips. Her enormous earrings sweep the entire lobe of the ear, or perhaps brush forward on to the cheek.

Long chain necklaces falling to midnight and winter-long stresses the dramatic trend of this jewelry "on the move." All the best contrasts of primary colors are used, in favor of smoky grey, tet, brown, amber, and topaz stones, or milky pearls.

JAMES TRAFFIC

DARTMOUTH, England (CP) Steps are to be taken to stop cows holding text rummage on south Devon beaches. Council was told that last year reports of cows holding get around and coast roads were jammed by cars and coaches "filled with curious visitors."

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

THERE ARE MANY TYPES OF RUDENESS

Privacy is a sacred thing, and more of us ought to respect it as such.

The fellow who first said, "a penny for your thoughts," obviously was a cut-rate snoopy body who also short-changed on courtesy.

His modern counterpart is ill, its better, accept that he's apt to be rude. Sometimes, though, the price has been good down. Now the nosy one wants to know what you're thinking or doing, without even offering a penny for the privilege.

The modern species comes in many shapes and forms. Here are some of the types (male and female) and their specialties:

Mr. Big Nose is the one at the office who lingers at your desk and never looks at you because his eyes are wandering over your private mail or the inter-office memo from the boss. If he does this when you're at your desk, that imagine what big eyes he has when you're not around. Understandably, the only solution is to keep your office door closed — whether you're in or out.

The Good Neighbor has her own policy — that of friendliness. She wants to know if your roof is still leaking, if the kids got over their colds or if she can get some butter for you at the supermarket. Her main fault is a distrust of telephones, over which modern invention she could get all the information she needs. Instead, she prefers to drop in, always unannounced, and starts by saying, "I just happened to be driving by." Two cups of coffee later she's still there and you're still dazed from your interrupted shower. One solution: don't answer the door when you hear a car stop. She may think you're asleep and try next door.

The Oozer is the one who brings you your mail after carefully checking the envelopes. He'll take special delight in the notice from the Internal Revenue Service and the pretty pastel ones that look like reminders of overdue bills.

And let's not forget the Fashion Expert, the gal who checks you daily wardrobe and lets you know that nothing gets past her fashion-conscious eyes. She'll tell you at the drop of a hem that you've worn the same dress twice the same week, as if you needed a reminder. Just wear it a third time, to show her you're a lost at heart, and she'll really do a fashion flip — preferably straight out of your wardrobe.

To close this incomplete catalogue—add your own favorites) there's a special word to wives. Don't open your husband's mail. Even if it's a bill, it may be the one he said he paid last week, and you know how sheltering this can be to your sense, of fairy play.

STRAGGLING ENDS of hair keep escaping from that hair net or barrette? Try a double bride even with the finest, thinnest hair. Separate a small front section on each side of the part, bring it from the scalp out—and tie tight. Join this section to the braid with the larger one which you fix in the usual way.

California Cake Used For Birthday Plus An Apple Dessert

by Mary Moore

Tucked inside Rilda's Christmas card to my sister Pearly was a recipe for a Butterscotch Cake with a note on it saying "Finally found this recipe for Mary."

So my assumed it was worth hunting for and hence trying.

Mary's birthday was imminent so since Pearly is the birthday cake expert in the family she made it. It is quite different in texture and flavor and requires no frosting a little fact I like a lot.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Pot Roast (large enough to have some leftover for Shepherd's Pie—see Thursday, and Saturday's menu) Brown Gravy; Brussels Sprouts; Fluffy Mashed Potatoes; Celery Hearts and Olives; Pineapple - Rice Cream; Tea.

RILDA'S BUTTERMILK CAKE

from California:

1 cup shortening, 2 cups sugar, 4 eggs, separated, 1 ½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon baking soda, 1 cup buttermilk, 2 teaspoons lemon extract, ½ cup finely chopped nuts.

Cream together well the shortening and 1½ cups of the sugar. Add the egg yolks and ½ cup of buttermilk and beat. Sift together the unsifted flour, baking powder, salt and soda. Add alternately with the remaining buttermilk to the creamed mixture. Add remaining ½ cup sugar to egg white and beat until stiff and fold in along with the lemon extract. Butter the sides of a tube pan generously. Line bottom with wax paper and butter it well. Sprinkle bottom evenly with chopped nuts. Pour in batter. Bake 1½ hours at 350 deg. Fahr. Cool 1 hour before removing from pan. Loosen at sides and centre with long narrow pointed knife and turn out. Peel off paper. Cake does not require frosting.

I serve this with an uncommon apple dessert that I think you will welcome.

APPLES ALMOND

5 medium large cooking apples, (I used Spys), - 3 cups water, 1½ cups sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

TOPPING SAUCE:

1-3 cup flour, ½ cup sugar, shake of salt, 2 large eggs, 1¼ cups warm 18% cream, ¾ cup warm milk, 1½ teaspoons vanilla, ¼ cup chopped blanched almonds.

Wash and pare apples and cut in halves lengthwise and remove cores carefully. Meanwhile bring to boiling in large shallow pan the water, first amount of sugar and first amount of vanilla. When apples are ready, poach them in the boiling syrup for about 10-12 minutes or until you can just pierce them with a fork. They must not be soft, just barely tender. Meanwhile make sauce: In top of double boiler mix together flour and second amount of sugar and salt. Beat the eggs with warm cream and milk and stir over hot water until thick. Remove from heat. Add vanilla. Skim apples from syrup, using slotted spoon. Into shallow baking dish, tipping them a little to make enough room for all ten halves. Spoon sauce over, sprinkle with nuts. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes. Serve warm.

NOTE 1:

I put these in the oven just before we sat down to our main course.

NOTE 2:

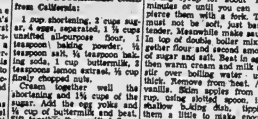
Use leftover syrup to add to fruit drinks or make lemonade with it by adding lemon juice.

Young Adult Club Names 1962 Officers

CAMPBELLFORD — The Young Adults' Club of St. John's United Church held the first meeting of this year on Thursday evening in the form of a pot-luck supper. Forty-two persons, including children, this being fairly night, sat down to the tables which had been decorated by Eleanor Nelson and Enid Oliver.

The devotional period was conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Mel McKeown with Don Bennett providing the musical accompaniment.

The business portion of the meeting followed and it was decided to hold the meetings on the fourth Tuesday of each month.



PROGRAM

A program presented by the children was enjoyed by all with the following taking part: vocal solo, Barry McKeown; piano solo, Stephen Nelson; vocal solo, Elaine Teal; piano solo, Elaine Teal; accordion solo, Larry Dunk; piano duet, Lenna and Adena Teal (mother and daughter); piano solo, Ronnie Atkinson.

Joan Sharpe conducted games for the children while the parents cleaned up the tables.

1962 OFFICERS

The following will comprise the management of the young Adult Club for 1962: past president, Mel McKeown; president, Henry Gunter; vice-president, Wayne Gunter; secretary, Joan Sharpe; treasurer, Stewart Miller; press secretary, Mrs. M. McKeon; attendance secretary, Eleanor Nelson; song leader, Earle Nelson; pianist, Don Bennett; A.T.C.M.; group leaders — 1: Joyce Gunter; 2: Lenna Teal; 3: Andy Craik.

Mrs. G.A. — He's not the marrying kind and she should drop him.

Blanche A. — We're as good as engaged. We'll be married soon.

• • •

Mrs. G.A. — My daughter is 21 and her social life has come to a standstill due to her attachment for a man of 32. She should not have started dating at 16 but she did, against my advice, when she was 19. Ever since, it's been nobody but David.

I tell her she's wasting her time. David has a reputation for going from one affair to another. There have been many girls before Blanche and there will be many after her. He's not the marrying kind. He's too selfish.

I was divorced from Blanche's father when she was 10 and maybe that explains why she is so attracted to an older man. I hope she comes to her senses and gives herself a chance to meet potential husbands. David definitely isn't one.

Blanche A. — I know David loves me as I love him. It's just that he's changing jobs so often and can't make definite plans about settling down. He's a civil engineer and is in great demand by employers.

I met him while I was in college. He was a professor in the graduate school. We went steady almost from the first date and we were supposed to become engaged last Easter. But David left the campus to accept a position in Industry. There's a chance he'll give me a ring this Easter.

My mother has lost confidence in David because we've learned that he's been dating other girls in the town where he now works. That doesn't worry me. His wonderful letters assure me I'm first. And on our dates, there's no doubt of it.

The Council: Sometimes, there's something about a month, or that is smart, smart, smart and this year like one of those times. Mrs. A. sees David "unrelouched," as in a Rogues' Gallery portrait, while Blanche glamorizes and idealizes the month with what she wants to see there. And the widest apart were really there.

There is Blanche, who are definitely unmarriageable. Both of them know it. David seems to, he's been doing a remarkable job of fending and shadowboxing with you (and others). Woe to the woman who makes it her cause celebre to snare one of these pedalcircus! She has the rest of her life to find out why her reluctant bridegroom was so reluctant. He knew marriage wasn't for him. She wouldn't believe him.

The man for you, Blanche, will be someone who doesn't play it so cagey, someone who includes you in his plans and doesn't keep you in a deep freeze while more important matters are decided. It's been two years now. And we'll bet David has never said those four little words: "Will you marry me? We'll bet you've been hearing what you want to hear, thinking what you want to think, with little actual evidence to base it on. "How I miss you, darling!" can't possibly be translated into "Let's get married!" Yet, evidently that's the way you've been reading and hearing David.

Come off it and, as your mother says, give yourself a chance. Marriage entails sacrifices. David shows no inclination to give up one single thing: his mobility, his freedom to go straight to an office job, his personal pronoun. If you're looking for a home and ring around it, Blanche, and separate to be the type of bachelor, to quote Dr. Hendrick Ibsen. Make who is "in love with himself, his comforts...and is incapable of loving a woman who might engender or interfere with his self-love. Now is his age."

Some day your prince will come, proclamations and all!

Successful Euchre Held In Aid Hall

2ND TRUELOW — Mrs. Everett Jeffers assisted by several neighbors was hostess for a euchre at the Aid Hall on Friday night.

There were 14 tables in play with prizes won as follows: ladies — Mrs. Turner; Mrs. Keith; consolation — Mrs. F. Bedell. Gents — J. Jeffers; consolation — Mrs. Watts; consolation — F. Reid and lucky draw — Fred Mitchell.

Refreshments were served and a social time spent.

Next euchre will be convened by Mrs. Fred Mitchell and Mrs. Douglas Atkins on February 2nd.

HONORARY TITLE

CALGARY (CP)—Mrs. Mary Ball, young Calgary mother of three, was made a Sarcee Indian princess at ceremonies on the band's reservation. The honor, accorded only four or five white women in the tribe's history, was in recognition of Mrs. Ball's work as secretary of the city's Native Friendship Club.

Congregational Meetings

WELLMAN'S-RAWDON UNITED

RAWDON—Wellman's - Rawdon United Church held its congregational meeting in the church with the pastor, the Rev. W. G. Fletcher, in charge, and he conducted a brief devotional service.

Howard Wallace reported the balance of $379 for the Sunday School; and Omar Dracup reported $281 for the M. and M. fund. Beckett, James Pollock, Gerald Clancy, Cecil Pasley, Howard Wallace, Allan Fletcher; cemetery committee, Mr. and Mrs. John Carlisle.

CANNIFTON UNITED

The annual congregational meeting of Canniffon United Church was held Friday of last week in the church Sunday School rooms.

The meeting was preceded by a delicious pot-luck supper prepared and served by the ladies of the congregation.

The meeting was opened with a short worship service conducted by Mr. C. A. Dawson, minister. Mr. Harry Pound was elected to read the minutes of the annual congregational meeting which were approved.

VARIOUS REPORTS

Reports from the various church organizations including reports from Sunday School, W.M.S., W.A., C.G.I.T., M.C.C., Boy Scouts, Explorers, choir and Mission Band were read and adopted. Each organization is well as having a good financial report, had shown an active interest in the works of the church in the community, throughout the past year.

Church treasurer, Mr. T. Howard gave his report which also showed a successful year.

During the meeting, a minister's absence was observed for members who had past on in last year. These include: the Rev. W. R. Merrick, former minister and life long friend of the community; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McLeod and Mr. W. Watson.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr and Mrs. Dawson for their willing and able ministry in the church and community and Mr. Dawson in turn expressing his thanks to all members who had taken an office or responsibility to further the work of the church, and for their willing co-operation. He closed with prayer and pronounced the benediction.

Bemersyde Chapter Plans Annual Dinner

CAMPBELLFORD — The January meeting of Bemersyde Chapter took place at the home of Mrs. Kate Johnston with 45 members present and the first guest, Mrs. Helen Vice to the chapter.

Reports and correspondence were read by the secretary and treasurer followed by the visitors' and conveners' reports.

Mrs. Donna Carswell, Community publicity convener, read two interesting papers, one about the local and district Rotary Clubs aiding foreign schools and the others telling of the gradual liquidation of the Commonwealth through independence.

Mrs. Florence Hopping, convener for the annual dinner, reported that the event will take place on February 12th, in St. John's auditorium.

Mrs. Carswell reported on the annual dance to take place on February 9th, in the Masonic Temple. Both reported that arrangements were going satisfactorily.

A nominating committee was appointed for the coming election of officers and Mrs. Vice announced the executive meeting to be held at her home on Saturday, January 27 at 1 p.m.

Mrs. Phyllis Babcock read a report of the speeches at the regional dinner at Picton.

Mrs. Ann Bennett thanked Mrs. Johnston for opening her home and the meeting closed in the usual manner, followed by a delicious lunch served by Group IV.

Encourage little girls to wash their hands by adding a little inexpensive cologne to the water. Boys will prefer carved soap.

Gordie Howe Four Points Off Pace

Bathgate Draws Blank

MONTREAL (CP)—The indefatigable Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings has sleighed the once commanding lead of New York's Andy Bathgate in the National Hockey League scoring race by four points.

The 33-year-old Detroit superstar drew that close last week with three goals and one assist while Bathgate, in a deep slump along with the rest of the Rangers, went pointless. Each played three games.

Official statistics released today show Howe, seeking an unprecedented sixth scoring title, has 39 points, 24 of them goals.

Bathgate's total, including a league - leading 21 assists, remains at 39.

Teddy Kolleyhin of Toronto Maple Leafs scored his 26th and 25th goals and also picked up an assist to help put possession of third place. He had been tied with Charlie Procter of Montreal Canadiens, who got only two points—both goals. Proveur leads the league in goals with 27.

HULL HOT

Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks collected three points—one goal and two assists — and held on to fourth spot with 47 points. Bobby Hull of the Black Hawks took over fifth place with five goals in three outings. The brilliant left winger now has 45 points.

Jacques Plante of Montreal widened his lead over Toronto's Johnny Bower in the race for the Vezina Trophy, awarded to the goalie who plays the most games for the least goals against per game. He allowed only two goals in two games to lower his goals - against average to 2.53.

Bower was touched for six tallies in three games at his average stands at 2.55. Glenn Hall of Chicago, tied with a 2.79 mark, leads in shutouts with six.

Chicago continues as the most penalized team with 577 minutes in the penalty box. Montreal Canadiens' Lou Fontinato is the most penalized player with 125 minutes.

If E. Germany Refused Entry

May Cancel Ski Meet

VIENNA (AP)—Austrian skiing officials said privately today the world championships at Fhamonix, France, Feb 10, probably will be cancelled if the East German skiers are refused entry.

The Austrians say FIS statutes state that each member must be allowed to take part in world events. Informed observers speculated that of the 15 federation members, only the five members from the NATO countries — out of loyalty to their governments, perhaps — would be on hand champions hips regardless of what happens to East Germany.

The Austrians, however, believe that if France refuses entry to the East Germans, the FIS board will call the world championships and hold "international ski races" in Chamonix. It is too late, they say, to award the contests to another country.

In Berlin, an authoritative French source on Monday said it is highly unlikely the East Germans will get either French visas or Soviet-bloc Allied travel documents — both necessary— to get to Chamonix.

Soccer Fan Will Sue Referee

STROKE-ON - TRENT, England (AP)—A fan is going to sue the referee whose penalty award knocked his home team out of the English Football (Soccer) Association Cup tournament.

That penalty gave Blackburn Rovers a 1-0 victory over Stoke City Saturday.

Cyril Cliff, a Stoke City fan for 38 years, disputed the penalty and announced today:

"I have instructed my lawyers to issue a writ against the referee and the Football Association alleging the match has not proceeded fairly."

Cliff claimed that referee Harry Webb also disallowed a legitimate Stoke goal.

"But it was the penalty which decided the issue," he said.

Webb took it calmly.

"I'm just the lad who's in there to be shot at," he said. "I stand by my decision."

Two Seven-Enders in Day

Top Curling Marks Quebec Spiel

By GEORGE FRAJKOR

QUEBEC (CP)—George Von Zuben of Sudbury, a 12 - year veteran of the Quebec International Bonspiel, got off to his best start ever Monday as his rink chalked up a seven-ender in a first-round game.

He missed an eight - ender, curling's perfect score, by three inches.

It was the second seven-ender of a day that saw two of last year's heroes eliminated from the main events of the bonspiel.

Old timers couldn't recall any previous time in the bonspiel's 48-year history that two rinks had seven-point ends in one day.

The first seven-ender by Von Zuben made all the difference in the veteran curler's 11-10 victory over Jack Blackadder of Quebec Victoria.

ELIMINATES JOBIN

The next was by Al-Reid of St. Hyacinthe, P.Q., and it helped to eliminate favored Gerry Scotti of Quebec Jacques Cartier from the bonspiel's major competitions. Jobin won the bonspiel's championship last year.

Von Zuben has won the Holt Bruneau Cup, Three trophies in the bonspiel before—two of them for the second-best curling any awards — and went to the finals of the Francois Jobin two years ago.

"It's only the second seven-ender I've had in my career," Von Zuben said. "The other was in a Northern Ontario bonspiel, 22 years ago."

The score was tied 10-10 in the eight - ender. The last game when Von Zuben's team settled the game for good. Von Zuben had the last stone and his skip, Ted Snyder was short on both his attempts to draw to the circle and cut out some of the Sudbury counters, and Von Zuben put in a light draw for the seven rock.

The possible eight was missed when the Sudbury second man put one of his rocks through the circle instead of just three inches outside the outer ring.

OBRIEN'S LOSES

Roy M. Hewitt of Orillia, last year's winner of the Francois Jobin Trophy, had his presumed Gerry Jobin to the misty trophy ranks when he lost the second of his two games.

He started off with a 9-7 victory over Ernest Pinder, rink from Windsor, Ont., but was clipped 8-5 by Ed Blatcher of Montreal in the second game.

Hugh Little of Halifax Mayflower came through with two wins in the Chateau Trophy competition. He was a three-time winner highly regarded New Finding Gushue, a personal bonspieler and winner of the Chateau event in 1951. The second was over a Quebec rink.

Nats to Play 162 Games

CINCINNATI (AP)—The National League, operating with more than eight baseball teams for the first time since 1899, today announced a 168 - game schedule for next season.

Houston and New York are new additions to the league. With the membership increased to 10 from eight teams and the schedule boosted from 154 games, there will be no interruption in baseball, some 421, compared with 318 last year.

Worst Performance of Year

Kingston Whips Macs

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Writer

KINGSTON — The Belleville McFarlands chose probably their most important game of the season here Monday night in their worst performance of the season here last night as they took a 7-3 whipping at the hands of the Kingston Frontenacs.

The win was the Frontenacs' ninth in a row and boosted them into a tie with the Macs for the OHA Eastern Junior Hockey League's top spot. The Frontenacs have been the Macs' soundly in their last two meetings.

The Belleville defence, with Paul Zakos the chief offender, allowed the Kingston attackers to roam at will around the Mac net. Time and time again Kingston players were given a free path to goalie Sam Rashilli's doorstep and had to net less than a dozen scores because of poor shooting.

Kingston's power-play was consummate, plus some good stops by Rashilli, and the Frontenacs could have had four or five more goals.

Belleville hung on for a 1-1 saw-off at the end of the first heat and tied it again 2-2 at the 4.45 of the second. But that was it. Kingston scored three goals in a row to end the game in the second and fired two more unanswered goals in the third period.

The Macs failed to impress at one point in the third when they enjoyed a two-man advantage for a minute and a half. Not a shot was registered and Frontenac goalie Kurt Desmidler handled the tough shots he threw with ease.

It was the same story all night as the Macs looked bad coming out of their own end and at times were going into the Kingston zone.

Ron Boyle was the only two-goal man for either club, scoring the Kingston goals. Gary Lavelle, Pete Robertson and Wayne Cashman each had a goal and an assist while Bob McMillan and Bob Rawson potted the other goals. Fred Cunerd and Gerald Ball each drew two assists, Ron Reid one. "Pug" Ellis and Ron Boyle were the Belleville marksmen. Kelley kicked the puck between two defencemen and broke in alone on a pretty play by Ellis in the first period. Boyle took Mavety's pass, faked a couple of passes and scored in between the legs of a second in the second. Lavalle was in the penalty box at the time.

Kingston's scoring wheel proved to be the winner at 8.11 of the second when Robertson lay-off a two-on-one play and Lavalle scored a personal following right to be beat Rashilli. Cashman scored Kingston's sixth from the side boards and Robertson added the seventh on a rebound before the period ended.

Lavalle has opened the game-scoring at 1.36 on a corner passout while Brown's first goal early in the second, at 2.30, came as he was left all alone 20 feet behind the Mac defence. Cashman's second in March-of-Dimes Rawson wound up the scoring in the third.

The Macs dressed only 13 players as Gary Reid missed the game with the flu and Garry Duvall with an injured elbow.

Belleville received seven of the 10 penalties handed out during a mix-combat to Moe Mosher.

Belleville: - Haskill, Zakos, Rowland, Boyle, Mavety, Westman, Ball, Ellis, McGuire, Ethier, Sull, Scott, Lavalle.

Kingston: - Desmidler, Reid, Long, Curran, Convery, Cashman, McMillan, Brown, Ball, Lavalle, Rawson, Robertson, Quinn, Harkness, McGinnis.

Referee: - Bob Parris and Whitey Walton.

Gamble Fat But Working

BOSTON (AP) — Boston goalie Bruce Gamble has failed to make the weight limit for his three allowed but all is forgiven. The Bruins have won three of the five National Hockey League games played since his arrival.

In fact, coach Phil Watson suspects Gamble was the only one playing defence in Sunday night's 8-1 loss to Montreal Canadiens.

When Gamble reported from the Portland, Ore., farm club, Watson gave him 10 days to shed 15 pounds from his 215 frame. At the end of 10 days, Gamble has lost 13.

Watson isn't worried about Gamble's weight any longer — one of the few things he isn't fretting over.

"Our defence has been poor," Watson said. "Gamble is the only one who's really great. He'd had so much work to do, he's near 200 now. If it keeps up this way, he'll be down to 175 in a hurry."

WIN SOCCER GAME

LONDON (AP) — Preston North End defeated Weymouth 3-2 in an English Soccer Cup fourth - round match Monday night. It was postponed from Saturday.

Germany Captures Sled Title

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany (AP) — Germany's Franz Schelle lobby won the four - man world bobsled championships with an aggregate time of two minutes, 23.66 seconds by two runs down the mile-long Olympic track.

Schelle finished the first heat in 1:12.80, only 3-100ths of a second behind Sergio Zardini of Italy and scored an impressive second heat time of 1:10.67 to clinch the title.

Canada's No. 2 team, with Lamont Gordon of Morrison, Ont. steering, assisted by Dr. Richard of Montreal, Pierre McDougall and brakemen Gordon Currie of Toronto placed fourth with runs of 1:17.50 and 1:16.34, a total of 2:33.84.

Some spectators braved a heavy snowfall up at the 2,000 foot-high bobrun to watch the races, despite the cold, days running because of mild weather. Monday's runners have below freezing allowing the competition to start today.

Zardini, with his team of Servullo Dalla Torre, Enrico de Lorenzo and Romano Rossano Bongiorno placed second with runs of 1:18.97 and 1:17.31 for a total of 2:36.28.

The winning Schelle was assisted by Joseph Sterff, Ludwig Siebert and Max Gnoth at the brakes.

Austria No. 1, came in third with runs of 1:17.35 and 1:17.66 for an aggregate time of 2:35.30.

Schelle's victory marked the second consecutive time that a German team won the four-man bobsled title on the Olympic run in four years.

Our Skiers Well Down

KOUVOLA, Finland (AP)—Canadian cross - country skiers finished well down the list in Sunday's international Kymenrace.

Pentti Pelkonen of Finland won the 17-kilometre (10½ miles) cross-country race in one hour, 35 minutes and 35 seconds. Karlo Hillbom of Sweden was 17th in 2:14:11.

Canada's Pentti Hiltunen was the nordic combined, which includes special jumping and cross-country, with 204.7 points. Donald Maclean of Collingwood, Ont. and Ottawa was 17th with 204.57.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Their faces were flushed; their eyes shining with excitement. They kept up a patter as proud dads helped them out of their hockey equipment. These up-to-ten-years veterans of the squirt leagues had been defeated—but you would never know it.

All you could see in the dressing room of the Belleville Squirt All-Star squad. They had dropped a close 4-3 battle to the well-coached Trenton club in a game that for the greater part of the time could have gone either way.

There were no tears of regret. There were no boyish criticisms. There was no antagonism shown against the fine youngsters who had shaded off with the laurel wreath of victory.

It brought something like a lump in the throats of hockey-hardened veterans sitting there who watched the proceedings. Here were sportsmanship and a phase of "sportsmanship" in their noblest forms.

There were "ifs" and "whys," but no excuses. They took their "medicine" and administered it in stride. The sting of fear, of defeat, was neutralized by the fact they had shown marked improvement in their performance against a team that had defeated them 7-1 in a previous game.

This is the kind of spirit coaches and other officials of these tender years are instilling in their fistfuls of protegee. Coach Les Coughlin of this all-star squad, had no words of criticism for his pint-size charges. He walked around dropping a word of praise here and there. He certainly patted the centre squad on the head. They deserved it.

And another feather in the cap of the men who mentor these youngsters, and this applies to the Trenton officials, too, is the fact that neither squad incurred a penalty.

There was no "rough stuff" in the game. Not a youngster showed signs of temperament. They played the "puck—and played hockey.

"That game was an eye-opener for me," a spectator who viewed his first squirt game told me afterwards. "Why these kids play harder like they have been playing for years. They never let up—and never quit. Fun coming back for more."

It is games and players like these youngsters that give the lie to the stories that hockey is dying out in Canada. There will never be any danger of that so long as men like those who guide the destinies of these young youngsters are willing to give their time and efforts. - A natural heritage like hockey is hard to kill.

And speaking of the squirts, Trenton will be a big one for the beauthorities to shake. Twelve handsome "Squirtmaster" trophies, the gift of two hockey and community-minded anonymous citizens will be presented to outstanding players after the league championships have been decided.

The Midnight will be the presentation of the "Tommy McMevin Memorial Trophy," donated by two other well-known residents of the city, who also wish to remain behind the curtain of anonymity.

To my mind these presentations should be a wide-open public affair. Let's make a big night of it for the youngsters. Let's have a "Minor Hockey Championship Night" at Memorial Arena.

Perhaps the squirt league and another league championship games could be played. The presentations of the "Sportsmanship" Trophies and other minor hockey awards could be post-games features.

The above is merely a suggestion. I believe the youngsters and parents would like such a "hockey party." However, it is not made on the idea of interfering with any plans the "Tommy McMevin Memorial Award" trustees may have made. I talked with a member of people about it—and they liked the idea.

With the co-operation of all concerned I believe such a night at the arena would be a fitting conclusion to the seasonal activities of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association.

Terriers Add Three Players

GALT (CP) — Galt Terriers will add three members of their world tournament roster to their OHA schedule club for tonight's game against Chatham Maroons.

Right wingers Jack McLeod of Moose Jaw, Sask., and Bobby Brown of Windsor and defenceman Bill Mitchell, also of Windsor, will compose the Maroons.

McLeod, second top scorer with 47 points in the Saskatchewan League, is playing coach of his club and led Trail, B.C., to the world championship last year with 10 goals in the tournament. Brown tops the OHA snipers with 37 goals.

Wings Call P. McDonald

DETROIT (AP)—The injury-plagued Detroit Red Wings called up Forward Pat McDonald from their American Hockey League Hershey farm club Monday.

Detroit has lost Howie Glover for five weeks and Vic Stasiuk for 10 days. Leo Labine, a third injured forward, missed the last three games, but is scheduled to play Wednesday's National League game against Chicago.

The Red Wings sent two right wingers from their Hamilton Junior A team to Hershey—Lowell MacDonald and Wayne Rivers.

BERLIN (CP - Reuters)—The Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia will not take part in the world hockey championships next month if they are held in the United States, Col. Joachim Grunewald, general secretary of the East German Ice Hockey Association, said Monday.

He said in a television interview that their non-participation would be "in solidarity" with East Germany. The East German team apparently has been refused permission to travel to the U.S. by the three-power allied travel board in West Berlin.

The championships are to be held in Colorado Springs, Colo., March 4-11. Canada, the defending champion, is to be represented by Galt Terriers.

All East Germans travelling to NATO countries must obtain documents from the Allied travel board before being given visas by the country concerned since NATO countries do not recognize East German passports.

Two Tied For Tops In Bonspiel

TORONTO (CP) — Kitchener, Unionville and Barrie rinks were locked in a first-place tie with two wins each after the first two rounds of the Southern Ontario zone provincial ladies curling playoffs here Monday.

The three-day series also includes rinks from Toronto, London, St. Catharines, and Peterborough.

The Kitchener rink, skipped by Mrs. C. R. Schmidt, defeated Barrie 11-4. Mrs. G. Gilgarrick 13-8 and Peterborough's Mrs. C. Salsbury 11-6.

Barrie, skipped by Mrs. Grace Ough, beat Peterborough 10-6 and London 10-4.

St. Catharines, skipped by Mrs. J. Dorsch, beat Toronto High Park 10-6 and then lost to Toronto St. George's 12-5.

The northern zone title was won by a rink skipped by Edna Johnston in Kirkland Lake during the weekend. Winners of the nine playoffs meet in the Toronto in March for the provincial title and the right to represent Ontario at the Dominion contest in Regina.

Inok Enters Speed Races

SASKATOON (CP) — Paul Inok, 27-year-old Toronto speedskater, will represent Canada at the world championships in Winnipeg Feb. 17 and 18, Ken West, president of the Canadian Amateur Speedskating Association, said Monday.

During the weekend Inok won 1,000- and 5,000-metre races in an international meet at Hornepayne.

"Extremely lucky," West said. "It would not be possible at this time to provide financial help for Inok. He added that Inok did not ask the CASA for financial help, either. Inok is left for Europe but only requested recognition and certification by the Canadian body.

Soccer Loop Seeks New Teams

GUELPH (CP)—The International Soccer League will consider applications for new teams at the annual general meeting Feb. 3 in Hamilton, league secretary Harold Small announced Monday.

Several new clubs have expressed their intention of seeking membership for the coming season, including outcasts from London, Ont., and Niagara Falls, N.Y., Small said.

He added that an exhibition game in June between ISL all-stars and the Saarbrucken team of Germany also is being considered.

Pays Schoolboy $40,000 Bonus

Tribune Tests New Ruling

NEW YORK (AP) — Cleveland Indians have paid a estimated $40,000 to shortstop Leonard Littleton and become the first major league baseball club to take a chance with the new bonus rule designed to curb payments to high school players.

"Dream the torpedoes and fast speed ahead," general manager Hank Peil said as he announced the signing of Littleton. "We will continue to spend money and will sign any good prospect we can. We'll take our chances."

The Indians will be taking their chances with the new rule which says any player, regardless of the size of his bonus, may be subject to a draft by other clubs after one year in organized baseball unless the club decides to keep him on its roster for the entire second season.

The Indians, if they decide Littleton has the potential, must keep him on the roster or expose him to the draft experienced to play, taking up a spot that might be used by a second-line player who can make a more valuable contribution to the club.

The Indians also signed five amateur free-agent holdovers, increasing to 25 the number of men under contract for 1962, while New York Yankees signed a trio of 1961 bonus babies including $100,000-recipient Jake Gibbs.

Top names among the Indian signees were catcher Harry Chiti, acquired in a trade with Baltimore Orioles that sent Johnny Temple to the Orioles, and first baseman Hal Jones, who hit 27 home runs and knocked in 100 runs for Salt Lake City of the American Association last year. Pitcher Larry Latterner, first baseman Aniello Martinez and shortstop Cordie Lund also came to terms.

Gibbs moved into the Yankee fold along with pitchers Howard Kitt and George Haney. Los Angeles Dodgers gave second baseman Jim Gilliam a token raise to $25,000 for his 10th season with the club, although he hit only .264 last year, and outfielder Billy Bruton, a 20-year veteran, said he received a raise for signing with the Milwaukee Tigers.

The Tigers also came to terms with third baseman Don Wert and pitcher Gerry Casale, but still have not liked Norm Cash, American League batting champion last season, Al Kaline and slugger Rocky Colavito.

Man-in-Orbit Postponement Creates Some TV Problems

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—As soon as the Cape Canaveral manshoot was called off Saturday, the major television teams swung into the launching event back in work—making plans and gathering material for the new try now tentatively set for Thursday.

The big problem is to fill the TV screens and sound tracks with interesting material Saturday morning. ABC teams are currently scurrying around making a new supply. NBC, according to Don Meaney who manages special programs, has plenty of unused material left from what it prepared so much in advance, but it is filling out some new interviews — some with General Electric Co. and some with Canaveral personnel who appeared Saturday. It also plans to inject some illustrative material charts, drawings, graphs—into the interviews on technical and scientific matters.

Don Hewitt, vice - producer of CBS's coverage, said that CBS lined up scarcely one-fifth of its pre-shoot support and has no plans to make more. One reason, Hewitt said, is that CBS used its reserve material spar, both with its enchantment. Walter Cronkite, felt that the appearance on the first clouds the show might be called off.

CBS sneaked in a rerun on Saturday night's Perry Mason vintage classic "The Case of the Cumming's Show and Frontier Justice both with early-evening entries Thursday, change places starting this week.

Foursome Switch Partners, Joan Collins Explains All

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One side of a glamorous quadrangle was in town with an item to bring wonder at what all the fuss was about.

Joan Collins' curves belie their possibility that she could be part of a square. But here is the sequence of events:

Joan was engaged to Aaron Beatty, who then started a heavy romance with Natalie Wood, who had just been divorced from Robert Wagner, who then started dating Joan.

The Beatty-Wood romantics took place in Hollywood, while the Wagner-Collins affair was in London, where both were making movies.

Joan says she couldn't care less.

"Warren and I had broken off our engagement," she said. "We talked by telephone between here and London and we both agreed that it wouldn't work out.

HAD LONG ENGAGEMENT

"Yes, I knew we had a long engagement. But that's so long as long engagements—if they're that long. It means that two people aren't meant to be married.

"As for my dates with Bob Wagner, there was no romance involved. I've known Bob for several years. He's one of my dearest friends. Good friends with the opposite sex—friendship only—are rare and wonderful to have. I'm happy for the ones I have, like Bob.

"Right now he's going with one of my best friends, Marion Douen (former wife of director Stanley Donen) and I'm delighted for both of them."

The Collins career has been on the upbeat for last role, slipping into Dotty Lamour's shoes, though not her sarong, between Bob Hope and Bing Crosby in The Road to Hong Kong.

How did she get along with the boys?

"Bob was simply great," she replied. "He's such fun on the set. He always kidding around. He's a ball.

"But I wasn't quite the same with Bing. He's very pleasant all the time, but he doesn't mingle with the rest of the people on the set. I had the feeling that I never got behind those blue eyes."

WAS CARDS' CHAIRMAN

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Violet Bidwell Woltner, 57, a chairman of the board of the St. Louis pro football Cards and treasurer of Chicago's Sportsman Park, died Monday in a doctor's office where she had gone for treatment of a virus. Mrs. Woltner, whose husband, Wally is managing director of the Cards, had a substantial interest in the Miami Kennel Club and dog tracks at Jacksonville and Tampa, Fla.

Services Dart League Results

The Skyliners and LaPalms picked up the most ground in the Belleville Services Thursday league games played last night. LaPalms downed El Sombos 3-2 while the Skyliners defeating OPP No. 1 by the same score.

ANAF topped OPP No. 2 8-3, Lucky Lees won over Corby Specials 7-4, Northern Electric downed the Wildcats 8-3, Wilf's City Service edged Dover's 6-5 and Wilbur's Jets topped the league's top round out the night's action.

GREAT PRODUCER

Exchange of stage hits between London and Hollywood early was largely developed by Charles Frohman, the U.S. producer who died in 1915.

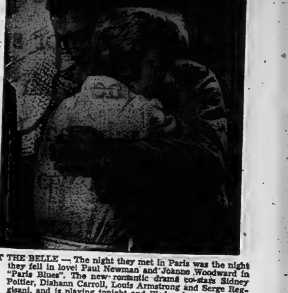
Sweeney Back in AHL Lead

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Sweeney of Springfield Indians, making a bid for his second straight scoring title in the American Hockey League, has moved back into the lead with 65 points on 24 goals and 41 assists.

League statistics released today show the veterans centre collected nine points last week to displace Willie Marshall of Hershey Bears as the top. Marshall dropped to third place with 62 points as Barry Cullen of Buffalo Bisons advanced to second with 62. Cullen, the leading goal scorer with 30, picked up eight points, while Marshall was limited to three.

Marcel Paille of Springfield replaced Hershey's Bobby Perreault as the leading goaltender. Paille has an average of 2.71 goals a game. Perrault has averaged 2.72.

Small Army In Golf Tournament



PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Golf's touring professionals team up with a small army of amateurs Wednesday for the $50,000 Bing Crosby Classic, a five-day, 90-hole tournament.

A total of 128 pros and 384 amateurs tee off over four courses in this scenic resort country.

Heading the array of talent are the last two winners, Arnold Palmer in 1960 and Billy Maxwell last year.

RESOURCES DROPPING

HALIFAX (CP) — W. S. Dickie, president of the Nova Scotia Fish and Game Association, said Monday game and wildlife resources are "at a low ebb in Nova Scotia and getting scarcer each year." Speaking to the association's 22nd annual meeting, he suggested legislation be enacted to protect farmers from the "tragic slaughter" of domestic animals by hunters.

AT THE BELLE — The night they met in Paris was the night they fell in love! Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward in "Paris Blues". The new romantic drama stars Sidney Poitier, Diahann Carroll, Louis Armstrong and Serge Reggiani, and is playing tonight and Wednesday at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Police Launch Search for Her Former Husband

COCA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A 29-year-old cocktail lounge waitress was the object of a police lookout Monday and possible grand jury search for her former husband believed living in a wooded area.

Police said seven bullets fired at close range was Mrs. Betty Jean Folds, Police Chief Bill Wallace said Mrs. Folds identified the slayer as Leonard Folds, 32, whom she divorced last year.

Wallace said Folds, an unemployed sign painter, twice before threatened his ex-wife with a pistol and that she had a peace bond issued against him.

The cocktail lounge is near the never - completed National Aeronautics and Space Administration for the launch of Apollo, LL-Col. John H. Glenn Jr. from nearby Cape Canaveral.

INCREASE IN GRADUATIONS — More than 15,500 students will graduate from Canadian universities this year, an increase of some 12 per cent over 1961 graduations.

Graph compares total graduations by course groups for 1961 and 1962. Biggest increase (32.8 per cent) is estimated in honors arts courses, where about 1,400 students will graduate.

A decline of more than five per cent to 2,788 graduations is forecast in miscellaneous courses which include agriculture; architecture; commerce and business administration, forestry, pharmacy, physio and occupational therapy and social work. (CP Newsmap.)

Outlook Generally Good For 15,500 Graduates From College This Year, Report

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian universities are expected to produce more than 15,500 graduates this year.

That's 12 per cent more than last year's graduating class of 13,800.

The increase, coupled with rising university enrolment, highlights the accelerating pace of university - trained people entering the employment market each year.

What's the job outlook for this year's crop of graduates?

Generally good, says the National Employment Service in a new study of supply and demand for 1962 university graduates.

The demand for nurses, foresters and forestry engineers, geologists with bachelor degrees and elementary school teachers, is either in balance with the 1962 supply or declining.

In many other professions such as lawyers, librarians, scientists, social workers, dentists, pharmacists, veterinarians, there is a booming demand and generally wide job opportunities.

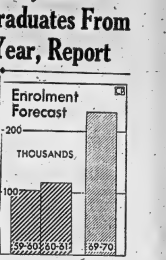
Starting salaries for graduates range from lowest to $650 a month up to $650

For example, a commerce student articling as a chartered accountant can expect about $315 a month. But a mining engineer with a bachelor's degree will get $478. A chemical engineer with a doctor's degree can look for $630—but he may have to go to the United States to get it.

Just about half of the 1962 graduates will come from the pass arts and science courses, says the NES survey.

This forecast, 16 per cent higher than 1961 graduates, is expected to hold up in future years as well.

Enrolment in pass arts and science courses is increasing faster than the total for all university courses, says the survey service, which tries to find jobs for graduates and workers for jobs.



ENROLMENT RISES

However, not all of the 7,900 arts and science graduates will step right into the employment market, since many of them will move into higher professional training and graduate work.

Looking ahead, NES sees an ever-increasing supply of university graduates coming on the market each year.

The annual increase continues to grow, we can anticipate an enrolment twice as large as the present one during the 1965-70 academic year," says the NES survey.

The report deals with just about every kind of university graduate — from physicists to physicists. It was prepared with the help of many different associations, professions and otherwise, as well as with the co-operation of universities across Canada.

ENROLMENT TO DOUBLE

University enrolment is expected to double by the 1969-70 academic year, from 228,000 students. Graph compares this with enrolments of 102,000 in 1959-60, and 114,000 in 1960-61.—(CP Newsmap.)

SIEGFRIED SICK

Bancroft Nips Marmora In Overtime

MARMORA (Special) — The Bancroft Pontiacs edged Marmora Hawkeyes 4-3 in overtime here last night in a close, fast moving OHA Northumberland-Hastings Intermediate "C" hockey league tilt.

Both goalies stood out in the fast action.

Marmora jumbled into a 2-0 lead on goals by McArthur and Bruce but Bancroft tied it before the end of the first period on goals by Carney and Barusha. The club split a pair of goals in the second heat, Wilson scoring for the losers and Thrasher replying for Bancroft.

After a scoreless third period Green scored the winning goal for Bancroft in the overtime period.

Marmora-Havelock picked up five of the six penalties handed out by referee Ted Hurst.

Gross National Product Up Says Fulton

KINGSTON (CP) — Justice Minister Fulton said Monday night Canada's gross national product is expected to reach a record $40,000,000,000 this year, up 7½ per cent from 1961.

He told the Queen's University Progressive Conservative Association this is the most impressive figure of four years of Conservative government.

For 1961 as a whole it has been estimated the gross national product — value of all goods and services produced — will gain about two per cent over 1960, to $36,700,000,000 or $36,800,000,000 from just under $36,000,000,000.

Mr. Fulton also said a key feature of current economic expansion was strengthening of Canada's trade position. A commodity trade surplus of $52,000,000 in 1961 showed a "startling difference" from the deficit of $713,000,000 which the Liberals accumulated in 1956.

The commodity trade surplus would be the first one since 1952.

Mr. Fulton said Opposition Leader Pearson and his Liberal colleagues would advocate "the old arrogant gang thrown out in 1957 . . . back in touch with the feelings or position of the average Canadian.

"The Liberals were here in 1960, the Liberal advisers "urged rigid and drastic cuts to achieve the objectives of the Liberal party. They "would turn Canada to the right controls and stagnation of socialism."

Budget deficits had been criticized but the deficits were no accident; they were the result of planning.

"We could, of course, balance the budget, but this would only be a rejection and a denial of the responsibility of government to provide stimulus to the economy and the proper climate for business enterprises. It would also mean that federal aid to the provinces would have to be substantially reduced."

When the Conservative government's record "is put before the public at large, it cannot fail to return us to office."

Saskatchewan Researchers Break Through to Pinpoint Cause of Schizophrenia

SASKATOON (CP) — Saskatchewan researchers have scored a breakthrough in pinpointing the cause of schizophrenia, says Dr. A. Hoffer, director of psychiatric research for the department of public health at University Hospital here.

Dr. Hoffer said in an interview research has shown that a major biochemical fault in the body causes the mental disease. He added that the theory has been corroborated and developed by Dr. Mark D. Altschule of Harvard Medical School.

Schizophrenia, which affects almost one-half of the chronic population in mental hospitals throughout the world, is marked by disconnection between thought, feeling and action.

Dr. Hoffer said that at first the theory was only an educated guess and the necessary tests to prove it were complicated.

BLOCK PRESENT

"The idea was that adrenaline, the body's regulatory hormone, is converted through several steps into a chemical that is a mental health. But in the schizophrenic there was a block that prevented the chemical conversion taking place, at least at normal speed."

The result, said Dr. Hoffer, is that the chemical reaction turns another way and the adrenaline becomes a compound called adrenochrome. The presence of adrenolutin was a feature of schizophrenia.

The theory was worked on by University Hospital, the mental hospital at Weyburn, Sask., and Dr. H. Osmond, former superintendent at Weyburn.

It was attacked by many psychiatrists when it was first made public in an article in the Journal of Medical Science in 1954. The main opponents were men who believed the cause was a chain of events within the mind of the patients rather than a fault in the mind by the body's chemistry.

IDENTIFIED CHEMICAL

Dr. Hoffer said the very assumption that a chemical could be found to restore schizophrenics to a normal mental life involved a belief that a chemical cause existed for the disease.

Dr. Hoffer said that on Monday he announced Monday in a preliminary report to share-holders:

Net income was $2,075,886 compared with a loss of $2,911,146 in 1960.

Trans - Canada operates the 2,340 - mile natural gas transmission system from Alberta to Montreal, with an extension extending from Toronto to the United States at Emerson, Man.

Gross revenue, natural gas sales in 1961 totalled $77,000,000 in 1960. The 1961 increase, Mr. Dobson said, resulted from a 5 per-cent growth of sales in Canada and the full year sales to the U.S. at Emerson.

With permission granted in December, 1961, by the Federal Power Commission, allowing Tennessee Gas Transmission Company to import Canadian natural gas on an interruptible basis at Niagara Falls, Mr. Kerr said this authorization is expected to bring additional sales in 1962. Permission had already been received from the National Energy Board for export of the gas.

The Canada bank has applied to the National Energy Board for approval to carry out its 1962 construction program consisting of $24,800,000 and employing 3,100 men. New compressor stations are to be installed near Falcon Lake, Man., and, in Ontario, at Dryden, Upsala, Orient Bay, Hearst, Smooth Rock Falls and Bracebridge.

Additional compressor equipment is to be installed at the station already operating at North Bay.

26 Persons Made Homeless In Five Fires

PETER BOROUGH (CP)— Seven fires destroyed seven homes during the weekend and a construction site shed in the Peterborough area on Monday, making 26 persons homeless.

Unofficial estimates placed the total damage in the five fires at more than $60,000.

The second of four dead, gutted him at Hastings, 25 miles east of here, caused $25,000 damage. The building, owned by the J. O. McFarland Construction Company of Picton, was used to store equipment for a new village waterworks. Firemen from Hastings and Norwood fought the blaze for 3½ hours but it was started by an exploding space heater.

Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Had Profitable Year

TORONTO (CP)—Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. had its first year of profitable operation in 1961, James W. Kerr, president, told the company's annual meeting here today.

Mr. Kerr said the company had also developed schizophrenia there was present in the body some undesirable chemical. Dr. Altschule's research identified it as adrenolutin.

This does not end the Saskatchewan work, said Dr. Hoffer. It must be discovered what products adrenolutin form in the body and how to prevent the blocking of the normal transformation of adrenalin to the harmful yet powerful chemical.

The end will be discovery of a compound that will cure schizophrenia and reduce the world's mental hospital populations to a shadow of present numbers, he said.

External Affairs Minister Says Criticism Improper

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Green Monday denounced "improper" a criticism made by presidential adviser Arthur M. Schlesinger of Canada's trade with Cuba.

Mr. Schlesinger, Harvard University professor and special assistant to President Kennedy, was quoted as saying in Vancouver Sunday that Canadian trade with Cuba hurts prospects of democratic reform in Latin America.

Mr. Green was questioned about the statement in the Commons Monday by Paul Martin (L—Essex East), who termed it a "very serious indictment."

Mr. Green said he has not received a full report of the Schlesinger statement, made in an interview while Mr. Schlesinger was on his way through Vancouver en route to Tokyo.

However, if it was made in the terms reported in news accounts, it was a "most unusual and improper thing" for the representative of another country to do in Canada.

Mr. Schlesinger was quoted as saying in the interview that a social revolution is in progress in Latin America and the question is whether its direction will be Communist or democratic.

THREATENS PROSPECTS

"Anything that supports Castro threatens the prospects of democratic success in Latin America," he said.

Canada has refused to join in an export embargo against Communist - oriented Cuba and has maintained diplomatic relations with the Castro regime. The United States and several Latin American countries have broken with Havana and imposed an export embargo.

At the present time in Punta del Este, Uruguay the U.S. is leading a campaign to have the Organization of American States impose sanctions against the Castro regime.

In the House Commons reply to Hazen Argue, House leader of the CCF-New Democratic Party, Trade Minister Hees said Canadian policy is to allow trade with Cuba in the same manner as with any other country, but to forbid the export of strategic goods.

In Tokyo, Mr. Schelsinger declined comment today on the charges that he improperly criticized Canadian trade with Cuba while in Canada. He declined comment on either the accuracy of the quotation or Green's remarks.

Schlesinger, one of President Kennedy's closest advisers, arrived here Monday night to attend the U.S.-Japan cultural and education conference.

FINDS FAMILY DEAD

MILTON (CP) — A father returns home from work, Monday night and found his family, all four dead, gunned him as saying Eugene Parsinzi, 34, told detectives he found his wife Shirley, 31, hanging in the basement. The couple's three children were dead in second-floor bedrooms, apparently of "manual suffocation." Police said Mrs. Parsinzi had been under the care of a physician since suffering a breakdown.

FERRY STILL OPERATING — One of the few ferries still operating on Cape Breton's Bras d'Or lakes is the A. Stirling MacMillan. The bridge has put many others out of business. Cindy the Wolf Gives Birth To 8 Puppies

SUDBURY (CP)—John McGovern, whose pet wolf and dog have given him more than his share of problems during his eleven years here, decided, he said, made an unavoidable stop here during his departure from Ontario.

"The wolf, called Cindy, gave birth to eight pups Saturday, bailing for the time being the efforts to get out of the province before the department of lands and forestry enforces its directive that McGovern leave Ontario or adhere to regulations calling for caging of the wolf.

McGovern, of Hull, Que. had hoped to walk the wolf to British Columbia, where he found the wolf, before the stork arrived. He had planned to take a job and "that way I could have both the pups and trained them for sleigh dogs."

He still isn't going to leave Cindy to be dealt with by provincial officials.

"If there is any danger of my losing Cindy, I'll move on at all costs," he said Monday. "But it would be pretty hard establishing with a dog, two said eight pups. I hope I can stay here for a while at any rate."

McGovern and his menagerie have found temporary quarters at a service station in nearby Lively.

Barra Strait Ferry Will Be Running for Long Time

By IRA DYKEDALE

IONA, N.S. (CP) — A grin spread across the purser's wind-burned face as the A. Stirling MacMillan headed back across the three - quarter - mile Barra Strait for Grand Narrows.

The ferry had just completed its morning chore of hauling 45 children from the east side of Cape Breton's Bras d'Or Lakes to high school here. She was heading back to pick up a car.

Purser H. B. MacNeil was grinning at the thought that he probably will have his job for a long time to come, unlike other ferry workers on the lakes.

"Everybody can't take us off," he said of the eight-car ferry and the 11 men who keep her running round the clock.

The 41-year-old captain, Rod R. MacKinnon, added: "I hope to be on here till I get the pension. There's nothing else I can do."

50 UNEMPLOYED

Sure of their own jobs, men run the A. Stirling MacMillan were wondering what was happening to the 50 men who lost jobs on ferries at other points on the lakes. Only a few had got other employment.

Five of the eight ferries were put up for sale last November when work was completed on the $6,200,000 Seal Island bridge and causeway, part of the Trans-Canada Highway.

From the early days of settlement, ferries have been the chief means of crossing the lakes.

During the last 10 years the dinner has raised $200,000 for Iona children. Thursday's dinner, already sold out, will provide $24,000 to build a swimming pool for crippled children, he said.

Meanwhile, the striking employees of the Hotel and Club Employees Union (CLC), were to vote today on a compromise settlement worked out last week by Ontario Labor Minister Warrender.

Accuse Gardiner Of Conflict Of Interest

TORONTO (CP) — Frederick Gardiner, forty-year chairman of the Metropolitan council, was accused Monday of conflict of interest in a move to end in favor of building part of the Spadina expressway.

Because of this apparent conflict of interest, council's decision to go ahead with the building of the expressway may be invalid, a Metro council committee meeting was told.

The accusations were made in a signed statement by Controller M. Perly, chairman of the research and legislative committee of the Greater Toronto Boards of Trade's Association.

He drew a distinction between company of Canada Limited and Gardiner Metal Co. Ltd. and that Mr. Gardiner had been named to the board of directors.

The following are Mr. Gardiner cast a deciding vote at Metro council committee in favor of the Spadina project. Dec. 1 Mr. Gardiner spoke and voted in Metro council in favor of building part of the Spadina Expressway.

A subsidiary of the Foundation Company, the Foundation of Canada Engineering Corporation Limited, and two other companies were appointed by Metro council in December, 1959, to design the $154,000,000 project.

"We view this shocking breach of public confidence as of a commission inquiry," said Mr. Perly.

The committee ordered Mr. Perly to confine his remarks to the Spadina project.

Mr. Gardiner said Monday night there is no problem so far to the Spadina project.

"Beyond that I have no statement to make," he said.

Section 198A of the Municipal Act indicates a member of council shall only disclose his interest where a contract or proposed contract with council is under consideration.

In the Spadina deliberations Metro council was dealing with a proposed scheme and was not involved in the awarding of a contract.

Committee members indicated they will endorse their November decision supporting the combined Spadina expressway and rapid transit line.

Assoc. Denies Allegations Made by Rev. J. Mutchmor

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

TORONTO (CP)—Rev. J. R. Mutchmor, secretary of the United Church's Board of Evangelism and Social Service, said Monday night thousands of dollars are being wasted in unnecessary expenses for a sports show Mutchmor said he did not cross picket lines of the hotel's striking employees.

Dr. Mutchmor's criticism came at a meeting of the Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association that Dr. Mutchmor addressed to point out the facts before talking about them.

Gordon Campbell, chairman of the organizing committee, said the church spokesman is "barking on the wrong tree" in an attempt to gain free publicity.

Without going into the pros and cons of the union and their dispute with the Mutchmors, he said, "let us note the large number of hotel rooms needed to pay many travel bills of many sports celebrities, to say nothing of food and drink and entertainment and to pick up the tab for Royal York bedroom, dining rooms, club rooms and so on.

CAUSE OF SELLS

"All of this and more before the one dollar gate to crippled children's work. How silly can get."

Mr. Campbell said the association's only expenses for the dinner are the $6.50 - a - head charge by the hotel. All the remainder of the $25 collection fee goes to the Ontario Association for Crippled Children.

Dr. Mutchmor made the speech at the annual meeting of Central United Church in Port Colborne. A text of his speech was released to the press here.

Mr. Campbell said many of the celebrities who appear at the dinner charge a minimum fee, but their fees are underwritten by local sports enthusiasts and are kept to a minimum.

Recounts in Two Ridings Are Postponed

TORONTO (CP) — A recount of votes in provincial byelections in the Toronto ridings of Bellwoods and Ulster was postponed Monday because of the shortage of judges due to illness.

The recount of Beaches has been set for Feb. 6 and a date will be set later for Eglinton.

Both recounts were requested by the Liberals after the party's candidates placed a close second in the Jan. 18 byelections.

Senior County Judge Robert Forsyth and Judge Samuel Factor and Frank Denton were absent Monday through illness and alternate judges were not available.

In Eglinton, Liberal Jean Newman lost by 38 votes to Progressive Conservative Leonard Reilly and in Beaches, Conservative Jack Ferris defeated Liberal Don MacGregor by 256 votes.

TWO ROB BANK

MONTREAL (CP) — Two masked men robbed a Royal Bank of Canada branch in the east end Monday of $8,000 in less than two minutes. It was the same bank that, was robbed Jan. 4 of $20,000 and which resulted in the death by police bullets of Campbell Ashton.

Successful Living

Teen-Age Sons Rule the Roost

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I moved from the farm to the city after my husband's death. My two boys, who are in their teens, hated the city. The older one was set back a grade at school and this infuriated him so much he quit school altogether.

The younger one begged me to move back, and since we all missed the farm, I finally did. However, he did not return to school here as he had promised. I find myself hating the responsibility of running this place and very lonely.

I wouldn't mind staying here so much if I knew it was best for us all in the long run. My mother doesn't think I should sell—most people don't—but I doubt if the boys will ever really appreciate my giving up so much for them. Please, what do you think?—LONELY AND WORRIED.

DEAR LONELY:—Sew the wind, reap the whirlwind. Without meaning to, you have taught your boys to be selfish. Now they are demanding all their own way—and their judgment stinks up to it.

This is a family affair. Call a conference with them. Insist that they think ahead. Do they want to stay on the farm? If so, they must shoulder its care and see your needs met.

If the younger one loves farming, he could really get the big thrills by taking an agricultural course and making his interest pay. Let him look for them to find out about this. Tell them you are giving them a trial period. They will only become men when you give them responsibility.

It's nonsense that you can't drive. Learn to. Others have done it. Then when older women need company, open a new world for themselves. Probably best to be taught by someone outside the family—but do it!

No need to be lonely. You are friendly, happy groups of people in Canada's rural area, and many a city dweller yearns for a country estate.

DEAR DORIS:—Do you think that it is proper for a guy who is boarding in another town (away from his home) to have the girl he is going with in that town launder shirts and such articles for him?

Do you think it is important for a person to be happy? If so, what ways, and what is the value of it?

Just one more question. What age of a fellow should a girl of 16 date—and why?

DEAR READER:—Depends. On how good friends you are. On how much he spends on her. On how many shirts and whether this chore is a big thing or merely a thank you for good times.

If he can afford it and you sort of lever to declare possession of said guy, the answer is no.

Yes, I think being happy is a GOOD THING—in any ways you can manage.

The boy a girl of 16 dates should not be over 18, at the givenone than for him to ask yours. You were in this together.

Perhaps you have learned the lesson that physical misbehavior is not worth it. If you honestly do not like men "saving all over you," it is not being mean to tell them so. Develop some will power and use it.

Believe me, you will appreciate the girl who keeps him and herself in check.

DEAR DORIS:—I am 13 and I like a boy 14. That bothers me in that if I am going through the pathway to school and I come along, he'll say "Hi!" to me, but if he is with some of his friends, they'll all speak to me except him.

By the way, I know his sister. She's a swell kid and I often walk to school with her. Do you think this would help me to get to know her brother better.—FLIP-FLOPPING HEART.

DEAR FLIP-FLOP—He's shy. He knows you like him. His pals kid him about you.

No reason why you shouldn't make friends with the family. But make friends with his sister because you like her—not with the hope of getting to know the brother.

Next thing you know she'll take you home with her —and it should be easy then to invite both of them a to party at your house.

(If you write to Doris, enclose your proper name and address. She cannot answer all letters through the column, so make sure of your reply by enclosing a five-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Mother And Two Young Children Burned To Death

Miner's Home 5 Miles From Bancroft Razed

A young mother and her two small daughters were burned to death late yesterday afternoon in a blaze which razed their home on the Hermon Road, east of Bancroft.

Dead are: Mrs. Barbara Marie Kelly, 23, and two small girls, Lori Anne, age 2, and Heather Lynn, age 1 year.

The father, Ian Kelly, an employee of Faraday Uranium Mines west of Bancroft, came home shortly after 4.30 yesterday afternoon to find his home in flames.

At first it was thought his wife and two small daughters might have been visiting neighbors when the fire broke out, but a frantic search of neighbors' homes failed to locate them.

Bancroft firemen were able to do little more than dampen the wreckage of the burned Kelly home and smoke and water hampered the search for the victims' bodies.

The body of the mother was found outside the door. The firemen and late last night the bodies of the two children had been located.

FISHING LIMIT DECLARATION BEING SOUGHT

Opposition Presses Govt. for An wer

OTTAWA (CP)—The opposition parties pressed in the Commons Tuesday night for Canadian declaration of a 12-mile territorial fishing limit, deferred until mid-1964 to allow time to seek the consent of other countries.

Implication of this CCF proposal, backed by the Liberals, was that Canada — whose proposal for such action was defeated by a slim vote at a 1960 Geneva conference—would do it along with then if other nations did not consent.

To one government back-bencher, this idea raised the spectre of Iceland's gunboat dispute with the British over similar Icelandic action in 1960 as well as "a storm of protest" from the United States, heavy of 75 per cent of the Canadian fish catch.

No cabinet minister spoke on the matter. Originated by Frank Howard, CCF — Skeena — and supported by J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista - Twillingate), it failed to come to a vote in the hour devoted to such private members' proposals and is unlikely to come up again for many weeks.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT

It gave both MPs a chance to castigate the government for what they described as its apparent failure since the 1960 Geneva law of the sea conference to negotiate extension of Canada's existing three - mile limit.

(External Affairs Minister Green said Monday it would not be "beneficial" to say whether active negotiations are going on. Prime Minister Diefenbaker told a Dec. 20 press confer-

VOTES RAISED GIVE MARGIN TO OUST CUBA

OAS Passes Motion By Needed Number

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (Reuters) — Hemisphere foreign ministers headed into final session here today after voting to oust Cuba from the Organization of American States.

The ministers adopted a four, point compromise resolution at a four-hour committee meeting Tuesday night after five days of deadlocked secret sessions.

The resolution condemned Marxism-Leninism and Cuba's adherence to it, said this excludes Cuba from the inter-American system and decreed that "appropriate steps should quickly adopt "the necessary measures."

But the resolution was approved in committee by only 14 of the 21 ministers—the necessary two-thirds majority and no more, it was the first time an OAS resolution failed to get at least 20 votes at ministerial level.

FAVOR MOVE

Voting in favor Tuesday night were the resolution's 14 sponsors—Colombia, Chile, Venezuela, Panama, Haiti, Uruguay, Dominican Republic, Colombia, Nicaragua, Honduras, Salvador, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Peru and Peru.

Six countries abstained — Argentina, Brazil, Mexico, Chile, Bolivia — and Ecuador. Only Cuba voted against.

Argentine Foreign Minister Miguel Angel Carcano said he opposed the expulsion on grounds the OAS had no authority to take action and that the pact established "a dangerous precedent."

The OAS, formed in 1948, is charged with settling hemisphere countries linked together.

Hippo Shatters Notion It Has No Brains

DETROIT (CP) — Jenny, a hippo at the Detroit Zoo, has shattered the notion that a hippo is all mouth and no brain.

Zoo director Frank McInnis said that on three mornings last week, Jenny was found Jenny lolling with her feet up on a guard rail around her pool.

She could accomplish this because, he said, for some reason, the water in the pool was several feet above normal.

Unable to find anything wrong with the faucet that, let's the water into the pool, McInnis posted a spy in Jenny's quarters.

"As soon as her door was locked for the night," said McInnis, "our man saw Jenny float over to the faucet, grab the handle with her mouth, and with a great rolling and twisting turn it on full blast."

McInnis said the pool had been built with a hippo's ability to climb instilled in mind, the overflow valve had been installed.

"Now, we have made a couple of alterations. We have locked the faucet at night, mentality and we've added a height ledge to keep it from the faucet out of her reach."

Rocket Trouble Delays Space Trip By Glenn for at Least 13 Days

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., (AP)—John H. Glenn Jr. now must wait at least 13 more days for his flight into space because of troubles with the Atlas rocket.

The problem turned up Tuesday during a fuelling test of the Atlas, and now the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced the afternoon launching was off until Tuesday, Feb. 6 at the earliest.

As preparations were under way to start the final two-day countdown called at a Thursday morning launching, trouble developed in the fuelling system and Lovelace called over on to vital parts of the missile to accomplish the sixth postponement of the launching since a shrug. He was quoted as saying:

"Sure, I'm disappointed, but this is a complicated business."

The 40-year-old marine lieutenant-colonel planned to take a few days off to visit his wife Annie and two teen-age children here in Arlington, Va., before returning here for exacting preparations for the flight designed to send him three times around the world in four hours, 50 minutes at altitudes up to 150 miles.

The Atlas rocket is believed to be the same which caused a four - day postponement last week of the Ranger 3 moon shot. Then, the Atlas booster had to be dismantled, cleaned and fuel - saturated insulating material replaced. Engineers did a remarkable job getting the rocket ready within a few days—only to have a faulty Atlas guidance system cause exploding of the Ranger. Next Ranger 3 into solar orbit instead of the moon.

Glenn's flight cannot be rescheduled so quickly, because the Atlas-Mercury combination must be man-rated. This means that the possible must be done to make it safe for a man to ride.

With the postponement, a fleet of 24 navy ships was recalled from recovery operations temporarily. Most of the more than 800 newspaper men here to cover the launching went home.

This was the sixth postponement for the shot since Dec. 20, which he's kept the troupe's

Heavy Snowfall Clogs Ont. Roads Causing Four Deaths

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Some respite from frigid winds blamed in at least four road deaths is expected in most parts of Ontario today.

The weather office in Toronto has forecast lighter winds in place of the gales that Tuesday sent snow whipping across the province's highways, obscuring drivers' vision.

A Mitchell, Ont., minister and his wife were killed when their car was involved in a collision near Stratford. An auto parts salesman died in a head - on collision in the Dryden area when his vision was reduced by drifting snow, and a transport driver was killed under similar circumstances in a collision with a snowplow on Highway 401 near Port Hope.

Police said Tuesday night visibility was almost nil on some highways. There was a snow on almost every highway and ice on many. Many rural schools were closed and one school bus was stranded near Dundalk until a plow came to the rescue.

Highway 4 north of London was closed while police sorted out 20 minor accidents in one stretch.

At Waterloo, only Provincial Leader Donald MacDonald and three New Democratic Party members got through to an NDP meeting on farm policy, which was postponed. Some Georgian Bay villages were isolated by snow.

Overnight temperatures fell below zero in practically all parts of Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba, and no more than a few degrees' moderation was expected today. In most parts of Southern Ontario the mercury wasn't expected to climb above 15 degrees this afternoon.

Heavy machinery activity is expected to develop today in the Timberlea area near Lake Huron and Georgian Bay.

Only in the Far West is the picture improved. Lethbridge reported a high Tuesday of 55, and in Vancouver, the mercury reached the 50s.

Royal Commission's Report Wins Gordon's Warm Praise

MONTREAL (CP) — Donald Gordon, chairman and president of the publicly - owned CNR, Tuesday described the second volume of the MacPherson royal commission on transportation as "an outstanding contribution to . . . the continuing evolution of an efficient transportation system in Canada."

Mr. Gordon said CNR shares the commission's view that the transportation industry will be best served if each competing form "is allowed to develop in response to the demands of the economy in its sectors."

At Ottawa, Canadian Trucking Associations Inc. said Tuesday that 60,000 members of the transportation royal commission's second volume of recommendations are dictated by "political subsidies," totalling $60,000,000 a year, but shippers want trucks rather than only rail or water, but it said letting the railways have free access to the competitive trucking field would "destroy the ultimate domination and control" by the railways.

The competitive conditions recommended by the commission to ensure transport industry's efficiency.

Two Aerialists Are Killed As Human Pyramid Falls

DETROIT (AP)—Two members of the Jana Schepp family troupe, known the world over as the Flying Janas, fell to their deaths Tuesday night from the high trapeze when the troupe's pyramid act came apart without a net.

Two others, including the graceful beauty, Jana Schepp, 27, were injured. Mrs. Schepp, Jana's brother was one who died.

Others of the troupe, clinging to the wire about 40 feet in the air, caught Jana as she fell.

The Wallendas met with their tragedy, marring an illustrious career, in a performance in the Shrine circus at the Michigan State Fairgrounds before a capacity 7,000 adults and children.

Jana's brother, Dieter, 23, who had known no career with Jana's brother was one who died.

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

TUESDAY, Jan. 30, 1962

The Commons approved grants totalling $60,000 for agricultural projects in prairie grain farmers and $300,000 worth of beef for Newfoundland fishermen.

Chesley W. Carter (L—Burin - Burgeo) criticized the scale of aid for Newfoundland in transportation, saying discrimination" when compared with that for Prairie farmers.

Fisheries Minister Hamilton said the amount for the fishermen is "relatively comparable to the new benefits being received other federal benefits unavailable to farmers.

A proposal of Frank Howard (CCF — Skeena) that Canada declare its own 12-mile offshore fishing limit, to take effect in mid - 1964, was "talked out."

Senator Walter Aseltine, government leader, said too many teen - agers and unemployed are refusing to take jobs because they would get them jobs.

LIBERAL PARTY REVISES KEY PENSION PLANK

Will Pay Extra $10 Monthly

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal party announced Tuesday a major revision in its pledge of an old age pension supplement, following the Conservative government's announcement last week that it will raise the basic pension to $65 a month from $55.

The Liberals now are promising, if elected, to pay a $10 monthly supplement to the new pensions immediately legislation can be passed.

They previously promised a $20 monthly supplement to the present $55 pension but it would be payable only a one - year wait during which studies from employees and employers would be built up in a special fund.

Paul Martin, Liberal MP for Essex East, made the announcement in the French language of the national council of party officials before Monday night. If agreement has been reached, President de Gaulle probably will announce it in a radio-TV speech associated then.

DISCOUNTS REPORT

A spokesman at de Gaulle's Elysee Palace discounted the Belgian radio report, saying that with de Gaulle's speech approaching, such reports could be expected with increasing frequency. He declined to interporter not to pay too much attention to them.

Several developments gave substance to the reports of an impending climax in the Algerian drama.

The French Army rolled strong detachments of troops and armored cars into the centre of Algiers Tuesday night in the eventuality" army sources said. The troop reinforcements were put in motion this morning, but the show of strength obviously was aimed at the right-wing European settlers in the city and their extremist Secret Army Organization waging a campaign of terrorism to keep Algeria French.

Announcement of an accord with the rebel National Liberation Front is certain to split up Algeria's European population, and a general uprising is a possibility.

GUARD PARIS

To guard against any attempt at a putsch by the settlers, the government brought strong reinforcements into the anti-riot garces in the Paris area. The government announced 30 squadrons of mobile gendarmes totalling more than 4,000 men, have been ordered to police "strategic reserve" in the Paris region.

In the rebel side, Foreign Minister Saad Dahlab left Morocco Monday ago and has not yet been reported in Tunisia.

Two Million Residents of Saigon Are Virtually Besieged by Reds

SAIGON (AP)—Most of the 2,000,000 residents of this big Asian capital today are living in effect, in a state of siege.

This is one of the grimmest aspects of the civil war in South Viet Nam.

You can't leave Saigon by car, bus, train or bicycle without taking your life into your hands.

Thousands of people still do, mostly by bus, but they face ever-present threat of an ambush by Communist guerrillas infesting the countryside.

On the surface, except for U.S. and Vietnamese soldiers on the streets, Saigon does not look much like the capital of a country at war. The people strolling in the peaceful, tree - lined boulevards show little evidence of the tension of a besieged city.

But ordinary Vietnamese say the siege of Saigon is the aspect of the civil war that hits them hardest.

It means families split apart, livelihoods threatened, a growing sense of anxiety, insecurity and fear.

No army formations encircle Saigon, but the Communists have come close to achieving the same effect by means more insidious and economical.

All roads leading out of Saigon are subject to mining, ambush and attack by the Viet Cong. Many of them are completely under Viet Cong control.

In the last six weeks an American civil engineer, two U.S. soldiers, a French priest, two French planters, a Japanese engineer and scores of Vietnamese civilians, soldiers and civilians have been killed, wounded or kidnapped in road ambushes, some of them a few minutes' drive from the heart of the city.

Three trains were shot up in a week on the main line leading north.

Twelve Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 28 wounded with 18 others in separate ambushes, all within 25 miles of Saigon.

Food is still reaching Saigon from the surrounding countryside but only by military convoy. Even convoys have been attacked.

No Confirmation Expected From French Officials

Army Rolls Detachment Of Troops Into Algiers

PARIS (AP)—France's capital buzzed today with reports that President de Gaulle's government and the Algerian rebels are near agreement — or have reached one — on a cease-fire and independence in the Moslem north African territory.

The Geneva correspondent of the Belgian radio, quoting an authoritative North African source, said complete agreement on an Algerian settlement had been reached at a secret meeting in Vevey, Switzerland.

Paris newspapers Tuesday night carried prominent stories that an agreement was near, and various sources in Paris gave the impression crucial developments in Algeria would come this week.

There was no official confirmation of the various peace agreement reports, and some well-informed French officials before Monday night. If agreement has been reached, President de Gaulle probably will announce it in a radio-TV speech associated then.

Two Brantford Children Burned

BRANTFORD (CP) — A young brother and sister are in critical condition from burns suffered Tuesday when an explosion and fire turned them into human torches in the basement of their home.

Randall Speckin, 4, and his sister, Lynda, 5, were using emergency treatment for more than three hours by a team of doctors and nurses for burns on more than 50 per cent of their bodies.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Speckin, they were playing in the basement Tuesday when Lynda's kiddie car knocked over a can of gasoline. It is believed the fumes were ignited by a pilot light of a gas water heater.

FORMULA TO END HOTEL STRIKE TURNED DOWN

Warrender Charges Union Broke Pact

TORONTO (CP)—A proposal by Labor Minister W. K. Warrender to end the Hotel strike was defeated Tuesday by a vote of 34 to 15 at a meeting of the strikers.

The labor minister told a press conference after the meeting he believed the union leaders had violated a pact with him by using inflammatory language to incite the strikers.

He said the union has agreed to place his proposal before the strikers without comment for or against and let the issue be decided by secret ballot.

"But the reports I have show the union leaders used inflammatory language designed to incite the strikers against my proposals," he said.

Mr. Warrender said the union leaders had not played fair and that in future he would have no compunction about crossing the picket line, a week to the point he had crossed it only once, during the first days he began.

Employees of the CPR-owned Royal York struck last April.

CPR CRITICAL

Following Mr. Warrender's criticism of the union's leadership, Stanley Knowles, vice-president of the CPR, said in a statement:

"We are not going to enter into negotiations with people who tell their word with a minister of the government and confirms what we have heard from strikers who have come back to work at the hotel. We will not have any dealings at all along about the hotel's position.

A. R. Johnstone, international vice-president of the union, read the proposal to the strikers at Tuesday's meeting, amid demonstrations of boos and hisses.

Finally, Union President Joseph Childs rose to say:

"I would say that this is an insult to us. I would resent put my name to a document such as this unless you directed me to. You've heard the committee and this proposal will make it once and for all. Sit back.

"Let's fight to the end and if we have to surrender, we will go down fighting."

The proposals were made, by Mr. Warrender in meetings last

IN MEMORIAM

ASHBURY — In loving memory of my dear mother, Jennie Louise Ashbury, who passed away three years ago today, January 31st, 1959.
We little knew when we woke that morn,
The sorrow the day would bring,
For the call was sudden, the shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear.
Sometimes I feel it is unreal,
Now that my darling has gone,
But I'll be with you dear one, some day,
Beyond our sorrow to see.
God gave us strength to fight it,
And courage to bear the blow,
But what it cost to lose you dear,
No one will ever know.
Ever remembered by mother and sister.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to extend our thanks to friends and neighbors for their many kindnesses during the beautiful floral tributes, and expressions of sympathy during the sudden passing of our husband, father and brother. Special thanks to the staff of the MacKenzie Funeral Home, Madoc, and the Rev. K. McAllister.
Earl Wilson and family.

I wish to express my sincere thanks to the many friends for flowers, cards and personal visits, also to Mindy remembered me while I was a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.
—Edward Robinson.

Four Parties Seek Franchise To Run Ambulance Service

At least four different parties are interested in the operation of an ambulance service for the city of Belleville.

This was the number of applications considered yesterday by the members of the city finance committee as they met to figure out what can be done to insure ambulance service for the city when the present operators discontinue service this afternoon.

Council, however, took no action on the matter.

The four parties interested in providing an ambulance service for Belleville are the city, one is from Trenton, and the fourth is from Kingston. It is also expected that four operators asked for an exclusive franchise.

could mean that Dalbak, one of the rebel negotiators, had been in Algeria attempting to get a decisive meeting with French representatives.

The Paris newspapers Le Monde, Paris-Presse and Combat today published what they said were details of the French-Algerian negotiations, and Paris-Presse said only one major point remained—the nationality status of Europeans in Algeria after independence.

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Military officials reported today that at least 25 persons were killed and 38 were wounded Monday in terrorists attacks by Moslem insurgents and European extremists.

The high death toll brought to 748 the number of persons slain throughout the territory in the wave of violence that began New Year's Day. In addition, 1,420 persons have been wounded.

However, these figures did not include either French or insurgent army casualties.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market continued its upswing during light morning trading today.

All sections recorded advances, with gains in the industrial issues providing the driving force.

Canada Packers B showed the best advance of the morning, up 1¾.

Among losers were Distillers-Seagrams, off ⅜, and Interprovincial Pipe Line, off ¼.

On the exchange index, industrials advanced 2.50 to 305.35, ¼ up 1¾ years.

golds 23 at 89.85, base metals 39 at 108 and western oils 21 at 120.68. The 11 a.m. volume was 718,000 shares compared with 879,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Base metals gained on the strength of 6¾ gains in International Nickel and Noranda. In speculative Northate operated weakly at 84.75 before moving up to 84.85, up 20 cents.

Despite the advance in the western oils section Sapphire Great Plains Development, Home A and Pacific Petroleums all dropped ¼.

The market Tuesday recorded its best gain in almost two months on heavy shares at the close.

At the 2 p.m. compilation, the industrial index was ahead 5.55, up five cents. Lake Dufault dipped five cents to 87.40

County Council to Consider Partnership With Belleville To Erect Second Hospital

The possibility of the county of Hastings entering into a partnership with the city of Belleville in the construction and ownership of a second hospital on a new site, in all probability will be one of the items on the agenda at next week's special meeting of county council.

The meeting is being called primarily for the purpose of hiring a new clerk-treasurer for the county, but the hospital question, and also the request for withdrawal from the Centre Hastings High School Area by Tweed and Hungerford are also on the agenda.

From the standpoint of finances, however, adding hospital services for Belleville and district

NO DOUBT ABOUT NEED

There is no doubt as to the need of the additional hospital facilities, and even county representatives on the hospital board of governors are in agreement on this score.

Hospital officials feel there is a need for an additional 150 to 250 hospital beds within the next five years. This figure has been indicated as the result of surveys taking into consideration the projected growth of the Belleville area and also the present shortage of hospital beds.

The present shortage of beds is shown by the fact that the rated capacity for Belleville General Hospital is 220 beds, whereas throughout 1961 it operated at a percentage occupancy of 109 per cent of rated capacity. During the last three months of 1961 the hospital operated at 119.5 per cent occupancy.

Although rated at but 220 beds, the hospital last year had an average of 239 beds and cribs set up. To set up number of beds meant that the hospital had been squeezed into rooms designed for only two beds which beds in corridors were constantly required.

INSPECTORS CRITICAL

Hospital board chairman, J. N. Yanover, noted only recently that inspectors from Ontario Hospital Services Commission were extremely critical of overcrowded conditions in Belleville hospital and quoted reports in which the inspectors could not expect to continue to be operated so far over its rated capacity.

"We know that we are overcrowded at the present time and that we desperately need additional hospital beds, but the problem is not ours alone," Mr. Yanover.

The hospital board chairman said the County of Hastings would be given every opportunity of entering into a partnership with the city on the construction of a new hospital.

Marmora Reeve William Shannon, an county council representative on the board of Governors, has said repeatedly that Belleville and the county had a moral responsibility to the Belleville hospital despite the fact that it is owned by the city.

3RD PCT. FROM COUNTY

Hospital records show that of the total patients in Belleville hospital last year, over 33 per cent came from the county of Hastings.

Although no definite plans have been made for the hospital board of Governors, the thinking is that the limit of expansion at the present hospital has now been reached, and that additional hospital facilities will have to be provided through a new hospital on a new site.

Neither has there been any decision on the location of a possible second hospital in the city, although board officials say there is no problem on this score.

A new hospital with from 150 to 250 beds could cost upwards of $5,000,000, with only a relatively small percentage of the amount being available through governments grants. The remainder would have to be provided by local contributions and through public subscription.

SUGGESTED PLAN

As a start toward providing the required additional hospital facilities, the hospital board has suggested as a nucleus of a new hospital the erection of for mutual welfare and security. Decisions to take measures must be by two-thirds majority.

The resolution Tuesday night was adopted as part of a compromise between U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk and Colombian Foreign Minister Jesquin Lecedo Castilla on one side and Mexican Foreign Minister Hermoro Martinez on the other.

Uruguay had been among the eight countries opposed to taking action against Cuba, but the Uruguayan ministry told reporters the four-point formula could be acceptable. Haiti also fell into line.

Sole speaker before the vote was Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos, who challenged the legality of the expulsion with a claim that it required an amendment to the OAS charter.

He said nothing can deter Cuba from its revolutionary path and claimed Cuba has accepted extra-continental military aid only to protect itself against the aggression of the United States.

An official text gave the four points in the resolution as:

1. Adherence of a state to Marxism-Leninism is incompatible with the inter-American system.

2. The present government of Cuba, which openly is Marxist-Leninist, is incompatible with the purposes and principles of the inter-American system.

3. This incompatibility excludes the present government of Cuba from participating in the inter-American system.

4. The council of the Organization of American States and other agencies and organs shall adopt without delay the necessary measures to comply with the resolution.

Probe Reports Canadian Guns Fired on U.S.

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Canadian and the United States navies are investigating a complaint that Canadian shelifire struck a west-coast community, Blaine, Washington, on January 17.

It's spelled in the Commons to Paul Hellyer L—Trinity who raised press reports that the town had been "shelled" with shrapnel."

There was a complaint that shells of some sort fell, Mr. Harkness said.

The small logging town of Chilliam Bay, Wash., on the Strait of Juan de Fuca where four Canadian naval units were conducting gunnery practice Monday, has been named as the place where the shells fell. The result is a regular gunnery range.

It was possibly the first time in almost 100 years that guns from Canada have exploded on United States land.

Reports from Chilliam Bay said there were no injuries but residents said they heard what have been.

The force of shrapnel fell in a school yard, and the principal said he had just called students to the school when the shells fell. Fragments also fell on street, house and damaged a light house. One witness said there were three duds.

a $0-bed pediatrics wing.

This would mean the present pediatrics wing of the hospital could be utilized for additional adult beds and thus relieve the present overcrowded conditions.

The hospital board chairman has no doubts in his mind as to the responsibility which Hastings County should assume in the provision of new hospital facilities.

He points to the 38 per cent ratio of Hastings county patients at the hospital and says the county financial responsibility should be based on a similar ratio.

"It is up to county council to decide," Mr. Yanover says. "A token contribution will not be enough. I am sure the county contribution will be fair."

CNR Veterans Enjoy Last Trip of Train

Under the auspices of the Canadian National Railways Pensioners Association, Belleville Club, some 80 greying veterans of railway service, many accompanied by their wives, journeyed to Toronto on Thursday on the railway's crack afternoon train

The primary purpose of the holiday trip was to return to Belleville via Lindsay and Peterborough on the last scheduled run of the now remaining passenger train service on the communities along this long loop of 150 miles. Buses, motor cars and hard-surfaced highways have made obsolete the operation of branch line passenger trains.

After 90 years a short line community on the Bay of Quinte is all the remains of the once flourishing and profitable passenger service on the CNR's Lindsay Peterborough loop.

Through the courtesy courtesy of the railway authorities, The special coach was made available for their comfort and placed so they might entrain at Belleville well in advance of departure. The journey to Toronto was enlivened by music and song and the swapping of yarns of the old days. The short stay at the Union Station in Toronto was marked by reunions with old comrades joining the pilgrimage at that point. Many of there were veterans of the Lindsay division, who came to Toronto to join their Belleville friends on this last trip of a well patronized passenger train.

Again the railway played host in a well appreciated manner. For these veterans the authorities has provided the best in way of services. A modern, smooth-riding train had again been assigned for their special comfort and immediately next to the locomotive one of railways' fine diesels cars which other occasions carried yesteryears lustily rendered. Brief stops were made at Lindsay and Peterborough where goodbyes were said to detraining friends and the arrival at Belleville at 11:30 p.m. the veterans dispersed with many expressions of grateful appreciation to those responsible for a very successful busman's holiday. Especially appreciated by the veterans was the railway's kind courtesy in providing for their comfort the finest service available.

Mr. Lionel Pain, retired chief dispatcher with 50 years of service behind him, conducted, performed the necessary liaison between the Canadian National Association and Trust Pensioners' Association, and Mr. Joseph Hunter, president of the association, assisted in preliminary arrangements.

2 Men Buried In Cement in Missile Silo

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) —Two men were buried in cement today at the bottom of a missile silo at the Sagamhush missile base about halfway between here and Saranac Lake.

Rescuers worked in sub-zero cold to dig the men out. A contractor told a reporter there was a possibility the men are alive.

He said a tube carrying concrete from a mixing machine to the base of the silo had collapsed and caused the concrete to flow into it. They had been spreading concrete at the base of the silo.

The tube was eight inches in diameter and 120 feet long.

The base is one of 12 Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile installations ringing the Strategic Air Command base here.

Tiny Bear Cubs Sent To Zoo

By Wm. W. Bittle

A farmer in the Griffith area while cutting timber on his property disturbed another bear in her den. Investigating further he discovered three tiny young bears, their eyes not yet open, and their bodies only lightly covered with hair. The mother when disturbed made a hasty retreat from the area and was not seen again, and as a result the farmer turned the three cubs over to the Department of Lands and Forests.

The total weight of these three little animals was less than three pounds and are less than 12 inches in length.

A new home for these orphaned cubs was soon found at the Riverdale Zoo in Toronto. Here they will have the expert care of the zookeeper and his staff.

Although bears are now classified as a game animal and protected by law, farmers may still destroy them when they become a nuisance on their own property.

Two Injured In Collision At Foxboro

Two men were sent to hospital this morning as the result of a head-on crash at Foxboro last night about 8 o'clock.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Highway 14 and the Marks Road at the north end of the village.

A Liquified transport loaded with stove oil proceeding north enroute to Peterborough, was rounding the bend when it was confronted by a southbound vehicle driven by Vernon King of Alma Street, Norwood, Ont.

The transport was being driven by Malcolm Best of Maple Leaf.

Mr. King was taken to Belleville General Hospital suffering from chest injuries and one of the five other passengers in the car Kenneth Rowe, also from Norwood was taken to hospital suffering from a fractured knee.

It is understood that Mr. King had applied his brakes to slow down for the sharp curve and slid into the path of the transport.

The car was demolished but the truck damage was reported to the truck.

Old Man 'Flu' Hits City High Schools

Old Man 'Flu is striking hard among high school students in the city with close to 20 per cent of students at Belleville Collegiate being away from classes.

Apparently the Collegiate is the most seriously affected of the three city high schools with Principal A. E. Orr stating that 361 students out of an enrolment of 1,160 were away from classes yesterday.

At Quinte Secondary School the 'Flu apparently hasn't struck yet with only about 50 per cent by Dec. 31. This was said to be about normal.

At Queen Elizabeth School there were about 100 away from school out of a total of 860.

It was suggested that the 'flu might be more prevalent in the high schools in the county with this accounting for the high incidence of absenteeism at the Collegiate whose enrolment is predominantly from the city.

Public Schools superintendent L. A. Kells reported that no great incidence of 'flu in public schools had been made to him.

Jack-Lighting Illegal, Dangerous

Jack lighting of game is not only illegal but very dangerous, Conservation Officer Everett Ferguson of Tweed when a bullet broke a window in a room where two boys were sleeping, ricocheted and lodged in the wall. The boys, who were out jack lighting rabbits at 11 o'clock at night. Another shot was found on the outside wall of the house when further investigation was made.

Everett Ferguson, officer in charge of the Department of Lands and Forests office at Napanee, says that the term "jack light" stems from a method of hunting game at night for taking fish at night. A special electric torch, with a buggy irons, was attached to the bow of a boat by means of a 6 or 7 foot line. The glass knobs were set on fire in the wood and gave off sufficient light to enable the person to see fish under water.

When net lamps are apparatus to take fish, a pot of tea be boiled over the fire. The resultant smoke blackened a man's face making identification of other officers and wives alike, most difficult.

Coldest Night of Winter Sees Mercury at 12 Below

Belleville and the immediate area of Quinte area experienced its coldest night of the year last night as the mercury tumbled to a low of 12 degrees below zero at the city limits.

As usual, however, the mercury registered much lower in the area to the north of the city.

The previous low for the season was late in December when the mercury went down to nine degrees below zero at the city pump house.

Rider Killed As Truck Hits Rear of Plow

PORT HOPE, Ont.-(CP)— Howard Queenberry of Ajax, was killed Friday when the trailer-truck in which he was riding slammed into the rear of a moving snowplow on Highway 401, about two miles west of here.

Police said blowing snow reduced visibility.

The driver, Harry Neil of Scarborough, and the snowplow driver, Harold Taylor and his assistant Edgar Phillips, both of Port Hope, were not injured.

Police said the front of the truck was smashed, the truck jackknifed and skidded into a ditch and the snowplow was rolled over by the impact.

FISHING LIMIT

ence he hopes for agreement among some nations on extension of the limits.)

Earlier, Newfoundland MP complained loudly that a proposed $300,000 road, work schemes for Newfoundland fishing settlements with low 1961 catches meant unfair short birth in comparision with $42,000,000 in western farm acreage payments voted minutes before.

"Tantamount to discrimination," said Chesley W. Carter (L—Burin-Burgeo).

Mr. Howard called it discrimination of another kind—in favor of the east coast, against the west. He recalled that British Columbia fishermen went into heavy debt, or even bankruptcy through a poor 1960 salmon catch but received no federal aid.

Fisheries Minister MacLean said the $300,000 he did cause advantage of the winter works incentive program, plus special works projects for Newfoundland output communities with catches.

Fishermen had not been given blanket assistance in the same way as in Prairie farmers, who will receive a $1-an-acre payment this year, because fishermen already get benefits not payable to farmers. He mentioned unemployment insurance, unemployment insurance and salt payments.

FORMULA TO END

weekend with management of the CPR-owned hotel and representatives of the Canadian Club Employees Union (CLC).

Basically they called 30 per cent of the strikers to be hired by March 31, another 30 by Sept. 30 and the remaining 40 per cent by Dec. 31.

Other rights would be guaranteed and other grievances would be arbitrated if they could not be settled in negotiation.

The back-to - work proposal was the key stumbling block to a settlement.

ACCUSES UNION

Hotel Manager Angus P. MacKinnon issued a statement accusing the union of an "unrealistic and stubborn" attitude, saying the Royal York had gone "to a substantially beyond" what it considered equitable so a settlement could be reached.

Union leader said the strikers at a membership meeting earlier that the proposals were an insult.

Obviously piqued, the labor minister said he ignore evidence he thought his proposals had been fair and that he and the hotel had changed its position considerably.

"Continuing the strike means that this blot remains on the community that millions of dollars in salaries are being wasted and that many persons who depend on the business for a livelihood will have to reassess their attitude."

Refusal of individuals and groups to cross picket lines outside the hotel has kept the strike in the spotlight almost since it began April, 1961.

The most recent furore centres around a sports celebrity dinner scheduled for Thursday. Several sports stars have said they will not attend.

Congo Debate Voted Out in Security Council

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The Soviet Union failed a Russian demand for an immediate United Nations Security Council debate on The Congo, causing Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Zorin to cry "Gag."

The 11-member council voted 7 to 2 with two abstentions in support of a United States motion to postpone a decision indefinitely on the ground it would merely cause confusion and damage.

Council President Sir Patrick Dean of Britain repeatedly rapped down Zorin, who embarked on a speech that sometimes during the two-hour session that consisted mostly of procedural wrangling.

Dean ruled that U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson was correct under UN rules in stating that his adjournment motion was the most drastic one before the house, and this brought from Zorin the charge that he was being "stifled" and "gagged."

Stevenson noted that Congolese Premier Cyrille Adoula—due to arrive Thursday at UN headquarters in New York—had opposed the Security Council meeting as a Soviet "manoeuvre."

Adoula had said such a meeting would only "create confusion and damage to the Congolese people." His views had been endorsed earlier in an African conference in Lagos, Nigeria.

In action on another trouble spot, the security council was scheduled on Thursday on the Indian-Pakistan dispute over Kashmir.

Kennedy and the Right

Canadians and Britons are accustomed to the view that military men, like children of earlier times, should be seen but not heard. For them, it will be difficult to understand the controversy in the U.S. over the action of the Kennedy administration in requiring high-ranking members of the armed services to clear their public speeches with the defence department. The only Canadians or Britons who will find nothing strange in opposition to this dictum will be those who know least about the tradition of silence in their own countries. For Americans, though, raised in other traditions, it is understandable that the controversy should arouse considerable soul searching.

Why this should be so may not immediately be apparent. In the U.S., as in Canada and Britain, it has always been accepted that civilians must rule the military; indeed, in the U.S. this has been carried to the extreme of making the president, the head of the civil executive power, also the commander in chief of the armed forces. The difference, it seems to us, stems from the division of executive and legislative power in the U.S., and the fact that the executive branch of the government is not dependent for its continued authority on the pleasure of the elected representatives of the people." Whereas in Canada and Britain, the Cabinet must speak with one voice, or face a difficult interrogation in the House, in the U.S. any difference of opinion between the Cabinet members make them accountable only to the president. This has resulted in a much greater latitude for the expression of personal viewpoints, and this latitude appears to have extended from the civil executives to the military.

Today, however, the power and influence of the U.S. is such that its every move is viewed by those in high places in Washington can produce repercussions throughout the world. President Kennedy made this point when he revealed that he had submitted parts of his own "State of the Union" message to the state and defence departments for checking. He was quoted as saying that this would have silenced critics. But it will not. The real opposition to this policy of clearance of speeches by the military emanates from the far right. Some of the military are of this persuasion and what is bothering the right is that Kennedy's clearance policy will muzzle men who were in the position to deliver blistering anti-communist speeches with an aura of being based on inside knowledge of military facts.

"It is the leftists in our midst who rigorously oppose any use of force, or any show of strength in a manner that serves our antagonists' understanding only the element of power," wrote Senator Barry Goldwater in a recent article in Saturday Evening Post. "There can be no denying that all the winds of 'appeasement' blow from the left."

Of course, from his standpoint, he is correct, since Goldwater stands so far to the right that any person who does not agree with him is necessarily to his left.

To Goldwater and his colleagues, forbidding a military man to damn the communists in any words he may choose constitutes a form of appeasement. In this connection it is fascinating to note that Baron Taylor of Harlow, a British neuro-psychiatrist, has written a interpretation of the mentality of the Russian people, on the basis of six basic psychiatric types. Briefly, he holds that the Russians are basically of the manic-depressive type, subjective while swings between optimism and despair, likely to err in planning too big, but also doggedly plodding along to achieve their aims.

Baron Taylor remarks on their similarity to Americans as a whole, in some phases of their national character. Russians, he says, are the other extreme of the hysteric personality of which Nazi diplomacy was an example. "The hysteric is usually only too ready to shift his ground and compromise. - - - For (the Russian) compromise is intellectual surrender." Does not this apply, with equal force, to Goldwater and his followers? We thus find the communists and their most bitter foes to be the same kind of people, but with diametrically opposed ideas. Meanwhile everybody in between is considered by both as an "appeaser," or a "deviationist," whether of the right or of the left depending on the point from which he is viewed.

I wanted to change the world. But I have found that the only thing one can be sure of changing is oneself.—Mr. Aldous Huxley.

It is notorious that the memory strengthens as you lay burdens upon it, and becomes trustworthy as you treat it.—Thomas De Quincey.

Canadian Views India

By I. Norman Smith in the Ottawa Journal

Tom Nichols of the Hamilton Spectator is a good reporter, but he is blessed as well with the talent of turning a phrase so it jumps up and draws pictures.

Cynicism, he would have us think, is one of his characteristics; but it isn't.

Actually he's an idealist but this is graced by a kind of mischievous humor. Sometimes it is three parts humor and only one disrespect.

So see India and Pakistan with him is fun, but it is also disturbing—as he means it to be.

At a barricade in the Khyber country, he writes, "white turbaned elder tribesmen note their rifles and cartridge belts as natives rarely do." An Englishman "stirred" them up with a brolly—which in sheer acceptance of his burden is a testimony of greatness."

The sights and sounds and moods of India and Pakistan were what gripped Mr. Nichols' imagination and shunned his complacency.

"In Calcutta evening slowly drew blurb to endless stretches of what look like knots of soiled laundry; beds for the night on the streets for the homeless, mile after mile."

What reaction to such a sight? Disgust, pity, anger, a wave of nauseating hopelessness?

All these were possible, and Mr. Nichols experienced each in turn, but also to a sense of guilt, a guilt most of us have left long since. It is the West countries but which he describes as believing perfect. Of "the North American who commonly confines his interpretation of civilization to the penultimate backing away from unpleasant smells and unrefrigerated food.

Parrot Balks Parking Lots

Financial Post

For those who despair over once-handsome town houses torn down to make way for the bricklivering parking lot, there is a good news from Victoria.

In that city a 30-year-old wisecracking parrot of ancient vintage has brought the march of progress to a standstill.

The parrot belonged to a Miss Victoria Wilson who died in 1940 — but not before providing that her bird was to remain on her Northern Avenue property with all the brandy its skin could hold until it too died.

Time and the auto have reduced all neighboring houses to a parking lot owned by G. J. Shaffer and Capitol Car Parks. But there is still a home in the middle of the lot, ministered to gently by Wah Wong to whom it was entrusted, the bird continues eating, drinking and living in comfortable retirement. Mr. Shaffer, president of real estate developers.

By latest report, the parrot is in the pink of condition and seems likely to outlive both Wah Wong and Mr. Shaffer.

There was hope that the bird repository might be sold and would become a tourist attraction. But the staff have got discouraged when all they ever saw was a weary, bloodshot eye and a bundle of ruffled feathers.

DIPLOMAS IN THE SKY

Dr. Albert Schweitzer, the medical missionary in Africa whose consecrated life has called forth the wonder and admiration of the world, was said one day to have thrown up his hands in despair and groaned out: "What a bloodshed I was to come out here to Africa to doctor savages like these!" Whereupon one of the doctor's African assistants remarked, "Yes, doctor, here on earth you are a butcher; bloodshed, but boy in heaven."

Do you have any diplomas on your walls? Perhaps you have friends who have them hung up everywhere. But what do diplomas signify? Simply that a person has finished certain academic requirements or has done things of a useful social nature which led some college to give him an honorary degree. But let it never be forgotten that these diplomas do not represent wisdom, and even if they did it could be earthly wisdom.

There are some poor folks who never got through grammar school but who will have a big diploma in a gold frame awaiting them in the heavenly mansions. Why? Because they have heavenly wisdom. They thought in terms of God and His purposes. Their main object in life was to live according to God's will and to be as helpful as they could amid human need. Some of them may have appeared blockheads to their worldly associates, but no one can be pretty sure that in heaven they have a good, big diploma and a grade card there that would make your eyes pop out.

Many Mentally Sick People Walk the Street

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

It's not merely that so many mentally sick people are walking around the streets; it's that so many of them perform mentally sick acts in public without calling any public attention to themselves.

The most striking and tragic recent example of this, of course, was the Florida flaming-passenger was found alive, however, the captain, alone of all the rest before his time story could come out.

Another item was it discovered that he had a long history of this sort of "mishap," that his mental and medical records were blotched with dreaded "accidents" including the death of one of his wives and her mother while he was driving the car.

In his fascinating book, Diagnosis (now available in a paperback), Erving Goffman cites several psychological surveys to verify those in private, while everyone else walking the streets is considered a member of the non-criminal class.

What is astonishing to those trained in the discipline of psychology is the public's blindness to blatant and prolonged disorders of mental illness on a part of persons who are not confined to institutions. Yet they are permitted by friends and relatives to move about more or less right at long. This indifference or ignorance, of course, is no kindness to the victims of these and other sort of illness, getty worse unless it is curbed and treated.

The flesh-boat captain is only one of the more dramatic examples of unbalanced, behavior that's allowed to go on until the final incredible blowup. Only then, the friends and relatives come to public attention, willing to recall strange incidents and actions in retrospect.

We tend to think in tight little categories: there, behind bars, are the criminals; there, in hospitals, are the psychotic; and here are the rest, of us, honest and sane, just walking around, minding our own business. We forget how arbitrary for the person, the status for the state.

But there are more of us just walking around who need help than are in all the mental hospitals and clinics and psychiatrists' offices. Like delinquency, such behavior must be caught early to do much good. The more we ignore it in those close to us, the less right we have to reproach its prevalence in society as a whole.

Important Things

Cleveland Plain Dealer

To Your Good Health

Bad Breath Can Come From Several Different Sources

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a post nasal drip. The mucus I raise is brown and has an odor.

No one has ever told me I have bad breath but with this condition I feel it is very probable. I also have been told that se long as I live in northern New York I will have to contend with this. What's your opinion? — A.B.W.

In the various columns I've written on bad breath, I've always made it a point to examine nose or throat inflammation, "post nasal drip," "catarrh" or some similar expression.

Bad-breath fiends from many different sources — not just the teeth, of the mouth, or the stomach. It can be from the nose, throat, lungs, bronchi or lungs.

I dare say, without any great emphasis, that climate may be a factor. We do have the so-called "nose bell" for good gravity.

But I also beg to point out that sinus trouble isn't limited to this area. Not by a wide margin. It would be a good opener if people in the "sinus belt" could get all the letters I get from people in the mild, warm or even sub-tropical areas, complaining about "sinus trouble."

The point I'm making is that chronic infections of the air passages can cause bad breath, and they aren't just "sinus" trouble. And they aren't just from climate.

True sinus trouble, nasal disorders, infected tonsils, bronchiectasis, and many others including all are common factors, and the last of these is one which is not taken seriously often enough. Some individuals are prone to attacks of it. The irritation causes persistent inflammation which may — or may not — cause bad breath.

Reduction of smoking, or complete abstinence, clears up many catarrhal conditions.

Dear Dr. Molner: A year and a half ago, our son, now five, contracted rheumatic fevers and has been receiving penicillin ever since to prevent recurrence. What are the chances of recurrence in the future?

So long as the penicillin is continued once every four to six weeks, the chance of recurrence is small. If the medication is ever stopped, nobody can say he will have another attack but even less can one say he won't. The American Heart Association recommends continuing this protection for life — and I thoroughly agree.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it always necessary to be in a hospital when passing a kidney stone?

I'd rather not, but my doctor says some stay above a stone has passed from the kidney to the bladder, and I will have to go to the hospital. R. C.

It is not always essential to be in the hospital. But when the stone finally is passed it may be so very painful that you'd much prefer to be where someone can be on hand to give you some strong pain medicine at the critical time.

If, under the circumstances, your doctor agrees to leave a pain-reliever with you, or not depending on his judgment of your particular case, naturally) try to remember to have some voided should be collected and strained through a sieve, to catch and identify the stone. It may be so small that you don't even notice it passed it, even though it may feel like a horse as it goes through.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A frugal friend of mine keeps fretting about all the waste that goes on.

"Think," he says, "of all the wind that was whistled away by sailing vessels went out of use. Years and years, a century or more, of marvellous gales and squalls, tempests, hurricanes and breezes, all over the world, all wasted, thanks to the invention of the steam engine. Think of the waste of wind in terms of windmills. They used to dot the whole face of northern world, pumping countless billions of gallons of water. Now the windmill is a thing of the past, due to gas engines and electricity. It is all very well to consider the increased efficiency of steam and gas engine pump, but the waste cannot be ignored.

"It is a sad commentary," he says, "on the spendthrift character of mankind that they throw away a useful thing the moment they discover a more useful thing. If only out of gratitude to the wind which made possible the invention and discovery of the world, we should long since have devised some employment for this most powerful and universal element."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SERVE YOURSELF AND SAVE

In walking down the street one day I came across a sign which read: "Materials. Serve yourself and save."

I was struck by this significant wisdom. I thought: If we would only serve ourselves more we would save in a thousand ways.

Of course, when you serve yourself, you serve others, for you inspire in them that incentive which alone is essential for all success or happiness. You must educate yourselves. "We must prepare ourselves as the instruments that others may have the use of us."

Serve yourself — and you save. Nothing is truer. For the things you gain by your own efforts stay by you and become a part of you. Yet you may keep living and enjoying what you have accumulated — and still be very rich.

There are those who are so afraid they will do something for themselves that they are unable to do anything for anyone else. The millionaire who delights in giving away to worthy causes, first had to get that wealth for himself.

There are those who are so afraid they will do something for themselves that they are unable to do anything for anyone else. The millionaire who delights in giving away to worthy causes, first had to get that wealth for himself.

And there is the other side. When you serve someone else you always profit yourself and also save. You save a loyal friend in whom there is a reservoir of wealth — a source builder of faith, inspiration and love.

And if you get the habit of serving yourself, you know what you know. You are not dealing with something you have made. You create from what you discover. You put in your own time, but get a profit but the principal is spread out.

Serve yourself — and save. And it is best that you figure out for your own mind just how you can save most and serve best.

Victoria Police Test New Idea in Work With Juveniles

VICTORIA (CP) — A mob of 80 teen - agers roamed through the suburban Gordon Head area, shouting taunts and hurling rocks at police who were called to the scene.

Alarmed residents had never before seen anything like it. Neither had police but they decided it would be an opportunity to test a new idea in work with juveniles.

"We obtained the names of many members of the gang," said Chief Bert Pearson of Saanich. "We could have gone around to their schools and homes the next day and rounded them up.

"But we felt rather than do this we not hold a meeting with police, parents and teen-agers to thrash it all out and make everyone aware of the consequences of such acts."

STERN LECTURE

About 50 parents and teen-agers attended a subsequent meeting. Chief Pearson delivered a stern lecture on the charges that could be laid under the Criminal Code.

He told the teen-agers they could not count on immunity just because they were juveniles. Any person over 14 could be tried in open court, he said.

"One youthful a kid chip on his shoulder when he came but after the meeting he came up to me and said he was convinced that police and parents must work hand in hand."

Chief Pearson said the object of the meeting was to impress parents with the idea that they should rely on the police, not fear them.

"I want a parent to call us when he cannot handle a situation."

The youths' spokesman, retained by the police chief but voted angry retorts when juvenile officer Harry Adams began his talk. They were angry at newspapers and radio reports which described them as "hoodlums."

GROUP BEHAVIOR

Mr. Adams said the reports leaned to the "small side of the actual events and when he started to describe the incidents many youths started to laugh.

They quietened when Mr. Adams said he intended to proceed with the investigation and they would be treated as individuals, not as a group.

Chief Pearson said later the incident seemed to indicate a mode of behavior on behalf of the youths, who feared acting as individuals.

"It is my opinion that the whole affair was started by eight or 10 known trouble-makers in the area and the rest were intimidated into going along."

The conception of right and wrong seems beyond the scope of many of them."

On the other hand, many of the teen-agers came up to Mr. Pearson after the meeting to say they were sorry for hurting their parents by behaving in a destructive manner.

Stern Rebuke Given Portugal By UN Assembly

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Portugal, humiliated last month by India's takeover of Portuguese Goa, was faced today with the sternest rebuke it has yet received in the United Nations.

The 104-member UN General Assembly endorsed 70 to 7 with one abstention Tuesday night an Afro-Asian resolution demanding that Portugal end "repressive measures" in its West African territory of Angola where revolt flared last year.

The vote culminated two weeks of debate in which country after country condemned Portugal's policies. Nigeria and some other African countries threatened to take concerted action if Angola isn't freed.

Portuguese Premier Antonio Salazar threatened after the Goa incident to take his country out of the UN and his delegation here boycotted the debate on Angola, which Portugal claims is an integral province, not a colony.

Only South Africa and Spain opposed the 45-country Afro-Asian resolution which urges Portugal to institute social, political and economic reforms aimed at independence for Angola, a territory of 5,000,000. Portugal and Iceland were absent and France abstained.

The UN took no action when India seized Goa and other Portuguese colonies on the Indian subcontinent last month. The move was one of the harshest critics of Portugal in the debate that concluded.

RUSSIA DEFEATED

In other developments at the UN Tuesday, the West squelched an attempt by the Soviet Union for an immediate debate on The Congo in the 11-member Security Council.

The council was called into session at Russia's request but after a long procedural wrangle it upheld the contention of United States Ambassador Adlai Stevenson that debate now would only complicate the tremors in the new African country.

The members voted 7 to 3 with two abstentions for an indefinite adjournment. Only Russia, Poland Russia in the vote, Ghana and the United Arab Republic abstained.

Before the vote in the General Assembly, Portugal served notice it would ignore any UN action on Angola on the ground the world organization had no jurisdictin over a domestic problem. This stand was supported by South Africa and Spain.

Portugal had termed the resolution "mischievous" and such countries as the U.S. and Britain also expressed reservations about some parts although voting for the whole.

The assembly rejected by a vote of 26 to 61 with 32 abstentions a Soviet-bloc resolution calling on the Security Council to consider sanctions against Portugal.

Scouting activities

By ANNE M. McDONALD

The first Boy Scout Auxiliary meeting of the new year was held at the home of Mrs. Moon.

The new president, Mrs. A. Hyatt opened the meeting with the "Scout Mother's Promise".

Following the reading of the minutes by Mrs. A. Weagant, a discussion was held on the merits and demerits of having a "Coffee Dessert Party" in place of the annual "Father and Son Banquet". The decision was left open, pending enquiries into the wishes of the Group Committee members.

Final arrangements were made for the children's skating party.

The ladies were advised of the social activities of the boys during the month of February. On the 18th, Scout Master Fredericks, with the assistance of Mr. Rae, Mr. A. Glover, Mr. H. Brooks and Mr. H. Hyatt took 15 Scouts on a sleigh ride to the farm of Mr. H .Thompson on the 2nd concession of Thurlow. They rode for an hour over the farm fields and into the bush, then returned to the Community Centre where Auxiliary members served them with a hot lunch.

On the 21st the Cubs played an exciting game of hockey with the boys from the Holy Rosary Pack — no score.

Mrs. Hyatt expressed appreciation to the ladies of Holy Rosary Auxiliary who assisted the 18th Auxiliary in serving hot chocolate and doughnuts to the teams.

The business meeting was brought to a close with the Scout Benediction.

A few games of bingo were played and the evening concluded with a delicious lunch served by Mr. Rae, Mrs. Hyatt and Mrs. Moon.

A vote of thanks to Mrs. Moon for opening her home was extended by Mrs. M. Thompson.

The next meeting set for Thursday, 22nd of February, will be held at the home of Mrs. M. Thompson, 11 Lemoine St.

2ND BELLEVILLE BOY SCOUT AUXILIARY

The first meeting of the new year for 2nd Belleville Boy Scout Auxiliary was held on Thursday, January 18th in the Parish Hall of Christ Church.

President Mrs. H. Bakelaid opened the meeting following the "Mother's Promise" and the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison.

The usual business proceeded, Mrs. J. Foster reported there were eight mockers-chiefs available. Mrs. W. Yates announced that twenty two cards had been sent out for the previous term.

Mrs. Reinsborg gave a report of the Group Committee meeting. The Library was being formed and books have been purchased. This Library is to be available to Scouts and Cubs as well as to their parents.

Scouts are to need of eight pairs of Signal Flags and the Auxiliary will start this project at a future meeting.

It was announced that "Scout Week" is to be held from February 18th to 25th, March 1st to 3rd, for 2nd is to be held on February 25th.

It was decided to hold a "Coffee Party" on February 16th in the Parish Hall from 10 a.m. to 1.30 p.m. There will be the added attraction of a "Home Bake Table." Mrs. O. Cross is to be the convener and Mrs. F. Johnson will be in charge of tickets.

The meeting adjourned with the repeating of the "Scout Grip".

Scouter Ingraham was the guest speaker at the evening. His topic was "How A Scout Troop Is Run." This proved to be a most interesting and enlightening talk for the Mothers' Auxiliary. On behalf of the group Mrs. O. Gray graciously thanked Scouter Ingraham.

A social hour followed. In charge of Mrs. E. Grant, Group Captain, and her ladies.

Focus on Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: Communicable diseases, kidney stones and alcohol and accident death.

A NEW CHALLENGER

One by one, the communicable diseases that pose the greatest threat to public health have yielded to the assault of medical science. But new challengers arise to take their places.

A few years ago, polio was the most dreaded symptom as a crippling and paralysing disease. By comparison, hepatitis, a stubborn and sometimes fatal virus infection of the liver, was an obscure affliction.

But last year, U.S. Public Health Service figures show, hepatitis continued its sharp three - year rise with more than 70,000 cases reported in the United States.

Public concern and the dramatic declins that started with the advent of the Salk vaccine. Only around 1,300 cases were reported.

KIDNEY STONES

A doctor at Johns Hopkins Hospital believes he has found a way to halt formation of kidney stones — a painful affliction that recently sent crooner Bing Crosby to hospital.

Dr. John Edgar Howard gives his patients a simple dose of salt — a teaspoon or so a day of disodium acid phosphate mixed with sodium acid phosphate.

World Medical News said one patient who had formed 400 stones in five years was given complete relief by this treatment.

ALCOHOL AND DEATH

Alcohol has been blamed as a factor in many traffic deaths, but two New Jersey researchers say it also figures prominently in accidental deaths.

Dr. C. C. Wilentz, chief medical examiner for Middlesex County, N.J., and J. F. Brady, a toxicologist, analyzed the data covering 2,000 violent deaths in the county over a 10-year period.

Writing in The American Practitioner, they said alcohol was a contributing or responsible cause of death in 336 or 41 per cent of these cases.

Alcohol was a factor, they said, in 49.6 per cent of the automobile casualties, 31 per cent of the homicides, 36 per cent of the suicides, and in 16 per cent of other accidents such as slipdisease, burns, drownings, electrocutions, carbon monoxide, falls, industrial and train deaths.

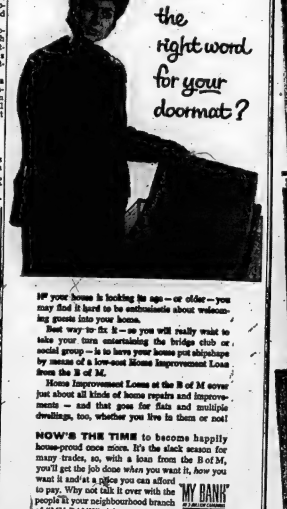
local competition of seeking votes by making promises to the other people of our country."

He said they, once the new Liberal plan went into effect it would "take the weight of our citizens out of the auction place in which some of our political parties seem to be at home."

WOULD SELL BUTTER



The council passed a resolution calling for a plan to sell surplus butter stocks at a price of about 30 cents a pound to consumers, while maintaining the $4 per cent of the federal floor price for the producers. Hon. Matheson, Liberal MP for Ontario's Leeds constituency, said the high price was cutting into butter consumption and promoting the sale of substitutes.

A resolution calling for federal financial and other support of measures to deal with mental illness was passed unanimously. Also passed was a policy promise of encouragement to small business. Its key point would be separating the Industrial Development Bank from the Bank of Canada, and making industrial bank loans more easily available to small business enterprises.

The council re-elected the complete slate of executive officers of the National Liberal Federation, including Senator John Connolly of Ottawa as president.

ST. ANDREW'S C.G.I.T.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian C.G.I.T. group held its weekly meeting Monday evening with the president, Linda Marner, presiding.

The worship service included a Scripture reading and prayer followed by a short business period. A party for February was discussed. C.G.I.T. pins and mates were given out to be sold. Some games were enjoyed.

Medical WA Elects 1962 Officers

The annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Hastings and Prince Edward County Medical Society was held at the home of Mrs. R. Bateman, George Street, on January 25th with 19 members present.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. R. S. Morphy. Reports by the secretaries and treasurer followed, proving that 1961 has been a busy year.

Mrs. Morphy outlined briefly an account of the O.M.A. W.A. workshop which she and Mrs. J. Neilson attended in Toronto on November 30th.

Mrs. A. Clendon, convener of the Fashion Show, gave a detailed report on plans for the forthcoming Fashion Show, to be held in B.C.I.V.S. next month.

Mrs. K. Douglas, chairman of the nominating committee, gave the new slate of officers as follows: past-president — Mrs. R. S. Morphy; president — Mrs. J. E. Nelles; vice-president — Mrs. A. N. Rose; recording secretary — Mrs. M. Walcott; treasurer — Mrs. F. R. Rose; corresponding secretary — Mrs. B. O. Nugent; press secretary — Mrs. N. Reid.

Mrs. Morphy, retiring president expressed her thanks to all for their support during the past year, Mrs. P. G. Loder, on behalf of the group, thanked Mrs. Morphy for her fine leadership.

After the meeting was adjourned, refreshments were served by the hostess.

'Parent-Child Relationship' Panel Topic at Hillcrest H-S

The monthly meeting of the Hillcrest Home and School Association was held in the school auditorium on Monday evening. The president, Mrs. D. Proctor, opened the meeting and welcomed the many parents and guests.

Miss Farnsworth presided at the piano.

The business session followed.

A euchre party will be held in February in place of the monthly meeting.

The room count was taken. Miss Farnsworth's and Mrs. Williams' classes will share the banner for the coming month.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Fradden introduced the guest speaker for the evening. This occasion was admirably filled by Mr. Bruce Kerr, Director of the Children's Aid Society of Belleville, Trenton and Hastings County. Mr. Kerr introduced his panel, three of whom are social workers in the Society, Mrs. Janet Thompson, a Queen's University graduate in Arts, had worked with children in Toronto and Smithboro, as well as this area; Mr. D. Adamson, the second member of the panel is a graduate of the University of Toronto, and Toronto School of Social Work; Mr. Adamson had previously been superintendent in a Children's Aid Society in Belleville. Miss Marker, also a graduate who had furthered her studies in child psychology was the third panel member. Mr. Kerr acted as moderator for the evening.

Mrs. Thompson spoke on the child from the time of birth until he reaches the age of five. The environment of the child influences the growth of child. The first year of his life consists of what he sees from his crib or his mother's arms, whose care he demands. As the years progress, he learns to walk, feed himself and to talk and with a certain amount of independence. Then there is the age of the pre-school and as he approaches the age of five he feels he is becoming of age in a miniature way.

Mr. Adamson dealt with the child from the age of five to nine.

At this time in life, the child becomes more possessive and argues the points. The six year-old has the tendency to become contemplative, dawdles over numerous things and is demanding. The seven-year-old becomes interested in social relationships; the temper may disappear at times, yet can be quite sullen. He has to be reminded several times a day as he set out to do. When the child reaches eight his interest in his own self and becomes more robust. He seems to be less concerned about what goes on around him, yet requires constant praise.

Miss Marker' charges come in the 9-13 year group. Calm is not shared generally prevails but in a small way is beginning to think in teen-age lines. He is critical of his parents and boy and girl relationships start to take place.

Mr. Boardman dealt with the teenager. When the child reaches puberty starts to think in a teen-age way. He comes to his teens in a transitory state of affairs, he feels that his feet are too big, has stringy hair and appears and frustration may start. The teenager wants adult privileges yet they may be in a child state of mind.

At this point the parents can be of help in sharing his plans and education and his future.

A question and answer period followed which proved very enlightening to all.

Mrs. M. McEachan thanked Mr. Kerr and his panel for an interesting evening.

Refreshments were served by the mothers of Mrs. Link's room and a social hour was enjoyed by all.

Foxboro H-S Assoc. Plans Box Social

The January meeting of the Foxboro Home and School Association was held in the school auditorium with Mrs. Bradshaw presiding. The meeting was opened with Mrs. Churchill reading "The Objectives of Home and School" from "The Guide Post".

The treasurer reported $85.82 in the treasury and that $7.50 had been spent on supplies for the candy bags at Christmas.

Mr. Churchill is to be the representative of the Home and School Association to the school board when complaints or otherwise, are made in person at the Home and School meetings.

Following the reading of the correspondence some discussion on a "box social" was held. The discussion was that Mrs. Bradshaw is to be convener for a box social for the youngsters on February 16. "In Defence of Youth" was read by Mrs. Bradshaw and gave much food for thought regarding our youth of today.

Concluding the meeting, the showing of an interesting film was shown on Newfoundland, by Mr. Churchill.

A social cup of coffee was enjoyed after the film.

VOTE ON FLUORIDATION

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto executive committee Tuesday recommended that an area vote be held on fluoridation in conjunction with the civic elections Dec. 3.

Women's Institute

FOXBORO W.I.

Mrs. C. Hobbis was hostess to the Foxboro Women's Institute when it met for its January meeting. Mrs. C. Bamber presided and opened the meeting in the usual way.

The roll call, "A Historical Place of Interest and Why," was answered by only a few members due to weather conditions, but proved there are a number of places of historical interest in the county.

The minutes may often regret your speech but never your silence," was given by Mrs. R. Skinner.

Correspondence was read. Following the treasurer's report it was decided to charter a bus and go to Toronto on January 31 to the Ice Follies.

The meeting was under the convenorship of the Historical Research group and Mrs. F. Prindle took charge for the program and read, "Just For Today." "Throughout the Coming Year" was read by Mrs. L. Lewis, followed by "The Observer," read by Mrs. W. Kirkpatrick. Mrs. F. Kilpatrick read "The New Year."

Mrs. Ruth Coy, who has charge of the "Tweedsmuir History" book, was unable to be present but had sent the book down so it was on display. Some articles and pictures are in the book, also a section from an old Belleville paper.

Following the closing of the meeting, lunch was served by the hostess and the lunch committee.

Many Attend Frankford Inaugural

Mrs. J. K. Beach addressed a capacity congregation at Frankford United Church on Sunday morning at the inaugural service of United Church Women, conducted by Mrs. J. Finnegan and Mrs. Robert Bateman. The women's choir provided special music for the occasion and the ushering was in charge of a committee of women.

The executive-elect of the new organization entered the sanctuary in a body and, in a solemn and impressive service of dedication, promised loyalty and faithfulness in the responsibility of leadership in the work of the church.

Mrs. Finnegan received gratefulness for the achievement of the past and brought inspiration and encouragement for the future and a keen awareness of the opportunities of Christian service in the local community and in the missionary outreach of the modern church.

The theme of the service was "Vision of the Future".

PRAIRIE PEST

The coyote or prairie wolf, menace to farm poultry, is smaller than the true, or timber wolf.

Eastminster Couple Club Views Film

An exhilarating hour was spent by members of the Eastminster Couples' Club on Monday evening when they enjoyed the nearly-forgotten thrills of tobogganing on the Herchimer Avenue hill.

Upon returning to the church auditorium Tom Thompson led the group singing "Will the Old, Old Story," followed by George Gibbons reading the Scripture.

President Allan Boole opened the business portion of the meeting and the treasurer, Lillian Walton, reported that the club had a balance of $10.80.

The group was reminded by Judy of the Christmas Dancing-Party Couples' clubs dance later in February, at Tobe's County Gardens.

CAMP AVAILABLE

Another announcement was that Camp Quinte-Lac would be available to families of the United Church for a week in July or August.

Vice-presidents Doug and Midge Graisbery agreed to assume the duties of this office.

Following the business, Lil Thompson assisted by Doug Graisbery, displayed another excellent advantage of being born in the Maritimes. The ability to cook and serve a delicious lunch of baked beans and home-made brown bread.

Following the repast, an excellent film entitled "Cod and Recreation," was shown.

Club Activities

COLLEGE HILL

WEDDING RING CLUB

The College Hill Wedding Ring Club met at the church before the regular meeting time to go as a group to the Mead Johnson of Canada Ltd., for a guided tour.

Upon arrival at the plant the members were divided into two groups and a tour was conducted, beginning with the first step in the making of rice pablum. Each step was clearly shown right through to the packaging and storing. A visit to the boiler (furnace) room was one of the highlights of the tour. The office and lab were also visited bringing to a conclusion a most interesting event. Mr. Dafoe, president of the club, was one of the guides.

Following the tour the members returned to the church and the devotional which was based on the theme, "My Life Work," after which a short quiz was enjoyed by all. Mr. and Mrs. W. Lott be-came the winners of the club.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Dodds and their group who were in charge of the meeting, served refreshments.

How to Convince Friends That You're Really Chic

MONTREAL (CP)—A short course in how to convince your friends you're really chic is offered by columnist Harriet Hill.

Writing in The Gazette, she says:

"You should buy at least one representative painting for your living - room and say casually to guests, 'He's a cobbler man. Now your eye on him.' If the guest looks unbelieving you should add, 'The painting grows on you.'

"The centrepiece of your buffet table should have a fat-out look and boast somewhere a few bare twigs, seed pods or driftwood. Too many blooms will mark you as old-fashioned.

"Your living - room should have at least one rocking chair.

"You should be very knowing about Lawrence Durrell's Alexandria Quartet and even if you didn't understand it one tote you can murmur, 'He paints such word pictures.'

FAR-OUT JAZZ

"Something during the evening you should produce your own jazz and you can't get one good example of far-out jazz.

"Your family pet still can be a puzzle to the nearest and a more exotic breed so much the better.

"Somewhere in the bookcase should be Winnie the Pooh in Latin. You need not even imply your young hopeful can't read it, yet.

"If you live in the suburbs you should emerge booked as your driver to the nearest supermarket. Then your friends will be certain you know your Dior.

"You wear frankly fake jewels, or if you move in circles where real ones are the rule and you haven't any, you can always wear none at all and say airily, 'I can't afford real ones, so I would rather be without.'

"You take at least one extension course, learn Russian if you're up to it, but probably will settle for Italian.

"You're physical fitness conscious and maybe you're taking yoga. If not yoga, you're a devotee of scuba diving, . . .

"You're given to little suppers with one superb dish which you make yourself from one of the gourmet cook books.

"And if all this is an effort, you wouldn't dream of letting anyone know it."

FOR A SCHOOL lunchbox: core an apple, stuff short celery and/or carrot sticks in the hole, furnish the sides with ice water (and a bit of salt if your child likes it). Put the apple in a sandwich bag, twist the top tightly closed. Solved; core disposal problem.

Congregational Meeting

ST. JAMES' ANGLICAN

TWEED — The annual congregational meeting of St. James' Anglican Church was held in the church basement on Monday evening. The meeting opened with prayer by the rector, the Rev. E. A. Hawker, followed by a pot-luck supper prepared by the ladies of the congregation.

The financial statement was read by Mr. Gerald Ingles and it would appear that the church is in good financial condition.

Mr. Gerald Ingles was re-elected people's warden and Mr. Sam Jones the rector's warden. The executive council includes Mr. Eric Graham, Mr. E. Heddman, Mr. F. Thompson, Mr. Oscar Thurston, Mr. Burton Vance, Mr. Harry MacLean, Mr. Ken Jeffery, Dr. W. Paul, Mr. Jim Taylor, Mr. Jim Hathaway, Mr Ben Burkhead, Miss Ana Thompson and Mrs. J. Rosevear. Mr. Harry MacLean is the new treasurer replacing Mrs. Burton Thompson. The auditors are Dr. Willson Paul and Mr. Art Dickerson. Mr. O. Thurston, Mr. G. Ingles and Mr. S. Jones are the appointed delegates to the Synod.

Mrs. Burton Thompson was extended a vote of thanks for her wonderful work she has done as treasurer. Mr. Harry MacLean extended a vote of thanks to the ladies for the lovely dinner.

Events Old and New Reported at Melrose WI

The January meeting of the Melrose W.I., which was held at the home of Mrs. Roy McLaren, with Mrs. L. McLaren as co-hostess, was well attended.

Mrs. K. McKechan welcomed the group and opened the meeting in the usual manner. Mrs. J. McFarlane acted as secretary.

Correspondence included several thank-you notes for cards and gifts received and a letter from the FWIO president on the 55th anniversary in Toronto in February. This was read and reservations at the luncheon for two of the members have been made.

The "Millinery Course" will be held at the home of the president on February 2, 5 and 6 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and a euchre was planned for February 9th in the community hall at Melrose.

A most pleasant surprise took place when Mrs. McKechan invited Mrs. O. McLaren to the front and eulogized the faithful service of this honored member, particularly her untiring assistance at the Plowing Match, when the "McLarens" shouldered the tremendous task of delivering to the Institute tent daily the specified foods in the meat department, after which Mrs. Roy Baldgen, a life member, presented her with a life-membership certificate, and pin for which the recipient expressed her grateful appreciation.

UNIQUE PROGRAM

The motto, "We cannot see the present clearly without knowing our past," formed the basis of a varied and unique program prepared by Mrs. L. Gnaedinger, who chose as her topic, "Current Events: Past, Present and Future." Members of English, Gessie, Bates and Baldgen studied, Mrs. Gnaedinger acted as moderator, stating that something of importance is happening all the time, and this is what is called "Current Events," and based her program, figuratively speaking, in the past, and later with a whirl of the crystal ball, into the future, 20 years hence.

From newspapers dating back to 1900 she had gleaned several items during that period and Mrs. English narrated these, a few of which follow.

Past: Eaton's catalogue offered sensational bargains such as serge skirts (full length) at $1.98; Irish-made table napkins at 96 cents a dozen and gingham at 10 cents a yard. The Weekly Sketch, (a forerunner of the Ontario Intelligencer) brought legions of items of world and local interest in so few pages it was almost unbelievable.

In August of 1915 records show that it was the wettest in 70 years. In September the Belleville Fair had a larger entry-list, grounds were limped and various sheds and pens built.

On the editorial page correspondents were outspoken and varied their interests. Various protests were being carried on to take care of the unemployed and there was a shortage of men and food and this same problem exists in 1962.

The social life around Bloomfield was outlined and brought back pleasant memories to many present who could recall the various events. Mrs. S. Geneja read a printed program of 1911 used by the Melrose W.I. and it was most entertaining.

1980 PREDICTIONS

Future: Mrs. R. Baldgen elaborated on the future, especially in Canada, condensed from a book entitled "Canada 1980," by Albert A. Shea. This is a digest of the Gordon Report, a book about dreams and realities; about the exploration of people and solid economic facts. A few of the predictions for 1980 were: the population would be 27 million and still be growing rapidly; labor force has doubled; population has shifted from a country of farms to a nation of city dwellers; fewer farms, but larger ones equipped with complex machinery; less farm produce is exported.

The average Canadian worker has 70 percent more buying power than in 1955. Radar, produced to detect enemy aircraft, now protects merchant and passenger ships and an intercontinental tourist Skyliner will take us to Europe in less than two hours. Transistors will reduce the size of radios, TV sets and telephones.

The Canada of tomorrow offers an opportunity if we will seize it with zest and grasp it, of a richer and more diversified life for all Canadians, but it is appropriate to say that projections into the future are sometimes in error because life, events and people are basically unpredictable.

CONTEST ON PRESENT CURRENT EVENTS

The leader conducted a quiz session based on happenings in the month of July 1961, giving prizes to the winners who answered the questions correctly. Two teams took part and when stumped, any member in the room could guess, thus practically everyone was involved and benefited by the answers.

The president thanked the hostess for her kind hospitality and complimented the convener on Historical Research for her unique methods in preparing such an educative program.

The roll call, "A written local current event new or old," was well answered and these will be tabulated in the "Tweedsmuir History."

Refreshments were served and a most enjoyable meeting came to an end.

Stockdale United Holds Inauguration

Stockdale United Church Women held their inaugural service on Sunday morning and Mrs. William Pitcher, past president of the W.M.S. and president - elect of United Church Women, brought a message from the pulpit of thanksgiving for past achievement and inspiration for the future of this new organization.

Mrs. F. Hubble, past president of the W.A. and vice-president-elect of United Church Women, conducted the service. Miss Marilyn Hall was at the organ and a special all women's choir contributed an appropriate anthem and led in enthusiastic singing.

The installation readings, prayers and responses, were taken by the women of the congregation. The executive was installed by a brief ceremony of dedication and the two Women's organizations of this church were merged into one for the purpose of uniting the women of the congregation in the total mission of the Church.

Women ushers were appointed for the occasion and the altar was beautifully adorned with flowers. An unusually large congregation was in attendance.

SETS RECORD

TORONTO (CP) — A record $140,476,000 in Metropolitan Toronto capital construction buildings swelled by priority transit building, was presented to Metro executive committee Tuesday. Despite the record spending, Metro Chairman Willis Allen said the budget probably would not mean a tax increase for the 13 Metro municipalities.

Brandon Trip

by Mary Moore

The Brandon Sun celebrated its 80th anniversary and invited me to attend.

It was thirty degrees below zero when I plopped off "The Canadian" at midnight but being met by Lewis Whitehead was no heartwarming. I did not mind the cold.

A great reception was held in the Prince Edward Hotel and it gave me a rare opportunity to meet Brandonites (or are they Brandonians?)

One group of pretty young hostesses asked me for some specific help with their entertaining style.

They all chimed in saying that they often have crowds of ten 16 to 20 and everyone enjoys eating buffet style. They go to one another's homes and are running out of ideas.

Now I have lined on Lasagne as a starter for them. I made and served it at the Press Club Christmas party four or five years ago and it was a big hit. The Press Club girls' husbands even reminded me of it at the latest Christmas party. So it comes well recommended.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

Chicken Liver Omelette with Tomato Sauce; Oven French Fries; Fine Cole Slaw; Spiced Chilled Pears; Crackers and Cheese; Coffee.

LASAGNE (serves 16 generously):

1 lb. lasagne noodles, boiled in plenty of salted water and drained, 2 cups chopped onions, ¼ cup olive or cooking oil, ¼ cup butter or margarine, 2 garlic cloves, finely chopped, 4 pounds ground beef, 1 pound salami, chopped 1½ teaspoons oregano, 1 teaspoon ground nutmeg, ½ teaspoon ground allspice, ½ teaspoon crushed dried red pepper (optional), 6 cups tomato sauce (see below), 1 or 1½ cups grated Parmesan cheese, 2 to 2½ cups grated Swiss Gruyere or Mozzarella cheese, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper, 1 lb. cottage cheese.

Gently saute onions in combined olive oil and butter for 10 minutes, stirring. Add garlic sauce for 5 minutes. Add beef and salami and sauté gently for 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Add spices, cover and bered 18 cadets.

skimmer for 15 minutes, stirring frequently. This lasagne is made with 4 layers of the lasagne noodles, 3 of meat and cottage cheese. Pour about ¼" of tomato sauce on the bottom of 2 large baking dishes. Put one layer of lasagne on top of the sauce, add a third of the meat mixture and a third of the cottage cheese and sprinkle lightly with Parmesan and Swiss cheese or Mozzarella. Repeat, ending with a layer of lasagne noodles. Pour about 1 cup of tomato sauce over each dish of lasagne. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes. Heat the rest of the tomato sauce and serve it with the lasagne. Note: you may use canned tomato sauce or make your own Tomato Sauce: Boil together 2 28-oz. cans tomatoes for 2 cups tomato sauce), 2 small chopped onions, ½ cup chopped celery with leaves, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons sugar for 10 minutes. Stir together 3-6 cup melted butter or margarine and 3-6 cup flour until blended. When tomato mixture is cooked, strain, if desired and stir into butter and flour mixture, cooking and stirring until thick.

Foxboro W.I. Sponsors Euchre Party

A successful euchre party was sponsored by the Foxboro Women's Institute, and held in the school auditorium on January 24.

Ten tables were in play and the prizes which were donated by members of the "Home Economics and Health" group who convened the party were won by the following people: ladies high — Mrs. C. Holmes; Mrs. L. Herman; low — Mrs. E. Morden; men's high — Mrs. R. Hirchcliffe, playing as a man; K. Higgins; C. Bember, low.

The lucky number for the door prize was won by Mrs. Gist.

This was the fourth in a series of euchre parties sponsored by the Women's Institute. The next euchre party will be held early in February.

PIONEER CLASS

The first class at the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont., entering in 1876, numbered 18 cadets.

Wesley United UCW Name 1962 Officers

The first group meeting of the United Church Women of Wesley United Church was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Glen Meyers with eight members and one visitor present.

Mrs. Townsend opened the meeting speaking on the "Mission of the Future." Duties in the inaugural service reminding one cannot go back, one must go forward. The Bible reading was read by Mrs. Burnett.

The president, Mrs. Stewart, welcomed the members and thanked Mrs. Townsend for the fine devotional help.

It was decided to purchase envelopes for systematic giving. The members agreed to forward the usual donation to the Board of Stewards.

Mrs. Meyers took charge of the devotional period and read "Interesting Facts of The Second World War".

Seven paid members received their Charter Cards in the new organization. The meetings are to be held the last Tuesday in each month. The February meeting to be held at Mrs. H. Rutter's. Each member is to bring something to auction.

Mrs. Stewart thanked Mrs. Meyers for opening her home and closed the meeting.

The list of officers were read as follows: president — Mrs. J. Stewart; 1st vice-president — Mrs. R. Baker; secretary — Mrs. W. Denyes; treasurer — Mrs. H. Burnett; community friendship — Mrs. L. Rutter; missionary secretary — Mrs. C. Meyers; flowers and cards — Mrs. E. Van Alstine; birthday box — Mrs. D. Rush; pianists — Mrs. T. Rush and Mrs. H. Denike.

A social half hour was spent with the hostess serving lunch.

Congregational Meeting

BRIDGE STREET UNITED

The annual congregational meeting of Bridge Street United Church was held in the form of a pot-luck supper in the church school auditorium on January 24th.

Each member received a mimeographed copy of the four-teen page annual report which reviewed the work of each board, committee and organization within the church.

The session, which is responsible for the spiritual life of the church, in co-operation with the minister, presents a comprehensive report. At the end of 1961, Bridge Street's membership consisted of 730 active families, 3,031 people under pastoral oversight, with a total membership of 1,851 which is a gain of 73 members during the year. Bridge Street has a non-resident membership of 150.

During 1961, the emphasis centred around the proposed new Christian education extension and shaped up the interior decoration and renovation of the sanctuary. The total cost of the extension and renovation is estimated at $191,000. The campaign produced about two-thirds of this amount in cash and pledges and $63,000 in cash has already been raised. The campaign which was conducted last spring was successful under the chairmanship of Mr. K. G. Gurnett. Mr. A. S. Robb has done a fine job as chairman of the finance committee. Mr. Douglas Burr is chairman of the building committee which is busy making plans for the work ahead. The contract for the extension has been awarded to the H. J. MacFarland Company with construction to begin about April 1st.

Gratitude and appreciation were expressed to many people in positions of responsibility in the church — Mr. Robert Reid, choir director; the choir; Mr. S. Alec Gordon who will celebrate his 25th anniversary as organist in this church, in February; Miss Ethel Morden, envelope secretary; Miss Nellie Ketcheson, Miss Morden's assistant; Mrs. Margaret Riley, church secretary; Mr. Newton Thompson church treasurer, Mr. John Hodgson, chief usher (the men served at ushers in 1961); Mr. Clifford (Sonny) Belch Jr., caretaker; Miss Helen Solmes and Mrs. Moon, church flower committee and Mr. W. G. Sleeth and his committee, who are responsible for the concession arrangements.

Dr. J. Birchard, Messrs. David McLachlan, J. B. McLauchlan, Ross Burtt, Robert Moorcroft, and Garry Sherman were added to the Board of Session which has 63 active and five honorary elders. A new innovation is the addition of two ladies to the committee of stewards. Mrs. Gordon Anderson and Mrs. William Dalles are representatives of the newly formed United Church Women on the committee of stewards. Messrs. Douglas Burr, George Moore, J. R. Patrick and A. S. Robb were also elected to the board.

EXTRA ASSISTANCE

In addition to the regular givings towards the local operating expenses and the special donations to the building fund, the members and adherents of Bridge Street Church contributed $20,639 to the missionary and Maintenance fund of the United Church. This is an increase of $889 over the 1960 figure. In addition to this amount the Women's Missionary Society of the Jubilee Evening Auxiliary made substantial donations to the M and M fund with Mrs. J. C. Anderson as chairman of the M and M fund.

The report of the Sunday School was most interesting. Under the General Superintendent, A. D. Barring, with a voluntary staff of 73 teachers and officers the church school had a successful year. There are 404 children enrolled in the various departments.

The Minister, Rev. H. M. Davis conducted 31 burials in 1961 and 20 of these were members of the church. The gathering stood for a minute's silent prayer in memory of those members who passed away during the year.

Mr. Davis thanked the congregation for their co-operation during the year and reminded them of the work ahead in the new year. Mr. W. J. Morrison expressed the appreciation of the congregation to Rev. and Mrs. Davis for the spiritual leadership which they gave the congregation.

Ralph D. — Cracking nuts in bed is the last straw.

Tessa D. — I don't mind his pipe. He should get used to my tastes.

Ralph D. — I married a real bachelor girl and after six months I haven't made a dent in her crazy habits.

Tess lived alone in a studio apartment where she could do exactly as she pleased, I on the other hand shared a room at home with my two brothers, and we all practised restraint and consideration so that nobody's sleep was interrupted.

I realized Tess would have to change her ways. So did she, and she promised to try. But to date she's gotten no further than turning off the hi-fi. She used to leave it on most of the night, I'm trying to get used to the sound of newspapers rustling as I fall asleep. But cracking pistachio nuts, never! If she cracks them all at once, I couldn't be so bad. But five minutes apart, on into the night — nothing doing!

* * *

Tessa D. — It's not just the nuts Ralph objects to. It's anything that detracts from a decadent Greta Garbo. The Right Side of the Single Bed" and like the Riviera, should be life alone. Any resemblance between such and the considerate lawyer you married in the Mr. and Mrs. menage is purely coincidental and depends upon how much carried-over "nonsense" each can take.

Other Besides mixing the boys good-bye, Tessa mus; kiss good-bye the tearing open of a fresh pack of cigarettes after bedtime, the watching TV in bed (set with antennae and remote control!) and other privileges of the loser. And Ralph should get used to the gentle sound effects of his wife's evening magazine flip, ping — even humming.

PHILOSOPHER DIES

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dr. William F. G. Swann, 77, widely known physicist, teacher, philosopher and wit, died Monday of a cerebral hemorrhage.

The Council: Before defining the Temperate Zone for these mates who seem Poles apart in their approach to slumber, we wish to express our agreement with Ralph on the air-cracking bit. What can be worse than lying there on the dark side of the bed, waiting for the next explosion of shell? Maybe it's the fiendish thrill of toying for the upstairs tenant to drop his second shoe. Suffice it to remind Tessa that a drop of water, falling rhythmically minutes apart, can wear away not only the strongest rock but also a good set of human nerves. Ask any nocturnal "blood-pressure victim!

It's hard to tell which of these two has made the greater progress toward a different-from-before design for falling asleep. Starting from such extremes, with Tessa sending noisy rituals to lull her off and finding herself kept awake by the pure silence Ralph demands, each has come a few steps out of the bed. But there's still a mile to go and if all effort fails, separate bedrooms aren't the worst solution. Sleeplessness could lead to worse ones.

These newlyweds aren't being fair. They don't realize that marriage means give-and-take, but it also means giving up to her new book, "The Single Women," Phyllis Rosenteur has described the "Other Side Of The Single Bed" and lists the Riviera, Acapulco in life alone. Any resemblance between such and the considerate lawyer you married in the Mr. and Mrs. menage is purely coincidental and depends upon how much carried-over "nonsense" each can take.

Other Besides mixing the boys good-bye, Tessa mus; kiss good-bye the tearing open of a fresh pack of cigarettes after bedtime, the watching TV in bed (set with antennae and remote control!) and other privileges of the loser. And Ralph should get used to the gentle sound effects of his wife's evening magazine flip, ping — even humming.

Lost Baby, Life Is Empty

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I am 31, my husband 37. We are happily married.

Three months ago we lost our baby. He was three months premature. Since then I can't seem to get back into my old routine.

I guess I just wanted this baby so much, that having lost it, it seems the whole world, and God, have turned against me. I try to join friends in different things and be happy, but all the time I am just putting on a false face.

My husband's business is slack at present, and it is up to me to "bring in the bacon," but I feel I don't want to go back to work, although there is a job waiting for me.

Am I thinking too much of myself? Please tell me what to do to shake off the blues and get back to feeling my old self again.—BLUES.

DEAR BLUES:—You have had a profound shock. You are physically and emotionally spent. It takes time to recover.

But why blame God? He is the one who can help you back on your feet. Could your face mourning all your life for a child you never knew? Time can heal; another baby might even come.

Meanwhile, there are countless women who would give their eye teeth for what you have. That fine husband is counting on you. Now is the time to do as the song says and "Laugh, Clown, Laugh."

Put on a good front. It may be false at first, but as friends respond to a happier you, you will get a lift. Build up physically and—Back to work for you! Time will heal, but you have to do your part.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WORRIED MIND:—If you see him, smile. But don't concentrate on a boy who is not even thinking about you.

Keep getting to know others and be nice to everybody. Learn how to carry on a conversation. This comes of knowing what's going on in the world and having hobbies and sports you are good at. And by being honestly interested in what your companion of the moment thinks about things. The best bouquets go to the good listeners.

Full Gospel CA Elects New Officers

FRANKFORD — Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle C.A.'s held its annual business meeting last Friday evening.

The vice-president, Gordon Smith, led in the song service. President Keith Helm read the Scripture from Hebrews 13.

The meeting was turned over to the pastor as chairman for election of officers.

Mrs. E. Sine was appointed as recording secretary for the meeting, and read the annual business report of the C.A.'s for 1961.

The following gave their reports: the president, Keith Helm; and vice-president, Gordon Smith; sec-treasurer, Winnie Helm and sick convener, Barbara Smith.

Ushering, Linda Fisher and Gloria Reilly received the evening offering.

Scrutineers appointed were: Mrs. L. Reilly and Mrs. A. Watson.

Elected officers for C.A.'s for 1962 are: president, Keith Helm; vice-president, Miss Connie Wood; sec.-treasurer, Mrs. Eldon Sine; sick convener, Mrs. Gordon Smith; social convener, Miss Carolyn Reichert; pianist, Miss Lois Wright and Miss B. Wannamaker; ushers, Richard Patrick and Calvin Watson.

New business was discussed and the meeting adjourned, followed by prayer by Miss Connie Wood.

Women's Activities

W.M.S. - LADIES AID

IVANHOE — The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S. and Ladies Aid was held at the home of Mrs. John Wallace on January 24.

Mrs. David Fargey presided and opened the program by reading a New Year's poem.

Psalm 34 was read by Mrs. Dan Adams. The key words, "Faith Can Light A Candle In the Darkest Night" was given by B. L. Fleming. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Fourteen members and one visitor were present.

The presentation of three honorary life membership certificates, to Mrs. Henry Wallace, Mrs. William Shaw and Mrs. Chester Sills, was conducted by Mrs. John McLean, who read the address and Mrs. Lindsay Sills, who made the presentation.

The presentation of these certificates was made possible by the late Mrs. Martha Horton, a faithful missionary worker, who bequeathed $500 to St. Andrew's West Huntington W.M.S. which was in keeping with the Scripture, "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal."

Mrs. Frank Ashley and Miss Sarah Wallace, who were unable to be present, will be presented with certificates by a delegation of ladies in the near future.

Although Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. Sills were taken by surprise, each made an interesting reply. Mrs. Wallace, the oldest member, celebrated her 90th birthday this month.

A report of the Kingston Presbytery of the W.M.S. annual meeting was given by Mrs. John Wallace; a reading, "Beginnings," by Mrs. Harold Thompson; a solo, "My Task," by Mrs. Milton Shaw; a reading, "The Prayer," by Mrs. William Donnan and the meeting closed.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

QUADRUPLETS DIE

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Two 1½-pound infant boys, surviving brothers of quadriplets born to Mrs. Irma Jean Di Mario, died Monday. Two of the quadruplets were born dead. Physicians held little hope for the survivors because they were born two months prematurely.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

IF YOU'RE A DROPPER-INNER, LEARN THE RULES!

When someone says "Do drop in when you're in the neighborhood," should you?

Very often such a casual invitation is sincerely meant, and the person who issues it dearly loves to have friends feel that they can pop in at any time and be sure of a warm welcome.

But too often it's said on the spur of the moment, with a definite date intended. That's why, before you jump at any invitation that's couched in such general terms, it's better to check in advance and have the invitation translated into specifics.

True, dropping-in is taken for granted in a number of communities, but, generally, it's a standard practice nowadays is to phone first before making an impromptu visit. This applies whether the call is in response to an abstract "do drop in" given at the end of a party, or is a semi-official one like greeting new neighbors or welcoming a friend back from a trip or a stay in the hospital.

If possible, it's always more courteous to give ample warning of a visit instead of decoding on five-minutes notice. A phone call, at least an hour or two in advance of 8-hour, gives a hostess a chance to tidy up a bit and put the kettle on to boil. You may be sure she'll welcome you all the more for your courteous gesture.

Unless, as a result of your preliminary phone call, you're hostess insists you come to lunch or arrange to stay for dinner, it's good form to limit your visit to "neutral" hours in the late afternoon or in the evening, after dinner.

Be definite about what time you'll arrive. If you plan to drop in at three, then say so, so your hostess won't get the screaming meemies because she's all afternoon when you'll show up and will just have time to get the roast on for dinner.

Even though the visit is meant to be casual, it still shouldn't be taken so lightly that you forget to be punctual. If you make a date for two, it shouldn't be kept at four. Under any circumstances try not to be late for an appointment, but it's especially so when you've specified the time, yourself, and asked your hostess to reserve it especially for you. So when you arrange to make a social call, also arrange to keep it on the dot.

How long you should stay when you drop in is fairly flexible. When you call to introduce yourself to new neighbors, or to visit someone who's just returned from the hospital, then you really should stay no longer than twenty minutes.

A call may be longer if your hostess indicates she'd like to have a long chat or trots out the tea things. However, a call never should be so prolonged that it spoils the rest of the hostess' hour or in any way interferes with your hostess' other plans. Your own good sense of timing should tell you when it's appropriate to leave.

HENRY'S WIVES

VANCOUVER (CP)—The six wives of Henry VIII will be flying into Vancouver over the trans-Polar route in March. In color and costume, the figures are en route for the enlarged Royal London Wax Museum at Niagara Falls call for the museum's model to journey by ferry to Vancouver for the meeting.

Future Events Planned at U.C.W. Meet

WELLINGTON — On January 25th, over 60 United Church Women met in the Sunday School room of the church for their first general meeting with Mrs. C. H. Burr at the piano.

The meeting came to order with quiet music. The president, Mrs. H. Pierson, presided and read a poem of new beginnings and opportunities. A warm welcome was extended to all. The worship service was conducted by Mrs. H. Nash taking as her topic, "Serving the United Church in Canada and overseas". Psalm 117 has been chosen for the theme in 1962. Members stand at the door of a new year with faith, courage, hope and prayer with a purpose to unite all the women of the church in one fellowship. Mrs. C. H. Burr accompanied Mrs. Allan Pettengill as she sang the beautiful number, "How Great Thou Art".

The corresponding secretary, Mrs. Bev Gibson, reported having received 14 cards of appreciation for cards, candy and flowers and having sent 11 cards to sick and shut-ins. Mrs. Reden Alyea, chairman of the finance committee presented the budget for the year and announced that the allocation would be $100 for the Missionary and Maintenance fund. Mrs. Barton Crook, chairman of literature and communication recommended reading as the best source of learning, stressing the amount of important information in the book entitled, "Outreach", recently published. A drive is being launched to have the United Church paper, "Observer" in each home. It was recommended for a recent executive meeting that each unit will be responsible for small projects and that each member is asked to bring an apron or material for same. Mrs. Burr will be received at unit meetings and chester membership cards issued for same.

The next general meeting will be held on March 22nd and it was announced that the World Day of Prayer service will be held in the United Church on the evening of March 9th. An Inaugural meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference U.C.W. will be held in Tabernacle Church, Belleville on January 31st. Miss Ann Ward, secretary in Toronto, the Rev. Katherine McKeen and the Rev. Kilpatrick will be guest speakers at this day-long meeting.

The Rev. Truax gave an outline of the Bible study commencing with the early church at Corinth and said that the church potentials are beyond his imagination, after which Mrs. C. Cleeve expressed appreciation.

The meeting closed and following a contest, a social half hour was enjoyed.

Reliability of Daily Press Discussed by Journalists

TORONTO (CP) — Can you trust what you read in your daily newspaper?

A panel of newspaper editors with the daily newspaper, publishers, a public relations Others criticized a tendency to mac, an advertising executive wards monopoly, dependence on and a civil servant dealt with non-Canadian news services in the question Tuesday night on international news, the role of the public relations man and a shortage of well-trained staff.

Some observations:

John Bassett, publisher of the Toronto Telegram:

"I think that the news stories in the press of Canada today are accurate, trustworthy, and that the newspaper generally is doing an effective job.

R. A. J. Phillips of the department of northern affairs:

"The press of Canada hasn't adequately gauged the magnitude of its job in reporting on the government and its administration."

Pierre Berton, Toronto Star columnist:

"The public is too cheap to pay enough money for a good newspaper. They think a good newspaper shouldn't cost any more than a cup of coffee. In my opinion a really good newspaper should cost about 50 cents a day."

Blair Fraser, editor of Maclean's magazine:

"I think we have a good, general standard of press information in Canada."

Andre Laurendeau, editor-in-chief of Le Devoir, said Canadian newspapers rely on U.S. news agencies which see things from the American point of view.

Stories from South America by U.S. news services had to be checked. Although repression by the Castro government in Cuba was reported by the news services, similar events in the Dominican Republic were not. Mr. Laurendeau said.

Jacques Hebert, Montreal publisher and writer, said he felt in some cases newspapers, radio and television were not doing an adequate job of informing the public.

Joseph McDougall, vice-president of the advertising firm of Cockfield, Brown and Company, Limited, said newspapers, for all their weaknesses, are the best way to get information to the public.

The public relations man for the Liberal party, James Moore, said most newspapers can be trusted as long as "we accept the fact" that 90 per cent of their news originates from public relations sources.

He said he felt no ethical public relations man distorts the news.

Mr. Berton said he did not think 80 per cent of the news originated from public relations sources.

"We are living in the age of the handout and it's easy to take a handout and rewrite it. It depends on your editor whether you're allowed to do that."

Christopher Young, editor of the Ottawa Citizen, said although many people try to get their point of view into a newspaper, it is up to the newspapers whether they will accept it.

Mr. Berton said the trend to monopoly in newspaper ownership causes a lack of different points of view in newspapers

He said it is "very sad" there is no daily socialist paper in Canada when the socialist party is strong.

Newspapers were not doing enough probing behind the news because this was expensive and "unless there is another paper across the street, you just don't bother," Mr. Berton said.

He said it takes a publisher with a strong sense of community responsibility to do this sort of probing.

Doctors Charter CP Liner For Bermuda Cruise, Will Hold Meetings Aboard Ship

By GERALD L'ANGE

TORONTO (CP) — An eight-day sunshine cruise by the Empress of England in March is just what the doctors ordered.

The 25,500-ton liner has been chartered by the College of General Practice of Canada for its 1962 convention and scientific assembly.

When the Canadian Pacific vessel sails from New York March 26 bound for Bermuda and Nassau the only non-medical persons aboard will be the crew and the doctors' wives.

More than half of nearly 700 passengers on the ship will be doctors—delegates to what is probably the first medical convention held on the high seas.

Included in the itinerary are two days of sightseeing ashore—one at Hamilton, Bermuda, and the other at Nassau.

"But it won't be a pleasure cruise," says Dr. W. V. Johnston, the college's executive director. "We'll all be working hard."

All the delegates will be trying to accumulate about 50 hours of study credits towards the minimum requirement of 100 hours every two years for continued membership in the college.

The tight schedule of lectures, discussions, medical film shows and exhibits leaves little time for deck quoits or sunbathing.

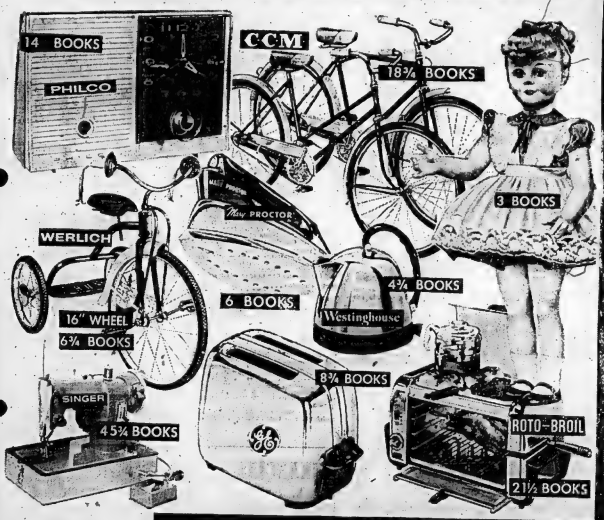
On the first day out at 8 a.m. breakfast will be followed immediately by a lecture on hormone treatments, kicking off a non-stop program broken only by luncheon and continuing until late afternoon.

Business sessions will continue at the same pace right up to the night before the vessel docks again at New York April 30.

On board will be a lecture panel of five university professors — Dr. Robert Grenblatt, professor of endocrinology at the Medical College of Georgia; Dr. F. S. Brien, professor of medicine at the University of Western Ontario; Dr. Pierre Johin, professor of anatomy at Laval University; Dr. F. G. Kergin, professor of surgery, University of Toronto, and Dr. William A. Cochrane, professor of paediatrics, Dalhousie University.

The schedule of at least three lectures by each professor spaces the talks widely across the timetable. Dr. Kergin, for instance, will give his first talk on the first day at sea and his second after leaving Bermuda.

By dead reckoning, Dr. Kergin should be giving his third lecture, on bronchogenic carcinoma, when the ship's position is roughly 25 degrees north by 70 west. That's about half way between Nassau and Bermuda.



The college's annual general meeting will be held on the afternoon of the second day out. Executive sessions will have been held in New York prior to sailing.

The annual dance and installation of officers will take place on the fourth night, somewhere off the Nassau coast.

Delegates and their wives will pay the usual rates applying to off - season cruises by the liner. Average cost of the trip will be about $200 plus the cost of getting to New York and back home.

1st Vice Pres., 1962

The President's Message . . .

The year 1961 has been one of progress for the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, as will be noted from the financial report, the Chamber is in a sounder financial position than it has been for several years. Much of the credit for this is due to the successful membership campaign under the chairmanship of Mr. J. E. Corke. Careful financial control by the Treasurer, Mr. G. E. Trill, and by his predecessor, Mr. A. F. E. Jarrett, helped significantly in the achievement of the present position.

Early in the year the Chamber acted as the liaison body to assist in the formation of Belleville of a Junior Chamber of Commerce. This organization is now in full operation and is destined to be an important factor in the life and growth of our community. We are happy to have had the opportunity of assisting these young men in the organization of the Junior Chamber.

Co-operation between the Chamber and the teaching profession has been extended by repealing the "Business-Education Day" program for new teachers.

Mr. A. O. Drysdale, a Past President of the Chamber, was elected President of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce in May 1961, and it is most gratifying to see the ability and hard work of one of our members recognized by his colleagues at the provincial level.

The Chamber office has continued to render valuable service, not only to Chamber members, but to the City of Belleville and to visitors to our community, and I would like to express my appreciation to our Manager, Mr. E. E. Dicknoether, and to the office staff for their unstinting effort.

It has been a privilege and an honor to serve as President in 1961. To the executive, directors, committee chairmen and members who have given so freely of their time and talent and whose co-operation has been excellent, my sincere thanks.

G. A. WISHART

Delegates A. O. Drysdale and G. A. Wishart and wife registering for the 60th Annual meeting of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, Windsor, Ontario.

Delegates G. A. Wishart and Chamber Manager, Earl Dicknoether, (far right) during Policy Session. These policies with a majority support of the 700 Chambers in Ontario are then presented to the Ontario Government.

Mr. A. O. Drysdale, (centre), Director of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce upon his election as president of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

Meeting of some of the 50 new members which resulted from the one day BLITZ held during 1961. Their host, Mr. J. E. Corke, Membership Chairman on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce.

DOWNTOWN RETAIL SECTION
BELLEVILLE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

During the year 1961, the Downtown Section conferred, through general meetings, with executive and familiarize the various manufacturers to each other, so that a better understanding of individual problems could be understood by all and a possible solution through individual investigation could be arrived at.

MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE — Chairman, J. B. Corke

I wish to express my thanks to the various members of the Chamber of Commerce who took part in our 1961 Membership Drive, which, I am happy to say, resulted in the acquiring of 50 new members. This is a most encouraging total, and most successful blitz and I look forward to participating in another drive during 1962. Membership funds are a major source of revenue and are a gauge by which we plan the amount of activity for the year.

PROVINCIAL and NATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE — Chairman E. David

During the year the Belleville Chamber of Commerce was represented at the Ontario Chamber of Commerce Annual Meeting in Windsor, by Mr. A. O. Drysdale; Mr. G. A. Wishart and Chamber Manager Mr. E. Dicknoether. Resolutions were submitted and supported many of the resolutions which have since been submitted to the provincial government by the Ontario and Canadian Chambers of Commerce. Mr. G. A. Freeman is Belleville's delegate to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, the next Annual Meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce will be held in Niagara Falls, Ontario and it is hoped that the Belleville Chamber of Commerce will be well represented.

TRAFFIC COMMITTEE — Chairman D. J. Barrett.

The Chairman attended all Traffic Committee meetings and represented the interest of the Chamber in all discussions. During the submission of the proposed Traffic Survey the Chamber was represented and its views and recommendations were made known. Also through your Chairman a recommendation was made that the city contact the Department of Highways requesting that if provisions had not already been made for additional access east of the City on Highway 401 that it was our desire to see that plans be made as soon as possible for this interest.

TOURIST COMMITTEE — Chairman, J. A. Ireland

The Tourist Committee has received, from the Belleville Industrial Commission, a booklet and it is anticipated that a site will be found somewhere on Highway 14 suitable for the erection of a Tourist Information Booth early in the year 1962. The Committee, during 1961, met with various interested groups in an attempt to set up tourist areas which would conform with plans laid down by the Department of Tourist and Publicity. It was finally agreed that an organization of this type at this time would prove unsuitable.

Our Highlands of Hastings brochure have been forwarded to Sportsmen's Shows in Toronto, Kitchener and Buffalo and were also distributed at major border crossing points.

AFFILIATIONS

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce is a member of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, the Canadian Tourist Association and the Toronto Better Business Bureau. We are active members of the Lake Ontario Development Association and the Ontario Chamber of Commerce Executives.

In Appreciation . . .

The Board of Directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce gratefully acknowledges the many courtesies and assistance extended to it by Mayor C. Mclean Haig and Members of the City Council, the City Manager and department heads of the City Hall, the Warden and Council Members of the County of Hastings, the Editor and staff of the Ontario Intelligencer and the Manager and staff of the Radio Station CJBQ, the Manager and staff of the Belleville Credit Bureau and others who gave unstintingly of their time and efforts.

MANAGER'S REPORT

In reviewing the 1961 Annual Report, particularly the Financial Report, it would appear your Chamber has been extremely active, plus ending up the year with a slight surplus. It is a false impression to feel that the Chamber is adequately financed as a result of a slight overage. During the year, in reference to budget restrictions, your Board of Directors did not engage in a number of Chamber activities which would have been beneficial to both the City and the Chamber, for fear of placing the Chamber in a deficit position. Such activities would include representation at the Canadian Chamber of Commerce Annual Meeting, new Chamber literature, publicity and promotion, which it was felt, unfortunately, had to be left undone due to their high cost. Since the Chamber has completed the year 1961 on a sound basis, it is hoped that during the year 1962 these projects may be investigated which would be beneficial and financially possible, if the expectation of additional revenue is realized.

My thanks to the Board of Directors, Committee Chairmen and Members, for their assistance and encouragement, without both of which progress is impossible.

EARL E. DICKNOETHER
Manager

AIMS AND OBJECTIVES — The Belleville Chamber of Commerce is a voluntary organization of citizens established to promote the civic, commercial, industrial and agricultural progress of the community and district which it serveswand to work for sound legislation and efficient administration at the community, provincial and federal levels of government. Membership is open to all who may be interested in the development of the community.

BUSINESS AND CONSUMER PROTECTIVE BUREAU—The Belleville Chamber of Commerce opened its Business and Consumer Protective Bureau late in 1960. Since that time numerous complaints (which must be submitted in writing and signed) have been processed to the mutual satisfaction of buyer and seller. In other cases, we have been approached on a product of dubious merit after the contract has been signed. On these occasions, there is very little the Bureau can do except recommend the party seek legal counsel. The Belleville Business and Consumer Protective Bureau is a member of the Toronto Better Business Bureau and strongly endorses their slogan, "Before you invest—read us."

COMING EVENTS REGISTER — Many organizations throughout the city regularly take advantage of the Coming Events Register which is provided for their use. It is the hope that through the constant use of this register, attendance at functions may be increased, and that it may prevent over-lapping of dates for the five organizations that do their share of service work in this community. Remember this service is for you—make use of it.

GROUP INSURANCE — The Group Insurance Plan has been in operation since November of 1953. This group plan extends coverage to its member firms, their employees and families. There are presently 24 firms participating making a total of 193 individuals. Claims have been made to date in excess of $44,000.00. This plan covers Dependent Coverage, Life Insurance, Accidental Death, Dismemberment and loss of sight, Weekly Indemnity, Hospital Benefits, Surgical Benefits, Pregnancy Benefits, Anaesthesia Benefits, Medical Benefits, Diagnostic X-Ray and Laboratory Test Benefits, etc. Through this plan, employer, employee, and dependents may enjoy the finest in hospital, medical and surgical care.

BUILDING TRADE — During the past year 192 sets of plans and specifications of building and other work projects were received at the office and made available to the members of the exchange.

OTHER SERVICES — The Chamber of Commerce office is source of information for its members and citizens of Belleville and District. Hundreds of enquiries are received throughout the year enquiring about road conditions, statistics of this city and others, store hours, business opportunities, travel information and recommended routes. All enquiries are acknowledged and carefully checked for accuracy. Many of the above are from telephone directories and street directories from most major cities across Canada. It also subscribes to a number of Trade Publications for the use and information of its members.

Right-Wing Extremists See Red Conspiracy at Work in Every Cranny of U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—The hard right-winger sees a monstrous conspiracy at work in every cranny of the United States.

Its purpose, he says, is to deliver the United States into the hands of the Communists and he warns, "it is later than you think."

He accuses eminent Americans, including two former presidents and Chief Justice Earl Warren, of degrees of complicity. And the Kennedy administration is "very weak and soft in dealing with the Communist threat."

To him, this plot is the touchstone that uncomplicates the complicated. It gives him one simple, easily - grasped explanation for all the intricate problems of today and the immediate past — Berlin, Cuba, Katanga, Laos, Korea, Viet Nam, China.

AIDED COMMUNISTS

The supporter of nuclear weapons testing, he writes, was done "for only one conceivable purpose — to give the Soviets time to attain, or at least claim, superiority in weapons of which propaganda has engendered in us an hysterical fear."

Most Americans are unaware of the situation, he says, having been blinded by Communist infiltration of the federal government, the churches, schools, and armed forces. Press, radio and television, he says, deliberately misinformed the people or failed to print "the facts of life."

As immediate corrective measures, he calls for withdrawal from the United Nations, an end to foreign aid, a sharp break with the Soviet Union, the impeachment of Warren, and deep surgery in the state department and other branches of the federal government.

In some cases and in varying degrees, he also sees danger to the country from legislation, labor unions, the income tax, welfare programs, foreign alliances and water fluoridation.

DIFFER AMONG SELVES

The above points form a composite profile of the ultra - conservative citizen, the typical member of the Hard Right, the "double patriot."

The profile does not apply, in all respects, to every rightist. There are many groups and many different shades of opinion among them. They don't all call for the same things. Even within a given organization, the John Birch Society, for example, there are Birchers who do not endorse everything propounded by the society's founder, Robert Welch of Massachusetts.

But it does point the general direction of what appears to be a rising river of opinion in the United States today.

How big is the movement?

Nobody can say precisely. One survey indicates that as many as 2,000 organizations may be functioning. Their total membership, however is impossible to calculate accurately. The John Birch society and Minutemen do no disclose their enrolment. Some individuals belong to more than one group. Some drop out shortly after joining. Some join but are inactive.

COULD VARY SHARPLY

The total could be millions, or only a few hundreds of thousands.

Some groups that have attracted the greatest attention are the Birchers, the Christian Anti - Communist Crusade, the National Indignation Council, the Christian Council, and the Minutemen (or Minute Men as some groups delineate it), a loosely - knit collection of bands who manoeuvre in the field with actual firearms and presumably are training for guerrilla warfare in case of invasion or in-case American Communists take over the country.

What type of person joins them?

Stanley Mosk, attorney - general of California, wrote in a report on the John Birch society:

"The cadre . . . seems to be formed primarily of wealthy businessmen, retired military officers and little old ladies in tennis shoes."

If this is accurate for that group in that state, it hardly describes the rightist movement as a whole.

Rightist thinking has permeated many segments of U.S. society, from theorizing professors to the doctrines with housewives and corporation executives, college presidents and college students, professional men and factory workers.

A large number of the far rightist groups were organized only a few years ago. Many of their members are between the ages of 25 and 35.

Ask them why they have joined and the same three answers recur:

1. Because the rise of a pro-Communist regime within 100 miles of American territory has come as a teeth-rattling shock.

2. Security—the sudden awareness that the United States is vulnerable to large-scale physical attacks which could assume hideous dimensions.

3. Impatience— are we going to have to live in fear and uncertainty all our lives?" a 23-year - old New York social worker asked. "Why don't our leaders do something? Why doesn't the United Nations ever settle anything?"

So they join rightist groups and learn that the principal Communist threat to the U.S. comes from within the country, not from abroad.

ACCUSE GOVERNMENT

They are told that there are Communists, or sympathizers, in the federal government. They are told, which they accept, that

"No one dares to say that the overwhelming evidence indicates that the pilot of our famous U-2 must have purposely flown his plane over Russia and that the objectives of those who sent him and the incident must have been (1) to give the Soviet a model to duplicate; (2) to prompt the American Communists with an excuse for getting reconciliation with Communist suspended and (3) to postpone the 'summit conference' with a maximum of public disgrace to the U.S."

Another pamphlet castigates the "Communist - Zionist Press." Nor are the churches, schools and Supreme Court free of Red infiltration, the extremists assert.

How if becomes "clear" why China was "lost" and Berlin encircled in East German territory, why the Russian threat is a stalemate, why the Cuban issue is a Soviet base is clear, too. The answer is simple—Reds in high places in the United States.

Kennedy Asks Congress Curb Farm Production

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Armed with a flood of surplus food, President Kennedy gave Congress his farm message today, asking for a voluntary cut-back and other production under a three-year plan that would affect millions of farm acres into other uses.

But the toughest program ever proposed by a president in peacetime, with the threat of the 1930s, and undoubtedly will be hotly debated in Congress.

It would be voluntary but obviously no alternative. Either farmers co-operate with the federal controls to trim acreage or get no price support at all. Kennedy said that the "short-fall" ports would mean a sharp drop in farm prices.

Besides reducing surpluses, the plan is designed to save taxpayers about $500,000,000 a year in lower federal price-support payments, the total about $2,000,000,000 annually.

FARMERS OPPOSE

Kennedy's plan — which the powerful U.S. farm lobby is presently opposing — would mean farmers would be encouraged to get out of farming and retrain for other jobs. There would be increased financial and other inducements, and land taken out would be diverted to soil conservation, parks, wildlife sanctuaries, rural development or other uses.

Some farmers complain this would mean a shift in control of farm management, by applying the machinery to smaller acreages.

But Kennedy maintained that a lot of U.S. farmers are marginal producers. Of some 3,000,000 operators, 1,500,000 turn out only 10 per cent of the country's food, the other 2,000,000 only 13 per cent.

The substance of the Kennedy plan might eventually prove a boon to Canadian wheat growers. As the U.S. surplus is whittled down, world markets might become enlarged and brighten the future for sales.

Kennedy said little likelihood the president's proposals will make headway in this congressional session.

SUPPORTS FEDERATION

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — The legislative assembly of this self - governing British island colony Tuesday gave its support in principle to a plan to form a Malaysian federation. The bill would comprise Singapore, Malaya, Sarawak, Brunei and North Borneo.

CONGO HERO AT NEWS CONFERENCE —British Army Major Dick Lawson, right, who rescued European missionaries from the No Man's Land of North Katanga in The Congo, is shown at news conference in United Nations headquarters at Leopoldville. With him are Victor Monckley, 17, left, a guide, and Nigerian Maj. Conrad Mwano, both of whom accompanied Lawson to Kongola in North Katanga where they defied sneers and rifle butts to evacuate three nuns and eight priests. U.S. Efforts to Destroy Castroism Meet Opposition

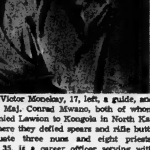
By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United Sstaes is heading towards more humiliation in its effort to destroy Castroism.

Confronted by opposition from three of the big wheels of the Latin American family—Brazil, Mexico and Argentina — State Secretary Dean Rusk has gradually watered down his original tough demands for isolation of Cuba through Latin American economic and diplomatic sanctions.



What is expected now is a decision at the December OAS organization of American States that, because it supports communism, Castroism is bad for the American hemisphere—and that the OAS should decide later what to do about it.

This is a big come-down for Rusk who went to the Punta del Este, Uruguay, conference confident he would obtain agreement from at least 14 members—he required two-thirds majority—for action to ostracize Castro's government in the Western Hemisphere and so perhaps hasten Castro's downfall through internal unrest in Cuba.

CASTRO UNSHAKEN

Castro is firmly entrenched as ever. The condemnation the OAS members are preparing to make is relatively mild in contrast to the stern measures the U.S. had proposed.

Now Rusk is being forced to quit his embarrassing position of leader of the United States countries against Castro by coast him Nigerian Maj. Conrad Mwano, both of whom accompanied Lawson to Kongola in North Katanga where they defied sneers and rifle butts to evacuate three nuns and eight priests. Lawson, 35, is a career officer serving with UN forces in Leopoldville. (AP Wirephoto).

National Marketing Boards Requested by Farmers Union

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal action to permit national marketing boards was urged today by the National Farmers Union as an alternative to "bringing the three largest meat packing companies under public ownership."

The union's annual brief to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his cabinet asked federal legislation under the British North America Act "providing for the establishment of national marketing boards with mandatory powers and control over the marketing of commodities produced on farms, including those operated or owned by processors, distributors and manufacturers."

LIKE FAMILY FARM

The union, second - largest farm group in Canada with membership centred in the four western provinces plus Ontario, also urged:

1. Preservation of the family farm as the "basic unit" in any national farm policy worth the name.

2. A comprehensive program of deficiency payments to producers on a specified portion of their production to make up the difference between their return from actual market prices and the per capita income of the nation.

3. Increased farm production, rather than "planned scarcity," through an active promotion, large-scale immigration, a food-for-the-needy program in Canada, more farm credit and extended farm crop insurance.

4. Early establishment of a comprehensive national health plan.

5. Full freedom for both the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and the National Film Board, without any dependence on commercial advertising.

FREIGHT RATES

The brief said there is considerable evidence proving the futility of the "widely-propagated" theory that bigness automatically brings greater farm unit efficiency and makes the removal of more family farms necessary.

"With the exception of some specialty crops, chicken products and vegetables, collectivized farming has not made much headway in Canada—and yet," it said, "but this could change if commercial farming is increased, with retail outlets and processors in control of the farms."

The brief dwelt on the report of the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission last year on the meat packing industry.

It quoted that report as saying the position of the largest packers Limited, was so dominant in the market that "it is against the public interest and in the interest of both producers and consumers."

The union urged that federal action to permit national marketing boards.

Monty Ready To Help Whites Against Blacks

DURBAN (Reuters) — British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery said Tuesday night if Negroes from outside South Africa threatened the whites' racial reforms "I shall draw my sword and come and help you myself."

Montgomery, touring South Africa, received a rapturous ovation when he made the offer at a meeting of a white-only organization called the Memorable Order of Tin Hats.

He said: "I am a white people with 6ft this country united—if they find a leader and threaten the whites of South Africa—then I shall draw my sword and come and help you myself."

But Monty cautioned that the whites' position would not be helped by interference from the north.

He said Afrikaans - and English - speaking South Africans must solve their differences, adding: "Nobody from outside is going to help you."

He said unity must start in the schools. "You cannot expect all go to school together. You cannot be united. You must stand firmly together and you will be all right when trouble comes."

He placed the blame for the world's present state at the door of politicians.

"On two occasions since the last war I have seen the politicians fought major wars and won them. But in neither case have we received the benefits The politicians mucked the whole show up."

SAYS PUBLIC TIRED

KINGSTON (CP) — Stanley Knowles, veteran CCF member of the Canadian Labor Congress, said Tuesday night the New Democratic Party exists because the public is tired of two parties "so much alike they are indistinguishable." Because of the NDP the public now has something different to before — a choice of policies and opinions, Mr. Knowles said.

3 Passports Issued in Normal Way

OTTAWA (CP)—An investigation is under way to determine whether anyone in Canada broke the law in connection with three suspects in an international dope smuggling case just ceasing falsely - obtained Canadian passports, External Affairs Minister Green said Tuesday.

The trio — Frank Caruso, 30, Vincent Mauro, 45, and Salvatore Mauro, 47 — jumped bail last September while awaiting trial in United States federal court.

They were arrested in Spain last week and the U.S. Federal Bureau of Narcotics said the trio carried falsely-obtained Canadian passports. The U.S. government described Caruso and Mauro as kingpins in a $150,000,000 dope smuggling syndicate which took drugs into the U.S. from Canada and Italy.

In the Commons Tuesday, Paul Helliwell (L—Toronto Trinity) asked whether the passports they carried when arrested were "issued in the normal way."

ISSUE NORMALLY

Mr. Green replied:

"Subsequent to the applications for passports were made in the names of Mattiucci, Lombardo and Pisciotta, since the forms were in order, vouched for by persons who guarantor and accompanied by the necessary photographs and birth passports, they were issued in the normal way.

"Subsequent information received indicated that the forms contained false information and the passports should not have been obtained by misrepresentation and fraud.

"When this was discovered, immediate steps were taken by the RCMP, in connection with other law enforcement agencies, to recover and cancel the three passports.

"Investigations in respect of these applications are continuing."

Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent Is Still Optimistic About Canada on 80th Birthday

QUEBEC (CP) — Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent is to celebrate his 80th birthday quietly Thursday, far removed from the hurly-burly of Parliament where he served impressively for 18 years.

Looking across the busy desk in his sixth-floor law office in Quebec City's tallest building, he said:

"You can say that on my 80th birthday I'll be just as optimistic about Canada and the Canadian people as I was on my 21st."

The only former Canadian prime minister now living also is confident about his own future.

They noted cheerily that Le Regiment des Voltigeurs recently re-appointed him honorary colonel for a three-year term.

DUTIES NORMAL

"I don't walk-up grades as much as I used to," Mr. St. Laurent said, "But I am enjoying good health and plan to make use of it while it lasts."

He doesn't limit himself to law. He is director of several companies and national chairman of the Heart Foundation, travels by car almost every month each year.

He still sometimes I quite foolhardily agree to address some group on other and that pro, or both sides of issues.

His birthday will be spent quietly at his home in Quebec's three - storey home in stately Grande Allee, overlooking the Plains of Abraham.

The evening was set aside for a family dinner party at the massive Chateau Frontenac marking completion of the Benedictine Abbey of St. Benoit du Lac, Que., near his summer home.

Mr. St. Laurel is to attend a reception in his honor Friday night given by members of the League of Quebec, northern affairs minister in his old federal cabinet.

DISCUSSES CANADA

Canada past and present was the central topic of an hour-long interview squeezed in between a board meeting and an executive engagement.

Though Quebec is moving into more active participation in the economic development of Canada," Mr. St. Laurent said, "Moreover, this seemed to coincide with the general realization that Canada is a bilingual country."

The statesman, ardent conciliator of the two Canadas, often has said bilingualism is a necessary ingredient of full unity in this country.

"There has been considerable progress along those lines in the last half-century," he continued.

"You're too young to remember the strife over the teaching of French in Ontario schools from 1910 to about 1918.

"I don't think there would be more than a small proportion of Ontario's population who now would have the attitude of Eng. lish - speaking people in those days."

The growing understanding of English - speaking Canadians would make "the grievances some of our young French-Canadians are complaining about appear much less serious.

"There is a lot of talk about separatism, but those who talk about it also realize it isn't the first time. A young man grow older, they realize it would be absolutely unrealistic and harmful to Quebec and the rest of Canada."

Mr. St. Laurent was born Feb. 1, 1882, in a bilingual home in Compton, Que. His mother was of Irish descent, his father of French.

He took a solid practice here and was among Canada's leading lawyers when called to the federal cabinet as justice minister in 1941 by the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King. Though 39 then and not anticipating a political career, Mr. St. Laurent accepted the appointment as a patriotic duty.

After the war, the post of secretary of state for external affairs proved too much to resist. In 1948 he succeeded Mackenzie King as Liberal leader and prime minister and led the party to smashing victories in the 1949 and 1953 general elections.

After the Progressive Conservatives returned to power, he retired from politics and returned to his legal practice here.

Mr. St. Laurent left without his memoirs. Last summer, however, representatives agreed four afternoons interviewing him at his summer home.

They recorded the films and tapes are being deposited in the Public Archives of Canada, certain what I might have attempted to put into memoirs."

Liberal Leader Pearson Gets Support From Party

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal party ended five days of pre-election planning Tuesday night with display of solid support for its leader, Lester B. Pearson. The more than 400 party top strategists, advisers, and leading members from across the country who attended the national advisory council meeting of the party gave Mr. Pearson a rousing, cheering- and singing ovation.

Former prime minister Louis St. Laurent, who will be 80 Thursday, was given a standing ovation when he made the offer of The Chief" to continue to use his confidence in his successor. Mr. Pearson made a glowing tribute to Paul Martin, former health minister, who was runner-up in the leadership race when Mr. Pearson won in 1958. Mr. St. Laurent said he was certain that Mr. Martin was giving Mr. Pearson the same wholehearted support. The former prime minister had received a letter from the late former agriculture minister, J. G. Gardiner, who had contested Mr. St. Laurent's leadership on the retirement of W. L. Mackenzie King in 1948.

EASES ATMOSPHERE

The combination of speeches appeared to dispel any feeling of disillusionment that may exist over Mr. Pearson's leadership after the party's disappointing showing in the inner circles of the party in the past.

During the advisory council meeting and, earlier, during the meeting of the party's Canadian University Liberal Federation, there were pledges of mutual support and respect among Mr. Pearson and his key campaign lieutenants. Organizer Hector Keith Davey and campaign chairman Walter Gordon.

The Liberal meetings also served to make public the party's approach to the June election.

The general theme of the speeches was that the Conservatives, as Mr. Pearson put it Monday night, are swinging wildly like a boxer fearing defeat, and that it is time for Liberal party to be put back into office to bring a steady hand to the leadership of the country's affairs.

Repeatedly, Mr. Pearson and Youth Given Three Years For Detention

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Smith, 20, was sentenced Tuesday to three years in reformatory after Judge Gary Carmichael, 19, to 18 months in reformatory for forcible detention, a charge seldom used.

They were originally charged with kidnapping Miss Eileen Marshall, 40, and armed robbery. Both charges were withdrawn and they pleaded guilty to the forcible detention charge.

Mrs. Marshall was found in her suburban Scarborough home early in December and was later cleared by an inquest jury of the shooting death of Frederick Lazzi, 31, as he held her prisoner in a Victoria Harbor, Ont., area farmhouse.

WANTS BOTH

HAMILTON (CP)—City council wants both the 1966 Grey Cup game and a Canadian Football League Hall of Fame in this city, and Tuesday night it asked Mayor Lloyd Jackson to try to get them. It endorsed a motion by controller Commissioner that Mayor Jackson go to the annual meeting in Vancouver Feb. 16-17 to press the points.

Cafe Des Routiers in France Has Much to Offer Travellers

By WALTER HACKETT
in Christian Science Monitor

QUIMPERL, France — A French truck driver and an American truck driver have something in common. They pretty much talk, think and act the same.

As point in proof, I was driving through this Brittany countryside. Close by an old mill, I found the place I had been directed to by a gendarme. It was a squat stone building with a red tile floor. It wore over its wide door a round metal disc with a colored line drawn diagonally across it.

It read "cafe des routiers" or "truck drivers' restaurant." A half-dozen trucks were scattered in front, and in one of them a driver slept.

Inside the restaurant were bare tables, half of them occupied. A girl darted among them serving food. Through the open door of the kitchen I could see a man and woman working over a large black coal stove. Of course he had to be the owner, the woman his wife, the girl their drughter. That is a common pattern in this country.

You don't find cafes des routiers in these places, other than the occasional Fremet traveller.

The girl hustled up and said: "Soup, fish, roast lamb, potatoes, green beans, salad and cheese." That was it; no menu, no choice, no substitutions.

She returned with a tureen of steaming soup, I could eat the whole bowl of thick soup, just as I liked.

* * *

As I started on my first plate, a pair of truck drivers entered, one young, the other middle-aged. They asked permission to share my table. A second tureen of soup appeared, and a whole baguette (stick) of bread, two feet long, thick and crusty, which we shared. High food prices mean nothing to the Frenchman when it comes to bread.

"I would rather know good bread than I would de Gaulle," the older driver said.

"This one is crustier than de Gaulle," replied the younger man.

The fish was plaice, and the girl did not exaggerate when she said it had been caught that morning. A glance at the map of this region drives home the fact that we in Lower Brittany, which is wherever I was, one is always mindful of the sea. No place in Brittany is too far from it.

The older driver said the last time he had eaten in this cafe, he had cod cooked in butter, cream and mushrooms to which a puree of fresh strained tomatoes had been added. He had eaten this in other cafes along the routes he drove, but never had he found it better than in this particular cafe.

He was Breton, but had lived in Paris for 15 years, was married and had four children. What with the high cost of living, it was difficult to live, he said. "Beef is around 19 francs a kilo and so we see little beef." I could see his point: a kilo is 2.2 pounds and 19 francs converts to around four dollars.

He said around 45 per cent of his weekly wage of 210 francs ($30) went for food, despite shrewd management by his wife. Government family benefits and low-cost housing helped balance his budget.

The young driver, who made less than the older one, felt he couldn't afford to marry until living costs leveled off.

The girl served us roast lamb. Her father came from the kitchen to see that it suited our fancy. Mostly for my benefit, he explained it was young lamb and came from the pres sales — the marshy salt fields close by the sea — which accounted for its special flavor. Even lamb, here at its source, was expensive these days. He was doing his best to keep up the quality of food without raising prices.

"Inflation is the drawback in France," he said. "Prices rising higher than wages."

The older driver said if France's production wanted to survive, the country would have to take a leading part in the Common Market and would have to work well with Germany. He felt that with England in the Common Market and with the new position of President Kennedy, on a relaxed tariff and trade agreement, all seven member countries would prosper.

"It is much better that your country do this, instead of handing out millions of your dollars to countries that no longer need economic help," the younger man said. "Even the military aid to the United States gives backfires."

Did they think de Gaulle would last? "Who else is there to us?" was the answer.

They said their job, driving in alternate shifts a long-haul refrigerated food truck, gave them a broad outlook. Why? Because they covered all of France. Today they were carrying oysters to Les Halles, Paris's central food market. Their next haul might take them to Burgundy, or the Jura, or the Loire Valley, or the Camargue, or perhaps down the Rhone Valley to Provence and the Riviera.

They spoke of the places they had travelled, of the small towns and villages, the true France. They knew it all hours and in all seasons. They saw their country not through specially tinted glasses, but through a wide vision of their truck's windshield. Undoubtedly they know more of what people were saying and thinking than senior government bureau chiefs in Paris.

They were enthusiastic about their work. Yes, the hours could be long, but they were compensated by overtime pay and days off. The day was not boring. They said, when they would work a 40-hour week.

Neither wanted another line of work. They liked the freedom o the road. Their driving schedule was a constant challenge. They had to be quick alert in giving conditions as a pilot of a jet aircraft.

They outlined the route they would now take to Paris. They would go to Les Sables, then on to Le Mans, Chartres, Versailles and straight to Les Halles in Paris. Their cargo of oysters would arrive in plenty of time for shrewd buyers to look them over in the market the following morning.

And where was I going? Diagonally across Brittany, then north to Cherbourg, I said. There I would catch a Silver City plane that would airlift me and my car to just below Southampton, then on to Tenterden in Kent. Thirty minutes across the Channel and I would be in another country, another language another mode of life.

Jokingly, I said when the proposed tunnel from France to England was built, they could add Britain to their schedule.

I never did get a reply, for both listened intently to the radio, which for some minutes had been crackling. Snow was expected to blanket France by early morning.

"And so now we race the clock", the older driver said.

Outside I watched them. The older twriver wheeled the big truck around. A big blast on the horn, a wave from each, and off they went on the road to Paris, squarring time as they progressed through the rolling French countryside.

VANISHED BREED

The small Eskimo curlew, a shore bird once ranging the north in great numbers, now is virtually extinct.

Protestants Settle Dispute On Languages

MONTREAL (CP) — A long-standing dispute which threatened to split the Montreal Protestant school board into separate linguistic camps was settled Monday night, with announcement of a proposed "cooperative enterprise" which would result in the increased incidence of French and English - language classes at the same schools.

John Rowat, chairman of the board, said a preliminary experiment of separate classes for both language groups had met with much success at northend Peace Centennial School that the board would establish "at least one other" similar project with more scheduled for the future.

Hertel la Roque, president of the French-language branch of the board, said the agreement represented the "full recognition of the rights of French Protestants."

Heated words were exchanged last summer when Mr. la Roque charged the board was ignoring the needs of French-speaking Protestant students in the city and forcing them to make a choice between their language and their religion.

There are some 2,300 French-speaking Protestant children on the island and, with the exception of about 500 students at Peace Centennial, they have been forced to attend classes in English or else study at a French-speaking Roman Cath. olic school.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Gzo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Not to the Pepsi's:—Storm warnings are fluttering from the bases in the western part of the league area.

It is reported that the Bowmanville Shamrocks and Lindsay have acquired heavy reinforcements, veteran pedestals with lots of ability who have strengthened the squads nearly fifty per cent.

Proof of this is seen in the fact that the Shamrocks hung a 7-3 defeat on the Uxbridge Black Hawks the other night. Uxbridge is rated second to the Pepsi's as far as all-around strength and ability is concerned.

And the Black Hawks are the club that made the big red team of Lamirande go all-out a week or so ago to snatch a narrow 3-1 victory up there in the Hawk nest.

Bowmanville and its added puck parsiroopers will be here tonight and if they turn in an effort like the one that subdued the strong Hawks by a 7-3 score, then the Pepsi's are in for trouble and an all-out hockey effort.

The underground has it that the Shamrocks have added five new players, all top-flight hockeymen who have given the team the offensive lift it needed. The same is said of Lindsay. This club, too, has taken on a half dozen pucksies, among whom are Keith Mont-gomery, who played for Belleville's best in the halcyon days of senior "B" and who tried out with the subsequent senior "A" club.

And in case you are one of the Loyal Four Hundred (and less) who follow the fortunes of the Pepsi's, it might be noted that this Lindsay club is rated intermediate "A" calibre in the OHA books and will enter the "A" playdowns with the Napanee Comets and the red team.

Kingston has drawn a bye and will play the winner of the Belleville, Napanee, Lindsay series.

This idea is not favored by Coach Les Douglas of the Comets. Said Les the last time the Comets were here—and they licked out side 4-3: "I believe a playoff series between Kingston and Napanee and Belleville and Lindsay would be more in the point." However the OHA sees it differently.

Incidentally, word from Napanee has it that the Senior boys, goalie Bob and forward Don, have parted company with the Comets due to some disagreement with management. This may have had something to do with the defeat handed the Comets Monday night by the Trenton RCAF Globetrotters.

The Pepsi's are well out in front in the Lakeshore League standing with 16 wins and one defeat for 36 points, including two four-pointers.

Lamirande's high-flying crew have a busy week next week. They go to Napanee Monday night to meet the Comets and are home on Wednesday to the tough Uxbridge crew. Tuesday night the coach expects to take the squad to Kingston to test the Limestone City team.

If the Bowmanville squad shows the same strength and form that defeated Uxbridge the other night, then tonight's game here should be worth viewing. Game at 8.30.

WATERLOO TIGERS COMING!

How good are the Western Ontario senior league clubs? How would they stack up against Eastern Ontario's clubs? Fans here will get some idea Friday night when the Waterloo Tigers of the OHA senior league meet Pepsi's in Memorial Arena.

Coach Lamirande agreed to the game after a phone call from the Tiger manager. The Tigers are currently in fourth place in the senior loop with a 15-14 record. However, they have beaten the best teams in the league and fans here should get some idea of the type being played in the Western Ontario Jumbos.

So save Friday night. It should be quite a tilt unless the Tigers are a lot weaker team than their record indicates. Game at 9.00 o'clock.

Hungry Hawks Acquiring Cup Fever

Top Wings By Six

By The Canadian Press

Coach Rudy Pilous says his Chicago Black Hawks are hungry again — just like they were last spring when they won the Stanley Cup.

And the fellow who appears to be setting the example is muscular left winger Bobby Hull.

Hull was a bewildered man when the Black Hawks faltered at the beginning of this National Hockey League season. He even was singled out by Pilous for lack of hustle

But in recent weeks, the husky 23 - year - old has regained his normal form and the Hawks have been moving up in the league standings.

Hull has riddled opposing netminders for 19 goals in his last eight games after being able to score only 15 times in 39 earlier outings.

The Black Hawks have won five, tied one and lost just two since Hull's surge began and have strengthened their hold on third place.

AHEAD OF DETROIT

They now lead fourth - place Detroit Red Wings by six points and hope to widen the bulge some more when they take on the Wings tonight at Chicago in the start of a home - and - home series. The two teams meet again in Detroit Thursday night.

The slump - ridden New York Rangers and last - place Boston Bruins play have a mid-week home - and - home set. They meet tonight in New York and Thursday night in Boston.

The Rangers have dropped 10 consecutive games since beating the Bruins 4-2 at Boston New Year's night.

The top two teams — Montreal - Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs — are idle tonight but Thursday night meet at Montreal-in-what shaper-up as one of the biggest games of the season for both clubs.

Montreal currently holds a four - point lead over Toronto and hasn't been beaten in 12 games, winning eight and tying two.

The Maple Leafs thought for a while Tuesday they might have to face the Canadiens without Red Kelly, their high star centre said later he expects to be able to play.

INJURED SUNDAY

Kelly suffered a shoulder injury when he was crashed into boards Sunday night in Detroit by-Wings defenceman Bill Gadsby.

The Maple Leafs definitely will be without two other forwards — Dick Duff and Eddie Shack.

The cast was removed from Duff's broken ankle and replaced with a splint Tuesday. He now is expected to be on crutches for two weeks before being able to lace on his skates.

Shack is working out with the club, but still can't put much pressure on his injured knee. He has set Feb. 17 as the target date for his return.

Boosters! This Is Your Party

The Pepsi Booster Club gets together Saturday night for its first outdoor social event of the season.

President "Sadge" Matthews announced today that a skating party in the great outdoors will feature the get-together.

Skating will be held on the bay off the Wharf St. Debating Club, which has been secured for the "inside" events.

Boosters can change to skates inside the club where extensive arrangements have been made for this part of the entertainment.

For those who do not skate there will be dancing, cards, and contests. Senator Harry Rollins will feature his new "Twist" combo.

Come in your everyday clothes. No black ties, please.

For those who like a thrill a couple of "Skidi...doos," motorized sleds in other words, will be available. Bring your own pail-pest pillows.

Varied refreshments will be available at no charge.

In fact the party is "on the house," so to speak. Only Boosters will be admitted and these by membership cards... You can get cards at the door.

So come on down and join "Snipe" and the gang. The Pepsi team will be on hand with their ladies. The fun starts at eight o'clock or whatever time you get there.

Remember Saturday night, Wharf Street Debating Club at eight o'clock. Be there!

Dick Tiger Fighter Of Month

NEW YORK AP)—Dick Tiger's knockout triumph over Cuba's Gomeo Fernandez has earned the Nigerian the "fighter of the month" award from Ring magazine and a boost in the middleweight rankings.

The British Empire 160-pound champion was elevated over Paul Pender, former middleweight champion from Brookline, Mass., to the No. 2 contender's position.

Pender was dropped to third. Ring recognizes England's Terry Downes as world champion. Gene Fulmer, the NBA middleweight king from West Jordan, Utah, is the No. 1 contender in the monthly ratings released today.

Fernandez, a veteran of Montreal moved to No. 3 in the heavyweight ranks, sixth place. The National Boxing Association ranks Clarous seventh.

Floyd Patterson, the hard-hitting Brooklyn, settled the dispute over the undisputed title by knocking out Johnny Caldwell of Ireland. Caldwell was dropped a notch and now ranks as the No. 2 contender behind Sonny Liston.

Luis Rodriguez of Cuba was promoted to No. 8 among the welterweights and Howard Winstone of Wales was raised to No. 3 among the featherweights.

Score Was 13-3

Terriers Dump Maroons

By The Canadian Press

The league - leading Galt Terriers erupted with seven goals in the first period and demolished the disorganized Chatham Maroons in Ontario Hockey Association senior action Tuesday night.

The game before 725 Galt fans, amounted to little more than an exhibition as the Terriers loaned defenceman Butch Keeling and left winger Lloyd Marcer to the short - handed visitors.

In the other league game Thursday night Woodstock Athletics kept their slim first-place hopes alive when they beat Stratford Indians 6-2.

Galt, loaned by several players in preparation for the forthcoming world tournament, scored an eighth goal in the second period and slammed in five more in the third. Ted Hoss notched three, bringing his total to 11 in eight games. Bobby Brown, picked up from Windsor Bulldogs, Pete Kowalchuk, Joe Hagan and defenceman Ted Meld each scored a pair. The other two came from Bob Major and Bob Murdoch.

Joe Malo, Earl Towers and George Aitken scored for Chatham.

The Terriers, who move on the Maritimes later this week for three exhibition games, now are three points ahead of the Bulldogs, who have four games in hand.

PASS UP TOURNEY

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's five-member women's alpine ski team will pass up the Grand Prix race at Chamonix, France, Feb. 1-3, the international competitions committee of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association announced today. No reason was given but it is believed the girls are tired after three consecutive weekends of European racing and a heavy training schedule. The team is entered in the Federation Internationale de Ski world championships in Chamonix, France, Feb. 10-18.

International Bonspiel

Quebec Rinks Reach Semi-Finals

By GEORGE FRAJKOR

QUEBEC (CP)—Two experienced Quebec rinks battled into the semi-finals of two Quebec International Bonspiel's main trophies Tuesday night, but upsets from Ontario and the Maritimes threaten to make any further going difficult.

Joe Thomas and Jacques Girard, both of Quebec Curling Club and both champions in last year's International events, went into the semi-finals of the Chateau and Omega Trophy events respectively with impressive quarter-final wins.

Thomas, winner of the Omega last year, crushed Fresem Whitby, of Ottawa 12-5 in the Chateau event and Girard, winner of the Chateau last year, beat Mississauga's Art Simons handily, 9-4, playing a smooth and accurate draw game.

Thomas comes up Thursday against the dark-horse Coniston, Ont., rink skipped by John Bachowski, which has quietly knocked off some of the tournament favorites.

CONISTON WINS

Buchowski won his fourth straight game Tuesday night, beating Keith Fulton of Winchester, Mass., 8-4 to enter the Chateau semi - finals. He has eliminated the last American rink from major competitions.

In the other bracket of the Chateau, Halifax Mayflower, skipped by Litther Mets Quebec City's district champion Ernie Blackadder.

Little upset Montreal Outremont's hotshot Carl Ott 8-5 and the youthful Blackadder, just emerging as a top-notch curler, defeated veteran Irv. McEwen of Montreal Thistle 7-4.

In the Omega Trophy event, Gaston Austin of Quebec Cricket entered the semis with a 12-7 win over Len Gillis of Kirkland Lake.

To enter the quarter finals in the Chateau, Thomas came up against a favored opponent and beat Sam Weinmaster of Grasshorst, Ont., 8-3.

"Joe just had our number," remarked Bruce St. John, third man on Weinmaster's rink. "He had it last year and he hasn't forgotten it."

The Grawthurst rink is the only one in the bonspiel that travels by private plane. St. John, a lumber executive and former Second World War pilot, brings them down in his twin-engined aircraft.

They entered the bonspiel for the first time last year and got to the semi-finals before they met them and eliminated them on his way to the Omega championship.

All that is making the quarter-finals of the Chateau, Omega or Francois Jobin events, automatically quality for the bonspiel's championship playoffs for the Lieutenant-Governor's Cup.

East German Ban Stands

Swedes, Dutch May Quit Tourney

BERLIN (AP) — General NATO ban on travel by East Germans may cause Russia, Czechoslovakia, Sweden and The Netherlands to pull out of the world ice hockey championships, scheduled at Colorado Springs March 1-11.

At the same time, it may cancel the world alpine ski championships opening Feb. 20 at Portillo, Chile, France, and turn the meet into nothing more than an international competition.

The ban, imposed last September in reprisal to the Communist wall in Berlin, apparently will not be relaxed in order to permit East German sportsmen to take part.

Authoritative Allied sources in Berlin said yesterday there is no indication whatever the East German teams getting the necessary travel permits. In NATO countries, they are granted only if travel permits are secured.

While officials of both the hockey and the ski championships prepared to open events to begin this weekend, indications were the big meets are depleting the field for one event and scuttle the other.

MAY NOT COMPETE

Spokesmen for the Dutch and and Swedish national hockey federations said that it is a strong chance their teams will not compete at Colorado Springs. Despite the insistence of Bob Lebel of Montreal, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation that the competition will go on as scheduled, Col. Carlos Grunwald of the East German Hockey Federation was quoted today as saying Russia and Czechoslovakia will pull out if East Germany is barred.

Eighteen countries have entered the 10-event, six-day Spring championships, and this would reduce the field to 13. In Lousanne, however, the United Alpine Ski Federation said there is nothing in the rules saying how many teams can take part in a championship. Only four teams are started in the 1956 world tournament and one of those withdrew.

The hockey situation will be discussed by Lebel and organizers of the tournament at Colorado Spring, next Monday.

The ski situation is scheduled to be considered at a meeting of the International Ski Federation in Bern, Switzerland, on Sunday.

Minor Hockey Results

The playoffs got underway in the squirt division of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association last night while the midgets continued with their regular season schedule.

In the squirt playoffs, all two-game, goals-to-count series, the Maple Leafs and Canadiens tied 2-2. Leaf goals were scored by L. Burley and D. Lynch while D. Dehlers and R. Woolley replied for the Canadiens.

The Rangers topped the Flyers 4-2, paced by T. Meagher's two goals. Single markers went to B. Cousins, S. Sarosik, K. Wilson and B. Buchanan. D. Malcomick scored both Flyer goals.

Red Wings and Royals fought to a 4-4 draw. St. Norms potted two Royal goals with R. McLean and I. Delcelgue getting the others. Royal goals were scored by D. Fobert, G. Reeves, M. Browning and D. Noble.

The Bruins shaded the Braves 3-2 in a close one, 2-1. R. Adamson and D. Mathews scored for the Bruins while Freddy Stickle bagged the lone Bruin goal.

Barons edged the Browns 3-2. Markerers for the Barons were J. Cunningham, B. Slater and M. Lucas; G. Powell and J. Sarosik tied the Browns' goals.

The Macs dumped the Black Hawks 8-1 with D. Beecher scoring two goals. Singletons went to S. Moore, A. Genereaux, J. Drummond, S. Christopher, P. Denyes and T. Dennan. M. Semark fired the only Hawk goal.

In midget play, the Blake Boys defeated the Rovers 8-3 with Flindell scoring four times for the winners. Cassidy had the other goal while Bennett and Herrington drew assists. Blakely, Gaugher and Dennis Bragg scored for the Rovers.

The Bishop Six downed the Untouchables by a tight 3-2 score. Hannah, Rutherford and Dyble scored for the winners. Rutherford also had two assists with one each for Dyble and Hannah. Harvey and Bennett potted the Rovers' goals while Smith drew one assist.

Canadian Speed Skater Wins Another

SANDEFJORD, Norway (AP) — Canada's speed skater Canadian speed skater, scored another upset victory over well-known international long-distance skater Tuesday night.

Ivok, who started skating five years ago, won the 5,000-metre event in eight minutes, 58.8 seconds under unfavorable conditions ahead of Terence Monaghan of England who was second in 9.03.8.

Lee, Sunday, the Toronto skater established two Canadian records by skating 5,000- and 5,000-metre distances in 4:57.3 and 8:30.0, respectively.

Ivok will represent Canada at the world championships in Moscow Feb. 17-18.

Royals Trim Flyers 6-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A three-goal performance by Don Dibernardino helped Guelph Royals consolidate their hold on fourth place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series.

Dibernardino scored once in each period as the Royals downed Niagara Falls Flyers 6-2 Tuesday night.

Bobby Smith, Dave McComb and Sandy Fitzpatrick scored Guelph's other goals. For the Flyers, Tom Teather got his first of the season after the 12-minute mark of the third period to end Joe Bamford's shutout hopes and Billy Knibbs added the second just 26 seconds later.

Two goals 27 seconds apart in the last minute of the second period clinched the verdict for the Royals, who drew 11 of the 16 penalties.

In the Metropolitan Toronto Junior A circuit, Bill Smith broke a tie in the second period to play and save Whitby a 2-1 verdict over Oshawa Generals. Brian Fletcher got Whitby's other goal and Bob Regis tallied for Uxonville.

BILLS DEFEATED

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Democratic bills to legalize off-track betting bills appeared to be scratched for the remainder of legislative session Thursday, as Senate Republicans defeated efforts to discharge them from committee.

The motion to bring three off-track betting bills to the Senate floor was made by Democratic Minority Leader Joseph Zaretzki of New York City, the sponsor. He said their adoption would end bookmaking.

Republicans contended off-track betting would make it easier for persons to gamble and that those with low incomes would be the losers.

Martin Tops In Junior Point Race

TORONTO (CP)—Pit Martin of Hamilton Red Wings picked up six assists last week to retain his hold on first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A scoring race.

League statistics released Tuesday show that in games up to and including Sunday Martin had scored 36 goals and assisted four times during the week to remain a single point behind the leader.

Martin's 36-goal total is the best in the league while Bourdeau is the top playmaker with 44 assists.

Lowell MacDonald of Hamilton held on to third place with 66 points.

Montreal's Jim Holmes regained goaltending honors from Buddy Bloom of Hamilton. Holmes has allowed 45 goals in 29 games for a 2.86 average. Bloom's average is 3.11.—

In the Metropolitan Junior A circuit, Gary Direen of St. Michael's College Majors leads the scorers with 17 goals and 24 assists for 41 points. Gary Smith of the Majors still tops the goaltenders with a 2.62 average.

Sox Pitcher Will Stay In Japan

CHICAGO (AP)—Pitcher Joe Shaka has personally purchased his contract from Chicago White Sox and will continue to pitch baseball in Japan.

Shaka came to the American League for $30,000 in the summer of 1959 from Sacramento, Calif. However, he did his pitching in Japan the last two years despite complaints by the White Sox.

Shaka, it was learned today, paid $15,000 to become free of the Sox and plans to continue pitching in Japan for the Nankai Braves. He says he earns more money in Japan than he can here.

Trappers, Frontenacs Tie 2-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

North Bay Trappers gave the injury-riddled Kingston Frontenacs a late Tuesday night of what may be in store for them tonight.

The Trappers, who entered the game tied for last place in the Eastern Pro Professional Hockey League, tied the league-leading Frontenacs 2-2 and would have defeated them decisively had fi not been for the goaltending of Frontenacs' Ed Chadwick.

Plagued with injuries to the point where they could ice only 12 regulars for the game, played in North Bay, Frontenacs tonight play host to Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, who with seven straight wins have currently the EPHL's hottest entry.

And tonight the Kingston team will be without centre Norman Gilpert and defenceman Benny Woit, brought in from Cornwall Eastern League Clinton, N.Y., Comets. The Clinton team has a game of its own and can't afford to do without its two stars.

Rote Will Play Option, That's All

TORONTO (CP) — Quarterback Tobin Rote said Tuesday he will play his option with Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League's Eastern Conference next season but has no intention of signing a new contract.

Rote, a 10-year veteran of Detroit Lions of the National League, came to the Argos two years ago on a two-year contract which gave the club an additional year's option on his services. After that year is up, he becomes a free agent.

Rote, 34, said nothing about retirement from football and it was reported that Dallas Texans of the American League are interested in him.

Varment Invades ML Garden

Bat Likes Kelly's Hair

TORONTO (CP) — Maple Leaf Gardens is caught up in a controversy lively enough to eclipse such usual hot-stove topics as whether a Carmelite Howe today is as good as a Newsy Lalonde in his prime.

The home of the National Hockey League Leafs is divided over the best method of keeping a bat out of centre Red Kelly's red hair.

The winged varmint buzzed Red as he returned to action Saturday night after a month-long injury layoff, then flitted back to the girders in the high-domed Gardens roof.

Rival efforts to get rid of the pesky invader have pitted the old-fashioned broom-swat method against an attempt to drive the beast to distraction with radio waves pitched higher than the human ear can hear.

The modernist-ers led by radio - control expert Bob Wood, who is using his Gardens public address system in an attempt to jam the bat's natural radar.

HITS TRADITIONALISTS

Whitey McAllister of the Gardens maintenance staff heads traditionalists who has had been in the St. Louis starting rotation for more than five years, San Francisco Giants ran into trouble with Orlando Cepeda, their hard - hitting first baseman-outfielder.

Cepeda, who got $27,500 last year for hitting 46 homers and driving in 142 runs, is reported to be after $30,000. The club has offered him a one - third increase.

Gil Hodges Signs With Mets

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gil Hodges signed his first contract in five years for a New York baseball club and veteran Larry Jackson came to terms with St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday as the major leagues continued their roundup of playing talent.

New York Mets, the new National League entry, signed Hodges, a onetime pitcher's nightmare at Brooklyn whose batting average has dwindled since the Dodgers moved to Los Angeles in 1958 and found younger men to take over his first-base job.

The Mets also picked up veteran catcher Joe Ginsberg as a free agent.

While the Cardinals signed Jackson, a right-handed pitcher who has been in the St. Louis starting rotation for more than five years, San Francisco Giants ran into trouble with Orlando Cepeda, their hard - hitting first baseman-outfielder.

Cepeda, who got $27,500 last year for hitting 46 homers and driving in 142 runs, is reported to be after $30,000. The club has offered him a one - third increase.

Criminal Partnership Across The U.S. Canadian Border Complicates Enforcement

By CARL MOLLINS

TORONTO (CP) — Growing criminal partnership across the U.S.-Canadian border has complicated the problems of law enforcement in both countries.

Multi-million dollar coups in robbery gambling and dope traffic uncovered in Canada have all received assistance if not supervision from racketeers in the United States.

Court cases in Ontario are expected to expose more evidence of interlocking gambling systems.

A Canadian law officer of long experience says the pattern points to a two-way exchange. But an Canadian rackets are cracked and pressure mounts on U.S. syndicates he says "the chances increase that American organizations will try to take over operations in Canada.

RCMP Commissioner Clifford Harvison said in a Toronto speech Nov 6 that American syndicates are showing increasing interest in Canada and are "moving to take direct control over some criminal organizations and to expand their criminal activities."

CROSSED

Reasons cited for the growth of U.S.-Canadian crime include the recent closing of Fidel Castro's Cuba to American criminals in need of a foreign base and a U.S. crackdown on criminal communication systems in some states, which threatens the pattern of using Canada as a place of operations in a neighboring one.

A network of gambling bosses and bookies linked the Canadian-American border permits business as usual when trouble comes under pressure.

The narcotics trade is a prime example. Some American use of Canadians as middle men.

A Montreal syndicate broken in 1959 imported heroin from Europe and w h o l e s a l e d it to Toronto gang. Toronto group arranged two years later for shipments in a wide price range direct from Italy to the United States.

Police say Canadian criminal, a point of view, American contacts are useful in providing prestige and ideas as well as markets for drugs, an outlet for bookmaking organization for bookmaking.

POLICE PROTECTION

The backing of a big American syndicate often is essential for launching a gambling club in Canada. Clients with a public reputation as a guard against infiltration that an effective organization is protecting them from racketeers.

Commissioner Harvison noted in a television interview last year that "one of the first thing such organizations seek is to "buy" some of the important persons."

The Canadian crime boss with American contacts can draw on a reservoir of U.S. specialists. Two 1959 bank robberies in Toronto that netted a total of $38,000 were carried out by two New York men imported for the purpose, Toronto police said.

A Canadian who makes himself a name in the underworld often establishes links with American overlords can expand his activities until he becomes a kingpin of crime in his area.

The practice of having "friends" in the U.S. underworld widens the kingpin's field of activity by attracting lesser lawbreakers to him for assistance, whether it is capital and manpower for a criminal venture or an essential contact in the United States for shifting stolen goods or drugs.

MONTREAL EMPIRE

Montrealer Giuseppe Coroni, whose police record began in 1937 with minor theft and receiving charges, became known in the United States. He "rose rapidly in the international underworld," said a judge who sent him to jail 22 years later, until he was operating an empire that included drug trafficking, receiving bank loot, real estate interests and night clubs.

John Papalia of Hamilton established his name with strong-arm methods and climbed until he was nabbed in 1960 in connection with drug traffic and rivalry for control of local gambling.

Cracking a syndicate or nabbing a leader of local rackets often only stalls or diverts organized crime. "New syndicates spring up like mushrooms as soon as one is knocked off," a narcotics officer says.

Men on the fringes of a broken organization move in to set up shop for themselves. RCMP officers were attempting to establish who might move into narcotics smuggling in Toronto even before they arrested Papalia and company.

STOLEN BONDS

Evidence of the international crime partnership has mounted in the last few years.

A Montreal receiving ring linked to a U.S. organization handled almost $10,000,000 worth of stolen bonds at the peak of its operations in 1958, five years before the syndicate was smashed.

The major holdups and burglaries started with the Societe Nationale de Fiducie in Montreal Jan. 26, 1958, and wound up with the Premier Commercial Company in St. Catharines, Ont., Feb. 1, 1959.

Loot from these and other bank jobs, including the $3,500,000 Brockville, Ont., Trust and Savings Company burglary in May, 1958, turned up from Zurich to Miami, Fla., from Belgium to Windsor, Ont. More than 20 persons have been convicted in the United States and Canada.

Key Canadian figures in a series of trials after police broke the ring early in 1959 were Montrealers Peter (The Russian) Sitnasuff and Colombo Agnastoff was acquitted in the St. Catharines burglary but was sentenced to eight years for possessing stolen bonds.

COYRONI JAILED

Coyroni was named in an indictment July 2, 1959, along with three American members of the gang in receiving syndicate for handling the Brockville loot. He was sentenced to nine years seven days later as the head of an organization that peddled heroin and American trafficker. He got 10 years on the narcotics charge in November, 1960, and in May, 1960, got another seven for possession of the bonds.

A year later Mounties and municipal police in Toronto arrested four men accused with 20 A m e r i c a n s of conspiring to smuggle narcotics into the United States.

Vito Agueci and Rocco Scopollitti, accused of acting as couriers in the ring, were among 11 who appeared for the New York trial that started Nov. 6, 1961. After murder and ballyhooing cut down the ranks of the accused, All were convicted and will be sentenced Feb. 1.

Papalia, said to be the financier of the Toronto operation, missed the trial while serving 18 months for beating gambler Max Bluestein in a Toronto tavern in March, 1961. Bluestein was set upon by a gang shortly after leaving jail.

AGUECI SLAIN

Albert Agueci, described by narcotics squad police as the Toronto arranger in the smuggling ring, was found bound and strangled, his body burned, near Rochester, N.Y., 17 days after the New York trial opened.

Government - sponsored investigation of gambling in New York state and Ontario, coupled with evidence in a series of gaming cases during the last year, show nice between U.S. and Canadian bookmakers and gamblers.

A New York commission on syndicated gambling reported last April on "an extremely close relationship between major bookmakers" in New York and Toronto, Guelph, Ontario, Niagara Falls, Ont., and Montreal.

Massachusetts Attorney - General Edward J. McCormack reported two Toronto gamblers got on from Montreal attended a major gangland meeting at Worcester, Mass., in December, 1959.

Police in Buffalo, N.Y., last May sent Toronto police a list of nearly 19 Ontario telephone numbers used by upstate New York bookies.

BIG BOOKIE BUSINESS

Ontario Provincial Police Constable George Scott gathered evidence in 1960 that gambling debts in Ontario were transmitted by syndicates across the U.S. border. Inspector Arthur Maur of the Buffalo police said last May that gambling clubs in his district and in the Toronto-Hamilton and Niagara areas had been part of a system.

A report on gambling issued by the Ontario government last year said the illegal bookmaking business in the province substantially exceeds $100,000,000 annually. It said profits from illegal betting are used to finance "many of the general criminal natuse" in North America.

John Wintermeyer, Ontario leader of the opposition Liberal party, linked the names of local gamblers with other criminals, including Detroit crime boss Joe.

Premier John Robarts, noting the "indications that of a united crime may be infiltrating into some parts of Canada from the United States," announced plans Nov. 28 for a special police commission to oversee law enforcement. Two weeks later he appointed Appeal Court Justice Wilfrid D. Gunn to investigate the extent of crime in Ontario as well as opposition charges that a network of corruption extended into government offices.

King Hussein's Wife Gives Birth

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)—King Hussein's 20-year-old British-born second wife gave birth to a son and heir today. The news brought joyful Jordanians dancing into the streets.

The king was cheered as he passed through the city with beaming after leaving jail.

ing crowds followed him to Basman Palace amid the sounds of gunfire celebrations.

Hussein conferred the title of princess on his wife immediately after the birth.

The former Toni Gardiner, daughter of a lieutenant-colonel attached to the British military mission here, became a Moslem and married Hussein last May.

Trend to Sloppy English Not Confined to Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Since the beginning of broadcasting, speech purists have been mourning the constant attrition of the English language from the mouths of some performers.

One newspaper changes the title of the ABC-show, Who Do You Trust? to Whom Do You Trust when it turns up in its news columns — as opposed to its broadcasting listings.

Even though it's a vintage joke pitch many television viewers still flinch when a smoke is alleged to taste "like a cigarette should."

Currently, the sponsors' messages are full of good, plain, talking folk whose sterling, down-to-earth qualities are demonstrated by dropping the final "g" in words and other slipshod speech habits.

And, in developing character in stories, actors and actresses are frequently mumbling and slurring their lines.

Tony Randall, actor and lover of the English language, is among those disturbed about the trend.

"Time was when actors concerned it part of their duty to preserve good speech," said Randall. "I remember when speech arts courses existed to cure John Barrymore and Ann Harding's examples — they spoke correctly and without provincial accents."

Randall said the trend to sloppy English is not confined to TV—and points out that when one movie star took a whack at playing an English king in a Shakespearean play, his accent came up pure Cockney.

Today, the man who is considered a good actor is likely to speak worse than the average man — and mumble, in addition."

Film Production at Low Ebb But 1962 Outlook Brighter

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Notes and comment on the Hollywood scene:

Movie production here is at the lowest ebb since the strikes of 1950, but there appears to be no alarm.

Three major studios have one film apiece—Jumbo (Doris Day, Stephen Boyd) at MGM; Who's Got the Action (Dean Martin, Lana Turner) at Paramount and Gypsy (Rosalind Russell, Natalie Wood) at Warners.

Columbia, Walt Disney, Allied Artists and Universal have no films shooting here. Twelve American movies are being made overseas.

Four big independent films are in production locally: Taras Bulba (Yul Brynner, Tony Curtis); A Child is Waiting (Burt Lancaster, Judy Garland); Two for the Seesaw (Shirley MacLaine, Robert Mitchum); and The Manchurian Candidate (Frank Sinatra). Also one offering which may be the height of dirty pictures, The Sinful People.

Eight pictures shooting in a town that once averaged 50.

OUTLOOK BRIGHTER

But the outlook for 1962 is brighter. With box office figures improving producers seem more willing to take chances. The production picture is bound to get higher—if only because it can't get worse.

Jerry Lewis expects a settlement of his beef with Paramount soon. Meanwhile, he isn't talking about it, by order of lawyers. He opens at the Sands in Las Vegas tonight, then will probably make it his home. The wifty titled film he didn't like is Cookie.

Frank Sinatra is plugging for a giant TV special in honor of Ernie Kovacs, rather than the anthology series that some of the late comedian's pupils are discussing. Sinatra is having his lawyers look into the tax aspects of a one-shot program that would raise money to help underwrite Kovacs' finances.

"I'm sure I could sell the show for half a million," said the singer.

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Speaking straight from the shoulder may seem like a fine idea early today. But later, you might see wisdom of sprinkling more than a few grains of diplomacy. Be discreet. Don't push.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): The grass may look greener in other fields for a while today. But this is a new month . . . and planetary aspects stress challenge rather than complacency. Get foot in door. Get started!

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Please check resources. Are all eggs in one basket? Are you over-extending? Try to bring mode of living in line with facts of life. If you do, this can be wonderful day. Examine finances.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Stars just about leaving unfavorable aspect to your sign. But today you are urged to iron out details . . . to avoid being rushed into contracts, appearances, parties. Take time to think. And to ask.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Yes, tendency is to feel shortchanged. For creative cycle . . . and exciting events surrounding you . . . make it seem like you have a lot more coming. Play it cool and calm. Good for romance, socializing.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Pressure could mount today unless you personally call a halt by stating position. Avoid long journeys . . . no strain under you are ready to call tune. Others could try pushing very hard.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): There is an aura of ... itement, romance surrounding you these days. Are you taking advantage of opportunities? If married, rediscover, loved one. If single . . . why? Today, make new start.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Much to gain . . . very little to lose . . . if you take step that leads to greater independence. Holding off, being overly cautious, could react against best interests. Hunches prove accurate.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Flamboyant conduct on part of business associates could cause surprise . . . but be sure your leg is not being "pulled." Strive for versatility. Make plans for active weekend.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Many problems of past few days actually could resolve themselves today . . . If you permit them to do so! Remain calm. Attend to details. Make no sudden decisions, changes.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Could be most exciting, romantic day. There is much action all around you. Open your eyes and look! Good for change, travel . . . and for making new friends.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): No beating around the bush: say what you think and results will astound you. Perhaps air needs clearing. By being honest . . . you could set valuable example. Key is truth.

If born today . . . you are basically independent, original, frank, probing. This year finds you making new friends, finding new interests. Avoid scattering of forces. Cultivate ability you have of "explaining." Could be valuable in critical essays or in teaching.

General Tendencies: Today finds cycle up for Sagittarius, Capricorn and Aquarius. Not day for expecting "final results." There is still much talking, testing, bargaining to be done. Plus for entertainment, theatre, relaxation, shopping. Places interpretation should be studied by all signs today.

TOO MANY STUDENTS?

HAMILTON (CP) — School trustees were told Tuesday night the city's secondary school system is facing an immediate "over - population" disaster and a probable return to the shift system by the end of the year. They directed Mr. Gordon Prince, director of education, to bring in recommendations aimed at solving the problem.

SUES FOR MILLION

NEW YORK (AP)—A mother has sued New York City for $1,000,000, charging that her two - month - old daughter died of pneumonia a day after being taken home in the rain because two city hospitals — Queens General and Metropolitan — refused to admit the child. The action was instituted by Mrs. Betty Middleton, whose daughter, Lynette, died Nov. 7, 1959.

PURCHASED BY BRITISH QUEEN — This is Bloodhound, the 34-ton ocean racing yawl which has been purchased by Queen Elizabeth II of England and Prince Philip to replace Bluebottle. Bloodhound was designed by the late Charles Nicholson and built in 1936. (AP Wirephoto).

Royal Couple Buy 63-Foot Racing Yawl

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip have bought a 63 - foot racing yawl for a reported £10,000, it was learned Wednesday.

The yawl was sold to the royal couple by Miles Wyatt, admiral of the Royal Ocean Yachting Club, Buckingham Palace said.

The yacht, a 34-ton vessel called Blood hound, was designed in 1936 and has twice crossed the Atlantic to represent Britain in the Bermuda fest.

The Blue bottle, a wedding present to the royal couple from the south coast Cowes Sailing Club, has reached the end of her racing life and is to be sent to the Royal Naval College at Dartmouth for as long as she can be usefully employed.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG—Mr. Percy McTaggart, who has been a patient in Belleville General Hospital since early December following a heart attack, returned to his home on Sunday last.

Mrs. George Dyson is improving in health at her home following major surgery in December.

Mrs. Horace Vance has recovered from his recent illness, and is able to return to his employment on the staff of the Thomasburg Auto Parts.

Mrs. Wesley Martin is under the doctor's care at her home at the present time.

Mr. Harold A. Morton, who it was feared had suffered a heart attack on Wednesday morning at the Corner Service Station, Thomasburg, is considering himself in health, but will be under medical care for some time.

Mr. William Maines is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

The pupils of the public school enjoyed a skating party on Tuesday evening, afterwards gathering in the senior class room for a social hour.

Several from here attended the funeral on January 23, from the W. M. Bush Funeral Home, Tweed, of the late Borden Countryman, who passed away suddenly at his home, west of Tweed.

SING ALONG WITH GEORGE — Paraplegic George Dyck, a self-taught guitarist, gets some vocal support from his dog Champ as he strikes up a tune in his Winnipeg home. George, 22, has been paralyzed from the waist down for the past 12 years as a result of a shooting accident. He is a fourth-year science student at the University of Manitoba. (CP Photo)

Wheelchair Has Only Slightly Slowed Down Student's Life

By GRAHAM COX

WINNIPEG (CP) — A wheelchair has only slightly slowed down the active life of George Dyck.

A fourth - year University of Manitoba science student, George is one of four paraplegics who daily can be seen moving across the campus and along corridors propelled either by their own arms or by another student.

George was paralyzed from the waist down when he was shot through the spine while playing with his brother and cousin on his parents' farm. He was then 10.

Now 22, he takes a full and active part in community and social affairs. He is aiming at a career in electronics.

An avid bowler and curler, he takes regular part in wheelchair square dances and is also a self-taught, but expert, guitar artist and painter.

Following the accident, George spent three weeks in hospital at Gladstone, Man., then was moved to the Children's Hospital in Winnipeg for three months. He put in 18 months at the government rehabilitation centre of the Deer Lodge Veterans' Hospital where he learned to use crutches and generally fend for himself.

It was at Deer Lodge that he developed the strength in his arms and shoulders necessary to carry himself on crutches and to propel his wheelchair.

"In all that time, he didn't miss a day of schooling," his mother says proudly. "When he was able to come home we got in a tutor for him. He kept up that way.

"He has never once complained, and there's another operation scheduled this summer to try to straighten his back. They say it could take three months."

FRIENDS HELP

Friends have been vital to George. Without help he would be unable to navigate in the narrow university corridors or up the steep stairs.

Through high school he was able to manoeuvre on crutches but found the going too difficult to negotiate.

Export Business of Montreal Aircraft Firm Is 39 Times That Done in Canada

By GERRY McNEIL

MONTREAL (CP) — Making spare parts isn't a spectacular business but it's a necessary and lucrative one, especially in the aircraft industry.

Canadian Pratt and Whitney Aircraft Co. Ltd. last year sold about $24,000,000 worth of parts for piston engines in 70 countries.

It has the tools to make 4,000 different parts in its two plants across the St. Lawrence River from downtown Montreal.

"But we know this business is going to decline," says J. W. H. Drummond, administrative vice - president of the United Aircraft Corporation subsidiary.

Thousands of piston - powered aircraft are still flying, but turbine and jet - engined planes are gradually replacing them.

BUILT OWN ENGINE

"For this reason, we decided to design and develop our own engine—one that can be sold all over the world."

Pratt and Whitney's technicians have come up with a compact 500 - horsepower gas turbine engine that can be used in planes, helicopters and boats and has industrial applications.

Hiller Aircraft Corp. of Palo Alto, Calif., is testing the PT6 in a six-seat utility helicopter t calls "the smallest big engine for flying."

And Kongsberg Vapenfabrikk of Norway is building a 30-foot power boat around the PT6. The turbine would give such a boat a speed of 45 miles an hour.

Winnipeg - born Thor Stephenson, Pratt and Whitney president, says the Crown - owned Norwegian firm will collaborate in developing non - aircraft applications of the PT6, particularly in the marine field.

LIGHT WEIGHT

Pratt and Whitney also has been approached about the use of the engine as a "pumping mechanism on a natural gas line.

Feature of the PT6 is its light weight. At 225 to 250 pounds, depending on use, it gives a light aircraft powerful lift.

Pratt and Whitney started in Canada in 1928 as a subsidiary of its big East Hartford, Conn., namesake.

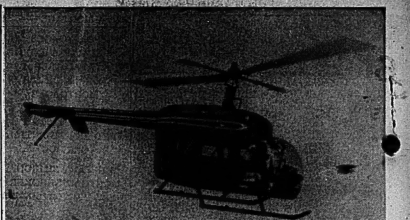
When United Aircraft, now a billion - dollar - a - year corporation, swallowed Pratt and Whitney in the early 1930s, the Canadian firm became its subsidiary.

When the Korean War broke out, United spent heavily on setting up the Montreal plants to build 300 engines a month for the T-6 trainer.

But as the war ended, production never exceeded 60 engines a month and Canadian Pratt and Whitney faced extinction.

BIG EXPORTER

"United realized we could only exist if we had access to export markets," Mr. Drummond says. "They gave us rights to make parts for a worldwide market.



"In the last five years, export business has exceeded by 39 times Canadian business."

The Montreal firm has become one of the few subsidiaries that sells more in the U.S. than its parent does in Canada.

But with 2,800 employees and a big investment here, United looks for more Canadian money.

"We've gone far afield for our dollars," says Mr. Drummond. "We have established a relatively stable business here through United's efforts.

"There's no question the United should be treated as a Canadian company."

TURBINE POWERED COPTER — This is a six-place light utility helicopter powered by a PT6 turbine engine developed by Canadian Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Co. Ltd., Montreal. Recognizing that turbine and jet-powered aircraft were gradually replacing piston-driven planes, the company came up with the compact 500-horsepower PT6 gas turbine which can be used in boats, helicopters and larger aircraft. (CP Photo).
